Burglary: On Dec. 1 at 5 a.m., police received a report of a burglary at the Dollar Store and a theft outside of the building. Someone broke the glass of the store's front door and then stole an undetermined amount of cash. Damage was estimated at $600. A Grand Forks, N.D., Herald newspaper vending machine was taken from outside of the store. It is not known if that theft is related to the burglary. The incidents remain under investigation.

Theft: On Dec. 1 at 7:11 a.m., police received a report of a theft in the 800 block of Atlantic Ave. Two newspaper vending machines – one owned by the Minneapolis Star Tribune and another owned by the Thief River Falls Times – were stolen. About six hours later, Sheriff Mike Hruby received a report that a newspaper vending machine had been found in North Township. About two hours after that report, the sheriff's department received a report that another newspaper vending machine had been found four miles west of Thief River Falls in Norden Township. Since the machines were stolen in the city, the police department is investigating the rash of thefts. It declined to say which newspaper vending machines were recovered or where exactly they were found. On the morning of Dec. 1, Police Chief Kim Murphy said five or six newspaper vending machines had been reported stolen in recent weeks.

Fifth degree controlled substance crime: On Nov. 17, the sheriff's department executed a search warrant in the 600 block of Duluth Ave. N. The search warrant was conducted as a result of a forgery investigation, according to the report. Suspected methamphetamine was allegedly found on a small square mirror as well as a light bulb with a hollowed-out end. Justin Michael Best, 28, Thief River Falls, has been charged with fifth degree controlled substance crime.

Fourth degree driving while intoxicated: After test results were available, an individual has been cited. At 2:51 a.m. Nov. 5, a deputy sheriff allegedly observed a vehicle that was weaving and crossing the centerline on Highway 32 near the countyline between Pennington and Red Lake counties. Melody Lynn Novak, 33, Warren, was cited for fourth degree driving while intoxicated.

Underage person attempting to purchase alcohol: After an investigation into a Nov. 11 report that an underage person was allegedly trying to purchase alcohol at Falls Liquor, an individual has been cited. Jeffrey David Schneider, 20, Thief River Falls, was cited for underage person attempting to purchase alcohol.

Disorderly conduct: On Nov. 18 at 3:35 p.m., police received a report of disorderly conduct. Four 16-year-old Thief River Falls males allegedly forcibly placed a male acquaintance into the trunk of a vehicle after it was determined he would not have a place to sit inside the vehicle. After leaving the Lincoln High School parking lot, the juveniles allegedly drove around Thief River Falls for about 20 minutes with the boy inside the trunk. The four juveniles have charges pending for disorderly conduct.

Accident: On Nov. 25 at 7:53 p.m., the sheriff's department received a report of an accident in Highlanding Township. At the time of the accident, Daniel Ross Niebuhr of Trail was driving a 1993 Mercury Topaz northbound at the intersection of Center Street and 330th Avenue Northeast. According to the report, his vehicle went through the "T" intersection, hitting multiple trees and catching on fire. The report indicated Niebuhr suffered multiple cuts to his face and head. He was taken to Northwest Medical Center and later transferred to Altru Hospital in Grand Forks, N.D. Niebuhr has since been discharged from the hospital, noted an Altru nursing staff member on Nov. 29. Niebuhr's vehicle sustained more than $1,000 in damage in the accident.

Truancy: On Nov. 28 at 3:53 p.m., police received a report of truancy at Franklin Middle School. A 13-year-old Plummer male allegedly missed 19 percent of this school year. He has charges pending for truancy.

Theft: On Nov. 29 at 9:38 p.m., police received a report of a theft at a Northland Community and Technical College locker-room. Someone stole a two-tiered, "N"-shaped diamond ring. The theft loss is estimated between $2,500 and $4,000. The incident remains under investigation.

Truancy: On Nov. 30, police received reports of truancy at Lincoln High School. The following individuals have charges pending for truancy after allegedly not attending school on a regular basis: a 16-year-old Thief River Falls male, a 15-year-old Thief River Falls male, a 16-year-old Goodridge female and a 15-year-old Thief River Falls female.

Accident and driving after revocation: On Nov. 30 at 12:07 p.m., police received a report of an accident at the intersection of Pennington Avenue and Challenger Drive. A 2000 Freightliner school bus driven by Thomas Lindet Miller of Thief River Falls and a 1994 Toyota 4Runner driven by Jose Luis Almendarez of Plummer collided. At the time of the accident, Almendarez and Miller were both southbound on Pennington Avenue. According to the report, Miller slowed to turn, and Almendarez's vehicle then slid and rear-ended the school bus. The 13 kids riding on the Thief River Falls School District bus were not injured. Almendarez was cited for driving after revocation. His vehicle sustained $2,500 in damage, and the school bus sustained $800 in damage.

Accident: On Nov. 30 at 8:10 p.m., police received a report of an accident at the intersection of Davis Avenue and Third Street. A 1999 Chevy Monte Carlo driven by Joann Cathy Blom of Thief River Falls and a 1998 Dodge Caravan driven by Violet Marion Anderson of Thief River Falls collided. At the time of the accident, Blom was turning north onto Davis Avenue, and Anderson was stopped at the stop sign. According to the report, Blom was unable to turn, and her vehicle slid into Anderson's vehicle. Blom's vehicle sustained $1,800 in damage, and Anderson's vehicle sustained $2,000 in damage.

Accident: On Dec. 1 at 7:22 p.m., police received a report of an accident at the intersection of Highway 1 West and Brooks Avenue. A 2003 Chevy pickup driven by Kenton Wayne Christensen of Thief River Falls and a 1991 Dodge pickup driven by Jerry Allan Muzzy of Thief River Falls collided. At the time of the accident, Muzzy was westbound on Highway 1 West and attempting to turn north onto Brooks Avenue. Due to the icy conditions, his vehicle then slid into the Christensen vehicle, which was stopped at a stop sign. Muzzy's vehicle sustained $400 in damage, and Christensen's vehicle sustained $1,200 in damage.

Possession of a small amount of marijuana in a motor vehicle, and driving after revocation: On Dec. 2 at 1:46 p.m., police received a report that someone was allegedly driving with a revoked license. Darryl Craig Olson, 40, Thief River Falls, was stopped near the intersection of Second Street and Horace Avenue. Olson was cited for possession of a small amount of marijuana in a motor vehicle, and driving after revocation.

Burglary: On Dec. 2 at 6:02 p.m., the sheriff's department received a report of a burglary in the 15000 block of Douglas Ave. Someone stole a TV from a residence. The report didn't indicate the size of the TV, which is valued at $130. The incident remains under investigation.

Underage consumption: On Dec. 2 at 11:36 p.m., police received a report of an alleged underage drinking party in the 100 block of Crocker Ave. S. The following individuals have been cited for underage consumption: Justin John Tostrup, 18, Viking; Tyson Jay Jarshaw, 18, Newfolden; and Amanda Sue Josephine Anderson, 19, Thief River Falls. A 17-year-old Thief River Falls female has charges pending for underage consumption.

Accident: On Dec. 3 at 11:54 a.m., police received a report of an accident in the 300 block of LaBree Ave. N. A 1995 Dodge pickup driven by Elody Gayle Olson of Thief River Falls and a 1990 Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme driven by Jodi Mae Flom of Thief River Falls collided. At the time of the accident, Olson was westbound and driving out of the Northern State Bank drive-through area, and attempting to turn south onto LaBree Avenue. The vehicle then collided with the northbound Flom. Flom's vehicle sustained $750 in damage, and the other vehicle sustained $1,500 in damage.

Disorderly conduct and underage consumption: On Dec. 3 at 9:18 p.m., police received a loud noise complaint regarding an apartment in the 700 block of State Ave. N. When police arrived, Lawrence Dale Irving Day, 24, Thief River Falls, was allegedly raging mad and then entered a woman's apartment even though he was not invited there. Police were able to get Day out of the apartment, but he allegedly went back into the apartment and continued yelling. Day has been cited for disorderly conduct. Three 16-year-old Thief River Falls females have charges pending for underage consumption.

Hit and run accident: On Dec. 4 at 12:29 a.m., police received a report of a hit and run accident in the 100 block of Crocker Ave. S. A parked 2001 Chrysler Concorde owned by Jesse Lynn Toren of Thief River Falls sustained $800 in damage after an unknown driver lost control of his or her vehicle, causing that vehicle to collide with Toren's car. The incident remains under investigation.

If readers have any information about the aforementioned crimes or offenses, they are urged to contact the Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Nov. traffic crash totals: 21 deaths, 99 serious injuries

The Minnesota Department of Public Safety (DPS) announced Dec. 2 that preliminary traffic crash reports indicate 21 people died and 99 were seriously injured on the state's roads in November. The statewide preliminary traffic death number to date is 480.

The November deaths included 15 vehicle occupants, two motorcyclists and four pedestrians. Of the vehicle occupants killed, nine were not belted. Of the 99 seriously injured, 26 were not belted. Alcohol is a known factor in six deaths and 20 serious injuries.

November fatal crash totals will likely increase as additional reports are submitted by local and county law enforcement agencies.

There were four deaths in Stearns County and one death each in Beltrami, Carlton, Cass, Chisago, Dakota, Hennepin, Hubbard, Murray, Nicollet, Otter Tail, Pine, Ramsey, Renville, Sherburne, Washington, Wright and Yellow Medicine counties.

Of the 21 people killed, 14 were male and seven were female, and eight were ages 15 to 29, six were ages 35 to 49, and seven were age 50 or older.

Winter road weight increases began Monday in north frost zone

Allowable winter load limits on state highways in the north frost zone increased by 10 percent Monday, the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) has announced.

State law allows a 10 percent weight increase on all state highways and nine-ton capacity county roads in the designated zones. A weight load increase permit, however, is required for truckers operating on interstate routes.

Load increases are permitted because pavements achieve increased strength to carry heavier loads when the subgrade freezes.

The north frost zone's boundaries extend south from the Canadian border to a line following Highway 1, Highway 89, Highway 2, Highway 33 and Interstate 35 at the Carlton-St. Louis county line and then south to the Wisconsin border.

Mn/DOT continues to monitor the other frost zones to determine when it can allow additional weight increases.

More information about winter load limits and the frost zones are available by logging onto www.mrr.dot.state.mn.us or by calling 1-800-723-6543.

Travelers can obtain current information on road conditions, construction delays and weather reports from Mn/DOT's 511 travel information service by dialing 1-511 or accessing www.511mn.org.

Farm Management Minute

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

To buy or not to buy, that is the question

by Sheldon Schmless
FBM instructor, Barnesville

Thanksgiving Day has passed, and New Year's Day is fast approaching. Our thoughts are changing from "What could she possibly make out of turkey leftovers today?" to "Should I buy that new piece of equipment and take advantage of the Section 179 tax deduction?"

Section 179 of the Internal Revenue Code allows the producer to deduct all or part of the cost of certain qualifying property in the year in which the property is placed in service. For the farmers I work with, machinery and equipment purchases account for the vast majority of the property used for Section 179 deductions. For the 2005 tax year, the maximum allowable deduction is $105,000.

At first look, this seems like an easy decision. Let's say Farmer Brown has a ordinary taxable income of $60,000 in 2005. According to the Farm Income Tax Projection Worksheet used by Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) Farm Business Management instructors, his federal tax and self employment tax liability would be approximately $19,000. On top of that, he will have a state tax liability of $3,000 to $4,000. If Brown buys a tractor for $50,000 and elects to use the Section 179 deduction for the full amount, his tax liability would be reduced to under $6,000 for a savings of roughly $16,000.

Although this is a substantial savings, there are many other things to consider. Does he really need this tractor? Does the purchase of this tractor affect cash flow? The tax savings may make the first year's payment, but what will make the remaining payments? If I deduct the full value of the tractor this year, what will I use for depreciation deductions in ensuing years? It is hard to purchase more equipment in 2006 while still making payments on that purchase from 2005. What if I sell the tractor in a few years? What if I still own the tractor when I retire? To buy or not to buy, now that is a hard question.

Residents reminded to not dump snow on public roadways

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) reminds everyone, including commercial snow removal operators, that it is against state law to deposit snow onto a public roadway. Dumping or plowing snow onto a roadway can create a slippery area, frozen rut or bump, which has the potential to contribute to a motor vehicle or pedestrian accident.

Minnesota Statute 160.27 and many local ordinances prohibit the plowing, blowing, shoveling or otherwise placing of snow from sidewalks, driveways and parking lots onto public roadways, which can include the ditch and right-of-way in certain situations. The public is cautioned that violations are misdemeanors and civil liability can extend to both the property owner and the person or company who placed the snow improperly.

To determine the proper placement of snow and minimize your inconvenience when a snowplow comes along after you've cleared your driveway, Mn/DOT offers the following tip: Place as much snow as possible from the end of your driveway downstream in the direction of traffic. Next is to clear an area upstream from your driveway to form an open "pocket."

The result is that much of the snow pushed by the plow truck will empty into this pocket and less will wind up in your driveway entrance. The pocket does need to be maintained throughout the winter.

Mn/DOT cautions anyone working close to a roadway to watch for oncoming traffic and warns drivers to be alert to people clearing snow.

RiverView Care plans fundraiser for rehab program

RiverView Care Center in Crookston is holding a fundraiser on Wednesday, Dec. 14, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Heritage Hallway of RiverView Health. The event will help raise $2,000 toward the purchase of a standing frame for the Nursing Rehabilitation Department at RiverView Care Center. A standing frame is a support frame used to assist those who have difficulty standing and walking. It helps in the rehabilitation process by allowing patients to regain balance and strength. The fundraiser is a combination silent auction, bake and craft sale with auction items all being theme baskets.

Grass seed production event set for Wednesday

The Northern Minnesota Forage and Turf Seed Advisory Committee (NMFTSAC) is hosting the annual grass seed production educational event. It will be held in the meeting room of Gene's Bar and Grill in Roseau on Wednesday, Dec. 14. The event will start at 9 a.m. and will wrap up by 3:15 p.m.

The focus of the program will be grass seed production opportunities in northern Minnesota. Some of these new developments could strategically boost the agricultural industry in northwest Minnesota. The program will provide the latest report on grass seed production being researched at the University of Minnesota Roseau experiment farm. Water management options, insurance issues, marketing of grass seed, use of chemicals and fertilizer costs are some of the topics which will be addressed. A farmer panel will discuss "What worked in the 2005 grass seed production year and what did not."

Everyone interested in grass seed production is encouraged to attend. The noon meal is free of charge, and is provided by NMFTSAC. The program is sponsored by NMFTSAC and the U of M Extension Service. For more information, contact Nathan Johnson, Extension regional director in Roseau, at 1-888-241-4546 or by e-mail at johns854@umn.edu.

Convention and Visitors Bureau selects president

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Chairman, Dr. James Langland, announced that the Convention and Visitors Bureau (CVB) has selected Diana Josephson to fill the role of its president.

For several years, the president of the Convention and Visitors Bureau has also been the director of the Chamber of Commerce. But last October, Julie Olson resigned from her position as director and president for a job as the public relations director at Northland Community and Technical College - Thief River Falls. A search for a replacement has begun. In the meantime, Stacy Myhrer is serving as the interim president of the Chamber of Commerce. Diana Josephson began serving as the CVB president on Dec. 1.

Myhrer said the CVB is renting space in the same building as the Chamber of Commerce.

In the Chamber of Commerce bulletin, the Chamber Express, Langland said, "Although the Chamber and CVB will have different presidents in 2006, I am pleased that there will continue to be a close symbiotic relationship between the Chamber and CVB."

The Chamber of Commerce is actively working to fill the vacancy of Chamber of Commerce president. Langland stated that they had received a number of applications from qualified individuals. He said the executive committee was expected to recommend an applicant to fill the vacancy at the December meeting of the Board of Directors.

Trinity Lutheran Church schedules Christmas programs

The Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday School superintendents, Paul and Delaine Rasmussen, have scheduled two Christmas programs for the Sunday School.

The first program, Music of Christmas, will be presented by the Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday School students in the second through fifth grade. It will be presented Sunday, Dec. 11, in the church sanctuary at the 10:30 a.m. service. The program will be presented during the Church service and will be broadcast over KTRF radio and cable channel three.

All Sunday school students and their families are invited to stay for brunch in the Church dining room following the Christmas program. The senior high students are sponsoring the brunch as a fund-raiser. Everyone should plan to stay to show support to the youth of Trinity Church.

Rehearsal for this first Christmas program is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 10, from 3 to 4 p.m. at the church. It is important that all Sunday school students in second though fifth grades be present at rehearsal.

The second program by Sunday School students in nursery through first grade will present special music on Sunday, Dec. 18, at the 10:30 service. This will also be broadcast over KTRF radio and cable channel three.

There will be no Sunday school classes on either Dec. 25, Christmas Day, or Jan. 1, 2006, New Years Day. The Sunday School will continue to collect food for the TRF Area Food Shelf as a service project. Students are asked to bring at least one non-perishable food item on the first Sunday of each month. These items will be placed in a grocery cart and presented to the Food Shelf periodically.

Six candidates vying for seats on Chamber board

Six candidates are vying for three positions on the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Having six candidates running for three positions is almost unprecedented. Stacy Myhrer, interim director of the Chamber of Commerce, said it has been many years - and not in the seven years she's been with the Chamber of Commerce, that there has been this problem. "It's a wonderful problem to have...to be able to involve the membership in deciding who will be on the board of directors."

Myhrer explained that Howard Person decided to resign because he couldn't attend many meetings and didn't believe he was giving it as much attention as it deserves. Terms of two other directors, Maryel Anderson and Mike Barry, expire in January, and they are no longer eligible to serve on the board of directors.

The Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce membership was mailed ballots last week and is being encouraged to return its ballots to the Chamber of Commerce office by Monday, Dec. 12. The candidates vying for the three positions are: Heather Bayne, H.D. Floral and Design Studio; Jim Dagg, Jim Dagg Insurance Agency; Jim Dillon, Thief River Glass; Leigh Kennedy, Arctic Cat Inc.; Matt Winjum, Café Rhombus; and Deb Wittenberg, Digi-Key.

The Chamber of Commerce annual banquet has been scheduled for Jan. 9.

NW Community Action Board to meet Dec. 15

The Northwest Community Action, Inc. Board of Directors will hold its regular scheduled meeting on Thursday, Dec. 15, at 6 p.m. in the Badger office. This meeting is open to the public.

Concordia Christmas concert aired

Experience the timeless message of the Concordia College Christmas Concert, "O Come, All Ye Faithful," at 7 p.m., Friday, Dec. 16 on Minnesota Public Radio.

In his 20th year as concert artistic director and conductor of of The Concordia Choir, René Clausen leads more than 400 student-musicians in a stirring program of celebration. Five choirs, a full orchestra and a handbell choir tell the joyous nativity story, performing old favorites and a new arrangement of "Gesu Bambino" by Clausen. The concert, performed Dec. 2 through 4 on the Concordia College campus in Moorhead, and Dec. 8 at Orchestra Hall in Minneapolis, attracts more than 20,000 people annually.

The concert is broadcast each year on radio stations across the country. This year, the 79th annual Christmas Concert will be televised regionally. Prairie Public Television will broadcast the concert in high definition at 7 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 24, and noon, Sunday, Dec. 25. A nationwide list is available at www.cord.edu/dept/music/christma/broadcast.html.

More PROGRESS in Thief River Falls
Congratulations!

Crop insurance fraud

by Greg Tullis
FBM Instructor, Moorhead

Crop insurance fraud costs everyone money. The most obvious cost is in higher premiums, but it may also jeopardize the entire program if fraud, waste and abuse are not addressed.

Now, the Risk Management Agency has the ability to mine a tremendous amount of data from its database and compare that data to other agencies, and the bottom line is, if a person cheats on crop insurance, there is a good chance that he or she will be caught.

Some of the selected scenarios that will raise a concern are crop units with excessive yields reported over consecutive years as well as under-reported harvested production. These producers will be compared to others in their area that may experience the same weather conditions. Yield switching between units will be more closely scrutinized to compare the difference between a historical yield and actual reported yield. Scenarios will be identified that may suggest collusion between an agent, an adjuster and a producer.

Other scenarios that will be flagged are frequent filers, specifically those who make claims seven years in a row and/or whose losses are twice as high as their premiums. Frequent prevented planting filers are those who have received at least $50,000 for prevented planting losses for the last eight years. Rare big losses for producers who make large claims too often will be looked at more closely as well.

Just because some of these scenarios may happen does not mean that fraud has occurred. However, those scenarios will be looked at more closely to make sure the losses are credible.

The penalty of defrauding the Crop Insurance Program is not only paying restitution, but losing the insurance. There is also the possibility of jail time. Those producers will also be disqualified from receiving any benefits for other U.S. Department of Agriculture programs. In most instances, this will put them out of business.

For more information about farm business planning, contact an instructor in your area by calling Northland Community and Technical College at 1-800-959-6282.

...Oh, Oh, Christmas Tree

Hey, Mister-

Sorry I grabbed that Christmas tree out of your hands the other evening. I know I told you I planned to buy it before, and that was the truth, but it made me feel really bad because you were so nice about it and smiled so sweetly. I bet you thought, "What a crabby lady!" and I don't blame you.

Well, let me tell you, you were the lucky one and I got my payback in spades. I'll never do that again. From this time forward, I will be filled with the Christmas spirit and never again be in such a hurry to buy a tree that I grab it from somebody else. You want to know why I am saying that? Well, that tree didn't work out very well.

Yes, I got the tree, and yes, I got it home, but there was something wrong with it. It wasn't the same tree we had picked out earlier in the day. I thought it was the right tree, but it turned out it was taller and quite odd. We could tell there was something wrong the minute we started to put it into the stand, and that was only the beginning. It got worse from there. Let me tell you, you can be happy to know I saved you from buying "The Tree From Hell."

The tree looked nice and straight. Ha! You never saw such a crooked tree in your life. The trunk was a chunk that was twice as thick as it should be, and it was nearly impossible to cut. Then the trunk went upward in a normal manner, straight as could be, until it sprouted branches. Then it started to curve and it kept curving all the way up at least four feet until it branched off in two directions.

I'll tell you, there was no way that tree would stand straight. We tried all of the different tree stands I had and nothing made it stand straight. We turned it and twisted it and tried to make it look presentable, but it was so crooked that if we ever did get it straight, it was in danger of falling over. When it stood against the wall, the top was so far backward that it looked like it was leaning against the wall.

Not only was the tree bad, but to top it off, all four of my tree holders had something wrong with them. Two of them were too small for the chunk trunk, one was so cheap that it wouldn't have held the giant tree without being nailed to the floor and (probably) bolted to the wall, as well, and the fourth holder, the one that was supposed to be one you could move by stepping on a button and which cost me a fortune, was not working at all. We figured it was broken, and I couldn't find any directions for it.

Besides being crooked, the tree was tall. I know I picked out a short tree, like me. I just can't reach the top of those tall trees and I prefer one that is about a foot taller than I am so I can just reach up to the top without a ladder or some such, so I know I measured the tree by my height. This Tree From Hell was seven feet tall, if not more. I know this was not the tree I picked out. This tree was bad - really bad, wicked bad, and it had it in for me because I forgot the Christmas spirit.

The next day we decided it was either fix the Tree From Hell, throw it out and count the purchase as a donation, burn it, or pull out an artificial one. How would we fix it? It didn't look like it would ever be a fine, sturdy tree like Christmas trees should be.

Well, we fixed the Tree From Hell by cutting off a couple of feet on the bottom, trimming some of the branches and sides of the trunk, and stuffing the tree into a holder made from pieces of those that were broken. It wasn't bad. In fact, it looked pretty good except for a few holes here and there. We would let it stand for a while to make sure the branches came down.

And they did. Next time we looked at the tree, it looked almost normal. It sat short, straight and proud, and you couldn't see the crook in the trunk at all. Oh, sure, if you looked at it hard enough in the right light, you could see that the entire trunk was off-center, with one-half of the trunk being twice as wide as the other side, but it wasn't that noticeable.

The tree was salvaged! My living room smells like Christmas! As soon as I get some lights and trim on it, it will be beautiful! It will be the grand centerpiece of my living room for the month of December, and be greatly admired during its brief, but spectacular lifetime in my house.

Never mind the crooked, off-center trunk, never mind that many needles fell off the tree as it was dragged in and out of the front door - over and over again. Never mind that it was a couple of feet shorter than when it came to my house, or that it had a funny holder. It was beautiful! It was elegant! It was Christmas again this year!

And, Mister, I know this was my payback for grabbing that Christmas tree out of your hands. I promise, I'll never do that to anyone again. Merry Christmas, and I hope your tree hunting was successful and your tree is beautiful and elegant, too. Thanks for being such a nice guy.

Give the gift of reading

We recently had several staff members and a school board member attend the annual Minnesota Rural Education Association (MREA) Fall Conference in Alexandria. The conference focused on early childhood education this year. Highlights included an opening session with Dr. Alton Greenfield. Greenfield has been the reading guru in Minnesota education for the past three decades. He is a very knowledgeable man regarding reading instruction, brain development and new reading strategies based on that brain research. Our hope is to have Greenfield in Thief River Falls during this school year to spend quality time with our teaching staff, high school students, and parents and community members. We will certainly advertise his time with us if we are able to schedule that. Please be looking for that information in the months to come. He can shed much light on the tremendous importance of teaching language skills in the home, the school, and in various other opportunities throughout the community.

Another main speaker was Art Rolnick, senior vice president with the Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis. He is an economist who is in great demand all across the nation because of his expertise in economic development, and particularly the economic advantages of spending public and private dollars on early childhood education. The brain research that Greenfield presented, coupled with the economic advantages that Rolnick presented made a very compelling argument for our legislative leaders and school and community leaders to invest in early childhood programs.

Quality education has always been a staple in our Minnesota economy. Our best opportunity, in my opinion, to position Minnesota properly and economically for the future, is to invest wisely and significantly in early childhood education. It is an investment that our society needs to make in our children if our future workforce is going to continue to be of the quality that we are accustomed to in our state. Parents of today - and future parents - need to continue to instill the values in their children that our parents instilled in us. As a grandparent, I stress these issues with my own children, and I value those opportunities I have to demonstrate and to model these values with my own grandchildren. The ability to read well is the most important skill we can teach our children to help them be successful, productive adults in a democratic society. We have all heard countless numbers of times that it takes a village to raise a child. It is true, and we as a community and as a society need to continue to step up to the plate in that regard. But it is also true that the real challenge and the real responsibility rests with parents and family.

As educators and as a community of concerned adults, we need to provide young parents with all the tools we can to be successful in that endeavor. There is much research today that says that the sooner we spend many more hours with very young children on vocabulary and language skills, the greater opportunity these young children will have to be successful in school and in life. If these children start kindergarten lacking those language skills, they will spend their entire K-12 career trying to catch up. People criticize elementary, middle and high schools across America for not addressing the learning gap. The learning gap needs to be addressed in the 0- to 4-year-old population group in order to have a measurable effect in the elementary, middle and high school years.

I had the privilege recently to read to a group of preschoolers. I say privilege because I value any opportunity to spread the joy of reading and to model the importance of reading to youngsters. I encourage all of you to do the same. We have volunteers in Challenger Elementary School who listen to children read and who read to children. We can use many more. I encourage you to volunteer in one of our schools or in your church or wherever you would feel comfortable helping with this very important job of teaching our youngest children.

We currently have a very effective preschool program in Thief River Falls. Our Early Childhood Family Education Program and our Head Start Program are working together and emphasizing strategies to help young children and their parents build language skills and to prepare these children for kindergarten. The MREA Conference certainly stressed the importance of this program and we need to seek ways to make it even stronger and more available to more of our young children and their families.

Enjoy the rest of December. I appreciate the way Thanksgiving transitions into December and the Christmas season. I really support Thanksgiving - not only as a holiday, but as a way of life. It is a great way to usher in the Christmas season and it is a great way to try to keep the spirit of Christmas alive throughout the year. It is one of the best health promotions for mankind. Please curl up on the couch or in a corner, or sit at the kitchen table with a child and read him or her a book a few times this Christmas season. Remember one of the very best gifts you can give anyone for Christmas is books. Have a great holiday season. God bless.

Last Impressions

First impressions. People always stress out about them. They seem to be first and foremost in people's minds. "I'm meeting The Parents- what should I wear that makes me look unique but not overdone, good but not too good?" "I have a job interview tomorrow – how can I stand out without seeming tasteless?" On and on it goes. I am not claiming that I don't ever think about first impressions or stress over what to wear to see His Parents, or to a job interview. However, I am claiming that there is another form of impression that I think about more. It is the not-so-talked-about last impression.

It is a well known fact that it is not uncommon for people to change their minds about first impressions. Perhaps the girl seen walking down the street, taken to be a tramp, really did snag her skirt on a nail, causing it to unravel, and the next day, she comes to my door in uniform, selling Girl Scout cookies. Or perhaps that creepy-looking man, taken to be a thief, is really returning that old woman's purse that she left in the store. These ridiculous "what ifs" are just to prove a point. First impressions can and do change. Frequently. All the time. Last impressions, on the other hand, are just that, last. No next chance. Last and final. Last and lasting.

Last and lasting impressions can be impressed in a couple different situations. The most dismal situation, of course, is death. Unfortunately, there is no way of knowing when the last time you see someone will actually be the last time. We will be left with the last impression they left with us. It could be an "I love you," an "I hate you," or not a word at all. We won't get to choose.

Another instance of last impressions is just simply the last time you saw a person. It doesn't matter if you will get to see them again. You can see them walking onto that plane, can't you? Smiling? Crying? Again, we can't choose. However, we can choose our own last and lasting impressions for others – whether it is remembering to say that "I love you," or smiling as you get on that plane. For someone, it is a last, if lasting, impression.

Goodridge High School performs patriotic concert

On Tuesday, Nov. 22, the Goodridge High School music groups held their annual fall concert. This year's concert was dedicated to local veterans.

The junior varsity band, varsity band, Windfall, and the varsity choir all performed various patriotic pieces. Jennie Hawk, Marshall Mickelson, Amy Ball, Kristen Mutnansky, Nick Mickelson and Misty Wallenberg also sang the solos they performed at solo contest on Nov. 21.

A local color guard started and ended the program presenting the colors. Cake and coffee was served after the program, thanking the veterans for their service to their country.

A full menu

Already this young winter has confronted us with a full menu of behind-the-wheel tribulations, ranging from blinding whiteouts to glare ice and most things in between.

The Eskimos have 32 words for snow. If we were as smart, we would come up with at least that many words to describe the many ways winter screws up our roads.

First, there are the different kinds of ice.

Black ice is nasty looking, but at least you know it's there. It makes the roads look glossy wet, almost polished, as if you could skate on them. Because it is so obvious, black ice is the safest ice of them all.

The problem comes when black ice is combined with high winds. Even four-wheel-drive does you no good when the wind pushes you off the road sideways.

Dry ice fools you. It is invisible. The road looks normal until you get up a full head of steam and hit the brake, only to slide a city block past one of those wide-open country intersections.

If anybody is coming, of course, you can always take the ditch. Either way, dry ice lulls you into making a fool of yourself. But once you're aware of it, you can adjust.

Not so with frozen slush, the most diabolical form of ice of them all. Frozen slush is lumpy, crunchy and cruel. It forms ruts which pull your car from side to side and can throw you into the ditch even if you've already slowed to a crawl.

What's more, frozen slush can completely cover the stripes in the road. In blowing snow, one needs those stripes in the worst way. If they're not visible, you can become completely clueless.

About that time you realize you probably could have made it another day without milk and bananas.

Packed snow on the roads isn't so bad if the visibility is good. As long as the temps stay below zero, packed snow can have pretty good grip. In fact, when you drive over packed snow at 30 below, it crunches and pops like a big bowl of Rice Crispies. Kind of neat.

But when packed snow starts to melt, watch out. It doesn't melt gradually. Instead, packed snow breaks away in chunks, like icebergs breaking away from a glacier, leaving steep little ice cliffs all over the road which can throw you around just like those frozen slush ruts.

The melting glaciers form pools of water mixed with gravel which sploosh up when hit by the wheels of oncoming cars. Is there a more sickening sound than the crack of gravel and slush on the windshield?

Try washing that slurry of gravel, slush and salt off with wiper fluid. You'll be lucky if the wipers squeegie a little clear spot in time for you to avoid the nearest light-pole.

Fresh snow which falls straight down isn't so bad. In fact, if the snow is puffy and soft, it is kind of fun to drive to town before the plows go and hit those big, mellow drifts. Poof! Hitting soft drifts with a vehicle is about as close as we'll get to powder skiing around here.

But snow drifts aren't always soft, especially after a day or two of blowing. It is important to test them at slow speeds before ramming into them at full throttle. Otherwise, you might end up not only stuck, but with an engine so stuffed with snow that the fan gets jammed in place.

If it's real cold, snow drifts can become so hard you can drive right over them. Again, it is best to test out small drifts before taking on big ones. The penalties for failure are humiliation and frozen extremeties. Probably not worth it.

Every year, it takes me a while to get used to the bad roads. Driving on ice isn't like riding a bike. I usually have to slide through at least one intersection per season before it comes back to me.

Like many people, I swear that once the roads clear up, I'll head to Arizona. About one winter in three, that never happens.

ACTIVITIES

Vegetable Christmas Tree

Christmas is a time of extreme emotions for children. The waiting and waiting seems to build so high that Christmas and the time afterward are times of extreme highs and lows. The child needs to have a little low level activity without a lot of stress.

A vegetable Christmas tree may be just the answer. It will provide quality time with an important adult in the child's life and a no-sugar snack at the same time. You will need:

a cone-shaped form
a variety of each vegetable, such as broccoli, cauliflower, celery, carrots and cherry tomatoes.

Cut each vegetable into bite-size pieces, punch a toothpick into it and stick it into the cone. Children can help with this.

Eat this healthy snack with any favorite vegetable dip.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need scraps of Christmas wrapping paper, vinegar, glue, a paintbrush and scissors.

JOKE OF THE WEEK

Knock, knock.
Who's there.
Doris.
Doris who?
Door is locked, that's why I'm knocking!

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls Public Library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books, including the following:

Brun-Cosme, Nadine. No, I Want Daddy! Anna is unhappy when her tired mother says no to all of her after-school plans but after an evening of letting only Daddy do things for her, Anna cannot go to sleep until she and Mama make up.

Braun, Sebastien. I Love My Daddy. A father bear and his cub spend the whole day together.

Braun, Sebastien. I Love My Mommy. Attentive animal mothers engage in a variety of activities with their children.

VIDEO VARIETY

Great Muppet Caper. Introduce your kids to the Muppets' Kermit, Fozzie, and Gonzo set out for London where they and Miss Piggy search for the thief of Lady Holiday's jewels.

Remember that the Thief River Falls Public Library has preschool storytimes every Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. These are co-sponsored by the Thief River Falls ECFE and Learning Readiness. You can also hop onto our website and find out more about local library services.

PARENTING TIPS

Giving Gifts

Many of you are struggling with the problems of a materialistic society at a time when gift-giving is not only appropriate but expected! We expect to give things to our children. We give food, shelter, clothing and love all year as best we can. We also expect to give to them at Christmas. But what does all this giving teach children? If children are always on the receiving end, will they think that only big people give and only little people receive?

All children start out as selfish, self-centered individuals; as they grow so does their ability to give and share. The holiday season is an ideal time to reinforce a child's developing spirit of generosity.

Young children don't yet have a real understanding of giving, but are aware of the good feelings associated with it. So even though you'll have to pick out the gifts they give, you can involve a toddler in the act of giving the gift. By giving gifts with you, your child will share your good feelings and will also begin to learn the joys that are associated with giving.

Even though each child's generosity develops at a different pace, you should try to keep him or her involved in the entire process of giving as much as possible. The ability to give as well as receive is a lifelong process which begins at birth.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

When your child gives you something such as a hug or a "drawing" be sure to show and express your appreciation.

Donna Harder, 61

Thief River Falls - Donna Harder, 61, died on Sunday, December 4, 2005 surrounded by her family at her home in rural Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, December 7 (today), at the Zion Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls, with Rev. George Davis and Rev. Bob Dahlen officiating. Honorary casket bearers included all of Donna's grandchildren, Danielle Harder, Riley Harder, Collin Race, Nicklaus Harder, Madilyn Race, Emilee Harder and Jacob Zavoral. Casket bearers included Steve Zavoral, Tom Race, Mark Enge, Ken Geske, Bud Homme and Greg Harder. Interment will follow at the Silverton Cemetery in rural Thief River Falls.

Visitation will be held one hour prior to the funeral service at the church on Wednesday.

Donna Mae Baker was born on July 29, 1944, to George Nick and Mary Eliza (Sampson) Baker. She was baptized and confirmed at Silverton Lutheran Church in rural Thief River Falls. She attended country school and then graduated in 1962 from Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls.

Donna was united in marriage to Wayne Dennis Harder on June 29, 1963 in St. Hilaire. They made their home in Thief River Falls for their first year of marriage, then in Mavie, for another year, before settling at their current farm east of Thief River Falls. Donna was a stay at home mom raising her five children. She also helped out on the farm, driving tractor, throwing bales, milking cows, along with all of the other farm duties. She went to work for the US Postal Service in Thief River Falls in 1985 where she had delivered mail for the past 20 years.

Donna was active in her children's and her grandchildren's lives. She was always there to lend them a helping hand. She also was an avid Bingo player. Her other hobbies include crafting, sewing, quilting, flower gardening, and refinishing wood furniture.

Donna served on the Pennington County Fair Board for many years, where she served a term as the first female Fair Board President. She was a member of the Silverton Lutheran Church and the Ladies Aid.

Donna is survived by her husband Wayne of Thief River Falls; five children, Mark (Sherri) Harder of Warroad, Rodney (Ronda Sangrait) Harder of Thief River Falls, Lori (Tom) Race of Goodridge, James (Rynae) Harder of Thief River Falls, Jodie (Steve) Zavoral of Thief River Falls; seven grandchildren; her mother, Mary Baker of Thief River Falls; one brother, George Jr. (Tess) Baker of Indianapolis, Ind.; one sister, Louise Cullen-Quam of Thief River Falls; and other relatives and friends.

Donna was preceded in death by her father; one sister, Bonnie Mullen; two brothers, Robert Baker, Bennie Baker and a Godson, Elliot Baker.

OBITUARIES

Severin Barstad, 89

Tempe, Ariz. - Severin Barstad, 89, of Tempe and Scottsdale, formerly of Thief River Falls, died November 12 in Scottsdale Healthcare Hospital after a short illness.

A memorial service was held Thursday, December 1, at Los Arcos United Methodist Church in Scottsdale, Ariz.

The youngest and last surviving of the 11 children of Adolf and Petra Barstad, Severin was born May 6, 1916, near Thief River Falls. He was a first-generation American. His parents emigrated from Norway in 1902. Severin graduated from Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls, left the family farm and traveled to California in 1941, where he worked for Lockheed Aircraft Corp., until he enlisted in the U.S. Navy in 1942. He had already begun his career in radio and electronics on his father's Minnesota farm: he taught himself Morse code, building and operating his own ham radio during an era when the farm had no electricity.

In the Navy, he was immediately sent to Radio Operator School in Indianapolis; while in training there, he met and later married Paula Jeanice McClurg. As a Naval Radio Technician, Severin served 14 months in the Russell Islands of the South Pacific, then returned to the U.S. for further radio training in Arkansas and Washington, DC. He remained as an instructor with the Navy's Radio Materiel School in Washington until his discharge as Radio Technician First Class in 1945.

After the war, Severin served as Technical Sergeant with the Indianapolis Police Department, playing a major role in the installation of the first integrated police and fire radio communications system in a major U.S. city. In 1948, he joined Motorola as a field engineer in two-way radio sales, first in Indiana, then in New Jersey, Tucson, and Seattle; in Seattle, he was stationed at Boeing Airplane Co., helping to install radar equipment in B-47 and B-52 aircraft. Moving with his family to Scottsdale in 1961, he became program manager for Motorola's Contract Program Department, later becoming program manager for the whole division and acting as liaison with Motorola's upper management team.

He retired in 1981 after 33 years with Motorola, then returned until 1987 as Contract and Property consultant. Severin's community service was as active as his professional life, and the two often overlapped. He was a charter member of the Phoenix Thunderbird Chapter of the National Property Management Association. He helped found Motorola's Chess Club and its Stamp Club, and he taught stamp collecting at Scottsdale Community College in the 1970s.

He worked as a precinct captain for the Arizona Democratic Party and was a member of the Democratic Luncheon Club. He served on the board of directors of Vista del Camino Center in Scottsdale, and was a member of the board of directors of Primera Iglesia Metodista Unida in Phoenix during that church's extensive rebuilding campaign. He was an active member of the Norsemens Federation. Severin and his wife, Paula, joined Los Arcos United Methodist Church in Scottsdale in 1962 and were active in the United Methodist Outreach Ministry (UMOM). They were also volunteer drivers for Meal-on-Wheels out of Scottsdale Memorial Hospital. After Paula's death in 2001, Severin lived in the Garden Court assisted living facility at Westchester Care Center in Tempe.

He is survived by his sons, Ronald and Kevin, and a large and close extended family throughout the United States and Norway.

St. Bernard's hosts a successful blood drive

Blood Drive Coordinator Sylvia Jensen, along with St. Bernard's Catholic Church, have coordinated and sponsored another successful blood drive in Thief River Falls. One hundred thirty-four people volunteered to donate, 112 were able to give and 141 units were collected. Thirty-one people donated on the automated 2RBC machine, which collects two units of red blood cells at once. Nine people gave blood for the first time.

Lisa Moellenkamp, donor recruitment representative for United Blood Services, said, "Communities like Thief River Falls make a regional blood program work. People volunteer to donate when there has been a well organized campaign, informing the public of the need for blood."

Those who assisted with the drive were Theresa Vanyo, Emil Vanyo, Patti Sellon, Sister Kathy Kuchar, Al Anderson, Mitch Hoard, Ray Paulson, Kay Burkel, Ruby Bruggeman, Sue Wolbeck Mary Bruggeman, Rose Schmitz, Peggy Bruzek, Phyllis Koropatnicki, Marj Pojansky, Sharon Lorenz, Mary Tyler and Clare Bruggeman. St. Bernard's provided space to hold the drive.

On behalf of the patients who benefited, UBS appreciates all of the thoughtful people who volunteered to help others by giving of themselves.

Passage of bill is a victory for rural MN

U.S. Senator Norm Coleman applauds the inclusion of his Rural Renaissance II Act in the final version of the Tax Relief Act of 2005 (S.2020) that passed the Senate recently. The Rural Renaissance provision authored by Coleman along with Sen. Mark Pryor (D-AR), was included as an amendment to the final bill and will provide $200 million worth of rural renaissance bonds to finance rural development projects. In turn, proceeds from these bonds will pay for an estimated $150 million in rural development grants. The funding will be made available to communities of less than 50,000 people and will be aimed at providing funding for critical infrastructure projects.

"The Rural Renaissance Act is about bringing jobs and economic growth to America's rural communities," said Coleman. "Since taking office, my staff and I have traveled across Minnesota to visit our rural communities and nearly all of them have discussed the challenge of aging and inadequate infrastructure. The Rural Renaissance Act will empower these communities to upgrade outdated, inadequate, or nonexistent basic infrastructure in order to attract new investment and jobs. I want to thank Sen. Pryor for his commitment and strong leadership on this issue. The inclusion of Rural Renaissance in the Tax reconciliation bill is a huge victory for Minnesota and Main Street America."

"In Arkansas and throughout the country, families are leaving rural communities for cities with infrastructure already in place and a better standard of living," Sen. Pryor said. "This bill will help reverse the trend by infusing small rural communities with the resources necessary to meet basic infrastructure needs and attract new businesses. I'm glad that Senator Coleman and I were able to convince our colleagues of the importance of this legislation."

"If we truly want to ensure that rural America can create the kinds of jobs that will keep people living, raising families, and working in our rural communities, investing in basic infrastructure is a must," said Mark Glaess, manager of the Minnesota Rural Electric Association. "The Rural Renaissance Act makes the down payment on the future of rural America. We are proud to support it and we commend Senator Coleman on the Senate's adoption of this critical piece of legislation."

"Minnesota Rural Water Association is pleased to support the passage of the Rural Renaissance Act," said Luther Johnson, chairman, Minnesota Rural Water Association. "There is an extreme shortfall of infrastructure funding within rural Minnesota. "This passage of this Act will bring additional subsidized funding to small and rural water suppliers that are greatly in need, in addition to a much needed investment in rural Minnesota's infrastructure, economy, and the protection of our greatest resource: safe, affordable drinking water."

Senator Coleman originally introduced the Rural Renaissance II Act in March of 2005 in an effort to improve economic development in rural communities. Under the legislation, bonds and grants will fund rural utility infrastructure; water and waste facilities; affordable housing; renewable farmer-owned energy projects; broadband technology; distance learning and telemedicine; and community facilities, including hospitals, fire and police stations, and nursing and assisted living facilities.

Since its introduction, the measure has received overwhelming support from national organizations, as well as Minnesota cities and towns. Among them include:

- Telecommunications Industry Association
- National Council of Farmer Cooperatives
- Renewable Fuels Association
- American Sugarbeet Growers Association
- Red River Valley Sugarbeet Growers Association
- National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges
- League of Minnesota Cities
- Minnesota Corn Growers Association

As a whole, the Tax Reconciliation Act will provide $60 billion in tax relief over five years for small businesses, teachers, college students, and middle-income families. This bill includes two additional proposals authored by Sen. Coleman that are aimed at providing students resources to compete globally in math and science, and protecting honest taxpayers from abusive and sham tax shelters which have allowed dishonest taxpayers to avoid paying their fair share. The bill, which was approved by a vote of 64-33.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q: Please settle a question for a group of my friends. If a widow remarries will Social Security benefits received through her husband end or continue? Could she collect on her new husband's record, and if so, how long must she wait before starting benefits as a wife rather than a widow?

A: Age, at the time of remarriage will be a factor here. For purposes of this answer I'll refer to widow and wife benefits but the same information applies to men. Social Security survivor benefits are paid based on both age and non-age reasons.

For example, a widow can receive Social Security based on her age if she is at least age 60. A younger widow of any age can receive survivor benefits if she has a young child in her care and that child is receiving SSA survivor benefits through her deceased spouse. Remarriage of a young widow, receiving benefits because of her child, would end her SSA benefits although the child's benefits would continue.

Generally you cannot get survivor benefits if you remarry but exceptions exist. Remarriage after age 60 (age 50 for benefits to a disabled widow) will not prevent benefits on your deceased husband's record. Coming to your second question, you must be at least age 62 to receive benefits as a wife. This is the same as the earliest age to start SSA retirement benefits. Usually there is a duration-of-marriage requirement where the couple must be married for at least one year before a wife's benefit can be paid but that is not an absolute and several exceptions apply.

Of interest to you is that this marriage duration rule is put aside if the spouse (you) had been entitled to certain SSA survivor's benefits in the month before the month of marriage to the new husband. Then the person could start receiving as a wife right away if the wife's benefit is higher than the existing widow's benefit. For example, let's assume you receive age based widows benefits and are at least age 62. Remarriage would not end your widow's SSA benefits and, if higher, you might also get additional wife's benefits right away.

On the other hand, if you are age 59 or less, remarriage would end your benefits as a widow (assuming disability not involved) and you would have to wait until age 62 to file for SSA benefits as a wife. There is no need for you to guess about this. If getting married, you and your intended can contact any SSA office, or call the national toll-free number 800-772-1213, and get information specific to you. Best wishes.

LHS students attend FFA convention

by Sarah Chamma
Lincoln High School student

Another year, another convention, and students from Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls celebrate another notable triumph. The FFA held its 78th national convention in Louisville, Ky., Oct. 25 to 30. Out of the thousands of ambitious students striving for leadership careers in the science/business/technology of agriculture, 10 of them were from Lincoln High School.

The representatives of our modest little town held their own, particularly Matt Wold. With his crop placement application for his supervised agricultural experience, Wold managed to reach the national level in the silver grouping.

Wold is one of many students involved in the widespread goal of recognizing and developing their own potential for premier leadership and personal growth. Other representatives from Thief River Falls included: Brandon Schuab, Wyatt Alby, Sierra Drydal, Allison Frame, Nicci Hruby, Erick Huseth, Matt Schaumburg, Rachel Solberg, and Jill Solberg. By participating, in the convention, students listened to many speakers, participated in a career fair, workshops, and several other events.

FFA is a national youth organization consisting of 490,017 students preparing for leadership careers in science, business and technology of agriculture. There are 7,210 local chapters in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. From their experience, local students and leaders have now seen how FFA has clearly had an impact on students worldwide, persuading thousands to carry on the essential task of food production.

Minnesota Dept. of Commerce takes action against collection agency

A yearlong Minnesota Department of Commerce (MDC) investigation into the practices of a collection agency owned by Sallie Mae has resulted in the largest civil penalty ever imposed against a collection agency licensed in Minnesota. Minnesota Commerce Commissioner Glenn Wilson announced Monday that Arrow Financial Services LLC of Niles, Ill., has paid $125,000 and will design and implement a compliance program within 60 days.

"The laws regulating collection practices in Minnesota are intended to protect consumers, and we expect full compliance from collection agencies that do business here," Wilson said.

He added, "The violations are serious, and we cannot and will not tolerate this type of activity in Minnesota. That's why a comprehensive compliance plan is part of the consent order."

The compliance program will be reviewed and approved by the department and must include:

- Designation of a compliance officer in charge of all regulatory compliance matters. The compliance officer shall report directly to the president and board of directors.
- A training program for all of Arrow's debt collectors registered in Minnesota to specifically include the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act and Minnesota debt collection laws.
- Arrow's Minnesota registered debt collectors must sign a statement wherein the debt collector acknowledges that they have completed training and that the training included debt collection law.
- Arrow will establish written policies and procedures for screening debt collector applicants prior to submitting registrations. The system will include a criminal background check.

Arrow is a part of Sallie Mae, a company that primarily provides federal and private student loans. Sallie Mae was originally created as a government-sponsored entity, but terminated corporate ties to the federal government in 2004. In addition to student loan debt, Arrow collects credit card, utility, telecommunication, retail and automotive debts.

The MDC investigation alleged that Arrow and/or its collectors engaged in more than 15 violations of Minnesota law, including:

- Withdrawing money electronically from a debtor's checking account without authorization and after two separate requests by the debtor to stop. Arrow also collected more money than the creditor had authorized.
- Continuing to contact debtors at their places of employment after receiving notification to stop. In one case, a debtor sent five letters (three certified) and three e-mails that specifically stated that the debtor's employer prohibited phone calls at work. Arrow also falsely told a debtor that such requests had to be in writing.
- Disclosing a debtor's information to a third party – in this case, a co-worker at the debtor's place of employment was told about the debt and Arrow's attempt to collect.
- Failing to establish procedures when screening collector applicants prior to submisson to the commissioner for registration as required by law. In one case, Arrow submitted a debt collector registration to the department that include documentation that showed the applicant did not qualify for licensure due to a recent felony conviction. Arrow also allowed an unlicensed debt collector to contact a Minnesota debtor prior to receiving a debt collector license.
- Failing to respond to the department's request for information, failing to provide responses from individual debt collectors and failing to provide copies of the debtor work logs. Arrow failed to respond to initial contact letters and certified letters from the department requesting responses to several complaints.

MAT announces scholarships

The Minnesota Association of Townships (MAT) is proud to again offer a township scholarship program for high school juniors in the state of Minnesota. Up to four $1,000 scholarships will be awarded.

Eligibility

All students currently enrolled in the 11th grade and attending a Minnesota public, private or parochial high school, or a home study program and who plan to further their education at a college, university or vocational school are eligible for this program. Children and grandchildren of MAT directors and staff are not eligible.

Requirements

Applicants must complete an application form and submit it along with a written essay discussing this year's topic: Townships in Minnesota have an annual meeting in which their residents take part in what is called a "direct" or "pure" democracy. Please describe how or why a township's annual meeting would be considered "the people's meeting"? Essays must be between 450 and 500 words, and must be typed and double spaced. Applicants should not name themselves, their school, their town or city, or their local officials in the essay.

Along with the completed application and written essay, students must submit a current high school transcript and a letter of recommendation from a high school teacher or counselor. All items must be submitted in one envelope and mailed to: Minnesota Association of Townships Scholarship Program, P.O. Box 267, St. Michael, MN 55376, and postmarked by May 1. Incomplete applications or applications postmarked after May 1 will not be accepted.

Selection

Each essay will be judged by an independent panel based upon originality, knowledge of subject matter in relationship to the title, and supporting statements as well as correct spelling and punctuation. Judging will be completed by Oct. 1 at which time up to four $1,000 scholarships will be awarded. Winners will be notified in writing mid-October 2006, and will be invited to attend the MAT annual meeting, which will be held on Nov. 16-18 in Duluth. Scholarship awards will be paid to the appropriate financial aid office upon receipt of verification of enrollment at a college, university or technical school.

Little Brothers and Little Sisters choose holiday gifts

Kmart and Red Lake Rural Electric Operation Round Up sponsored a Dec. 3 holiday shopping trip for kids in the Little Brother/Little Sister Program.

Youth were each given $25 to spend on gifts for their families. Big Brothers, Big Sisters and other volunteers helped the youth choose and wrap their gift items.

"This holiday shopping trip is a wonderful opportunity for these kids to experience the gift of giving," said Sue Dupree, LB/LS Program coordinator. "We couldn't provide this opportunity without the generosity of Kmart, Operation Round Up and our program volunteers."

Ten students from Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls attended the National FFA convention in Louisville, Ky., Oct. 25 to 30. The convention included speakers, career fair, workshops and many other events. Over 52,000 students from all over the country were present. Students pictured (in no particular order): Matt Wold, Brandon Schuab, Wyatt Alby, Sierra Drydal, Allison Frame, Nicci Hruby, Erick Huseth, Matt Schaumburg, Rachel Solberg, Jill Solberg. ## Bergan Travel honored at MLT Vacations Top Account event.

MLT Vacations Inc. was pleased to host Al and Eileen Walseth from Bergan Travel, Thief River Falls, at its 2005 Top Account Trip in Deadwood, S.D.

The Walseths and Bergan Travel was one of the 100 top producing agency owners within the United States invited to put on their western wear and "hit the trail."

The good folks of South Dakota arranged very unique opportunities for their guests to experience the beautiful Black Hills. Activities included dinner with the Presidents at Mount Rushmore.

The travel agency owners who were included in this trip are travel experts as well as exceptional sales people. The Top Account trip will help them do an even better job of selling the Black Hills experience.

MLT Vacations Inc. is a preferred supplier for Bergan Travel, allowing them to pass on lower rates and great specials to their loyal customers.

Oklee Community Ed to sponsor jam session Dec. 10

Oklee Community Education has been sponsoring a monthly jam session. Many area musicians have come together for an evening of foot stomping fun. The next jam session is Dec. 10, at the Oklee Community Hall from 7 to 10 p.m. Lunch will be served.

Al Walseth (center), owner of Bergan Travel in Thief River Falls, was congratulated by Cathy Dionne, MLT sales manager, and Jim Cron, chief executive officer of MLT vacations, for being among the top sales performers for MLT. The MLT Top Account Trip was in Deadwood, S.D., last fall.

Artists, teachers to create guidelines for assessing student work

Visual art, music, media art, literary art, dance and theatre teachers in Bemidji, Bagley and Oklee met this month on the Bemidji State University campus for the first of three meetings this school year, focusing on student work in the arts. Thief River Falls resident Vickie Kolden, a teacher at Red Lake County Central in Oklee, was among those attending the meeting.

Based on research in Australia about the comparability of teacher judgments of student work, approximately 25 teachers and teaching artists in the three northern Minnesota districts will be trained in a protocol for looking at student work. After the first meeting, teachers were asked to assemble a collection of one or two students' work in the arts. In subsequent meetings, these teachers will share their collections of student artwork to discover how they and their colleagues come to decisions about the quality of the work and ask how changes in instruction and assessment can improve the quality of student work in the arts.

The Perpich Center is working with districts across Minnesota with high-poverty schools through a three-year federal grant which supports approximately 80 percent of the $1.2 million project.

Addition

Red Lake County Central High School in Oklee has announced that it inadvertently omitted a name from its first quarter honor roll. Brittany Gustafson, 11th grade, should have been included on the list of honor roll students.

About 40 people braved single-digit temperatures to attend the annual Community Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony. The event was held Saturday at Floyd B. Olson Park in Thief River Falls. It was sponsored by the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce and city of Thief River Falls.

students at the schools to try to rekindle interest.

The bike and skate park near Franklin Middle School, was open Monday through Wednesday beginning June 5 through August 31.

The next regular meeting of the Board of Education has been scheduled for 5 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 12, in the conference room of the District Service Center.

Free TB tests of MN herds offered

The Minnesota Board of Animal Health, along with the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Veterinary Services (VS), is offering free bovine Tuberculosis (TB) testing to any cattle operation located within 15 miles of a TB infected herd. Producers located within this testing radius should contact their local veterinarian or the Board to discuss having their entire herd tested for bovine TB. The state will pay all veterinary fees.

Minnesota Board of Animal Health Executive Director and State Veterinarian Dr. Bill Hartmann said bovine TB is not a disease we can learn to live with, so we must work together to eradicate it.

"The investigation continues to make substantial progress," said Hartmann. "The next step to removing this disease from the state is to make sure we find it all. That's why we're asking producers in the vicinity of a bovine TB positive herd to voluntarily test their cattle."

To date, 40 herds have been quarantined as a result of the state's bovine TB investigation. Thirty-three of these operations have been removed from quarantine as testing showed no infection in the herd. The remaining herds are in the process of completing testing. Counties with quarantined herds include Roseau, Beltrami, and Todd.

Currently, five herds have tested positive for bovine TB in Minnesota. The newly detected fifth operation is located in Beltrami County. This operation sold a bull to an infected herd about two years ago. The beef cattle operation had a whole herd test completed in early November.

During that testing, four animals tested suspect for bovine TB. Tissue samples were submitted to the National Veterinary Services Laboratory (NVSL) in Ames, Iowa, where a diagnosis of bovine TB was confirmed in one of the animals.

The state of Minnesota has been involved in TB eradication programs since 1917, with the last known case in 1971. Bovine TB caused by the bacteria Mycobacterium bovis is a respiratory disease of cattle. It is a chronic, slowly progressive disease that does not spread easily. Infected animals may be capable of transmitting an infection to other animals even if they appear healthy. In a cooperative eradication campaign by the livestock industry and animal health officials, the U.S. has all but eliminated bovine TB.

As the official animal disease control and eradication agency of the State of Minnesota, the Board was created over 100 years ago to safeguard the health of the state's domestic animals. In carrying out its mission, the Board is a part of a network of state agencies protecting public health and providing an abundant, wholesome food supply to Minnesota consumers.

For more information on TB, investigation updates, and the agency, visit the Board's Web site at www.bah.state.mn.us.

Spread the joy to less fortunate kids

Monetary donations are also being accepted for the program, which is sponsored by the Pennington County Sheriff's Department. An account has been started at Northern State Bank for that purpose. Monetary donations can also be dropped off at the LEC. For more information on making a monetary donation to the program, contact Maria at the LEC (681-6161).

The program usually helps about 300 kids, said Coordinator Wendy Mattson. Santa Claus will distribute gifts to the children Wednesday, Dec. 21 from 4 to 6 p.m. in the LEC lobby.

Families that haven't been contacted, but may be eligible for the program, are encouraged to submit an application form. Those forms can be picked up at Pennington County Social Services, the LEC, VIP, Challenger Head Start, the Inter-County Community Council, Pathfinders and Goodridge School. The deadline is Monday, Dec. 12.

In addition to distributing gifts to the children, CPC also delivers donated Christmas trees from the Tree Walk for Hospice to less fortunate families each year.

Besides helping through that holiday program, residents are able to provide unwrapped, new or gently used toys, books and games for kids served by VIP. The items can be dropped off at Sheldon's Used Auto Parts, which is sponsoring the drive. It is accepting the donations Mondays through Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. until Thursday, Dec. 22.

Auxiliary demonstrates caring spirit at hospital

of course. Rupprecht said it might also include an air mattress.

From the family room, family will be able to look through a window at the patient. To enter the patient's room, however, they will have to walk through the hallway.

Rough estimates place the cost of the project at around $8,000. The hospital auxiliary has a strong support base, and has already received some donations from families that have gone through this experience and want to help other families. But, the Auxiliary is asking for help from the community to help support this community project. Individuals interested in making a donation to the project can send their donation to the Northwest Medical Center Auxiliary, care of Northwest Medical Center, 120 LaBree Ave South, Thief River Falls, MN, 56701. For more information, contact Bev Rupprecht at 681-4190.

Rupprecht said they were only able to consider this project now because when and if, the hospital becomes a Critical Access Hospital, rooms will be available for other uses.

Northwest Medical Center Auxiliary operates the gift shop and coffee shop at the hospital. Proceeds from these shops and the $5 membership fee it receives from its 200 or so female and male members is used to help pay for projects and services that go above and beyond what the hospital can provide. As such, the auxiliary has been involved in many projects, such as the purchase of a bus, providing teddy bears for pediatric patients, renting breast pumps to new moms, and Headliner Gear for cancer patients. They also deliver Meals on Wheels, serve Christmas tea for staff, and provide holiday favors for staff and patients.

Rupprecht said the Auxiliary is a proud member of the community and is always looking for ways it can meet the needs of the community.

Progressive Ag opens TRF office; Plans open house

Progressive Ag is pleased to announce the opening of Northern Ag Management, an affiliated office of Progressive Ag, to serve the northwestern Minnesota re[illegible].

Northern Ag Management, located in Thief River Falls, is committed to helping producers minimize risk by combining their crop insurance programs with their marketing plan.

[illegible] manager of Northern Ag Management has been [illegible] years.

According to Ray Grabanski, President of Progressive Ag, "Jody has been a key developer in several areas of farm risk management strategies for Progressive Ag and we are confident she will use that experience to help improve the future outlook for producers in the northwestern Minnesota region."

Northern Ag Management is [illegible] for the new [illegible] 213 N LaBree Ave.

Progressive Ag, Fargo, N.D., has been helping agriculture producers reduce their risks since 1990. The firm takes a different stance on farm management by combining a producer's crop or livestock insurance risks with their marketing decisions. This management combination has proven to be very successful, as Progressive Ag has been named the Top Marketing Firm in the nation for three years running, based on a recent USDA AgMax study.

Speaking English as a Second language

year include a part-time ESL educator, Gordon Campbell, who teaches at Franklin Middle School; and a para professional, who was hired specifically to assist one student, who until recently, spoke no English.

ELL procedure

Each Minnesota school district is required to have a policy for identifying candidates for ELL or ESL. Regardless of perceived native language, all students are given a questionnaire upon initial registration in the district. The school district cannot, however, ask for a student's immigration status.

Students can be placed in an ESL program through questionnaire results and a referral from a regular classroom teacher.

Elaine Grovum, S.D. 564 special education director, oversees the ESL program as part of her duties. Though rare in occurrence, she said there are cases in which ESL students also need special education services.

Typically, students who may require special education assistance are administered the Woodcock-Johnson Test (of Intellectual Ability and Achievement). The same test, called the Woodcock-Muñoz Test, is given to spanish speaking ESL students who may need additional services.

Grovum clarified, "Just because they don't speak English, doesn't mean we automatically do a special education assessment."

ESL curriculum

For the typical student, who is placed in ESL, it will take seven years to become proficient enough in the English language to no longer need assistance with academics related to reading, writing, listening and speaking. The program structure varies by age level and need. At Challenger Elementary, students are pulled from class for 20-30 minutes per day, while in most high school and junior high cases, students will spend one class period in an ESL classroom. At the middle school and high school levels, ESL can be used in place of an English class for students who are struggling with the language. It can also be scheduled as a supplement for students who are excelling.

"This is not a one size fits all program," Grovum said. "Different students have different needs."

Anderson said students use ESL time to work on their academic assignments that involve reading. Classroom work also includes additional language exercises, whether it be vocabulary or speaking, Anderson said.

According to Anderson, ESL students struggle more with speaking the English language, rather than reading it.

"They can read it, but not speak it or they can read it, but not understand what they just read," Anderson said.

Anderson said most students enter the program knowing some English from talking with friends. The ability to converse can be learned quickly, while comprehension may take much longer.

Anderson said the program is accelerated to the needs of each student.

"We want them to complete the program as quickly as they can, because it means they've picked up the basics and can be on their own," Anderson said.

TEAE

Like their peers, ESL students are tested for academic progress each year. For ESL students, this means taking a test called the Minnesota Test of Emerging Academic English (TEAE). The test is administered to students in grades three through 12 and is designed to assess the progressing acquisition of academic English by students with limited English proficiency.

The test includes reading and writing portions and is given annually.

Exiting the ESL program

The ultimate goal for all students in the ESL program is that they will eventually be fully able to access the school district's curriculum, because their English language proficiency allows it.

Anderson said a number of factors are used to determine when a student is ready to exit the program. They include an examination of state test scores; and observations and assessments from regular classroom teachers and ESL instructors.

"If all of these come together and their working at the level they're supposed to be working at, they are able to exit the program," Anderson said.

LHS Choir plans to offer "The Gift Of Song"

The Lincoln High School (LHS) Choirs under the direction of Darcy Reese are eagerly waiting to give the community its present. Entitled "The Gift of Song," this concert, is filled with choral pieces ranging from classical to jazz, familiar to unfamiliar and of course the timeless sounds of Christmas. The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. on Monday evening, Dec. 12, and will be in the newly remodeled LHS auditorium. A limited number of tickets are available at Kezar Music downtown Thief River Falls. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students. Proceeds from this concert will help defray costs for the "Woven Voices, Woven Threads" concert scheduled for May 2006.

The concert will begin with two mass choir selections with all 181 singers, and organist Kristi LaSalle performing Mozart's "Gloria" from the Twelfth Mass followed by John Rutter's "Te Deum."

The choir is very fortunate to have the Ben Sayler family as choir supporters, said Reese, as the organ is right out of their living room. "Many choir pieces have been set aside due to the fact that an organ was not available for the concerts. Ben and Marilyne have been very gracious with loaning the organ to the choir last May and now for this concert.

The second set will feature the 94-voice Bel Canto choir, which consists of all ninth and 10th grade students. These beautiful young voices will be performing a selection entitled "Dona Nobis Pacem" with pianist Kristi LaSalle, flutist Dana Dyrud, and violist Derek Mosloff. "Sinner Man," a high spirited spiritual, will be their next selection with featured conga player Chad Rosencrans (choir alumni).

The third set will be a featured Christmas set with senior soloists Haeli Stokke, Ashley Schneider and Scott Rakozy. They will be performing a Christmas selection with a bit of a jazz flare to it. Scott, "pianoman Rakozy," will be playing a solo piece as well as accompanying the ladies. These tunes will be very familiar to the audience's ears and set the tone for the weeks ahead.

The fourth set is strictly jazz. The 19-member Swingsations will grace the stage with four jazz charts including an arrangement of "Don't Know Why" with soloist Amber Galizia, "Lulu's Back in Town," "Kansas City" or our new version entitled "New York City," and finally a gorgeous arrangement of "This Masquerade" with soloist Haeli Stokke and Rakozy at the keys. The jazz combo for the singers includes Kristi LaSalle on piano, Ben Willis on bass and Joel Lunsetter on drums.

The fifth set is something that is usually done at a May concert. This set will be an informational set presented by three Concert Choir members. The three students include Lauren Dondelinger, Michael Benedict, and Sara Mills. They will update the audience about the artists that the students have worked with thus far on our "Woven Voices, Woven Threads" project. This section will give the audience an idea of what has been happening in the classroom other than learning all the music for the December concert.

The sixth set will fill the auditorium with the beautiful sounds of the 87-voice acapella Concert Choir.

"These juniors and seniors have been working overtime to present a concert that truly shows the versatility of the group," said Reese.

The first selection by this group is a very well blended and lush piece of repertoire from Rachmaninoff entitled "Ave Maria." The next three selections are within a set of six pieces from Paul Hindemith. Two will be in English and one in French.

Reese warns the audience to be careful not to daydream during the French piece, because it is only 30 seconds long. LaSalle returns to the piano to accompany the choir on this last selection.

The next piece, "Der gang zum Liebchen" or "The Trysting Place," is a gorgeous choral piece written by none other than Johannes Brahms.

"The choir," said Reese, "had a wonderful diction coach as one of their members by the name of Carolin Engels is from Germany and helped them with the pronunciation."

The seventh and final set will feature again the very full sound of the Mass Choir. Beautiful four-part arrangements of "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," and of course "O Come, All Ye Faithful," will be performed during this set. The grand finale of all finales will be "Go Ye Into All The World" performed with 181 voices, organ, piano, bass, and drums.

"The message is a perfect way to end this evening of song," said Reese. "We guarantee you will leave the concert humming this one all the way home! We can't wait to perform it for you!"

The Concert Choir will be taking the show on the road to Greenbush this Sunday, Dec. 11, to perform at the Blessed Sacrament Church. Border State Bank is the sponsor of this event. The concert begins in Greenbush at 7 p.m.

Don't delay in buying tickets for the Thief River Falls production. If there are any tickets remaining as of 11:30 a.m. on Dec. 12 from Kezar Music, they will be sold at the door prior to the concert. Remember to bring the tickets to the concert to claim seats. Doors, located by the flagpole at LHS, will open at 6:45 p.m. and any remaining tickets from Kezar Music will be sold at that time.

Thief River Falls boys high school basketball...

Prowlers open with Wolfpack

Three returning starters and eight lettermen are expected to lead Thief River Falls into the 2005-06 boys high school basketball season, which begins for the Prowlers Friday on the road at Kittson Central.

Starters back from last year's 11-14 team that lost to Alexandria 66-54 in the first round of the North Sub-Section 8AAA tournament, include 5-7 junior guard Jeremy Sich, who averaged 9.2 points per game; 6-0 junior guard Alex Yaggie, who scored 7.3 points per game; and 6-0 senior forward Kyle Lunke, who averaged 4.8 points and 3.4 rebounds per game.

In addition, Ryan Winkelman, a 6-1 junior guard, played significant minutes off the bench.

Rest of the lettermen on hand include 6-5 senior center Tyler Jensen, 5-10 senior guard Ross Helling, 5-9 junior guard Lee Peterson and 6-3 junior forward Adam Rodahl.

Also looking for varsity playing time are juniors Andrew BlackLance, a 6-5 center; Sean Sorteberg, a 5-10 guard; and Lee Steva, a 5-11 guard; along with sophomores Chase Haviland, a 5-7 guard; and Kasey Trontvet, a 6-0 guard.

"Our perimeter has some experience," noted Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean, "but we lost our leading scorer (Paul Sjoberg) and our leading rebounder (Matt Stuckey) from last year. What that does is provide opportunities for players like Andrew BlackLance, Tyler Jensen and Adam Rodahl."

The program also includes sophomores Thomas Loe, Jacob Stuckey, Andrew Rook, Bradley Holtman, Jordan Rondorf, Mike Aamodt and Dylan Johnson, along with freshmen Zach Sorenson, Steve Johnson, Derek Lunde, Jake Tangen, Kyle Niemela, Nick Beito, Myles Keefe, Jorge Guerrero, Senen Guerrero, Seth Torstveit, Josh Kuznia and Jesse Lara.

"We're cautiously optimistic," *offered McLean. "For us to be suc*cessful, we have to be great defensively. With the teams we play, with their size, speed and overall athleticism, we need to play good, solid team defense. What will carry us is our teamwork."

Al Buhl, Todd Prickett and Kyle Gerardy are members of McLean's coaching staff.

The Prowlers' first home start will be Thursday, Dec. 15, vs. Warroad.

TRF power play clicks in 6-2 win over Totino-Grace

Power play and penalty kill units got an extended workout Friday at the Ralph Engelstad Arena. A boys high school hockey game matching Thief River Falls, the No. 1-rated team in the Class A state polls, against sixth-ranked Totino-Grace that had the makings of an entertaining early-season contest deteriorated into a whistle-filled affair won by the Prowlers 6-2.

The two teams combined for 22 penalties that led to a half-dozen power play goals. Totino-Grace was called for 13 penalties; Thief River Falls was whistled nine times. The Prowlers skated to a 5-0 lead, with all five goals coming on the power play. The Eagles' first goal also came during a man-advantage situation.

"It's hard to assess a game like that," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "Totino (Grace) players lost their composure. Give us credit, we didn't."

A sharp pass from Robby Philipp put Matt Nordhagen in front of the Totino-Grace net and he slammed home Thief River Falls' first goal at 14:53 of the opening period.

It stayed a 1-0 game until Thief River Falls went on a four-goal scoring blitz in a 3 1/2-minute span of the second period to break it open.

The Eagles were skating two men short, and had another penalty impending on a delayed call when Philipp finished off a series of passes with goal No. 2 at 8:22.

Capitalizing on the extended two-man power play, the Prowlers scored again when Lucas Genereux tipped in a Michael Benedict slap shot from the point at 9:16.

There were bodies sprawled on the ice during a scramble in front of the Totino-Grace net when Jordan Swanson scored at 9:54.

It was a 4-on-3 situation when Nordhagen steered in a close shot off a pass from Philipp to make it 5-0 at 11:51.

"Our power play did what we had to do to get a win," offered Bergland.

Totino-Grace got on the scoreboard at 15:49 of the second period on a straightaway shot by Loren Egan.

Fifty-six seconds into the third period the Prowlers' Michael Forney scored with a slap shot on the fly – the game's first even-strength goal.

Egan's second goal of the night at 16:52 finished the scoring.

Philipp (one goal, two assists) and Benedict (three assists) both had three-point games for the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls goalie Brady McIntyre stopped 22 shots. Totino-Grace netminder Jack Ries finished with 27 saves.

Scoring

First period - TRF, Matt Nordhagen (Robby Philipp), 14:53.

Third period - TRF, Forney (Benedict), :56; T-G, Egan (Bennek, Adam Allenson), 16:52.

Goalie saves - TRF, Brady McIntyre 7-6-9-22; T-G, Jack Ries 7-14-6-27.

Swimmers have young roster

A young Thief River Falls boys high school swim team will open its 2005-06 season Saturday when the Prowlers compete in the Fergus Falls Invitational.

The 19 swimmers listed on the Prowlers' roster includes just one senior, two juniors and one sophomore. The rest of the rest of the lineup is made up of four freshmen, ten eighth graders and a seventh grader.

"They're young," admitted Thief River Falls coach Lacy Knott as she looked at her roster. "It's a rebuilding year."

Four lettermen on hand include senior Cole Bylander, junior Ben Carlson, sophomore Brian Kays and freshman Tyler Olson.

The numbers surprised Knott when practice opened two weeks ago. "I was looking for 11 (swimmers) and got 19," she said. "We have swimmers in every event; we just don't know how strong they will be."

Thief River Falls' home opener will be a Tuesday, Dec. 13, dual vs. Bemidji.

■ Wrestlers open at Wadena-Deer Creek Invitational

Senior Dan LeDuc, 160 pounds, and junior Andrew Peralta, heavyweight, claimed individual championships while leading Thief River Falls to a fifth place team finish in the Wadena-Deer Creek Invitational high school wrestling tournament Saturday.

LeDuc, currently rated number two at 152 pounds (Class AA), recorded falls over Hayden Hammel of Sauk Centre (1:09) and Tony Schul of Bertha-Hewitt/Verndale (1:47) on his way to the championship round. Utilizing several double and single-leg attacks, LeDuc controlled the final match and defeated Jordan Kapphahn of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River by a 13-2 major decision.

"Dan wrestled well and was not really tested all day," noted Thief River Falls head coach Kenny Geiser.

Peralta, currently ranked number four in the state at heavyweight, cruised through his first two rounds with pins of 15 seconds over Aaron Saunders of Bertha-Hewitt/Verndale, and 1:17 over Robbie Bohn of Perham. That set up a rematch of the 2004 heavyweight championship against Wadena-Deer Creek's Tim Richards, currently ranked second in Class A. Peralta won the 2004 championship match.

Looking to avenge last year's final, Richards used a headlock to score the match's first takedown and nearfall points, less than 30 seconds into the match. Working from his back, Peralta eventually countered Richards' headlock, reversing Richards to his back for the winning fall in 1:01.

"Andrew scared everyone as he got thrown to his back right away," Geiser said. "He eventually recovered and pinned Richards in the

Second group of NCTC Hall of Fame inductees have Saturday banquet

Second Northland Community and Technical College Athletic Hall of Fame banquet will be held Saturday, Dec. 10, at the NCTC Swenson House.

The 2005 inductees will include John Michael Anderson (deceased), who played tennis at Northland and later helped promote the campus and its programs as president of the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club, former basketball standouts David Dickey and Tony Burke; Scott Bergland, who played, then coached hockey at the school; along with Georgine Troska and Paula (Hovde) Seifried, three-sport Northland athletes in volleyball, basketball and softball.

Tickets are available to the public. Cost is $15 per person. To purchase tickets, contact Northland Athletics Director Deb Jacobson by calling 681-0723.

Hall of Fame day at the school will start with a Northland vs. Minnesota West basketball doubleheader that includes a 1 p.m. women's game and a 3 p.m. men's game.

The banquet starts with a social hour at 6 p.m., followed by a meal and the induction program.

RLCC handles Mahnomen 69-34

Red Lake County Central ran up a 37-11 halftime lead and coasted to a 69-34 Friday win over host Mahnomen in girls high school basketball.

It was a make-up date from a scheduled Nov. 29 season opener that was weathered out.

The Mustangs were led by Courtney Halvorson with 23 points, Brittany Gustafson with a 20 point, 10-rebound double-double and 10 points apiece from Faith Kruchowski and Betsy Winkler.

It was the second win in as many nights for the Mustangs, who beat Fosston 66-62 in a Thursday season debut.

"We played a pretty decent first half," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Kovisto. "Considering that we played the night before, we played with a lot of energy. The girls worked real hard."

Red Lake County Central shot 50 percent from the field (27/54) and Thief River Falls' Michael Forney split the Totino-Grace defense as he skated into the Eagles' zone during Friday's boys high school hockey match-up. Nathan Hockert (12) and West Landsem (7) weren't able to contain Forney on the the play. The Prowlers won 6-2.

Blaine knocks off No. 1-rated Thief River Falls boys 7-4...

Early goals bury Prowlers

Three early-game goals proved to be the margin of victory as Blaine beat host Thief River Falls 7-4 Saturday afternoon in boys high school hockey.

The Class AA Bears scored three goals in the game's first 4 1/2 minutes and went on to hand the Prowlers, who were elevated to the No. 1 spot in last week's Class A state polls, their first loss in three Week 1 starts.

"We dug ourselves a hole and were never able to climb out," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland.

Blaine's fast start included goals by Rick Doriott (shorthanded) at 1:39, Ryan Johnson at 3:46 and Aaron Holmgren at 4:25.

Thief River Falls chopped the difference to 3-2 on goals by Matt Nordhagen at 12:44 of the first period and Cody Bottem at 3:03 of the second period, but went into the locker room at the second intermission still trailing 5-2 as the Bears' Joe Beaudette put the puck in the net at 8:06 and 11:16 – the second one on a power play.

The teams swapped third period goals, with Matt Olson and Beaudette scoring for the Bears, while Tony Dom (power play) and Michael Forney picked up the Prowlers' goals.

"It was one of those games where nothing went our way," offered Bergland. "It wasn't for a lack of effort, but it seemed the harder we tried, the dumber we got."

Blaine, coming off a season-opening Friday loss at Roseau, finished with a 28-26 edge in shots-on-goal.

Thief River Falls will face two more Twin Cities-area teams this weekend with road match-ups against Blake Friday night and St. Paul Johnson Saturday afternoon.

Scoring

First period - Blaine, Ricky Doriott, 1:39; Blaine, Ryan Johnson (Nick Carlson, Josh Simi), 3:46; Blaine, Aaron Holmgren, 4:25; TRF, Matt Nordhagen (Michael Forney, Drew Kjono), 12:44.

Prowlers will wrestle in Grand Forks meet

Thief River Falls will be part of a 16-team field at the 2005 Sertoma Invitational dual high school wrestling tournament Friday and Saturday, Dec. 9 and 10, at Central High School in Grand Forks, N.D.

The Prowlers, Perham and Fertile-Beltrami are the only Minnesota teams in a line-up dominated by North Dakota entries.

Thief River Falls will draw Jamestown in a 3 p.m. first match Friday.

The Prowlers opened the season at the Dec. 3 Wadena-Deer Creek Invitational. They will wrestle at the Big Bear Invitational hosted by Cass Lake-Bena Dec. 16-17.

First Round Matches

- Upper Bracket - (3 p.m.) Grand Forks Red River vs. Cavalier; Jamestown vs. Thief River Falls; Central Cass vs. Valley City; West Fargo vs. Larimore.
- Lower Bracket - (4:30 p.m.) Wahpeton vs. Turtle Mountain; Perham vs. Devils Lake; North Border vs. Bismarck Century; Fertile-Beltrami vs. Grand Forks Central.

Thief River Falls splits a pair of freshman games

Thief River Falls ninth grade girls basketball team split weekend games against Detroit Lakes and Park Rapids Area.

The Lakers built a 27-9 halftime lead and beat the visiting Prowlers 44-36 Friday. Cassie Gunderson scored 9 points, Krista Moyer 7 and Beth Tvedt 6 to lead the Thief River Falls offense.

Tvedt and Gunderson netted 15 points each as Thief River Falls won its Saturday home opener against the Panthers, 49-27. The Prowlers led 28-15 at halftime.

B/G-MR beats Roseau, Warroad back-to-back

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River posted back-to-back road wins over Roseau and Warroad to start the 2005-06 girls high school basketball season.

The Gators opened with a 65-48 Thursday win at Roseau and followed that with a 69-44 Friday victory at Warroad.

Kaley Mekash had a double-double in the opening night win with 15 points and 12 rebounds. Anna Wicklund matched Mekash with 15 points and added nine rebounds. Liz Schenkey (14) and Cassy Campbell (13) also had double-figure scoring nights for the Gators, who led 33-22 at the half.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 41 percent from the field (26/64) and went 13-for-18 at the free throw line, where Roseau was 15-for-27.

"It could have been better," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer after Gators' debut. "We had a lot of missed fast break lay-ups."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River doubled Warroad 36-18 in the first half and cruised to a Saturday victory behind Mekash, a 5-10 junior center, who scored 32 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Schenkey added 15 points to the Gators' offense.

"The other coaches don't rank us very high, but I think we'll surprise some people this year," offered Neibauer. "If we can play smart, take care of the ball and play good defense, we'll be able to play with anybody."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shot 51 percent from the field in Game 2 (25/49) and had a 19-for-30 free throw night. Warroad was 13-for-23 at the line.

The Gators' original Nov. 28 opener against Lake of the Woods in Baudette was postponed because of the weather and will be played Dec. 22.

most exciting match of the day."

The tournament's team championship went to Perham, who amassed 236 team points and claimed six individual championships. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River placed all 13 of its competing wrestlers in the top six, enroute to its second place finish with 188 points. Rounding out the team scoring was Wadena-Deer Creek 155, Long Prairie-Grey Eagle 145, Thief River Falls 134, Bertha-Hewitt/Verndale 104, Pequot Lakes/Pine River- Backus 90 and Sauk Centre 74.

Seven other Prowlers earned a top-six finish in their respective weight classes. Second place finishes went to returning state qualifiers Jordan Engen, 112, and Kyle Iverson, 125, and first-year varsity wrestler, sophomore Tom Kalinoski, 119.

At 112, Engen lost 12-8 in the championship to fourth-ranked Ethan Kern of Bertha-Hewitt/Verndale. At 125, Iverson lost 9-6 to fifth-ranked Cody Brazier of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

"Jordan and Kyle both wrestled well all day, but came up a little short in the end," Geiser said. "If they can work on giving up less points earlier in the match, they will do very well this year."

Other place winners included seventh grader Steve Keogh, who made his varsity debut with a third place finish at 103 pounds; Kevin Fynboh, sixth place, 130; Ben Nelson, sixth place, 140; and Josh Iverson, fifth place, 215.

"Overall we really showed our inexperience," Geiser said. "We only have four wrestlers with multiple years of varsity wrestling. We have a long ways to go as a team to reach our goals. I look for this team to improve every week, mainly because they are just getting their feet wet and the more experience they get the better we will get."

The Prowlers began their dual meet season Tuesday at Crookston. Dual meet competition will continue Thursday when the squad heads to Blackduck/Cass Lake-Bena, where the junior varsity match will begin at 6 p.m.

TRF Results

103 - Steve Keogh, 3-1, third place; 112 - Jordan Engen, 2-1, second place; 119 - Tom Kalinoski, 1-1, second place; 125 - Kyle Iverson, 2-1, second place; 130 - Kevin Fynboh, 0-3, sixth place; 135 - Mike Kalinoski, 0-2; 140 - Ben Nelson, 0-3, sixth place; 145 - CJ Swanson, 0-2; 152 - Mike Mattson, 0-2; 160 - Dan LeDuc, 3-0, first place; 171 - Travis Peralta, 0-2; 189 - Billy Mattson, 0-2; 215 - Josh Iverson, 0-2, fifth place; 275 - Andrew Peralta, 3-0, first place.

Boys basketball...

Gators lose their opener to Wolfpack

Season-opener for the 2005-06 Badger/Greenbush-Middle River boys high school basketball team was a 74-68 Thursday overtime loss at the hands of Kittson Central.

The Gators led 31-28 at halftime. The game was tied at 65-65 at the end of regulation time.

Ernie Ayala scored seven of the nine Wolfpack overtime points with a 3-pointer and four free throws.

"It was a good first game for us," reported Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Kent Christian. "We just didn't get the defensive stops when we needed to, and we were a little too impatient on offense at times."

The Gators had four double figure scorers as Adam Telander netted 21 points, Nathan Thompson 13, Dennis Bukowski 11 and Tyler Aune 10. Ayala led all scorers with 23 points.

"I couldn't ask for a much better effort from our kids," offered Christian. "Hopefully, we will use this game as a stepping stone to improve."

Hockey JV beats Eagles

Thief River Falls gave up a first period goal, but came back to beat Totino-Grace 3-1 in Friday boys junior varsity high school hockey.

Spencer Johnson and Pat Barry scored second period goals for the Prowlers, and Barry added an insurance goal in the final period.

Cole Hunt started in the nets for the winners, who out-shot the Eagles 27-15.

Tae Kwon Do testing date is Saturday

Approximately 30 children and adults will be testing for their next higher rank in Tae Kwon Do Saturday at the Thief River Falls TKD School, located on Highway 59 South, directly across the road from Kmart.

Scheduled to start at 10 a.m., the testing will be done before a 6th degree Master Instructor in kicking techniques, hand techniques, self-defense, patterns, board breaking and one-brick break.

The Tae Kwon Do instructor in Thief River Falls is Mike Perish.

"Through the learning of Tae Kwon Do, students gain life skills ranging from courtesy, self-control, self-confidence, higher self-esteem and numerous health benefits from physical exercise," explained Perish. "Each student is personally challenged to his or her own individual abilities."

Perish offers his classes to both children and adults. For additional information on his classes, call him at 681-2462.

Bears' rally knocks off Wolverines

Lake of the Woods overcame a 20-11 halftime deficit to beat Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 38-34 Friday in girls high school basketball.

The Wolverines hurt themselves with 18 percent second half shooting, a 6-for-20 showing at the free throw line and 41 turnovers.

It was a duplication of season-opening mistakes for the Wolverines, who lost the ball 40 times in a Game 1 loss to Kittson Central.

"Teams aren't taking the ball away from us," explained Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke assistant coach Brent Philipp. "Those are self-inflicted turnovers."

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke launched a 3-pointer for a tie with four seconds left, but the shot was off the mark, and Lake of the Woods tacked on a clinching free throw Justyn Larson of the Wolverines led all scorers with 13 points. Teammate Sara Rindahl netted 10. The Bears were led by Carlie Waibel with 12 points.

Bears, Wolverines, Gators, Mustangs tourney winners

Clearbrook-Gonvick, Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River and Red Lake County Central were quarterfinal winners Monday to kick off the 11th annual Girls High School Holiday Basketball Tournament at Northland Community and Technical College.

The Bears handled East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 63-39 and the Wolverines came from behind to beat Stephen-Argyle 57-48 in the afternoon bracket. In the evening session, the Gators edged Northern Freeze 42-40 and the Mustangs defeated Kittson County North 80-52.

Katie Anderson and Heidi Kjolhaug scored 17 points apiece and Rebecca Gunvalson had 12 to lead Clearbrook-Gonvick to a Game 1 victory over East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

The Eagles, who trailed 35-21 at halftime, were led by Kayla Reierson with 11 points, Amanda Reierson 10 and Chelsey Huot 10.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke fell behind 9-0 at the outset and trailed 31-23 at halftime, but the Wolverines out-scored Stephen-Argyle 34-17 in the second half to reach the championship round semifinals.

Sara Rindahl and Justyn Larson fueled the winner's turnaround. The two combined to score 30 points, with 24 of those coming in the second half. Rindahl finished with 16 points (14 in the second half) and Larson netted 14 (10 in the second half). Robyn Henrickson of the Storm led all scorers with 17 points.

Tournament Results

■ Quarterfinals Monday, Dec. 5 - Clearbrook-Gonvick 63, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 39; Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 57, Stephen-Argyle 48; Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 42, Northern Freeze 40; Red Lake County Central 80, Kittson County North 52.

■ Semifinals Tuesday, Dec. 6 - (consolation round) East Grand Forks Sacred Heart vs. Stephen-Argyle, 3 p.m.; Northern Freeze vs. Kittson County North, 4:30 p.m.; (championship round) Clearbrook-Gonvick vs. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke, 6:30 p.m.; Badger/Greenbush-Middle River vs. Red Lake County Central, 8 p.m.

■ Finals Thursday, Dec. 8 - seventh place, 3 p.m.; consolation, 4:30 p.m.; third place, 6:30 p.m.; championship, 8 p.m.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River kept its hopes of winning the tournament for a third straight year alive... barely, with the two-point nail-biter over the rival Northern Freeze. The Gators trailed 25-14 at halftime.

Kaley Mekash was limited to a single basket and two free throws in the first half, but wound up with 22 points to lead the Gators' second half comeback. Alycia Dahl led Northern Freeze with 20 points, with 15 of those coming in the first half.

The Gators didn't shoot free throws very well, but they did shoot a lot of them on a 14-for-32 night at the line. Northern Freeze had a 9-for-17 free throw game.

Brittany Gustafson hit five 3-pointers in a 29-point performance that led Red Lake County Central to the day's final-game victory over Kittson County North.

Betsy Winkler added 19 points and Courtney Halvorson 11 for the winners, who knocked down 11 shots from 3-point range.

Whitney Coffield and Chelsi Nelson led the Cougars with 16 and 12 points, respectively.

Sweet Shots competition is under way

■ Border State Bank 3-point shooting event

Border State Bank-sponsored Sweet Shots competition is once again part of the area boys and girls high school basketball season in 2005-06.

Introduced last year, the Sweet Shots competition involves players from Thief River Falls, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, Roseau and Lake of the Woods (Baudette) – schools in Border State Bank communities.

Border State Bank will donate $3 for every 3-point shot made by any boy or girl varsity basketball player from those schools throughout regular season and tournament play. The donation will be divided equally between the boys basketball program, girls basketball program and the yearbook program at the schools.

Charts will be posted at all Border State Bank locations and participating schools to show each team's progress.

"Our vision for this program is to increase interest in regular season basketball games by giving a portion of our donation to a non-athletic school activity," explained Tami Bredeson, Marketing Director for Border State Bank. "With athletes and non-athletes equally vested in the monetary outcome, we hope to have everyone in the stands counting the 'Sweet Shots' at every game."

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

The weather in northwest Minnesota has a variable temperature but when it comes to bad storms any time of the year I believe the northern part of Marshall County and the southern part of Kittson county is the best area in the U.S.A. to feel comfortable. When the TV began flashing bad road conditions this evening, I thought of Morris and Hazel Anderson and Chana Chaffee who were returning to Grand Forks from Wibaux, Montana. They had spent the weekend at Buzz and Dorothy Chaffee's home and stayed at Jim and Cindy Wetterlund's home tonight. The roads in North Dakota were icy today it was blizzarding throughout the night.

There is no one around here that I know who didn't celebrate Thanksgiving with friends and relatives, having the usual dinner menu. Judy Kleinvachter was a guest at Kelly Lefrooth's home together with Vance and Adrienne Lefrooth. Judy says her visitors this week were busy getting ready for dinners, and many employed for the holiday.

Pearl Thompson enjoyed Thanksgiving dinner at Danny and Becky Johnson's together with LaVonne and Brian Johnson, Sherry, Steffie, Seth and Ethan from Burnsville, and Keith, Michelle, Jake, Gabby and Garret from Lancaster.

Sherry, Steffanie, Seth and Ethan had breakfast with Pearl Thompson on Friday morning before returning to Burnsville.

Sandy Hagenbeck from Sturgeon Lake visited her Aunt Pearl Thompson on Friday afternoon. Phaela and David Thompson also visited Pearl.

On Tuesday Danny and Becky Johnson, Keith, Michelle, and Jake and Pearl Thompson helped Lionel and Boots Johnson celebrate their 55th wedding anniversary by having supper together, at the Black Bear Grille. Happy Anniversary, Lionel and Boots!!!

On Thanksgiving Day, David and Elaine Grovum of Thief River Falls brought Elsie Lefrooth to their home where they were joined by David's mother, Ms. Grovum, to enjoy a perfect Thanksgiving dinner.

Saturday, Paul and Shirley Anderson met Kristopher Anderson for lunch in Grand Forks. Kristopher was on his way from Florida to Saskatoon. Thanksgiving Day, Shirley Anderson was a dinner guest at Eva Bernard's home in Karlstad.

I called Jim Wetterlund in Grand Forks and Morris and Hazel Anderson are waiting out there until the roads are cleared, I hope tomorrow will bring better driving conditions, or I will have to take with me at least 4 sticks of celery to hold my blood pressure down. That does do the trick for me, I'm too old to drag a "security blanket" any more.

High School Progress
A Royal Charivari

"Ten adventurous high school heroes armed with tin cans, blocks of wood, pans, etc., braved the roaring winds and plunged on through the darkness, blank in mind but sure in step, for in a minute they were to see the one and only bright scene of Thief River's turkey-filled people. This light in the dark was shown by the neatly plastered hair of no one but our own friend, Mr. Chalmers, who had decided, on this evening to become an ex-bachelor. But he hadn't made the performance dark enough for these bold bad boys who, without invitation, peered blandly at their 'Snowball' as he blushingly placed the ring on a slender finger of his forever guiding star.

"Bang! Crash! Whoop! Yea! Bang -- bang -- Bang!! interrupted the charivari weapons. And the voices did not lessen till Mr. Chalmers, Sr., father of the groom, threw out a dollar from the porch. Then, after a minute's conference the same breath-taking 'Snowball' with the lovely bride, came forth, gave thanks, and finally another dollar. At this the racketeers departed, crying loud wishes of good luck -- but then, don't all wish to cry the same?" [Donald Chalmers, local high school teacher, and Helen Cronkhite were united in marriage on November 27 in Thief River Falls.]

Extra!

"A purse is to be offered for any student finding a way to kill all the moths in Lincoln high school. It seems that due to Howie's coat [Howard Hoium] several swarms have escaped and are lodging themselves in some of the teachers' coats. Pat Harris also found a few in his beard. Howard has just taken his coats out of packing and he finds that the moths are very troublesome. Even his 'heavies' have gotten the worst end of the deal. If we have any zoologists in our school, let us hear from them."

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

ST. HILAIRE, RED LAKE COUNTY, MINNESOTA DECEMBER 9, 1905

News Items

"We have been having some very fine winter weather this week.

"The threshing machines are still at work out east of here and it will be a week or more before all are finished.

"The water mains of the new Thief River Falls waterworks are in a leaky condition and the plant cannot be used until spring.

"The planing mill will be closed down the last of next week until after the holidays. It will be thoroughly repaired and a new boiler put in before it is started up again.

"The firemen had a housecleaning last Tuesday and the fire apparatus was all gone over and put in first class shape. The fire pump was put in good condition, the chemicals recharged and everything is ready for trouble -- which we hope won't come.

"RED LAKE FALLS GAZETTE: Plummer has organized a band with seventeen members and will engage the service of an instructor and get down to work as soon as possible. Red Lake county will certainly have no scarcity of bands within a year or two. The Red Lake Falls band, known as the crack organization of the valley, is ably seconded by the present St. Hilaire band, and with new organizations both at Plummer and Thief River Falls, Red Lake people won't get lonesome for good music at least."

Class Musicale

"The following program will be given by the pupils of Miss Etta Zaiser at the Imperial Hall next Friday evening: Ladies' Quartette 'Red Rose' by Misses Hall, Hoff, Hannay, Johnson; Piano Solo 'Alpine Horn' by Mabel Aimer; Piano Trio 'Dancing on the Lawn' by Alice Hoff, Selma Hoff, Grace Hall; Recitation 'Dan Periton's Ride' by Clara Rue; Piano Solo 'The Gypsy Band' by Grace Hall; Vocal Duet Selected by Misses Hoff and Johnson; Piano Solo 'Forsaken' by Ruth Martz; Violin Solo Selected by Prof. A. Onstad; Piano Duet 'Melnotte's Banjo' by Nora and Lily Johnson; Piano Solo 'The Dance of the Brownies' by Alice Hoff; Recitation 'The Widow's Light' by Clara Rue; Piano Solo 'Golden Banner Two-Step' by Pearl Eickhoff; Piano Solo 'The Mocking Bird' by Anna Blomburgh; Quartette 'Angel of Hope' by Misses Hall, Hoff, Hannay, Johnson."

FROM THE PAGES OF THE TIMES

Santa Claus, Kiddies Show Slated; Stores Start Night Opening

"Children of the Thief River Falls community will enjoy another pre-holiday visit with Santa Claus at the municipal auditorium Friday and Saturday afternoons of this week from 2 to 5 o'clock and they also will be guests of local merchants at a free show at both the Falls and Avalon theaters Saturday afternoon, December 10.

"The feature film, Wild Beauty, and five cartoons will be shown starting at the Falls theater at 12:30 and at the Avalon 15 minutes later and running continuously during the afternoon.

"Tickets for the shows will be given to local children without charge this week by co-operating Thief River Falls merchants and in addition, have been sent out to schools in the area for free distribution to pupils.

"For the accommodation of Christmas shoppers city stores will remain open until 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. They will remain open evenings next week, Wednesday through Saturday and the last week before Christmas they will remain open Monday through Friday nights closing at 4:30 Christmas Eve, December 24.

"The business district of the city presents a festive holiday appearance with the light standards adorned with festoons of greenery and illuminated medalions bearing Christmas scenes."

Carol Torgerson Wins Region Event

"Carol Torgerson, Lincoln high school senior, was announced last Wednesday as the regional winner in the 'I Speak for Democracy' contest sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Previously the winner of the Thief River Falls contest, Miss Torgerson competed in the regional event against students from Crookston, Bemidji and East Grand Forks. By virtue of her victory, Carol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Torgerson, received a free trip to Minneapolis in company with her instructor, Miss Thora Skomedal. Carol took part there in the state contest Monday, which was won by Wilhelm Eberhardt of St. Paul, an exchange student from Germany. While in Minneapolis, they attended a banquet in the Nicollet Hotel, at which the principal speaker was Peter Watts, international Jaycee president."

Three Are Fined For Engaging In Fight

"Brought by the sheriff's office into municipal court on a charge of engaging in a fight at a Highlanding tavern late Saturday night were Wayne Kruse of St. Hilaire, Leo Cota of Red Lake Falls, and a minor youth, age 17. Each of the trio was fined $10 and $5.50 costs."

Sustad's Grocery Sold To North Dakota Man

"Henry Sustad this week announced the sale of Sustad's Grocery Store, which he has operated the past six years at 1101 Duluth avenue North to Thomas Flom, formerly of Milton, North Dakota, the transfer taking effect Friday, December 2. Mr. and Mrs. Sustad plan to continue their residence in Thief River Falls."

FROM THE UPPER FALLS

THIEF RIVER FALLS, RED LAKE COUNTY, MINNESOTA

Very Large Attendance
Banquet, Concert and Dance Given at the Masonic Building Rooms Were Very Prettily Decorated with Cut Flowers

"The banquet, concert and dance given at the opening of the Masonic hall in the new building recently completed resulted in the gathering of a large and representative number of citizens Monday evening. The affair was a decidedly enjoyable one and all who attended report having had an excellent time.

"The rooms in the Masonic building presented a decidedly attractive appearance, being decorated with cut flowers. After the banquet had been served, toasts were responded to by a number of citizens. Dr. George Tupper acted as toastmaster, and those who responded were Messrs. S. H. Clark, C. L. Dobner, Daniel Shaw, W. W. Prichard, and E. M. Stanton. The various topics toasted upon by various speakers met with a responsive chord, and was one of the pleasant features of the evening.

"The concert and music furnished by the Dode-Fisk company for the dancing was of course the principal feature of the evening and it was greatly enjoyed by the large assembly of people. The Dode-Fisk company is composed of a number of very talented musicians and should they ever again appear in Thief River Falls, would be sure of a large audience.

"Quite a number of guests from outside of the city were present."

Probably No Water
Water Mains Leaking at a Decidedly Rapid Rate
Some 75,000 Gallons Disappear Inside of Five Days

"Those people of Thief River Falls who had intended to use city water this winter are quite sure to be disappointed. The indications at present are that there will be no water until sometime next summer and this is going to be a great inconvenience to many.

"The water mains all over town are leaking to a great extent, and owing to the fact that the ground is frozen over, Contractor Patterson says that it will be impossible for them to locate any of the leaks until next spring after the frost goes out of the ground. As was announced by the NEWS last week, the large water tank tower, which hold 75,000 gallons of water, was filled to the top. Five days after it had been filled, an investigation was made to ascertain how much had leaked out and, much to the surprise of all, it was found that the tank was entirely empty, and the whole 75,000 gallons had disappeared. How long it took this amount of water to leak out is not known, but to even do this in five days shows that there are some large holes.

"With the main leaking at this rate, it would be impossible to endeavor to try and keep the tank full this winter, but an attempt will be made to turn off some of the outlying mains and endeavor to supply the business portion of the city with water. If it is found that these do not leak too much, water will be kept in them during the winter."

A Supply House Baby

"A man up in Marshall county who patronizes the mail order houses, (of which there are none such in Red Lake county) allows his children to play with the big catalogues. One morning the nurse came out and announced that there was a new baby in the house. Who brought it, asked the children. The nurse replied that it had just come. Oh, I know, said one little girl, it's a Sears and Roebuck baby and I bet it's adulterated just like the pepper and the strawberry jam was, and Papa will have to keep it because the money was sent in advance."

Doing Good Business
Thief River Falls Stores Well Prepared for Holiday Trade
The Assortment of Goods Here is Large and Prices are Always Right

"The stores of Thief River Falls are, as a rule, all well prepared for the holiday trade, and are receiving a good trade. There are few towns of this size in the state that can boast of having such fine stores, and this fact is appreciated by the buying public, as we draw much trade outside of our legitimate territory. To have a large and well selected assortment of new standard goods, honestly sold, from which to make a pick, is an advantage which the careful and economical buyer knows how to appreciate. Every customer, no matter how scrutinizing or fastidious, will be able to find just what he wants. Our merchants are wide-awake and enterprising and are themselves careful buyers. The great wholesale markets in the east have been scoured by them for bargains to be offered to their customers here. Our business men are not content to supply the wants of the people in the immediate vicinity, but they are reaching out for trade in all directions, with the idea of making Thief River Falls the commercial center of a large territory. In general merchandise, hardware, farm machinery, printing and publishing, banking and several other lines of business, Thief River Falls takes a back seat for no other town in the valley, not excepting Crookston. It pays people to come long distances to do their trading at Thief River Falls. From now on our stores will be crowded with customers from far and near, and let it be remembered, those who come first can make the best selection. It is good advice to those who have in mind purchasing presents or goods of any kind, to do so early and avoid the rush the last few days before Christmas. The buying public is cordially invited to call at the stores in this city and inspect the goods they have for sale and compare their prices with those of any other place."

Support proposed entrance for TRF Public Library

Plans for a new entrance at the Thief River Falls Public Library were announced at a meeting of the Thief River Falls City Council on Nov. 22. The plan received an endorsement from the council and should be supported by library patrons and citizens.

Thief River Falls Public Library is an invaluable asset to the community. It's records, data, novels, magazines and resources provide thousands of patrons every year with information and entertainment that fulfills their lives. Because it is so important and valuable, there shouldn't be any barriers to accessing the public library's resources.

The parking situation at the public library has been less than ideal for years. Currently, patrons enter the library by traveling around the building. If they travel by vehicle to the library, their either park in the adjacent parking lot or in parking lots across a busy First Street, or on Main Avenue. In our community, First Street and Main Avenue are busy thoroughfares. Parking directly in front of the library is not allowed because of the potential visual obstruction vehicles create for motorists, and potential safety hazards it would create for pedestrians crossing those busy streets. While parking is less than ideal, patrons and citizens seem to have gotten used to the situation. This situation may be acceptable to most, but it is not acceptable to individuals for whom the obstacles of distance, steps and uneven surfaces are insurmountable.

The public library is proposing to address this problem by creating a south entrance, which would be located directly adjacent to the building's parking lot. The city council's endorsement of this plan makes way for the library to apply for a $30,000 Americans with Disabilities Act grant. It also means that the city would provide matching funds, which citizens should support.

As an afterthought, the library has been struggling with space issues for several years. Creating a new entrance on the south side of the building is necessary, but it may increase pressure on space. Maybe it's time citizens and library patrons start contemplating ways of addressing the library's space needs, too.

Cell phones: need 'em, use 'em, but be wise with them

Traveling in a storm? No problem. You've got your cell phone with you.

News about last week's blizzard caught me unprepared for a story that reported that just because we have a cell phone with us does not mean that we are safe. In fact, recent news stories show us the folly of relying entirely on cell phones.

In South Dakota recently, a blizzard knocked down about thousands of power poles and cut power to 148 communities. Four or five days later, some rural communities were still without power.

A late arrival to the "modern world of electronics," I remember that I purchased my first cell phone sometime just before the blizzards of 1996-97. Shortly after that, I remember seeing stories about travelers caught in a blizzard in South Dakota who used cell phones to call for help. Great, I thought, with my cell phone I can call for help when I do something stupid - like try to drive somewhere in a blizzard - and I won't have to carry around all this winter survival gear, like extra gloves and hat, a shovel, sleeping bag, water, food, candle, flashlight, can for boiling water, candy and matches.

All may not be as wonderful as modern convenience makes it seem, though. The story that caught my attention reported that most cell towers have a battery backup that can last up to eight hours after electrical power ceases, and while many cell towers have generators to recharge batteries, eventually the fuel runs out. I don't know how I thought cell phone communications were transmitted prior to this, but without electricity, batteries or generators, a cell phone is about as useless in an emergency as a generator without fuel.

Still, I won't travel without my cell phone. It's absolutely essential. I need it for work, calling friends, annoying relatives, poor driving, and yes, even emergencies. But, these news stories have made me realize that I would be wise to pack my winter survival kit, just in case.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Please salute transplant donors and families

To the Editor:

One hundred years ago this month, the first corneal transplant was performed. Today, corneal transplant is one of the most frequently performed human transplant procedures. Men, women and children from age 9 days to more than 100 years of age have received sight thanks to the gift of eye donation and transplantation.

In 1925, Helen Keller challenged Lions International to be "knights of the blind" by supporting programs and services that would help people with vision impairments. The Lions accepted the challenge.

The Minnesota Lions Eye Bank, a nonprofit organization largely funded by Minnesota Lions and affiliated with the University of Minnesota, was the first transplant organization in Minnesota. Through the generosity of those who have said yes to donation, more than 1,000 people receive the gift of sight annually as a result of the corneal transplants performed with eye tissue received through the eye bank. Many others have had eye injuries repaired and conditions treated through vision-enhancing surgeries, research and medical education

On this 100th anniversary of the first corneal transplant, please join me in saluting the donors, donor families, healthcare professionals, hospitals, funeral directors, Minnesota state troopers and Minnesota Lions members who work together to support the mission of preventing blindness and restoring vision

Jim Strandlie
District Governor of 5M-11
Member of St. Hilaire Lions

Could Pennington County roads be any icier?

To the Editor:

One week after an ice storm and Highway 3 in Pennington County is still completely covered with ice. Cars are going 35 miles per hour and some are sliding in the ditch. The county highway department has modern facilities, newer trucks with dump boxes and sanding attachments and what appears to be enough employees. It is a fine looking highway department but it doesn't work.

When the roads get icy, everyone else puts chemicals down to melt the ice, and when it gets really cold, they use better chemicals. Pennington County just sprinkles a little sand and salt mix and prays for warm weather. We may save a few dollars in fuel and chemicals, but we are paying a very high price for the county's ineffective road maintenance: lost productivity, lost time from work because of longer commutes, general inefficiency, not to mention the cost of towing vehicles out of the ditch, fixing the damage and the increased risk of traffic accidents and personal injury.

I saw a school bus fishtail on Highway 3 and cars sliding to stop for the school bus stop arm. If there was a bad accident and someone got hurt, the cost of a few truckloads of salt wouldn't seem very expensive. I have always felt it is wiser to spend money maintaining a safe environment and preventing foreseeable accidents than paying to fix the damage later.

Today, I drove to Fergus Falls and back right through the worst areas of our recent storm. I drove west to Highway 75 and then south to avoid Pennington County roads. I found drivable roads the whole way with the exception of the few miles in Pennington County on Highway 3 that I had to drive to get out of the county. If everyone else can get the ice off the highways, why can't we?

Help us build a home for cancer patients

To the Editor:

Nearly every Minnesotan has a story to tell about how cancer has touched his or her life. In fact, about one in four state residents will themselves someday hear the words, "You have cancer."

I experienced the effect of those words when my father was diagnosed with prostate cancer. He lost his battle just a few weeks ago, following a long struggle filled with doctor's visits and treatment appointments, punctuated with fear, anger, confusion and sadness.

As the Minnesota vice president of the American Cancer Society, I knew where to turn for help, but many of us are financially and emotionally overwhelmed following a cancer diagnosis. To help ease that situation, I am asking for your help in building a Hope Lodge in the Twin Cities and doubling the size of the existing Hope Lodge in Rochester.

A Hope Lodge is a free home-away-from home for a cancer patient and an adult who need to travel long distances for treatment. They can stay at the Hope Lodge as long as necessary, free of charge, in an emotionally supportive environment.

Last May, Best Buy founder and philanthropist Richard M. Schulze announced a $7.5 million challenge grant to help build and expand our Minnesota Hope Lodges. Through Dec. 31, 2005, the Schulze Foundation will match dollar for dollar every contribution made to the American Cancer Society so that we, along with our partners, will be able to provide a home for cancer patients during their treatments.

Will you please help us build a home for cancer patients by donating to the Hope Lodge Schulze Challenge before the end of this year? We deeply appreciate the support of your community and, during this holiday season, I encourage you to help us help those who are struggling with cancer.

Tax deductible donations can be sent directly to the American Cancer Society, ATTN Hope Lodge Schulze Challenge, 2520 Pilot Knob Rd., Mendota Heights, MN 55120. If you would like more information about the Hope Lodge Schulze Challenge, please contact Director of Capital Development Tim Torgerson at 651-255-8117 or e-mail him at Tim.Torgerson@cancer.org.

As a daughter of a man who courageously battled cancer and as someone who works every day in the business of fighting cancer, I thank you for your consideration and wish you happy and healthy holidays.

Sincerely,
Maribeth Swenty,
Minnesota Vice President
American Cancer Society
Minneapolis, MN

Sailer: Budget surplus is good news, but....

Rep. Brita Sailer said recently that the November economic forecast showing the first state budget surplus since 2001 is good news for the state. However, she remains cautious about the impact of high heating and fuel costs and property tax increases on northern Minnesota.

"It's good news for the state to have the budget in the black," Sailer commented. "The state has bills to [illegible] an aid payment shift used to balance the budget in recent years. This does not constitute an increase in school funding. Instead, schools will be paid back money due from the state sooner than expected. The increased payments will begin Dec. 15, helping schools pay for high heating and transportation costs."

Sailer is concerned about the increase in local property taxes. "We got to this surplus in part by shifting [illegible] are hitting families in our area very hard. Hopefully, we'll have the opportunity next session to further restore local government aid, which should translate directly into property tax relief for homeowners."

The Department of Finance will release an updated economic forecast in February 2006. The February forecast provides the basis for budget and bonding decisions made when the 2006 Legislative Session opens in March.

Give property taxpayers a direct voice

by Rep. Philip Krinkie
District 53A

Throughout Minnesota, taxpayers are receiving bad news in their mailboxes – their annual Truth-in-Taxation notices from the counties. Many of those notices are indicating that local government spending is on the rise again.

But what is really sad about the Truth-in-Taxation notice this year is once again there is little a taxpayer can do about the proposed spending and tax increases other than to go to a public hearing and vent their displeasure.

There has to be a better way to achieve local government spending accountability. I believe there is a better way.

Last year, Gov. Tim Pawlenty proposed and I authored and passed through the Minnesota House of Representatives the "Taxpayer Satisfaction Survey." This legislation would have given taxpayers better information about local expenditures and would also have allowed taxpayers direct input on local tax decisions.

Simply put, the notice would have had a form at the bottom to mail back to the county, and the taxpayer would simply answer whether they approved or disapproved of the proposed spending and tax increases. If 20 percent of the taxpayers disapproved of the tax increase proposed by their city or county, the increase could not go into effect without a local referendum.

> There has to be a better way to achieve local government spending accountability.

Wow, imagine direct citizen input on property taxes – what a novel idea!

But local government officials fought this legislation tooth and nail. The last thing they want is to empower local taxpayers.

The DFL-controlled Senate also refused to embrace direct input from the citizens. But, of course, this is the same group that wanted to give Minnesota the highest income tax rate in the nation. For these reasons, this idea never became law and therefore citizens don't have a direct voice on property tax increases.

It makes one ponder what were they afraid of, and why did they fight this proposal so strenuously?

Maybe it was because given the most recent tax increases proposed by cities and counties, they knew that having the Taxpayer Satisfaction Survey (TSS) in place would hinder their plans to raise homeowners' property taxes.

Some of these increases are significant – 16.5 percent, or over $1.4 million, more for Hastings; more than a 30 percent increase, or $415,000 more, for St. Peter; and more than $15 million more in levy for Minneapolis even though it just received $16 million in additional aid from the state!

All told, the Department of Revenue projects property taxes will go up over 10 percent on a statewide basis. And these proposed increases are often on top of additional funds appropriated by the state in the 2005 special session.

So maybe local governments fought the TSS because they didn't want to give the taxpayer more input into local tax and spending decisions. Maybe they didn't want to be accountable to the citizens. And maybe they knew that despite their bureaucratic rhetoric and calls for "investing" more in the community that the taxpayers would object. And maybe the local governments knew that while the public meetings they are required to hold would really only amount to a small bump in the road to higher taxes.

Nevertheless, I urge every citizen who is concerned about the proposed tax increases to go to their Truth-in-Taxation hearings to tell their local officials what they think. I also urge anyone who attends those meetings to demand that their local officials support the TSS.

If we can enact TSS legislation in the 2006 session, I know homeowners won't see the same [illegible]

LEGALS

REGULAR BOARD MEETING
October 24, 2005
6:30 p.m.
S.D.S.C. Conference Room A

A regular meeting of the Independent School District #564 School Board was held on Monday, October 24, 2005, in Conference Room A of the School District Service Center. Chairperson S. Young called the meeting to order at 6:30p.m.

The following Board members were present: Steve Young, Randy Twistol, Mike Spears, Barb Kalinoski, Troy Bates, Jon Lindgren and Jenni Eriksen-Lane. Also in attendance was Superintendent Irv Peterson. Clerk B. Kalinoski affirmed that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by M. Spears and seconded by B. Kalinoski to approve the agenda as amended. Motion carried unanimously.

Jim Sims has been named the 2005-2006 Region 8AA Athletic/Activities Director of the Year. He now becomes a finalist for the state award.

The Girls Swim Team won the Section 8A True Team Swim meet in Warroad. They now enter the State True Team meet on October 21 & 22.

The TRF School District was named a winning school in the second annual Midwest Living magazine Champions in Education contest, receiving a second place prize. The Education Foundation received a check for $250.00 for the "Turning Trash into Cash" recycling project.

A very generous donation $1,500 was given to the FMS 7th grade basketball program for uniforms and equipment. FMS also received $3,000 to purchase 2 mobile hearing units for classrooms.

Tom Hunt, Scott Brekke and Bill Stock presented a LHS update. November 10th is the end of the first quarter of school. There will be a Veterans Day program taking place on November 10th. Enrollment has remained stable and should remain that way for the next 2-3 years. Tom reviewed class sizes at Lincoln. The main goal this year is READING, with emphasis on reading in the content area. The LINKS team has developed an action plan for the school using the LEARN process. They will work towards having 50% of all students meeting their target growth on the NWEA reading test. Tom, Scott and Bill have recently attended the High School Re-Invention Symposium in Washington D.C.

Irv Peterson reviewed upcoming meetings for the board and Booster Club resolutions on the agenda. Irv and several staff members will be attending the MREA Conference in Alexandria this week.

Board Topic: The board will do some research on findings about educating students/future parents about the importance of reading. Invite early childhood, preschool teachers, and home visitation representative to discuss the topic with the board. Research information related to student achievement and parental involvement which indicate outcomes in student learning. District needs to promote contact with teachers other than just the homeroom teacher. Parents need to visit with teachers in all subject areas.

Tax Abatement: Board discussed their views related to the City proposed tax abatement issue. Harry reviewed the City's proposal. Harry will do some further research for next meeting.

A motion was made by B. Kalinoski and seconded by J. Lindgren to approve the Minutes of the October 10th regular Board Meeting as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

EDWARD JONES RANKED NO.1 IN *SMARTMONEY

SmartMoney magazine has named Edward Jones the No. 1 full-service broker in its annual brokerage survey. Edward Jones placed ahead of seven other firms and received the highest rankings in all four categories surveyed by the magazine: stock picking, customer satisfaction, trust and customer statements. The ranking was reported in the magazine's August 2005 issue. Thanks to you, our clients and friends, for helping us achieve this accomplishment.

Fair Association ends fiscal year with a positive balance

by David Hill
Editor

Pennington County Fair Association ended its fiscal year with a cash balance of over $47,000.

The Fair Association recently released its financial statement for the year ending Sept. 30. The report stated that receipts for the year exceeded total expenditures by $47,602.92. Its schedule of actual cash receipts and expenditures show receipts ending at $316,348.85, and expenditures at $319,105.50 for the fiscal year. The 2004 report showed that it ended the year with a cash balance of $50,359.57. The board has approved its 2006 budget, a flexible guideline for the Association, conservatively anticipates that it will end the year with a cash balance of $36,149.

The motocross and teen dance ended the fiscal year on a positive note. Receipts for the event totaled $6,284.40, and expenditures $4,510.61. Receipts and expenditures for these events last year were slightly higher.

The schedule of actual cash receipts and expenditures for bingo indicates that it too ended on a pos*itive note with receipts exceeding* expenditures by $2,093.69. Total receipts were $28,944.55, and expenditures, $26,850.86. The Fair Association is anticipating that bingo will perform in a similar fashion next year. Last year, bingo ended the fiscal year with a balance of $2,576.07.

The pedal pull, petting zoo, team penning and horse show took in total receipts of $1,540. Expenditures amounted to $1,252.20, which means the event ended the fiscal year with a balance of $287.80. Last year, the events ended with a balance of $455.70. The Fair Association is anticipating that the event will perform in a similar fashion next year.

The raffle continues to perform well for the fair association. The amount of cash the raffle pulls in for

Automation and Motion

LHS is one of six MN schools offering automation class

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Lincoln High School is one of six Minnesota high schools that is participating in a grant-funded automation and motion control program. LHS began offering an industrial technology course in automation and motion control just three weeks ago.

Essentially, the automation and motion control class teaches students the use of ladder logic to program machine automation. The class will also cover basic electronics and pneumatics in the relation to motion control. That knowledge can be used for projects ranging from programming simple garage doors to mass production on assembly lines.

Alexandria Technical College (ATC) has been at the heart of the automation and motion control industry for the past 15 years. In 2003, in an effort to bring more motion control training to the state of Minnesota, Alexandria Technical College wrote a $207,536 automation and motion control grant that was approved and funded by the Society of Manufacturing Engineers. The only SME stipulation was that grant money was to be used for both high school and collegiate programs.

To receive grant money, each participating college would be required to partner with a high school. Lincoln High School is partnered with Northland Community and Technical College's custom training program. They were one of six Minnesota partnerships selected to participate in the grant program.

Of the six high schools, that include: LHS, Bemidji, Willmar, Alexandria, St. Cloud and Owatonna, LHS is the only one to offer automation and motion control as a stand alone class. All of the other fore mentioned high schools are offering new training as part of an other industrial technology program.

Once enrolled in the program, LHS and NCTC custom training received $35,000 worth of materials, including computers, simulation software and one-fifth scale training modules that can be programmed to

Developing Ties with China

Agriculture at work in China

Ken Asp of TRF travels to China with delegation from Minnesota

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Agriculture is as ingrained in Minnesota as it is in China. One Thief River Falls resident recently traveled overseas to see how agriculture works in China.

Ken Asp went on his first trip overseas – to China – from Nov. 8 to 18. As the vice chairperson of the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion Council, he applied and was accepted to join Gov. Tim Pawlenty's trade mission to that country. Asp explained that the mission of his trip was to gather information, understand the current wheat market, expand it and find opportunities to promote wheat.

"[The Chinese have] got a positive attitude, and they're looking to do business," Asp said.

Asp was among 217 Minnesota residents who went on the trade mission. They were grouped into six delegations, and Asp was among about 40 people in the food, agriculture and renewable energy delegation.

With some members of his delegation, Asp toured what was described as the world's largest ethanol plant in Jilin City. In Changchun, which Asp called the heart of corn country, they observed farms and a government grain storage facility.

"It's a very unmechanized agricultural area – pretty much everything is done by hand," Asp said about China.

While traveling to Changchun, Asp was also able to witness people traveling in everything from oxcarts to semi trucks on the same stretch of roadway. "It's like a mangled mess," said Asp, who noted if someone saw an open slot, the person drove into it. Yet, he didn't witness any road rage.

Besides spending time in Changchun, Asp's delegation spent time in Shangai. The group toured a plant where soybeans are crushed and observed soybeans being unloaded from a ship, crushed, and later loaded onto trucks and barges.

"We could've developed machines to eliminate 50 people," said Asp, referring to the number of people working at that company.

Asp's delegation also attended the World Biofuels Symposium, which was held in Beijing. With mostly a Minnesota effort, the U.S. is second only to Brazil when it comes to the production of biofuels, Asp said.

The trip was also a time for Asp to get reacquainted with representatives from a private Chinese company. They met in September when the representatives were on a trade mission to the U.S. and visited the Twin Cities. Asp was among several people, who hosted the representatives. He met with them and grain traders from Cargill and CHS. At that time, the Chinese company representatives were exploring whether

Santa Lucia Festival

The Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society Santa Lucia Festival was held Saturday, Dec. 10, at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. The Santa Lucia tradition can be traced to St. Lucia of Syracuse, Sicily. Saint Lucia became a martyr for her Christian beliefs in 304 A.D. The tradition moved to Sweden. The first recorded appearance of a white-clad Lucia in Sweden was in a country house in 1764, and the Lussegubber custom became popular in the 20th century. In Thief River Falls Saturday, Heather Keogh (right) represented Santa Lucia. Suzanne Rosencrans (left) was her attendant.

TRF Sno-X race set for Jan. 28, 29

The Dayco/Commercial Sewing Sno-X snowmobile race, sponsored by the Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters, will be Jan. 28 and 29 at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls. The race, sanctioned by the Minnesota North Snocross Racing Association, will feature two days of Snocross racing by some of the best Snocross racers in the Midwest and Canada.

Major sponsors of the 2006 race are: Dayco, Inc., manufacturer of drive belts for snowmobiles and accessory belts for automobiles; Commercial Sewing, manufacturer of recreational vehicle covers; and Arctic Cat, manufacturer of snowmobiles and ATVs.

Salvation Army Moves

Jan Cullen (left) and Dorothy Wayne were among the Salvation Army volunteers collecting donations Monday at SuperOne, Thief River Falls. The local chapter of the Salvation Army announced last week that due to a change in Kmart policy, the red kettle fund drive would be moved from Kmart to SuperOne where volunteers can collect donations from shoppers inside the store.

Three TRF men face felony theft charges for stealing newspaper vending machines

Felony theft: After an investigation into reports of thefts of newspaper vending machines, three people have been charged. Matthew George Lalonde, 19, Thief River Falls; Parker Alan Comstock, 19, Thief River Falls; and Jared Donald Barron, 18, Thief River Falls, have been charged with felony theft. Total restitution in the amount of $2,675 has been requested. From Oct. 21 through Dec. 1, they allegedly stole a total of seven newspaper vending machines in the city of Thief River Falls. Those machines included four Grand Forks, N.D., Herald machines, two Minneapolis Star Tribune machines and one Thief River Falls Times machine. (One of those Herald machines was reported stolen from outside of the Dollar Store at the same time of a report of a burglary at the store. The three men have been charged in connection with that burglary, which is also noted in this edition of The Times.) Lalonde, Comstock and Barron allegedly forcibly removed the coin boxes from the machines and dumped the machines near county roads. Two of the Herald machines, one Star Tribune machine and the Times machine were recovered.

Second degree burglary and third degree burglary: After an investigation into a Dec. 1 report of a burglary at the Dollar Store, three people have been charged. Matthew George Lalonde, 19, Thief River Falls; Parker Alan Comstock, 19, Thief River Falls; and Jared Donald Barron, 18, Thief River Falls, have all been charged with second degree burglary and third degree burglary. They allegedly stole $271 in cash from cash register drawers, according to the criminal complaint. The men also allegedly possessed a crowbar and used it to gain access to the store. The police report indicated glass had been broken out of the front door and damage was estimated at $600.

Fifth degree possession of methamphetamine, third degree driving under the influence of a controlled substance, furnishing alcohol to a minor, underage consumption and warrant apprehension: On Dec. 6 at 5:35 p.m., the Thief River Falls Police Department, Pennington County Sheriff's Department and Red Lake County Sheriff's Department executed a search warrant in the 100 block of Kinney Ave. S. At that residence, drug paraphernalia was allegedly found with trace amounts of purported methamphetamine. Law enforcement also allegedly found drug paraphernalia for marijuana. After apprehending two people at the residence, law enforcement determined that another man was on his way to the residence. Randy Ray Bunker a.k.a. Randy Ray Erickson, 40, Thief River Falls, allegedly arrived at the residence, throwing a marijuana pipe and a small amount of marijuana in the yard. Bunker and Amy Marie Reierson, 26, Thief River Falls, have charges pending for fifth degree possession of meth. Bunker also has charges pending for third degree driving under the influence of a controlled substance, and furnishing alcohol to a minor. Bethany Lee Kozel, 20, East Grand Forks, was cited for underage consumption. Scott Wayne Srnsky, 31, Bismarck, N.D., was apprehended on a Sherburne County warrant for allegedly failing to appear for a Rule 8 hearing.

Second degree burglary: Corey John Benoit, 22, unknown address, has been charged with second degree burglary. On Nov. 17, Benoit was allegedly videotaped as he entered a home in the 15000 block of Hwy. 32 N.E. and stole $25 or $26 in cash. The video camera was installed at the home after 100 CDs were taken from the home and reported stolen Nov. 2, according to the criminal complaint.

The items, which are valued at $14.20, were recovered and sellable.

Accident: On Dec. 6 at 8:08 a.m., the sheriff's department received a report of an accident near the intersection of 150th Street Northeast and 150th Avenue Northeast. A 1991 Buick Park Avenue driven by Audrey Mae Halvorson of Thief River Falls and a 2001 Chevy Venture driven by Melissa Joy Bushy of Thief River Falls collided. At the time of the accident, Halvorson was eastbound on 150th Street Northeast, and Bushy was westbound. According to the report, Halvorson lost control of her vehicle on the icy roadway. Her vehicle then crossed the centerline, hitting Bushy's vehicle, which then went into the north ditch. Both vehicles sustained $1,500 in damage.

Burglary: On Dec. 6 at 12:17 p.m., the sheriff's department received a report of a burglary in the 13000 block of 140th St. N.E. Bottles of four prescription drugs, most half full at the time, were stolen along with jewelry, some starter checks, a DVD and some jars of change. The theft loss is estimated at $300. The incident remains under investigation.

Accident: On Dec. 6 at 12:38 p.m., police received a report of an accident in the 700 block of First St. E. A 2003 Ford Focus driven by William Leo Hawkyard of Thief River Falls collided with a parked 2001 Volvo semi owned by U.S. Food Service Inc. of Roseville. According to the report, the semi was parked with its four-way flashers in operation and was halfway in the eastbound driving lane. Hawkyard's eastbound vehicle then struck the parked semi after the vehicle slid on the icy roadway. Hawkyard's vehicle sustained $3,000 in damage. The semi didn't sustain any damage.

Hit and run accident: On Dec. 7 at 7 a.m., police received a report of a hit and run accident in the Best Western parking lot. An unknown driver struck a parked 1987 Ford van owned by 1st Mechanical Construction of Crookston, causing the van to collide with another vehicle, a parked 1997 Chevy Blazer, also owned by 1st Mechanical. The van sustained $500 in damage, and the Blazer sustained $200 in damage. The incident remains under investigation.

Theft and possession of stolen property: On Dec. 7, police received a report of a theft from a Lincoln High School locker. Lotion, a two-stringed necklace, perfume, and black and pink tennis shoes were reported stolen. The items are valued at $130. After an investigation, a 15-year-old Thief River Falls female has charges pending for possession of stolen property after it was found that she allegedly had the necklace in her possession.

Accident: On Dec. 7 at 9:25 a.m., the sheriff's department received a report of an accident along Center Street, one-fourth of a mile west of 115th Avenue Northeast. At the time of the accident, Timothy Joe Beaton of Forest River, N.D., was driving a 2000 Ford van eastbound on Center Street. According to the report, he lost control of the vehicle on the icy roadway. The van then rolled into the north ditch. Beaton's vehicle sustained $1,200 in damage.

Don't spike the egg nog: State Patrol to target impaired drivers

Minnesota State Patrol troopers will patrol over the river and through the woods during a stepped-up impaired driving enforcement effort Dec. 16 through 31.

The Minnesota Department of Public Safety (DPS) Office of Traffic Safety will coordinate the Safe & Sober effort that will include participation from 300 city and county law enforcement agencies, including the Thief River Falls Police Department, Pennington County Sheriff's Department and State Patrol. In September, a similar statewide campaign racked up more than 2,000 driving while intoxicated (DWI) charges.

The base cost of a DWI is typically around $1,000, but can increase depending on a variety of factors. When including towing, court costs, reinstatement fees, insurance rates and other costs, a DWI can cost as much as $19,000, according to the police department.

"The bottom line is red-nosed drivers will be blitzed by our troopers," said Capt. Dick Wittenberg of the State Patrol office in Thief River Falls. "We will be gift wrapping safe roads in DWIs this holiday season."

Historically, the holiday season is one of the deadliest periods on Minnesota roads. Last year in Minnesota, there were 12 traffic deaths and more than 600 injured during the Christmas and New Year's holiday weekends.

Statewide in 2004, there were 177 alcohol-related traffic deaths – the lowest number of impaired driving deaths ever recorded in Minnesota. DPS officials attribute the drastic decline in deaths in stepped-up enforcement efforts, new legislation and public education.

In August, the state's legal alcohol-concentration level lowered to 0.08. The State Patrol urges everyone to be aware of the amount of alcohol that one can consume before becoming impaired. The impact of alcohol is determined by a number of factors: gender, weight, food consumed prior to drinking and pace of drinking. The State Patrol said that motorists can be arrested for DWI even below 0.08.

"If law enforcement officers can determine alcohol or drugs caused you to make driving errors – no matter what the alcohol-concentration level – you can be arrested," Wittenberg said.

The Safe & Sober campaign is funded by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The program is designed to reduce traffic-related fatalities and serious injuries.

HEAT stops 21,000 vehicles; 8,000 speed citations issued

In the first two months of Highway Enforcement of Aggressive Traffic (HEAT), participating law enforcement agencies across the state stopped nearly 21,000 vehicles and issued a total of 11,098 traffic citations – 7,952 for illegal or unsafe speed. In addition, there were 11,536 warnings issued to vehicle operators for speed.

There were significant drops in high speeds on roads that had speed limits which increased from 55 to 60 miles per hour, according to the Minnesota Department of Public Safety. Speed data was collected by Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) automatic traffic records (ATR) for a seven-day period before and after enhanced enforcement.

In greater Minnesota, data collected on Highways 2 and 71 shows the number of drivers traveling more than 70 miles-per-hour dropped nearly 37 percent. In the metro area, the number of drivers traveling more than 70 miles-per-hour dropped 25 percent based on a data sampling of 4.3 million vehicles on Highway 100, I-94 and I-35 West. Mn/DOT officials plan to collect ATR data at more sites and with greater vehicle samples throughout the year.

HEAT, a yearlong $2.5 million federally-funded enforcement program, is supported by nearly 1,400 hours of additional weekly traffic enforcement by the Minnesota State Patrol, county sheriffs' offices and local police departments.

In addition to speed citations, motorists were ticketed for violations including driving while intoxicated, vehicle forfeiture, seat belts and child restraints, open bottle, underage consumption, no insurance, weapons and warrants.

"Traffic enforcement is law enforcement," said Col. Mark Dunaski, chief of the State Patrol. "While this effort focuses on speeding, our collective effort with many local agencies positively impacts the overall safety of all Minnesota motorists and citizens."

Increased enforcement has helped reduce the number of the most egregious speeders, those going more than 70 miles per hour, noted Bernie Arseneau, director of Mn/DOT's Office of Traffic, Safety and Operations. "Reining in that upper tier of speeders reduces the spread of travel speed and produces a safer flow of traffic. We believe continued enforcement will further reduce travel speed disparity."

The number of vehicle stops and speeding violations in the Twin Cities metro area were 6,617 and 3,852, respectively. Stops and speed violations for the rest of the state were reported by coordinating State Patrol districts: Thief River Falls (838 and 137); Brainerd (1,450 and 253); Detroit Lakes (1,234 and 359); Duluth (1,306 and 357); Mankato (1,056 and 466); Marshall (2,466 and 562); Rochester (2,798 and 929); St. Cloud (2,039 and 750) and Virginia (1,042 and 287).

Preliminary figures show 509 traffic fatalities to date in 2005 are nearly even with the 508 fatalities at this time last year. Earlier this year, the increase in fatalities had been as high as nearly 20 percent.

In the five-year period 2000 to 2004, more than 3,000 people were killed in traffic crashes on Minnesota roads; speeding was a factor in 864 of those deaths. Twice as many speed-related fatal crashes occurred in rural areas than in urban areas.

The following is an excerpt of an article from the Nov. 17 edition of the Augusta, Wis., Area Times. The article was written by Sarah Kiefer. Judy Lane is the daughter of Alfred (Bernie) and Vi Weigel of Thief River Falls.

The Augusta community gathered Nov. 11 at the newly constructed Veterans Memorial Park during its dedication ceremony.

Augusta resident Judy Lane received the folded American flag after Augusta American Legion Auxiliary Post member Carol Peuse read the "13 Folds of the Flag."

Lane said she was "ready to cry" when Post 291's Merlin Moore asked her to stand and receive the flag as a military-family representative.

Lane's eldest son, Allen, serves in the National Guard, and she expressed her pride that one of the flagpoles was dedicated to that branch of service. Allen Lane's grandfather, Alfred (Bernie) Weigel of Thief River Falls, is a World War II veteran.

"He got home on my first birthday," Judy Lane recalled of her father's return home.

Reiterating her honor, Judy Lane acknowledged the families whom she doesn't know, whose children gave the ultimate sacrifice and died for the freedoms that Americans can neither forget, nor take for granted.

NCTC to offer ACSM certifications

Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) in Thief River Falls has partnered with Pearson VUE to offer the American College of Sports Medicine (ACSM) certifications for certified personal trainer and registered clinical exercise physiologist.

"The ACSM certification program will fit well with the existing health and fitness specialist program offered at NCTC," said Anita Lizakowski, NCTC athletic trainer and Health and Fitness Program Director. "The diploma program and Associate of Science degree in health and fitness is designed to prepare students for the ACSM's certification exams." Students can also obtain an Associate of Arts degree in health and fitness, which is designed to prepare students for transfer to a bachelor's degree in exercise science at a four-year university.

For more information about the ACSM certifications and how to register, contact Jennifer Sundberg, testing center coordinator, at (218) 683-7056 or visit www.northlandcollege.edu/business_industry.

NW Senior Federation holds Medicare Part "D" informational meeting

The Northwest Senior Federation of Thief River Falls held a Medicare Part "D" meeting at the Heritage Community Center on Dec. 2. There was great interest in this new Medicare Prescription that is to be added in January 2006.

Dennis Gerhardstein and Lee Graczyk came from the Minnesota Senior Federation in St. Paul. Before approximately 125 people, Graczyk gave a PowerPoint presentation.

During the question and answer session following the presentation, Gerhardstein was able to answer all of the questions.

Some of the questions were "what is a credible prescription coverage?" "What if I am covered by a union now?" What if I am now covered by my employer?" "My husband had insurance and passed away, does the wife still have coverage?" Graczyk said, "Yes, as long as he covered his wife under this policy."

All the others were to consider joining one of the Medicare Programs as a safety factor even to start at the lowest quote of $1.84, just not to be caught in the 1 percentage and added to the benefit for the rest of one's life.

Graczyk asked participants to be alert for scams. One scam asks for $35 to be sent to a post office box. Of course, the money and the persons are gone, when participants go looking for them.

Gerhardstein handed out a magazine by the Minnesota Senior Federation which lists programs and cost $4. But, if the customer purchases a Northwest Senior Federation membership for $11, it was included in the package. New members will also receive the Minnesota Senior Newspaper for one year. Gerhardstein made a point that all the information pertaining to the Part "D" program would be in the newspaper.

Nancy Tofte (center) was one of two northwest Minnesota residents who recently received Community Builder Awards from the Northwest Minnesota Women's Fund. Tofte was honored at a reception Nov. 18 at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls. Her women friends and daughter also honored her in recognition of her work, friendship, faith and dedication to her family and community. Those women included (from left) Lindsay Ray, Carol Ihle, Darla Twomey, Sharon Delmore, Deb Winjum, Cheryl Lee, (Tofte's daughter) Heidi Bergland, Val Heyn, Gretchen Blount, Barb Jauquet-Kalinoski and Ruth Tweet. ## Tofte receives Community Builder Award

The Northwest Minnesota Women's Fund (NMWF) recently announced the recipients of the regional Community Builder awards: Nancy Tofte of Thief River Falls and Laurie York of Waubun. People residing in the region nominated these women because of the impact of their lives and significant differences they have made in improving their communities as volunteers, mentors, in their chosen professions, and raising or supporting families.

The Advisory Committee of the NMWF hosted a wine and cheese reception Nov. 18 for Tofte at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls. Nearly 100 guests attended the gathering. York was honored at a separate function in her hometown.

Ruth Tweet, who nominated Tofte for the Community Builder Award, arranged for a group of Tofte's women friends, including Tofte's daughter, Heidi Bergland, to join her in a tribute in recognition of Tofte's work, friendship, faith and dedication to her family and community.

Tofte was born and raised in Duluth. She graduated from Duluth East High School and the University of Minnesota, Duluth with a degree in home economics. She has repeatedly educated herself in the jobs she has done and through continuing courses. She is currently enrolled in the Educational Leadership Master's Program at the University of Minnesota, Mankato.

For more than 35 years, she has lived in Thief River Falls, where she and her husband, John, raised two children, Heidi and Aaron. They now have three grandchildren.

Involvement in the community has been a large interest in Nancy's life. She is a member and has held offices in the American Association of University Women, the General Federation of Women's Clubs – Zehlian Branch, and Delta Kappa Gamma. She is the first woman to be elected to the Rocksbury Township Board and is a founder of the NMWF.

Tofte is also involved in a Home Extension Group, and is a member of the Minnesota Extension Advisory Committee and the Thief River Falls Quilter's Guild. She serves on the Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) Custom Training and Continuing Education Advisory Committee. She is also an active member of St. Bernard's Catholic Church, where she has served in many capacities.

Tofte has been employed as the community education director in Thief River Falls since 1998. Under her leadership, projects and programs have been made possible, including a BMX/skateboard park, a thriving Little Brother – Little Sister program, an after-school program for elementary to middle school kids, and a support and educational program for pregnant teens. Tofte either found the funds or linked volunteers from community organizations to create opportunities.

Previously, as a small business instructor at NCTC, she taught and mentored business owners, assisting them with business plans, proper accounting strategies, tax requirements, marketing and customer relations.

According to Barbara Jauquet-Kalinoski, Tofte's friend and colleague, Tofte doesn't just work to make a living; she works to help make the community a better place to live. "Nancy deeply cares about the people she works with, no matter what their background or circumstances," said Jauquet-Kalinoski. "She can speak to anyone about anything, making people feel important and special. She moves other people to action by sharing her passion for a project with everyone she meets."

Tofte is the 19th Community Builder recognized by the NMWF for helping the region be a place where women and girls share and use their personal strengths, talents and resources; where they are motivated, encouraged and welcomed to utilize their leadership abilities in home, school, work and community.

Genereux and Helling named Student Rotarians

The Thief River Falls Rotary Club has named Lucas Genereux and Allyson Helling as its Student Rotarians for the month of December.

Lucas Genereux

Lucas Genereux

Lucas Genereux, a Lincoln High School (LHS) senior, is the son of Kermit and Peggy Genereux, and brother of Kyla, 20. His school activities include National Honor Society, Student Senate, Investment Club, band, hockey, football and baseball.

Genereux's hobbies and interests include hunting, fishing, snowmobiling and all kinds of sports. His future plans are to attend college, possibly at Concordia College, the University of Minnesota – Morris, or the U of M – Duluth to become a physician's assistant.

Allyson Helling

Allyson Helling

Allyson Helling, an LHS senior, is the daughter of Ron and Marcy Helling, and sister of Ross, 18; and Reed, 12. Her school activities include swimming, basketball, softball, concert choir and Project 4 Teens. She serves as the vice president of Student Senate, president of National Honor Society and president of the senior class.

Helling teaches Vacation Bible School and sings in a praise and worship quartet. She volunteers at Challenger Elementary School and donates blood. Her hobbies and interests include spending time with family and friends; hunting; working; and teaching swimming lessons.

Helling plans to attend a four-year college, possibly the University of North Dakota, with a major in either elementary education or nursing. She also plans to swim or play softball on the collegiate level.

DAV and Auxiliary celebrate Christmas

The Crookston Chapter of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) and Auxiliary were honored to have Greg Remus, DAV national service officer from the Veterans' Administration Regional Office in Fargo, N.D., as a special guest and speaker at the annual Christmas party held on Sunday, Dec. 4, at the Crookston American Legion. Also special guests, Sandra Butler, state DAV Auxiliary commander, Department of Minnesota, from Bemidji and her husband, Ronald Butler, first junior vice commander, Department of Minnesota, brought greetings from the Department of Minnesota and spoke briefly on veterans issues and building better lives for America's disabled veterans and their families.

A social hour was held from 3 to 5 p.m., followed by a Swiss steak dinner. Jim Sheridan, commander of the Crookston chapter, welcomed the members, spouses and guests. The invocation was given by Chapter Adjutant Don Mulvaney. Everyone introduced themselves, their spouses and guests.

Winners of the door prizes, which consisted of poinsettia plants, were Debby Daniels, Arvid Thompson, DeLaine Welsh, East Grand Forks; Cathy Bolstad, Fertile; Ray Benoit, Gentilly; Nina Bakke, and Alvis Wieland, Red Lake Falls; Frances Johnson, Duane Olson, Thief River Falls. Crookston winners were Kevin Boyle, Robert Dirks, Betty Gulsvig, Lyla Johnson, Jean LaJesse, Leo Luettjohann, Dennis Magsam, Jerold Munson, Karen Raymond, Norma Ross, JuaNita Samuelson, Bernice Sannes and Jim Sheridan.

Winners of the raffle drawings were Larry Matcha, East Grand Forks; John Merkins, Ada; and Kevin Boyle, Crookston.

Auxiliary members brought their favorite Christmas treats to share for dessert.

Out-of-town members and guests attending the party were Greg Remus, Fargo, N.D.; Ronald and Sandra Butler, Bemidji; Ray and Florence Benoit, Gentilly; Keith and Cathy Bolstad, Fertile; Arvid and Loryce Thompson, Larry Matcha, Delaine Welsch, Debby Daniels, East Grand Forks; Duane Olson, Orville and Fran Skadsem, Dan and Zoe Helle, Alice Thune, Floyd and Frances Johnson, Arnold and Eunice Wiskow, Thief River Falls; and Alvis Wieland, Gladyce Huot, Harvey and Nina Bakke, Red Lake Falls.

The Crookston Chapter 14 of DAV and Auxiliary will meet again on March 20, 2006 at the Northland Inn in Crookston for a 9 a.m. breakfast meeting. The DAV Auxiliary will have an election of officers.

RiverView Health to hold annual meeting Jan. 23

RiverView Health is holding its 2006 annual meeting on Jan. 23, at Crookston's Northland Inn, beginning with social time at 6 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m. The business meeting and program will follow dinner.

The focus of this year's event is the many new local services and programs that have been added since the construction of RiverView Health's expanded campus. The keynote speaker, president and C.E.O. of RiverView Health, Debra K. Boardman, will address the commitment RiverView has made to providing and expanding local services and describe the new services and programs being considered for future growth.

Oakland Park Nursing Home Board to meet

The Oakland Park Nursing Home Executive Board will meet Thursday, Dec. 15, at 9 a.m. at the nursing home.

On Sunday, Dec. 18, at 10:30 am, New Life Family Worship Center will be having a special installation service for its new pastor, Joe Karow, and his family. The service will be conducted by Assemblies of God Minnesota District Superintendent Clarence St. John. Joe and Angie Karow have moved to Thief River Falls from Staples, where they served at the Assembly of God Church for five years as the associate/youth pastor. They have four children ranging between the ages of 4 and 11 years old. Everyone is invited to attend the special service which will be followed by a fellowship luncheon at the church. As part of the Muffins with Moms program, School District 564 Superintendent Irv Peterson read the book "If You Give a Moose a Muffin" to preschool youngsters and parents at the Evergreen Eating Emporium. (Submitted photo)

Groups hold successful Muffins with Moms program

Muffins with Moms, a collaboration between Thief River Falls Public Library, Challenger Preschool and Head Start began in September, and it was reportedly a success. Forty people signed up, and more than 30 came to the kick-off event held Oct. 4 at Challenger Preschool, where the kids and moms made muffins in a jar, then loaded on a bus and went to the Thief River Falls Public Library.

At the library, they learned more about the program and received free books, including the book, "If You Give a Moose a Muffin."

The final program was held the first Saturday in November at the Evergreen Eating Emporium. The kids made antlers from their hands and then sat down with their moms and enjoyed muffins, coffee and hot chocolate. Their special guest was Irv Peterson who read the book, "If You Give a Moose a Muffin," while Heidi Timm and Joyce Froschheiser acted out parts from the book. Everyone went home with antlers and another free book called "On Mother's Lap."

Northwestern College Piano Tour visits TRF

The annual Northwestern College Piano Tour is coming to Thief River Falls, on Jan. 6 and 7. Eight Northwestern students will perform a variety of classical pieces.

The students have been studying with Northwestern College piano faculty members Dr. Richard Lange, leader of keyboard studies, and Dr. Barbara Rogers. They will both be traveling with the students on tour and will welcome the opportunity to meet prospective students and their current teachers after the concert.

One of the eight students, Luke Norell, won the state division collegiate piano level of the Music Teacher's National Association (MTNA) competition held in October. Norell will compete at the regional level in Omaha, Neb. in mid-January. On the tour, he will play three pieces, including a "Scarlatti Sonata," with which he won the state competition.

"Our piano program is the strongest it has ever been," said Lange. "Seeing these students practice so hard and perform so well to glorify God is immensely rewarding."

The 2006 Piano Tour will travel to six cities across central and northern Minnesota.

The concert in Thief River Falls will be held at Café Rhombus on Jan. 6 at 6 p.m. For more information, call 218-681-5678. The second concert will be held at Valley Home on Jan. 7 at 1:30 p.m. For more information about this concert, call 218-681-3286. Both concerts are free and open to the public.

WAO children plan benefit for Warren mayor

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo (WAO) Class of 2010 will conduct a fundraising bake sale and dinner for Dick Nelson on Dec. 19.

The spaghetti dinner for Nelson will be conducted from 5 to 8 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 19 at WAO high school cafeteria. A freewill offering will be accepted. On-site takeouts will be available.

Nelson is the third father of children in the Class of 2010 affected by a diagnosis of cancer. Nelson is also the mayor of Warren.

The community bake sale, organized by the WAO fifth grade class, will also take place on Monday beginning at 4 p.m.

Donations for Nelson will be accepted through Jan. 9, 2006, at Bremer Bank. Donations should be sent to: Attention Julie Nowacki, P.O. Box 85, Warren, MN 56762. Checks should be made payable to the "Class of 2010 Benefit."

The class has applied to Marshall County Thrivent Financial for Lutherans for supplemental funding for this benefit effort.

Unbelted motorists receive season's greetings from state troopers

Statewide, troopers can scratch off 627 unbelted motorists from their holiday shopping list – they gave those motorists seat belt citations during a statewide enforcement campaign Nov. 21-27.

The Minnesota Department of Public Safety Office of Traffic Safety coordinated the Safe & Sober Thanksgiving effort to increase seat belt use. Last year, the Thanksgiving holiday weekend was one of the deadliest travel periods of the year in Minnesota – 13 motorists were killed.

Capt. Dick Wittenberg said a common misconception with seat belt use is that unbelted motorists only hurt themselves. In fact, unbelted occupants often slam into other occupants during a crash, causing serious injury or death – and everyone pays for the costs associated with injured motorists.

"It's the time of year not to be selfish," said Wittenberg. "We should take that spirit to the roads – buckle up and drive with others in mind."

Statewide in 2004, more than half of the 461 vehicle occupants killed were not belted.

As a Safe & Sober grantee, the State Patrol will participate in multiple enforcement campaigns throughout 2006, with an emphasis on seat belts, speeding and impaired driving.

Moved (to another park bench) by Nature

Some people wonder where writers get their inspiration. Because of clever ploys to evade the grasp of writer's-block, students in the Literary Arts program never have to worry about running out of ideas for material (at least while they're in class). One of the tactics we employed this fall was to change our setting and write for the rest of the class period. Since the weather was pleasant, we decided to go to a park.

My mind said that the out-of-doors setting was beautiful, and it even wanted to thank Mrs. Stock for freeing us from the walls, fake lighting, and the sense of time that the school binds us to, but my body hated what it was being forced to endure.

In a corner of the park, some trees framed a quiet clearing where one may sit and watch the river as it burbles over pointed rocks. My eyes dropped to the shore where near-stagnant water pushed from the river wet the earth, and a gold foil Twix wrapper lay embedded in the mud. By the time I realized that my feet had been sinking deeper into the cigarette-butt-covered ground, I had already five large, itchy mosquito bites on the back of my neck and was running to the drier, less scenic middle of the park--fast.

I've always enjoyed the outdoors - from a distance. Animal Planet, National Geographic, and the Discovery Channel (pre-Chopper era) got me right up there, slicing through the jungle and white-water rafting. The access that the wilderness gave to the Crocodile Hunter always had me in wonder, for whenever I stepped out to my own backyard, the mosquitoes made sure that I knew not their password nor their secret question to get past my patio. The outdoors feel the need to keep me an outsider, I guess.

In the drier part of the park, I set my notebook on a picnic table and squeezed myself in to the splintered refuge that it offered. The moment I rested my head in my hand and began pushing my pencil around the paper, a guerrilla army of fuzzy red spiders made their presence known. Some ran in and out of the cracks of the table and the more daring ones had the audacity to mount my notebook and begin their dance on my paper. The longer I stared, the more I saw. They were everywhere! They were on my hand! My sweater! I could feel them wriggling through my hair! I grabbed my notebook by the back cover and violently shook my arms and head while hopping on alternating feet. Such is nature. Many poets have framed a piece of nature in some pretty words. Who knows if they were really sitting at the site they were describing.

"They must have been," you say, "how else could the beauty of the scene permeate their body so?"

What beauty?

"My goodness, you are a shallow one," you think.

No, my dear, not entirely. I appreciate nature's beauty in theory, see? I know of the silence and awe the natural world instills - that hit me when I opened an issue of National Geographic and beheld a full spread of one shot down the Mekong River on an overcast day. I'm always held in wonder when I think of how life begins (another thought courtesy of a National Geographic issue - this picture was a close-up of a flower bud).

I really would like to experience these feelings while sitting unprotected in the lap of nature, but only when mosquitoes and other small, annoying creatures cease to exist.

On these conditions, the situation outside right now looks quite welcoming. That's right, folks, I'd rather freeze than see another stupid bug.

...Christmassy Things

I've always thought it would be nice to have a color scheme at Christmas and decorate the whole house in an artistic design using just a couple of colors. Think how beautiful it would be to have a house decorated entirely in red and white, green and gold, or blue and silver. Everything would carry out my chic, smart color scheme – tree trimming, table decorations, gift wrap, outdoor decorations. Wouldn't it be elegant – my own fashion statement at Christmas time. What a wonderful idea!

However, I've given up on that. The time for that tomfoolery was when I was a young housewife. Now I have a few years behind me (a few?) and there is no way I can be so doggone fancy and artistic. It just wouldn't work. I had children and got a real life.

After getting a "real life," my Christmas decorating scheme for several years was to use everything "Christmassy" I had. Yes, everything Christmassy I could lay my hands on. I would just grab it all and set it around, on trees, in corners on the floor, all over the tables and shelves. I hung it on the walls, dangled it from chandeliers, stuck it on curtains and windows. And each year I got more and more stuff.

I have – at one time - all lumped together – everywhere in the house – including the bathrooms, the laundry room, corners of the halls and the doors of the closets - some of the oddest decorations you may ever see. And I still love them all. The problem is that now I have so much stuff that I have at least a dozen plastic tote boxes filled with Christmassy stuff. What to do? I don't have enough places to put it.

Last year I tried to have a couple of rummage sales and get rid of some of my Christmas stuff. It broke my heart every time someone bought a trinket. I wanted to run right over there and grab it out of their hands and scream at them:

"Oh, so-and-so (insert name of child) made that in second grade!" (Never mind I don't even know whether it is supposed to be a reindeer or an artistic rendering of the manger, I love it because it was made by one of my children.)

"Oh, I got that from my cousin in 1966!" (Never mind that it is tattered and worn and filthy from handling – it's beautiful.)

"Oh, that was a gift I got from (insert name) at a card club function in 1964! She made it herself." (Never mind that the macramé angel should be in the Halloween decoration box because it looks like an angry ghost with frowning eyebrows, a pursed little mouth and blackened pipe cleaner halo – she made it.)

But the time came a few years ago when I had too many Christmassy things and not enough Christmassy places to put them, so I started to alternate decorations with the years. I would rummage through all of the totes to find one type of Christmassy thing to use in my decorating scheme, like sleighs and sleds or Christmas trees or Christmas houses or gingerbread men or Santas or snowmen or nativity sets. This method of decorating worked for a while, but it got to be nearly impossible to search through all of the totes to find specific things. It made a massive pile of stuff that never seemed to fit back into the tote it came out of, even though I had removed a few things. It was time to get a plan.

Last year I got a plan and repacked totes into categories. Everything was neatly packed and labeled and anything that didn't fit in one tote was put into the rummage sale box. However, this also created a problem, since this year I find myself searching high and low for a certain decoration only to find it wouldn't fit in the tote and had been sold. Arghhh!

But this method seems to be working better than anything else I can think of. This way I may be keeping the worn pieces and selling the fancy ones, but what I keep is the best stuff to me. No matter that there are pieces missing on some of the Christmassy things, or that glitter has turned black and white trim yellow. No matter that some things have been obviously glued together many times, or are cracked, chipped, shabby and tattered. What I have kept is what I love.

Each worn Christmassy piece has a tale to tell of a Christmas past, when the children were little and things were simple – and sweet. Now they are grown and have families of their own. Most of them come home to visit on Christmas Eve. But, you see, this way I can have those little children of mine around throughout the entire holiday season – in spirit - with the well-worn decorations. And I love it.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

Deep in the woods one mile from my home stands a stark reminder of the 1918 flu epidemic, an event which almost disappeared from our collective memory...until the present bird flu scare.

From the highway, one must squint through the growth to see several collapsed farm buildings, a couple of them built from logs, all of them tangled with brush. The buildings stand near a small pond so sheltered that its surface usually shines like a mirror. In its prime, the farmstead must have presented an idyllic pastoral scene.

Abandoned farmsteads aren't unusual around here. In fact, more old farmsteads are abandoned than not.

But these abandoned buildings contain a sad story passed on to me a few years ago by a local old-timer. It is a story which might give us a little chill as we contemplate the possibility of a flu pandemic sweeping the world once again.

A family of 11 lived on the farm. They weren't rich, but nobody around here was back then. As far as anybody could tell, this family was in the same boat as everybody else.

That is, they were in the same boat until the fall of 1918. That's when the Spanish flu struck across the world, and it struck the little farmstead particularly hard. Out of the 11 family members, 10 died. The lone survivor moved away to be with relatives, and the farmplace has stood empty ever since.

The 1918 flu struck its victims suddenly. Many went to bed feeling fine and died by morning. The mode of death? Bleeding in the lungs so severe that victims drowned in their own blood.

Until the past couple of years, little was known about the 1918 flu. How it spread was a mystery. How, for example, did bachelor farmers and trappers who lived alone far from civilization catch the disease, only to be found dead in their cabins in the spring of 1919?

Why did the flu strike healthy people between the ages of 20 to 40, while leaving the typical flu victims - infants and the elderly - largely untouched?

At least 21 million people died of the flu, although the number comes closer to 50 million when experts figure in probable deaths in Third World countries where statistics were sketchy. Those numbers represent between 1 and 2 percent of the world's population at the time.

Decoding the biology of the 1918 flu proved daunting. Samples of lung tissue from dead World War I soldiers (more American soldiers died of the flu than of battle wounds) quickly deteriorated into uselessness.

In a wierd coincidence, scientists solved the mystery of the 1918 flu only this past year and announced the findings in October - at the very time world health officials gathered to address the possibility of a new worldwide flu pandemic.

It was by studying a lung sample of a well-preserved 1918 flu victim exhumed from the Arctic permafrost that scientists finally figured things out. The 1918 flu was a virus, not a bacteria as was assumed until recently. To study the virus, scientists brought it to life again in a well-guarded lab.

The most chilling news was that the present bird flu, although it has not yet achieved the ability to jump from human to human, is almost identical to the 1918 virus. Like the present bug, and unlike lesser flu bugs, the 1918 virus floated around in birds for quite some time before it jumped to humans.

Governments are making noise about stocking vaccines. When you read the fine print, however, it becomes apparent that there is no vaccine, and there likely won't be. Present flu drugs, if they work at all, may only lessen symptoms slightly.

Are we doomed? One would hope not. Experts predicted worldwide computer chaos Jan. 1, 2000, and nothing happened. One-third of the United States population was vaccinated for the swine flu in the mid-1970s, yet it never became a threat.

But if this flu does develop the ability to jump from human to human - something it might do anytime in the next several years - the disease could change our lives like no war, no depression, no natural disaster, no terrorist attack ever has.

If you doubt it, take a walk through an old cemetery around here and count the graves marked "1918."

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q: Is it true that Social Security retirement benefits were not always payable at age 62?

A: When Social Security was enacted in 1935, no provision existed for what we now call early retirement benefits. At that time retirement benefits could begin starting at age 65. The Social Security Amendments of 1961 were signed by President John F. Kennedy on June 30, 1961, permitting all workers to elect reduced retirement benefits at age 62. For other key dates in the history of Social Security go to the agency Web page at www.socialsecurity.gov and click on the History section.

Q: What will be the maximum earnings taxable for Social Security in 2006?

A: In 2006 the maximum earnings subject to Social Security tax will increase to $94,200 from $90,000 in 2005. This will not impact most people, only those earning more than $90,000 annually. Of the estimated 159 million workers who will pay Social Security taxes in 2006, about 11.3 million will pay higher taxes as a result of this increased taxable maximum. There is no limit on the earnings taxable for Medicare. People receiving Social Security benefits continue to pay SSA and Medicare related payroll taxes if employed or self-employed.

Q: Did Social Security tax rates change for 2006?

A: Tax rates did not change from 2005. For 2006 they continue at 7.65 percent each for employer and employee and 15.30 percent for the self-employed. Earnings include gross wages and net income from self-employment. As before, the 7.65 percent tax rate is a combined rate for Social Security and Medicare. The SSA portion for combined retirement, survivor and disability benefits is 6.20 percent up to the 2006 taxable maximum earnings of $94,200. The Medicare portion is 1.45 percent on all earnings.

Did You Know? Ninety percent (90%) of married couples and non-married persons aged 65 and over received Social Security benefits in 2003. Social Security was the major source of income, providing at least 50 percent of total income, for 65 percent of aged beneficiaries and it was the only source of income for 21 percent.

PARENTING TIPS

Healthy Families Put Family First

In today's world, families are facing many challenges. These challenges make it difficult for families to be a strong, supportive base for their members. Author Delores Curran researched healthy families in today's world to determine what qualities they have that help them to remain healthy in spite of the challenges they face. She then wrote about her findings in her book "Traits of a Healthy Family." Here are some of her findings:

- A healthy family communicates by expressing and listening to feelings, not just words. (A generation ago this was not considered important in families.)
- A healthy family shows respect for one another. Everyone's opinion is respected, even the opinions of young children. By modeling respect, we can teach our children to respect others.
- A healthy family has a balance of interactions. In other words, all family members are important and time is spent with all of them. Make sure someone isn't predominant in the family. For instance if one child is in a sport or activity, don't focus all your time and attention on that one child. Give all family members attention. Today, the major family function is relational. Our needs are emotional rather than physical as they were in the past. In pioneer days, children were needed to help a family survive. It's just as important today to make family members feel needed and appreciated. Everyone needs to feel loved and that they are important members of their family.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Tell your child that you love and appreciate him/her. Help him/her understand the concept of unconditional love: you love your children no matter what they do.

Area students volunteer for 33rd annual BSU Math Contest

Jake Anderson of Newfolden and Amanda Schmitz of Plummer were volunteers at the 33rd annual Math Contest at Bemidji State University this fall. Anderson, a sophomore majoring in mathematics education and elementary education, served as a test proctor. Schmitz, a freshman with an undeclared major, helped clean up and transfer test materials.

With approximately 600 high school students attending the Math Contest, student volunteers took part in a variety of activities to assist in running the event, scoring results, and hosting students. The contest promotes mathematics on the high school level.

Ned Blodgett, 69

Thief River Falls - Ned Blodgett, 69, died Tuesday, December 6, 2005 at the Veteran's Affairs Medical Center, Fargo, N.D.

Funeral service were held Friday, December 9, at United Methodist Church, Thief River Falls, with Rev. Phil Schmidt officiating. Interment will be at Greenwood Cemetery, Thief River Falls. Military honors will be provided by the American Legion Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117 and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793 and the Grand Forks Air Force Base Honor Guard.

Ned Carol Blodgett was born July 26, 1936 in West Pawlet, Vt., the youngest of four children of Clayton Edward and Lois Marie (Sweet) Blodgett. His childhood was spent in the Bennington/North Bennington, Vt. area.

Ned graduated from high school in 1954 in North Bennington and worked in a machine shop and then a paper mill before joining the United States Air Force on April 5, 1955. He remained in the Air Force until January 1, 1976. His primary career field was working with aircraft (both fighters and bombers) and many different types of munitions and weapons. This included the preparation of the explosive devices, the aircraft and loading them on the aircraft.

During his Air Force career, Ned was assigned to many places throughout the world. These countries were Morocco, North Africa, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Philippines, Vietnam and Thailand. During his career, Ned was awarded numerous citations. These include the Air Force Commendation Medal for services while in Vietnam under wartime conditions, The Outstanding Unit Award (with four different units), Republic of Vietnam Campaign Medal, Vietnam Service Medal, National Defense Service Medal, Small Arms Expert Ribbon, Good Conduct Service Ribbon (both Army and Air Force) and Longevity Service Ribbon. He was also awarded the Master Missileman Badge for his work with Air Force Air Launched Missiles.

Ned met Dorothy Ann Muzzy while stationed at Great Falls, Mont., where she was working as a nurse at a local hospital. They were married May 25, 1957. They lived in Great Falls, Mont., Plattsburgh, N.Y., Denver, Colo., Clovis, N.M., Clark Air Base, Philippines and Tucson, Ariz.

After retiring from the service, Ned attended Pima Community College in Tucson, Ariz., where he studied auto mechanics. In July 1976, the family moved to Thief River Falls, where he worked as an auto mechanic. He became certified as a master automobile technician by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE).

He then went on to college at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls and Bemidji State University, where he got a bachelor of science degree in education, after which he worked as a teacher in auto mechanics in Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls and Plummer. Ned retired from teaching in July 1998.

Ned was a member of United Methodist Church, Thief River Falls, the Pennington County Historical Society, he served as a board member at the Heritage Center and was an active member of American Legion Post 117, where he served on the Color Guard. He has held numerous offices including Post Commander. He is also a life member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans and the Non-Commisioned Officers Association.

He is survived by wife, Dorothy of Thief River Falls; three children, Susan (John) Blodgett, Nancy J. (Warren) Fellman and Yvonne Blodgett, all of Thief River Falls; four grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; a sister, Marie (Jerry) Legacy of Venice, Fla.; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, brother, Stanley and sister, Edith Sweet. A00003B2005DC14

Gary A. Johnson, 69

Thief River Falls - Gary A. Johnson, 69, died Thursday, December 8, 2005 at Northwest Medical Center, Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held on Monday, December 12, at Zion Lutheran Church, Thief River Falls, with Rev. Gary Johnson officiating. Casket bearers included Kenny Gareeau, Tom Fisher, Lyle Groslie, Doug Anderson, David Strong, Allen Aaseby, Kole Hutton and Brody Hutton. Interment was held at Greenwood Cemetery, Thief River Falls.

Gary Arlen Johnson was born November 2, 1936 in Dalen, N.D., the son of Andrew and Lucille (Hagness) Johnson. He was confirmed in the Evangelical Free Church, Thief River Falls. He attended school in Thief River Falls and served in the National Guard from 1952-1964.

On June 8, 1968, Gary was united in marriage to Shelva Davis in Karlstad. He was employed with Bill's Milage and Texaco, as mechanic and attendant and at Midland Co-op for many years as manager. He became owner/manager of Gary's Army/Navy Store in Thief River Falls. In 1993, Gary started Dairy Delivery which he had owned and operated since.

Gary held membership in Lake Agassiz Car Club, Coin and Stamp Club and Thief River Falls American Legion. He enjoyed coin collecting, wood-work, stamp collecting and restoring antique cars. He was the first United States citizen to receive the Canadian Traveling Trophy for an antique car. He liked Twins baseball as well as traveling to Las Vegas for trade shows. He was a Scout Leader for many years in Thief River Falls. Family was very important to Gray.

Gary is survived by wife, Shelva of Thief River Falls; daughter, Kendra (Mike) Hutton of Manvel, N.D.; son, Brent (Brenda) Johnson of Thief River Falls; seven grandchildren; brothers, Sherman (Mona) Johnson of Thief River Falls and Dudley Johnson of Thief River Falls; sister-in-law, Esther Johnson of Thief River Falls and many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; sister, Linda Brown; brothers, Glenn and Richard; and brother-in-law, Duane Brown. A00003B2005DC14

Edward Altepeter, 49

Fergus Falls - Edward Altepeter, 49, died Wednesday, December 7, 2005 at Lake Region Hospital, Fergus Falls.

Funeral services were held Saturday, December 10, at Johnson Funeral Service, Red Lake Falls, with Father Tim Bushy presiding. Casket bearers included those in attendance. Honorary casket bearers included friends and staff at Synstelien Community Service Group Home. Interment was held at Calvary Cemetery, Crookston.

Edward Altepeter was born August 26, 1956 in Crookston, the son of Henry S. and Dorothy [illegible] Altepeter. He was baptized at St. Dorothy's Church, Dorothy, and confirmed in Fergus Falls. At the age of five he entered a children's home in Roseau, then went to Brainerd for two years before moving to the State Hospital in Fergus Falls. In 1999, he moved to his residence at Synstelien Community Service Group Home, Fergus Falls. Edward enjoyed music.

Edward is survived by mother, Dorothy of East Grand Forks; a sister, Benita (Joe) Adolph of Watkins; two brothers, Richard (Carol) Altepeter of Brainerd and Michael (Sheryl) Altepeter of Fertile; sister-in-law, Deb Altepeter of Thief River Falls, and several aunts, uncles, nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his father, Henry, his infant sister, Margaret Rose, and brother, Tim Altepeter.

Doris Larson, 87

Thief River Falls - Doris Larson, 87, died Saturday, December 10, 2005 at Valley Home in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, December 13, at Zion Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls, with Rev. Gary Johnson officiating. Interment was held at Rindal Cemetery, rural Viking.

Doris Christine Hanson was born September 4, 1918, in Saco, Mont., the fifth of 10 children to John and Emma (Grytdal) Hanson. She was baptized into the Lutheran Faith and confirmed at Rindal Lutheran Church. In 1922, she moved to Rosewood, with her parents. She attended Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls.

On April 10, 1941, Doris was united in marriage to Arthur B. Larson in Thief River Falls. She was employed at M&D Café, Thief River Falls, for many years and then worked at Forsberg's Inc. for 11 years. She always enjoyed being at home with her two children while they were growing up.

Doris was a member of Zion Lutheran Church, Thief River Falls and was a member of Rindal Lutheran Church. She was active in various church organizations and a member of American Legion Auxiliary. Doris loved to cook and bake and in all aspects, was truly a homemaker. Her entire life was her family. Music was a major part of her life, whether it was a rock-n-roll band or family reunion sing-a-longs.

Doris is survived by son, Chuck (Tami) Larson of Lake of the Woods; daughter, Becky (David) Forsberg of Thief River Falls; four grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; brothers and sisters, Harold (Myrt) Hanson of St. Louis, Mo., Harvey (Venice) Hanson of Thief River Falls, John (Joyce) Hanson of Pequot Lakes; step-sister, Myrtle (Ray) Johnson of Thief River Falls; sisters-in-law, Opal Hanson of Spokane, Wash., and Marian Hanson of Grafton, N.D. and many nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Arthur; brothers and sisters, Margaret Hipsher, Lucille Bergman, Raymond Hanson, Arnold Hanson, Alice Brubakken and Esther Brubakken. A00003B2005DC14

Mae Roed, 90

McIntosh - Mae Roed, 90, of McIntosh, died on Thursday, December 8, 2005, at the Pioneer Memorial Care Center in Erskine.

Funeral services were held Monday December 12 at Mount Carmel Free Lutheran Church in McIntosh, with the Rev. Dale Mellgren officiating. Honorary casket bearers will be all of the staff at Pioneer Memorial Care Center and Mae's neighbors and friends. Active casket bearers will be Mae's grandsons. Interment was held at St. John's Cemetery, rural McIntosh.

Mae Christianson Roed was born May 30, 1915, to parents Christian and Olava Larson Christianson near Erie (north of Gully). She was baptized in the Lutheran faith and confirmed in the Ecklund Lutheran Church. She attended Little Oak Country School through the eighth grade. She boarded in McIntosh and graduated from McIntosh High School on May 31, 1935.

Mae was united in marriage to Edgar Roed on November 16, 1940, at the Nazareth Parsonage, north of Trail, by Sigurd Fladmark. She had since resided in the McIntosh area. She was a full-time homemaker assisting her husband, Edgar, with the farming while raising six children.

She started working at the McIntosh Nursing Home in her mid-40s and continued for approximately 28 years, retiring in 1987. After retiring, she entertained several of her grandchildren and their friends after school, earning the reputation of "Grandma Mae." She was a woman of great hospitality and a caring heart, often encouraging her family with the admonition of "Remember, Jesus loves you."

She was a charter member of Mt. Carmel Lutheran Church and WMF.

Survivors include five of her children: Olive Ferden of Lake Park; Ellen (Paul) Kay of Cartersville, Ga., Earl (Dianne) and Ronald (Elaine) of McIntosh; Donna (Gregory) Bruce of Fosston; 15 grandchildren; 20 great-grandchildren; and four great-great grandchildren; two sisters-in-law, Gertrude Christianson and Ruth Roed, and numerous nieces, nephews and cousins.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Edgar; their daughter, Dianne; sons-in-law, Kermit Ferden and Edward Fletcher; granddaughter-in-law Michelle Roed; and great-granddaughter, April Mae Roed; also her parents and all her siblings. A00003B2005DC14

Elmer Polich, 86

Seward, Pa. - Elmer Polich, 86, died Thursday, December 1, 2005 in Johnstown, Pa.

Funeral services were held Saturday, December 10, at Johnson Funeral Service, Thief River Falls, with Rev. Robert Dahlen officiating. Interment was held at Community Cemetery in St. Hilaire. Military honors were provided by the American Legion Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117 and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793.

Elmer John Polich was born March 1, 1919 at Greany, the son of Rok (Choppe) Polich and Genny Polich.

Elmer was a World War II veteran. He enlisted in the United States Navy in September of 1940 and served aboard the USS Maryland, USS New Jersey, USS Kota and USS Catamount. Elmer was present during the Pearl Harbor attack and loved to relate the history of it to his family. Decorations received include; Asiatic-Pacific Campaign, American Medal, American Defense Medal, Good Conduct-5 stars, Victory Medal WWII and Philippine Liberation Medal. He also received numerous Navy letters of commendation.

After leaving the Navy, Elmer took a Civil Service position as a plumber for North Island Naval Air Station in San Diego and retired June 3, 1977.

Dr. Charles Samuelson (left) and Jim Dalager were recognized Dec. 1 at "The Legacy Continues: A Commemoration of Excellence," a celebration of Northland Community and Technical College's 40th year. Samuelson and Dalager were among the first of seven full-time employees at Thief River Falls Junior College, the forerunner to NCTC. Samuelson was a biology instructor, and Dalager taught mathematics and physics. "The Legacy Continues" was held at the Swenson House in Thief River Falls.

Forsberg serves as RLCC Elementary artist-in-residence

LaVonne Forsberg, a Thief River Falls artist, recently worked as an artist-in-residence with students at Red Lake County Central (RLCC) Elementary School in Plummer.

Each class was able to spend 45 minutes with Forsberg and learned some of the techniques and applications of watercolor painting. At the end of the session, the students had time for their own creations. Many of these pieces are on display in the trophy case at the school.

"The students really enjoyed having LaVonne here. They were able to experience a few things that we don't have time for in our curriculum. It was a wonderful two days." said Vicki Kolden, K-12 art instructor. "And we want to thank the Northwest Regional Arts Council for their efforts with the Artist in the Schools Grant program. We wouldn't have the resources for our students to experience this type of curriculum if it were not for their dollars."

Forsberg paints mainly landscapes and florals. She participates in competitions and art fairs. Forsberg was selected as the artist for the Minnesota State Park sticker in 2001. She specializes as a watercolor painter, and works with stained glass, mainly for churches. Forsberg is also a master framer of artwork and runs a framing business from her home. She is currently commissioned to do a piece for the University of Minnesota – Crookston of its gazebo.

NMF names two Early Childhood Initiative communities

The Bemidji area and Lake of the Woods County have been selected as the next participants in the Northwest Minnesota Foundation's Early Childhood Initiative.

NMF, along with the five other Minnesota Initiative Foundations, has embarked on a comprehensive effort to develop a statewide network of community coalitions aimed at supporting and advocating for our youngest children. Through the Minnesota Early Childhood Initiative, community coalitions continue to be developed statewide. NMF will now be working with eight coalitions in northwestern Minnesota. Two more will be selected in 2006.

Lin Backstrom, NMF early childhood development specialist, recently met with groups from each of the areas. She said that both the Bemidji area and the greater Baudette community have accomplished much on their own and that they will move forward impressively with the help of NMF funds and technical assistance.

These two areas were identified as already having early care and education partnerships in place and community members who have expressed commitment to achieve a shared vision that supports young children and families. "These communities have strong histories of program collaboration and of community collaboration to make things happen," said Backstrom. "There are motivated leaders in several sectors and the collaborative groups are very active."

The next step in the coalition-building process is to conduct community interviews for gaining insight into people's perceptions on early childhood care and education. Interview results will serve as a beginning point for additional community discussion about early childhood. Information gathered from the interviews will be used to create a community vision and develop local strategies to strengthen resources for young children.

"One of the best things we can do to help northwest Minnesota in the future is to pay more attention to the youngest members of our communities, especially at this time of budget and funding cuts," said John Ostrem, NMF president. "We need to look at new ways of providing for children from birth to age 5. Their development is essential to our ongoing vitality."

"This effort also recognizes that too many children in communities throughout the state and the NMF region are entering school without the basic skills needed to succeed," said Backstrom. "Early childhood care and education partners in the region are finding ways to nurture existing opportunities, and invest in the future of young children through their community's involvement."

Soybean college set for Dec. 21 in Crookston

The University of Minnesota Extension Service, Northwest Research and Outreach Center, U of M – Crookston, and the Minnesota Soybean Growers Association are offering a one-day soybean college short course Dec. 21 at the U of M – Crookston's Student Center in the Bede Ballroom.

Program registration begins at 8 a.m. with the general session starting at 8:30 a.m. The opening session will begin with a marketing outlook for soybeans in the coming year followed by a series of four lectures and four laboratories to be repeated during the day at least once.

To register, log onto www.soybeans.umn.edu or call 1-888-241-0781. Continuing Education Unit (CEU [illegible]) will be available. Pre-registration for the program is $30. Registration is $40 at the door or $80 to include the CEU credits.

The program is developed for farmers but is also designed for crop consultants, agronomists, government agencies and others dealing with all aspects of soybean production in the Red River Valley. It will address current crop pest management and production issues using traditional college lecture or laboratory formats.

Lecture topics will include iron deficiency and soil fertility issues; production management and rotations in the Red River Valley; varieties, genetics, and long- and short-term breeding objectives of niche market beans; and an industry representative panel discussion about planting equipment.

Laboratory sessions are designed to provide participants with hands on experiences and exposure to a variety of current production issues. Each lab will be offered at least twice during the day. Labs include soybean root disease issues, soybean growth staging, soybean insects, and changing weed patterns and soybean herbicide injury.

The daylong college will conclude with a general session featuring a discussion of current weather patterns and how they relate to soybean production, presented by Dr. Mark Seeley, U of M Extension climatologist and meteorologist.

Purath completes basic military training

Air Force Airman Layce K. Purath has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and military customs and courtesies; performed drill and ceremony marches, and received physical training, rifle marksmanship, field training exercises, and special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

She is the daughter of Donna Purath of Red Lake Falls.

Local volunteers attend training exercise for CAP

Capt. Hal Waale and 1st Lt. Earl Gibson of Thief River Falls and members of the Northwest Minnesota Composite Squadron, Civil Air Patrol (CAP) recently graduated from the Corporate Learning Course (CLC) held at Grand Rapids. The training event was hosted by the Grand Rapids Civil Air Patrol Squadron and sponsored by Group One of the Minnesota Wing for CAP senior members from a multi-state area. This two-day course, held Dec. 3 and 4, provided practical education and exercises to enhance the managerial competence of CAP senior members in leading their members at the Wing level.

CAP was established in the Office of Civilian Defense on Dec. 1, 1941, as an emergency response to make civil aviation aircraft and pilots available to the national defense efforts of coastal patrol, air couriers, target towing, and pilot training. Subsequently, CAP was transferred to the War Department tin 1943, chartered by Congress in 1946, and in 1948 made a civilian auxiliary of the United States Air Force to assist in national disasters and perform 89 percent of all national search and rescue missions.

CAP is a humanitarian and educational nonprofit organization. Its volunteers share a love of aviation and community service in communities across America. The 1,300 Minnesota youth (ages 12-18) and adults (age 18 and over) share a love of aviation and community service. They are compensated through the intangible rewards of patriotism. They attend meetings often held weekly and participate in emergency services, cadet education and aerospace education programs.

Frisch receives transportation training and safety certificate

Mike Frisch

Mike Frisch, transportation program manager of Tri-Valley Opportunity Council Inc. (TVOC), was recently awarded the certified community transportation training and safety reviewer certificate. To date, less than 30 people have this certificate in the United States. TVOC operates Tri-Valley Heartland Express Bus, which provides transportation to people in Thief River Falls.

The purpose of this training and safety review program is to assist in improving the professional preparedness of public and community transportation personnel and to maximize their ability to provide safe and secure transit service. This program is a protocol for on-site reviews of transit systems to certify they are addressing the critical components of a safety and security program, including all of the core elements of the Federal Transit Administration's Model Transit Bus Safety and Security Program.

The program is designed to help the transportation organization build its internal team, safely serve its customers, fulfill its responsibilities in maintaining community security, and reduce its exposure to liability. If the transit organization doesn't meet the benchmarks in one or more areas, the reviewer will help the organization determine what actions will help it attain the necessary degree of performance. If additional technical assistance is advised, one of the program's master reviewers will help the transit organization locate appropriate assistance.

The seven critical areas in the training and safety reviews are:

- Employee selection and qualifications
- Employee training
- Safety planning, data analysis and risk management
- Operating policies and procedures, including drug and alcohol compliance
- Emergency and crisis preparedness planning
- Security planning
- Vehicle maintenance management

Local sailor gets credentials

Seven-foot waves, rain and dolphins sounds like a good time doesn't it? Well, no, probably not for most of us, but Mark DaParma of Thief River Falls enjoyed it this summer. Taking time off from his company Teach ME!, a learning club, was difficult but this sail was part of a lifelong dream.

Sailing out of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., down the coast and into the Keys was the journey DaParma and four other sailors from around the world made just prior to Hurricane Katrina. The trip had been in the works for months, and the crew was closely monitoring the weather broadcasts to track the storm.

This international group of sailors came together to spend a week with Capt. Joe Logan of the Florida Blue Water Sailing School. They sailed a beautiful 51-foot Dufour, each sailor learning how to navigate, plot courses, sail and the many other skills necessary to become certified so each can "bareboat charter" their own sailboat in the future.

"When we left Fort Lauderdale, it was sunny and an incredibly beautiful sea," said DaParma. "This has been a dream of mine since I was a kid to get the necessary certifications, so my wife, Gail, and I can bareboat charter a sailboat. This will let us rent a sailboat and take off for warm waters. I learned so much and got my hands dirty doing it. What a trip!"

The Florida Blue Water Sailing School is an internationally recognized sailing school that provides exceptional training. It is known for its rigorous courses and seasoned captains/trainers. Each class consists of four to six students who live on board for the duration of the course. The school prides itself on immersing students in the full spectrum of sailing life.

"We were forced to cut our sail short by one day since Katrina was bearing down on us," DaParma went on to say. "We docked and were able to spend a good amount of time tying up and securing our boat, Gitana, before the full force of Katrina hit. When I left the boat, we were experiencing 90-mile-an-hour winds and seven foot seas. Glass was blowing out of buildings. I'll take a snowstorm and my fireplace any day!"

DaParma will next be attending the Florida Blue Water Sailing School for its Bermuda Triangle trip to get his full captain's license.

Mark DaParma of Thief River Falls recently embarked on a new dream. He spent a week sailing with Capt. Joe Logan of the Florida Blue Water Sailing School, learning skills necessary to become certified to operate a bareboat charter. (Submitted photo) perform the same functions as their full-size robot counterparts. Not included in that total is software donated by Rockwell Automation worth $30,000.

Eric Melcher wrote the curriculum for the LHS automation and motion control class. Because it is considered a pilot class, the automation and motion control class is only offered during the second quarter this year.

The class may not have lived up to expectations for some students. Enrollment dropped from 20 to 17 students prior to the first day of class. Since day one, enrollment had decreased to just eight students, who Melcher said are die hard students.

Career opportunity

As of now, students do not earn any college credits for taking the course. That could change, according to Melcher, who said that one of ATC's intentions in writing the grant was to increase training opportunities in what is becoming an in-demand field.

"Everybody has been talking more and more about students losing their vocational skills. We are seeing a big decline in technically skilled students. A lot of industries are screaming for skilled workers to program computers and work on their robots. These jobs are in demand and in many cases (with a two year degree) they will be equally or more lucrative than a four-year degree."

As an example, Melcher said one recent graduate with a two-year machining degree and two year automation and motion control degree started his career with a $75,000 annual salary and was even given a cash signing bonus to be used toward the purchase of an automobile. Noting that the $75,000 salary is an extreme example, Melcher added that in most cases, college graduates with a two-year automation and motion control degree, can begin their career making between $30,000 and $40,000 annually.

Simulation software

Thanks to the grant, automation and motion control students are trained on some of the industry's latest software. The curriculum includes working with a Logics Pro simulation program called RSLogix 5000, donated by Rockwell Automation. RSLogix is a programmable logic controller (PLC) ladder logic program. It can be used to run simulations for training purposes or be programmed for practical applications.

"These kids get a hands on simulation," Melcher said of the program. "We're able to teach the kids with stuff that some industries aren't using yet."

Simulation projects include programming a: garage door opener; a silo box filling factory; a traffic signal light simulation; and the most complicated, a four story elevator simulation.

Essentially the class is teaching students how to operate PLCs. One PLC has the opportunity to control up to 32 operations, replacing high maintenance relays that could only control six or eight operations.

Melcher said as industries' increased use PLCs will eliminate some of the relay maintenance jobs. Their use will also create higher level skilled positions, he said.

Unlike relays, which must be inspected and adjusted regularly, PLCs have the ability to: sense the current state of the machine and decide what to move next.

Automation trainers

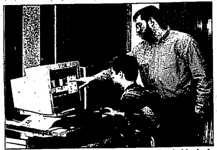
Though they are only one-fifth the size of their robotic counter parts, the training modules or "trainers" can be programmed to perform and number of tasks. They can also be linked together to form an actual one-fifth scale assembly line.

Four automation trainers were donated to the school. They will be used to give students first-hand, real-world experience programming real machines, while providing a three dimensional aspect of a program. Trainers can be connected to a computer PLC using an ethernet card and can be connected to the Internet for use by an off-site PLC.

Melcher said the S.D. 564 classroom will soon be wired for Internet. Once the room has Internet access, students will be able to run PLC programs and watch machines work in places like Alexandria Tech., via the Internet.

Along with the new automation and motion control class, LHS offers classes in electronics, drafting and metal fabrication.



Eric Melcher (right) helps Zak Larson through a ladder logic simulation. The automation and motion control class is currently being offered as part of Lincoln High School's industrial arts program.

the Fair Association continues to grow. Last year, the raffle ended with a balance of $11,170.78. During 2003, it ended with a balance of $8,865.22. For the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 2005, the raffle ended the year with a balance of $14,944.28. Total receipts were $23,551.75, and expenditures were $8,607.47.

The mud run ended the 2005 fiscal year with a balance of $1,514.42. Receipts totaled $5,442.31, while expenditures amounted to $3,927.89. Last year, the event ended the year with a balance of $522.89. The significant difference may be due to the fact that this was the first year the mud run was a featured grandstand attraction at the fair. In previous years, it has been held in an area east of the grandstand near a future parking area near the Ralph Engelstad Arena.

The demolition derby ended the year with a balance of $9,643.01, a decrease from the 2004 ending balance of $12,083.46. The significant difference appeared to be due to receipts, which were $15,787.81 for the 2005 fiscal year and $17,478.48 for the 2004 fiscal year. Expenses also increased from $5,395.02 for 2004, to $6,144.80 for 2005.

The beer garden outperformed last year's results. Last year, the beer gardens ended the year with a balance of $13,084.25, which was almost double the previous year's result. This year, the beer gardens ended the year with a balance of $17,111.30. Receipts increased from $23,175 in 2004 to $28,631 in 2005. Expenditures increased only slightly from $10,091.15 to $11,519.70.

The bull ride continues to be a popular event at the County Fair. This year, the event ended the fiscal year with a balance of $18,557.94, an increase from $12,272.73 the previous year. Receipts for 2005 totaled $117,873.83 compared to $104,470.16 the previous year. Expenditures totaled $99,315.89 for 2005, while expenditures totaled [illegible] in 2004.

Lyndon Johnson (center), flanked by Tomtes Carly and Jenna Lunsetter, performs for individuals attending the annual Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society Santa Lucia Festival. This year, the event was held on Saturday, Dec. 10, at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. The Santa Lucia tradition can be traced to Saint Lucia of Syracuse, Sicily, who became a martyr for her Christian beliefs in 304 A.D.

Despite technological advances in transportation and industry, Chinese production agriculture remains highly dependent on manual labor. Thief River Falls resident Ken Asp took this photo in Jilin Province in northern China. In November, Asp went to that country as part of Gov. Tim Pawlenty's trade mission. Asp is the vice chairperson of the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion Council. (Submitted photo) to buy wheat. Yet, it wasn't all work or no play for them. They also went to the Mall of America.

Getting reacquainted in China meant eating a dinner together of traditional Chinese meals that contained a lot of curry sauce, said Asp, who noted the food was not as hot as Mexican food.

Asp, along with members of all six Minnesota delegations, also had a meal with local government officials at the Great Hall of People in Beijing. Pawlenty spoke at the gathering, and his remarks were translated into Chinese.

To do business in China, one goes out to eat. "You get tied socially before you do business," Asp said.

They continued to develop their social ties at a traditional Thanksgiving dinner even though the Minnesota residents would be going home in time to celebrate Thanksgiving. The dinner included turkeys cooked traditionally and as well as those cooked in a Chinese style – deep-fried with curry. The meal also featured traditional fare of cranberries and mashed potatoes.

The Thanksgiving dinner may have reminded the visitors of home, and they also may have been reminded of home when they toured one factory in China. Hormel Foods, which is based in Austin, Minn., has plants in Beijing and Shanghai. Hormel's American and Chinese products were on display at the Beijing plant, Asp said. The company's Chinese products have a different flavor than its American products.

Asp also got a flavor of the Chinese culture and history while visiting Tiananmen Square, the Forbidden City and the Great Wall of China.

And he was able to see California Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger from a distance. At the time, Asp was checking out of his hotel, and Schwarzenegger was checking into the hotel with the California trade delegation. The Minnesota and California trade missions were followed by a U.S. trade mission led by President George W. Bush.

Looking back on his trip to China, Asp was grateful for the opportunity, which was made possible with a grant from CHS. Thanking CHS, he said it was a great privilege to travel with the governor.

Boys hockey team 3-2...

TRF splits vs. Bears, Governors

Thief River Falls bounced back from a 10-4 Friday night loss to The Blake School with a 5-4 come-from-behind Saturday afternoon victory over St. Paul Johnson during the Prowlers' weekend boys high school hockey trip to the Twin Cities area.

The scoreboard spread against the Bears was startling if you take into consideration the Prowlers went into the game ranked No. 1 in the Class A state polls.

It was back-and-forth early. The No. 10-ranked Bears grabbed a quick 2-0 lead. The Prowlers came back to tie it 2-2 on goals by Matt Nordhagen and Jordan Swanson, but the Bears came out of the first period shoot-out with a 4-2 advantage.

Again, Thief River Falls tried to make a game of it when Tony Dorn scored to start the second period. However, Blake's shots continued to find the net as the Bears took a 9-3 spread into the second intermission and scored six straight unanswered goals before the Prowlers' Evan Jones got the final one midway through the third period.

"Way too many distractions," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland, trying to explain the Prowlers' Friday night performance. "We need to focus on what's happening on the ice and forget the other stuff."

Chris Murray scored four goals and Mike Louwerse had three for the Bears, who started the year as the No. 1-ranked Class A team in the state, but had fallen in the polls after two early losses.

The Prowlers were in danger of going 0-for-the weekend when Johnson opened the Saturday's third period with three straight goals for a 4-3 lead with 6:26 remaining.

But Michael Forney completed a hat trick with goals at 15:32 and 16:35 for the tie and the win.

Johnson scored the only goal in the first period. Goals by Corey Horien, Forney and Nordhagen put the Prowlers ahead 3-1 at the second intermission.

"At times we played well," said Bergland. "We made some mistakes, but in the last three minutes, when we had to buckle down to get the job done, the kids did exactly that. We need to learn to play with that kind of determination for an entire game."

Thief River Falls will take a 3-2 record into a Thursday match-up with Bemidji at the Ralph Engelstad Arena. The Prowlers will play at International Falls Saturday.

Six individuals were added to the Northland Community and Technical College Athletic Hall of Fame during Saturday night ceremonies at the NCTC Swenson House.

The second set of inductees to the Hall, which was established in 2004, included David Dickey, Tony Burke, Georgine Troska, Paula Hovda Seifried, Scott Bergland and John Michael Anderson (deceased).

Jan Klopp, sister of John Michael Anderson, accepted the plaque on behalf of the family.

With Bergland, the Lincoln High School boys head high school hockey coach, in the Twin Cities with the Prowlers, his plaque was accepted by his sister, Jodi Holen.

It was wedding day for Tony Burke. His plaque was received by Chet Engelman, his coach when he played at Northland.

2005 Inductees

■ John Michael Anderson - a Lincoln High School graduate who attended Northland before completing his education at the University of Minnesota-Duluth. Born with juvenile diabetes, his participation in athletics was cut short, but his love for sports remained strong, and he showed his support through his volunteerism. As president of the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters, he helped Northland through various fund-raising activities. He also served the school as a member of the Foundation Board and as a member of several campus committees. An avid fan, he regularly attended Northland games. He was also keenly interested in the Olympics, attending Summer Games in Los Angeles and Winter Games in Calgary, Alberta, Canada, where he was selected to be one of the Olympic Flame carriers.

■ David Dickey - a Canton, Ohio, native who served four years in the United States Air Force before enrolling at Northland in the fall of 1973. He completed his education at the University of North Dakota. A basketball standout at both schools, Dickey was an all-conference, all-state, all-region and Honorable Mention All-America selection during his two years at Northland. A prolific scorer and outstanding passer, he was inducted into the Minnesota Community College Conference Hall of Fame in 1982 and was twice honored at UND - as a member a Hall of Fame team and as a member of the All-Decade Team for the 1970's. He has been in the transportation industry for 21 years, currently serving as an international senior sales account executive for Federal Express in Ohio.

■ Tony Burke - a Bemidji High School graduate who attended Northland in 1971-72 and 1972-73. He was the first Northland player to score over 500 points in a single season as he helped the school post its first winning record in basketball. A two-year all-conference selection at Northland, where he also excelled in track. Still holds the school single-season basketball record with 413 rebounds. Went on to play both football and basketball at Bemidji State and then two years of semi-pro football with the Madison (Wis.) Mustangs. Currently teaches at the Grand Rapids Juvenile Center.

■ Georgine Troska - a 1977 Goodridge High School graduate, earning all-state and All-America honors as a senior when she became the first girl in Minnesota high school basketball history to score 1,000 career points. Played volleyball and basketball for two years at Northland. Averaged 18 points per game in basketball. Was a member of the 1977-78 Northern Division championship basketball team, earning NJCAA All-America honors. Graduated from North Dakota State University and has been a teacher for the past 23 years. Currently coaching and teaching in San Antonio, Texas, where she founded the Hoop of Dreams Summer Basketball League that has grown from 180 players in the first year to 450 in 2005.

■ Paula Hovda Seifried - a Roseau native who played volleyball, basketball and softball while attending Northland in 1996-97 and 1997-98. Earned all-conference honors in softball as a freshmen, then was named all-conference in all three sports as a sophomore when she also garnered all-region and All-America recognition in softball, and was academic All-America. Went on to play volleyball and softball at Huron (S.D.) University, earning all-conference and All-America awards in softball. Currently an instructor and softball coach at Trinidad State Junior College in Colorado.

■ Scott Bergland - a Thief River Falls native, who attended Northland in 1977-78 and 1978-79. Played hockey and baseball at Northland, earning all-conference, all-state and all-region honors in hockey, and Honorable Mention All-America status in baseball. He continued his hockey career at the College of St. Thomas, where he was team captain as a senior and was named All-MIAC and Honorable Mention All-NAIA. Returned to Northland as head hockey coach in 1984, leading the school to its first-ever Minnesota Community College Conference state title and an appearance in the National Junior College Athletic Association national tournament in 1987-88. He was inducted into the MCCC Hall of Fame as a player and a coach in 1991. Active in every level of the Thief River Falls youth hockey program, he was named the Prowlers' head high school hockey coach in 1993.

Finishing kick secures 83-80 Northland win

■ Pioneers complete weekend sweep

Trailing by a half-dozen points with 2:40 remaining, Northland finished the game with an 11-2 scoring run and an 83-80 win over Minnesota West Saturday afternoon in Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball.

The visiting Bluejays had a 42-40 edge at halftime and were up 78-72 before the Pioneers' late-game surge won it.

"We executed our offense really well, and made some key defensive stops at the end," pointed out Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "It was a good close game. It was a nice win for our kids."

Cyrin Shaffer scored 21 points, Jawaun Bowman 17, Keith Brown 12, Brandon Fontes 11 and Keaton Ousley 10 for the Pioneers, who were 32-for-62 from the field (52 percent) and 15-for-24 at the free throw line.

Minnesota West got 16-point games from Micheal Riley, Russell Griese and Cornelius Bardney. The Blue Jays went 33-for-85 from the floor (39 percent) and 6-for-13 at the line.

Fontes and Brown completed double-doubles with 12 and 10 rebounds, respectively, as the Pioneers beat the Bluejays on the boards 49-43. Northland also topped the turnover figures, 23-19.

Coupled with a 77-66 Friday win over Ridgewater, the Pioneers' home court sweep against MCCC Southern Division teams improved their record to 4-6 heading into a rescheduled game against the Concordia junior varsity Tuesday in Moorhead.

| | 1 | 2 | T |
| Minnesota West | 42 | 38 | 80 |

Minnesota West - Daniel Archie 3, Kanir Jackson 4, Donte Lee 2, Cameron Barlowe 5, Cornelius Bardney 16, Tut Yual 11, C.J. Nelson 4, Russell Griese 6, Alex Sudar 3, Micheal Riley 16.

Northland - Keith Brown 12, Keaton Ousley 10, Nick Ricks 3, Cyrin Shaffer 21, Brandon Fontes 11, Jawaun Bowman 17, Justin Mann 9.

Shutout extends Thief River Falls girls' win streak

Brandi Hermanson registered a 14-save shutout and Thief River Falls came up with a goal in each period as the Prowlers beat Long Prairie-Grey Eagle/Browerville 3-0 in girls high school hockey Saturday afternoon.

It was the final start in a four-game homestand at Ralph Engelstad Arena for the Prowlers, who won all four contests to go 5-4 for the year.

Highlighted by the shutout, the Prowlers gave up just five goals in those four games, with three of them coming in a 5-3 Thursday victory over Detroit Lakes.

Thief River Falls goals were scored by Kelly Thorstad in the first period, Brittni Johnson in the second period and McKenzie Kayser in the third period.

A busy week for the Prowlers featured games Tuesday at Warroad, Thursday at Moorhead and Saturday afternoon at home against International Falls.

Scoring

First period - TRF, Kelly Thorstad (Chasity Johnson), 13:58.

Second period - Brittni Johnson (Brooke Rundell), 7:08.

Third period - McKenzie Kayser (Megan Schneider), 6:14.

Goalie saves - TRF, Brandi Hermanson 7-3-4–14; LP-GE/B, Kayla Guck 6-6-13–25.

Wolfpack winner in Prowlers' first basketball game

Kittson Central controlled the tempo and ran away with a 60-44 boys high school basketball win over visiting Thief River Falls Friday.

Austin Bogestad scored 21, Joel Schwenzfeier 15 and Ernie Ayala 12 for the winners, who had a 33-19 halftime lead.

It was the 2005-06 season opener for the Prowlers, who put 11 players in the scoring column, but had nobody in double figures.

Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean was disappointed in the Prowlers' debut. "I thought we

B/G-MR girls win fourth straight NCTC tournament...

Gators extend title reign

A new leader carried Badger/Greenbush-Middle River to its fourth straight Girls Holiday Basketball Tournament title at Northland Community and Technical College.

The Kierah Kimbrough-led Gators won the tournament in 2002, 2003 and 2004. However, Kimbrough's high school graduation and departure for the University of North Dakota didn't signal the end of the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Northland trophy-winning run.

Instead, the Gators called on Kaley Mekash to extend their title reign. The 5-10 junior center scored 30 points in Thursday's 57-43 championship game victory over Clearbrook-Gonvick, and was named the tournament's most valuable player.

The Bears were within 25-23 at intermission, but with Liz Schenkey scoring 10 of her 12 points in the second half, the Gators pulled away down the stretch and pushed their season record to 5-0.

Katie Anderson scored 11 points and Heidi Kjolhaug had 10 for Clearbrook-Gonvick.

It was a hard-earned title, according to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "We had a tough tournament draw," he said. "We beat some good teams."

Mekash led the Gators' offense, but it was their defense that won the tournament, explained Neibauer. "Our defense is definitely ahead of our offense right now," he said. "We worked as hard as a team could work on defense. We've just got to get our offense going now."

Red Lake County Central was a 63-33 winner over Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke in the third place game; Northern Freeze got by Stephen-Argyle 43-38 for the consolation title; and Kittson County North defeated East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 52-38 in the seventh place game.

Brittany Gustafson scored 20 points, Betsy Winkler 14 and Courtney Halvorson 11 in the Mustangs' third place game win over the Wolverines. Red Lake County Central led 30-20 at halftime and out-scored Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 33-13 in the second half.

It was the fourth win in five starts for the Mustangs, who lost a 47-39 tournament semifinal decision to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke did not have a double figure scorer Thursday while falling to 1-4.

A five-point, 23-18, halftime lead stood up for Northern Freeze in the consolation final against Stephen-Argyle. Alycia Dahl and Andrea Maki led the winners with 14 and 10 points, respectively. Robyn Henrickson had a 12-point game for the Storm. Beaten by Badger/ Greenbush-Middle River 42-40 in the tournament quarterfinals, Northern Freeze is 4-1.

Kittson County North led East Grand Forks Sacred Heart just 24-23 at halftime, but the Cougars won going-away in the seventh place game to kick off final day activity. Whitney Coffield scored 13 points and Chelsi Nelson had 10 for the winners. The Eagles did not have a double figure scorer.

The 11th annual event began with Monday/Tuesday quarterfinals and semifinals. Tournament sponsors were Thief River Falls Radio, Thief River Falls Sports Boosters, Universal Screenprint and Pepsi Americas.

West women win 73-62

A four-point halftime lead and a seven-point second half scoreboard difference added up to a 73-62 Minnesota West win over Northland in a Saturday women's community college basketball matinee.

The Bluejays led the host Pioneers 34-30 at halftime.

It was the eighth loss in as many starts for the Pioneers, who fell to Ridgewater 59-48 Friday night.

Kacey Anderson scored 13 points and Ashley Kujawa had 12 to lead the Northland offense. Minnesota West was led by Krista Beek with 21 points. Amanda Nash 13 and Laura Bents 12.

The weekend games against Minnesota Community College Conference Southern Division teams wrapped up the 2005 portion of the 2005-2006 schedule for the Pioneers, who will be idle until a June 7-8 invitational hosted by Minot State University-Bottineau.

Northland starts MCCC Northern Division play Wednesday, Jan. 11, against Central Lakes in Brainerd.

played tentatively and didn't have a lot of carry-over from practices to the games," he said.

McLean was quick to credit the Wolfpack, and Bogestad, in particular. "Kittson Central did a great job of playing fast," he said. "Bogestad not only played great offensively, he did a tremendous job on defense, having to guard our posts, who were much bigger than he is."

Tyler Jensen had a 7-point, 7-rebound game for the Prowlers, who were out-rebounded 39-30.

The two teams combined for 44 turnovers, 23 by the Wolfpack, 21 by the Prowlers.

Kittson Central had a 9-for-14 free throw night; Thief River Falls went 7-for-9 at the line.

The Prowlers host Warroad Thursday in their home opener. "We have a lot of work to do to get ready for a very good Warroad team," offered McLean.

Prowlers finish 2-2, seventh at Sertoma

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Thief River Falls was competitive in each of its four matches, posting a 2-2 record and seventh place finish in last weekend's Sertoma Invitational high school wrestling tournament, held at Grand Forks Central.

The Prowlers began the two-day competition with a 38-34 victory over Jamestown, N.D. Thief River Falls' effort was aided by two Jamestown forfeits and four falls recorded by Jordan Engen, Brian Anderson, Kyle Iverson and Andrew Peralta. Another pivitol match saw second ranked Dan LeDuc (Minnesota AA) defeat fifth ranked Matt Rowe (N.D. A) 6-5.

The Prowler's quater-final bout against eventual runner-up, Grand Forks Red River, was contested in the same manner as Jamestown. Thief River Falls and Red River exchanged leads throughout the dual, with Red River claiming a one point victory, 32-31. Just two Prowlers recorded falls in the tightly contested bout. They were recored by by Kyle LeDuc, who weighed-in at 98 pounds, but wrestled 112, and Andrew Peralta at heavyweight.

The Prowlers still had a chance at third place when they took the mat on Saturday against Central Cass. Unfortunately, the Prowlers again gave up falls at key weights and lost their second dual of the tournament 39-34. Thief River Falls was victorious in seven of the match's 14 bouts. Falls were recorded by Kyle LeDuc, Brian Anderson and Travis Peralta.

Virtually every thing went the Prowlers' way in the seventh place match where they defeated Bismarck Century 45-30. Seven of the Prowler's eight individual match victories earned six team points, including falls by Steve Keogh, Jordan Engen, Kyle Iverson, Mike Mattison, Travis Peralta and Dan LeDuc; and a forfeit, accepted by Tyson Sorvig. Thief River Falls' other victory came at heavyweight, where third ranked Andrew Peralta (Minnesota AA) held off top ranked Matt Johnson (N.D. Class A) 2-0.

"The team wrestled very well, especially in the Red River and Century duals," said head coach Kenny Geiser. "We seem to get better every time we step foot on the mat."

Geiser added that the team needs to do a better job of keeping scores close in individual losses.

"All four duals were close," Geiser said. "We have the ability to score a lot of points, yet we seem to give up a lot as well. That is something that we still need to work on. Not giving up pins will help us turn the corner and be a much more competitive team."

Four Prowlers went undefeated through out the tournament. They include Kyle Iverson, Travis Peralta, Dan LeDuc and Andrew Peralta. Both Dan LeDuc and Andrew Peralta are 9-0 on the season.

Prowlers beat Lakers

Two third period goals lifted Thief River Falls past Detroit Lakes 5-3 in Thursday girls high school hockey at the Ralph Engelstad Arena.

Kaley Holen snapped a 3-3 tie at 2:13 and Brittni Johnson added an insurance goal at 6:33 as the Prowlers squared their record at 4-4.

The two teams got into a first period shoot-out, with the Prowlers taking a 3-2 lead on goals by Megan Malwitz, Alie Dorn and Brooke Rundell.

Thief River Falls has had a habit of starting slow this season, acknowledged Prowlers head coach Katie Anderson, and she saw her team spot the Lakers a 1-0 head start. But they tied it 23 seconds later and carried the play the rest of the opening stanza.

"We played a very nice first period," said Anderson. "Lots of scoring. It was fun. We came out firing and out-shot them, which we have not done a lot of in the first period this year."

Thief River Falls goalie Brandi Hermanson finished with 26 saves; Detroit Lakes netminder Janaye Johnson stopped 20 shots.

"All in all, it was a nice game," said Anderson. "The girls worked hard all the way through and really proved how much they wanted that win."

TRF takes 46-30 dual

For the second time in the young 2005-06 season the Thief River Falls wrestling team knocked off a potential Section 8AA opponent, when they defeated Blackduck/Cass Lake-Bena 46-30, Thursday night.

Thief River Falls won seven of the 11 contested weight classes. BCLB forfeited two weights, Thief River Falls forfeited one. Victorious prowlers included Steve Keogh, Kyle Iverson, Kevin Fynboh, Mike Mattison, Dan LeDuc, Travis Peralta and Andrew Peralta. Kyle LeDuc and Brian Anderson accepted forfeits.

"This was a nice team effort," said head coach Kenny Geiser. "After beating two section opponents to start the year, we have a leg up on seeding already."

Northland center Justin Mann posed a problem for Ridgewater's Dante Bogard when he tried to drive the baseline during Friday's men's college basketball game in Thief River Falls. The Pioneers won 77-66.

Pioneers finish off Ridgewater, 77-66

Northland runs to finish both the first and second half secured a 77-66 Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball win over visiting Ridgewater Friday.

The Pioneers ended the first half with an 18-2 surge, holding Ridgewater without a field goal over the final 7:25, to go into the break with a 45-28 lead.

Ridgewater rallied, though, and on three occasions clawed back to within two points. The last single-basket difference followed two Wesley Kitt free throws that made it 68-66 with 2:49 remaining.

However, that was it for the Ridgewater offense. Northland ended the night with 9-0 kick for the win.

"We had some guys make some great plays at the end, both on offense and defense," pointed out Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "And it wasn't just one or two guys doing it. We had three-four different players step up and make plays. That's the way this team is - balanced."

Four Northland scorers hit double figures, led by Jawaun Bowman with 20 points, Brandon Fontes 18, Cyrin Shaffer 15 and Keith Brown 13.

For the record, though, consistency isn't a Northland strength early in the 2005-06 season. Nikunen admits as much. "At times we were okay," he said. "We have guys who like to play that wide-open style. That might have won this game, but that's not going to win a championship."

Ridgewater received a 21-point game from Dante Bogard, 14 out of Kitt and 10 by Marcus Smith.

Neither team shot particularly well. Northland was 29-for-72 from the field (40 percent); Ridgewater went 21-for-69 (30 percent). The Pioneers made 16 of 29 free throw attempts; the visitors were 15-for-20 at the line.

Northland finished with a 48-42 rebound advantage. Ridgewater had more turnovers, 22-19.

Second half shooting produces Spuds' win

■ TRF girls lose 65-42 match-up

Thief River Falls fell short in one key statistical category in a Friday girls high school basketball game at Moorhead. Sealing the Prowlers' fate in a 65-42 loss was the second half shooting by the two teams.

The Spuds shot 54 percent, while the Prowlers came in at a 21 percent clip over the final 18 minutes when Moorhead out-scored Thief River Falls 30-16 to put a still-competitive 35-26 halftime score out of reach.

"We worked extremely hard," offered Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We matched them in all stats, except shooting percentage."

Gina Jaroszewski scored 18 points and Nicki Anderson had 11 for the Spuds, who were 27-for-61, overall, in the field goal shooting department - 44 percent. The Prowlers, who went 15-for-68 (22 percent) from the field for the night, were led by Amanda Hoard with 10. points.

"We were concerned going in that they would beat us up inside," acknowledged Loe, "but our post players did a great job defensively, and on the boards."

At the free throw line, Moorhead was 6-for-15 and Thief River Falls made 11 of 19. The Spuds managed just a 39-33 rebound edge.

"We played very aggressive on the boards," noted Loe, "but the bottom line: we've got to shoot the ball better."

The 0-5 Prowlers will be at home for games Friday night vs. Warroad and Saturday afternoon against Grand Rapids.

Second half hurts Northland

Ridgewater turned a halftime tie into an 18-point, 59-41 win over host Northland Friday in women's college basketball.

Two Ashley Kujawa free throws with 3.1 seconds remaining pulled Northland into a 21-21 halftime deadlock, and a 3-point shot by Chelsey Fering had the Pioneers within 32-30 with 13:45 left in the game.

But Northland went scoreless over the next 6:15 to fall behind 42-30, and the Pioneers never challenged the Ridgewater lead the rest of the night.

"I think they (Ridgewater) were a little shell-shocked with our zone in the first half," explained Northland coach Missy Majerus. "In the second half, they started shooting better."

Jamie Munson scored 16 of her game-high 20 points after intermission to spark the Ridgewater second half breakaway. Kujawa's 12 points led Northland.

The Pioneers shot 27 percent from the field (15/56) and were 7-for-10 at the free throw line. Ridgewater shot an only slightly-better 31 percent from the floor (22/72) and struggled through a 12-for-25 free throw game. However, the winners finished with a 48-33 rebound advantage that included a 21-7 difference on the offensive boards, and helped force 25 Northland turnovers.

At halftime, the Pioneers trailed in the turnover department by just a 20-16 margin, and they had turned the ball over only eight times.

"In the second half, obviously the turnovers and rebounds were the difference," noted Majerus.

Ridgewater wound up with 18 turnovers.

Eagles handle Huskies 87-37

Grygla-Gatzke erased the home court edge by building a 45-19 halftime lead en route to an 87-37 Friday boys high school basketball win over rival Goodridge.

"Goodridge always give us trouble on their home court," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson, "so I was concerned."

But an upset bid was out of the question by the midway mark of the first half as the Eagles improved to 2-0 and the Huskies fell to 0-2.

"There was no real big run, but we did open it up with about eight minutes left in the first half," noted Johnson. "We scored some points on the fast break, and we also got the ball inside."

Grygla-Gatzke shot 56 percent from the field for the night (37/66). Goodridge struggled through a 29 percent shooting performance (15/51).

Tomas Loberg had a 17-point, 12-rebound double-double for the Eagles, whose offense also included 12 points by Brady Olson, 11 by Geoffrey Satre and 10 by Tim Polansky. Nick Mickelson of Goodridge led all scorers with 20 points.

Both teams had a tough night at the free throw line, where Grygla-Gatzke was 10-for-21 and Goodridge went 4-for-10.

The Eagles out-rebounded the Huskies 49-24 and topped the turnover charts 12-11.

Storm rolls past Gators 69-39 in boys match-up

Nevin Lubarski scored 26 points as Stephen-Argyle overwhelmed visiting Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 69-39 Friday in boys high school basketball.

The Storm had a 35-20 halftime lead.

"They beat us in every facet of the game," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Kent Christian. "They have all the weapons to make a great run at tournament time."

Adam Telander scored 10 points and Jakob Heggedal pulled down 10 rebounds to lead the Gators, who were 16-for-49 from the field (33 percent) and 7-for-10 at the free throw line, where the Storm had a 15-for-24 night.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River is off to an 0-3 start. "Our kids will continue to work hard and hopefully will improve enough to also be one of those teams that could make a run," offered Christian.

TRF Elks Hoop Shoot is planned Dec. 17 at FMS

Annual Thief River Falls Elks Hoop Shoot free throw shooting contest will be held Saturday, Dec. 17, at Franklin Middle School.

The event is open to boys and girls ages 8-13. Participants must be registered by 12:30 p.m.

Top two finishers in each age group will move on to the area competition.

For additional information, contact Jeff Johnson by calling 681-1070.

Bergland at Booster Club

Lincoln High School boys head hockey coach Scott Bergland will be the guest speaker at the Thursday, Dec. 15, Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club meeting. The group meets at noon at the Heritage Center.

TRF JV girls win hockey debut vs. Detroit Lakes

A limited Thief River Falls junior varsity girls high school hockey schedule began with a win Thursday as the Prowlers beat Detroit Lakes 5-2.

Val Meyers, Raina Peterson, Haleigh Stegeman, Maddy Aandal and Ashley Meunier scored goals for the winners, who led 3-1 after one period and had the final score on the board by the end of the second period.

Thief River Falls goalie Jade Gothberg stopped 19 shots.

TRF freshmen girls fall to Spuds' sophomores

Thief River Falls ninth grade girls basketball team lost a 52-36 Friday match-up with the Moorhead sophomore squad.

Beth Tvedt scored 15 points and Krista Moyer had 9 for the Prowlers, down 28-19 at halftime.

Nordics open with win

Defending Section 8A champion Marshall County Central opened the 2005-06 boys high school basketball season with five new faces in the starting line-up...and a Friday night win over Tri-County, 44-40.

"That's a huge win for us," said Marshall County Central coach Jake Rantanen, whose program suffered heavy graduation losses after finishing fourth in last year's Class A state tournament. "We have a lot of new kids this year. It's important that we improve every game."

The Nordics protected a 22-19 halftime edge with a second half defensive adjustment in the middle that limited the Wildcats' Spencer Johnson, who had nine points by halftime, to just two over the final 18 minutes. Nolan Berg and J.R. Christianson also had 11 points each for the visitors.

Kyle Klasen of the Nordics led all scorers with 18 points. Rantanen also gave special recognition to Evan Maki, a sophomore who made his first varsity start at point guard a memorable one with 8 points, 7 rebounds 6 assists and two free throws with seven seconds left in what was a 42-40 game at the time.

"It was a pretty good first game – back-and-forth," offered Rantanen, who announced during the off-season that he would be leaving teaching and coaching to accept another job opportunity. As it turned out, the switch in professions didn't require him to give up coaching.

Scoring

Mustangs win opener

Red Lake County Central came up with a 54 percent 34-for-63 first-night shooting performance as the Mustangs opened the 2005-06 boys high school basketball season with a high-scoring 84-70 Tuesday (Dec. 6) win over rival Red Lake Falls.

Joe Goulet and Kyle Vettleson both had 28-point nights for the winners, with Andrew Vettleson adding 14 and Ian Mercil netting 10. Red Lake Falls answered with a 25-point game by Jeff Weiss and 21 from Pat Leines.

"This was a nice first win," said Red Lake County Central coach Randy Huie. "It was a hard-fought victory; a good way to start the season."

Kyle Vettleson completed a double-double with 11 rebounds.

ECHOES FROM THE PAST

Out in Society

From the Thief River Falls Times December 18, 1970

Christmas Party

"The home of Mrs. H. A. Brumund was the scene of a festive affair last Friday night when the losers of the bridge club entertained the winners at a Christmas party. The evening began with a six-thirty turkey dinner, served at a beautifully appointed table with covers placed for twelve. Christmas decorations prevailed, a miniature Christmas tree making a delightful centerpiece for the table. Following the dinner, bridge was enjoyed, high score being awarded to Mrs. L. G. Larson, and low to Mrs. Paul Lundgren."

Trinity Church Senior Choir to Don New Gowns

"Members of the Trinity Lutheran church Senior Choir will appear before the congregation in new gowns at festival services Christmas Day. On the same occasion a candelabra is expected to be in place, the gift of the Willing Workers organization of the church."

Trinity Lutheran Church
R. M. Fjelstad, Pastor

"Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Special choir anthem. Sermon subject, 'Jesus Presenting His Credentials.'

"Sunday school and Bible classes at 10 o'clock.

"Evening worship at 7:45. Selection by the Junior choir. Sermon subject, 'Looking for the Savior.'

"This week:

"German service on Christmas morning at 10:30. Lesson: I John 1:1-3 Theme: 'John's Christmas Sermon.'

"Rehearsal of the Christmas program Sunday afternoon at 2."

High School Progress
Home Economics Girls Make Christmas Gifts

"An average of 75 people per day are taking hot lunches at the Lincoln high school. Out of these 75, 50 are buying milk from the school and many are bringing their own milk.

"The food classes are making their own Christmas candy. Besides this, the Home Economics classes have just finished their plaques done in linoleum carving. The students made their own designs and either waxed, painted or shelaqued them. These are very beautiful Christmas gifts.

"This week the Home Economics II classes are working out other gift problems, including tie-dying, batik and plaited lamp shades."

From The Upper Falls

The News, John W. Eastman, Publisher December 21, 1905

War at Erskine

"Erskine Echo: The Great Northern commenced last week to fence in their right-of-way on the west side of town. The fencing commences on the corner of the Arlington hotel and crosses the main road at the lumber yard, then west of Gilbertson and Espeseth's elevator. The reason of the company's action is that a few weeks ago they decided to build more side tracks here and needed more ground and being unable to purchase this ground at their own price, they attempted to bluff to the limit, we are of the impression that the business men of Erskine and the farmers adjacent thereto will also do a little 'bluffing' against the Great Northern, which will be a far greater loss for the company than the town."

Prospects Not So Good
Water Works Not Likely to Be of Any Use This Winter
Steam Pipe for Heating the Tank is Frozen Up Solid

"The large tank to be used to supply the water of the city mains was again filled up Monday evening and Tuesday morning it was found that the leaks in the mains in various parts of town had lowered the water some seven feet. At this rate, it would not take long for all of the water in the tank to leak out and so most of the mains have been shut off.

"The prospects of the city plant being operated this winter are decidedly poor now, as a new trouble has been discovered. The pipe enclosed in the wood casing which runs from the tank to the water mains in the ground is freezing, and it is feared that it will freeze so hard that the pipes will break if there is any spell of cold weather. There was a small steam pipe which was to be used for the purpose of keeping the water in the tank from freezing that was run up inside of the wood casing that covers the pipe. This steam pipe has frozen and burst and the only way it can be gotten at to be repaired is to take off the wood casing. It would be quite an undertaking to do this in the wintertime and it is quite probable that no attempt will be made to fix it until spring. As the matter now stands, there is no way of heating the tank or pipes inside of the casings, and it is thought that the city would be taking great chances in keeping the tank full of water, for being exposed as it is, it would be quite liable to freeze and burst."

Stole a Big Lot of Goods
Swen Swenson's Store Broken Into on Saturday Evening
A Whole Sleigh Load of Goods Stolen from the Store

"Sometime Saturday night or early Sunday morning, Swen Swenson's store in the Odd Fellows block was broken into and a large amount of goods was taken. Entrance to the store was gained by breaking in a window in the basement of the building and from there going upstairs and then opening the doors in the rear of the building. Everything indicates that the job was done by parties well acquainted with the building and a sleigh load of goods was taken.

"Mr. Swenson does not know the amount of his loss, as it is almost impossible to tell what goods were taken. There was only $3 in the cash register and this, together with numerous other articles in all departments of the store, is missing. Among the articles missing from the store are: a fur coat, a large amount of silks and dress goods, six boxes of apples, a quantity of canned goods in the grocery department, a large number of pairs of shoes and overshoes. It is very evident that a load of goods as much as a two horse team could haul was taken. It seems strange that so large an amount of goods could be taken right in the business portion of the city with as many people upon the streets nights as there is in Thief River Falls.

"There seems to be no clue as to who did the job, and yet all feel certain that it was local parties. The police should try in every way to locate the guilty parties and see that justice is done."

Turning Back The Times...

1875 — One Hundred Thirty Years Ago

—Frank Carney, late conductor on the Glyndon and Crookston branch [rail]road, was killed a few days since on the main line of the St. Paul and Pacific, being run over by a locomotive. (Red River Star, Moorhead, Clay County)

—The government should put some money into fixing up the Goose Rapids section of the Red River of the North. (Red River Star, Moorhead, Clay County)

—Some parties have cut down the telegraph poles between Moorhead and Georgetown, thereby destroying the guides for the stage drivers and occasioning trouble for the stages on their route over the prairie. (Red River Star, Moorhead, Clay County)

1885 — One Hundred Twenty Years Ago

—Wheat came in so fast last week at the new Black River elevator, that the elevator and cars were filled to their utmost capacity, so they had to stop buying for several days until more cars were procured. (Crookston Weekly Times)

—It begins to look as if Andrew Swanson means to give up his bachelor life, as he has sided up his house and finished it up in good shape and bought of Brink Brothers of St. Hilaire a fine Swell Body Cutter. (Crookston Weekly Times)

—C. H. Saake has purchased a farm up near Ives Station on the Black river. (Polk County Journal)

1895 — One Hundred Ten Years Ago

—Lawyer F. A. Grady is laid up with measles which he got in Crookston.

—Miss Ada McMahan will do plain sewing at her residence on the east side or go out sewing by the day.

—A lumberjack from Sprague's camp reports a full crew and wages of $10 to $18 per month and out to the swamps before daylight.

1905 — One Hundred Years Ago

—Swen Swenson's store in the Evenson block was broken into Saturday and a large amount of goods was taken.

—Articles of incorporation are being prepared for the Pioneer Sash and Door company, a new factory to be located north of the Great Northern depot.

—D. N. Winton of the Thief River Falls Lumber company has purchased a new sawmill and several thousand acres of standing pine near Prince Albert, Saskatchewan.

1915 — Ninety Years Ago

—Two literary societies have been organized at the high school.

—Ira C. Richardson served as toastmaster at the annual banquet of the fire department in the Evelyn hotel.

—A community Christmas tree provided by Peder Engelstad was brought in by P. W. Mabey and J. H. McKinney.

1925 — Eighty Years Ago

—Three local Lutheran churches will join to present a Christmas cantata December 28 at the city auditorium.

—George Mostue, president of the Lincoln high school alumni association, is preparing for the annual reunion.

1935 — Seventy Years Ago

—Lloyd Nelson has been named president of the Pennington County Power association, sponsor of the Goodridge rural electrification project.

—The city council has named C. M. Everson, longtime resident, to serve as city poor overseer.

—District Judge M. A. Brattland and Court Reporter Harley Swenson were hosts to a group of officials at the housewarming in the new courtroom in the auditorium.

1945 — Sixty Years Ago

—Russell E. Olson, manager of the local employment office, has resigned to accept an appointment as full-time secretary of the Civic and Commerce association.

—H. M. Hoel and son Howard have acquired a substantial interest in the Northern Woodwork company and taken over management of the firm.

—With Fred Wengeler in charge, the Sportsmen's store opened for business in the L. B. Hartz block.

Further Details Received On Ford Foundation Grant

"Half of the $32,700 grant to the local Northwestern hospital will be forthcoming 'shorty after receipt of evidence of eligibility' by the grantors, the fabulous Ford Foundation.

"In disclosing this information which he had received in a letter Tuesday, H. W. Peterson, administrator of the hospital, said the balance would be forthcoming at the discretion of the foundation within 18 months.

"As had been made known when the huge philantrophic organization announced bequests totalling half a billion dollars to 615 private colleges and 3,500 publicly-supported, non-profit hospitals, strict conditions as to the use to which the money might be put were laid down.

"Three of these possibilities which Mr. Peterson felt the hospital board of directors might consider are: '1. improvement of, or additions to, existing physical equipment; 2. additions to or training of hospital personnel; 3. conducting medical research.'

"The foundation's letter stated that the hospital must furnish some idea of what the plans are before March 15, 1956, Peterson said, and at the end of two years, must furnish a statement showing all grant money expenditures, actual or planned."

Dorothy School Destroyed By Fire Monday Morning

"The one-story frame school house at Dorothy, southwest of Red Lake Falls, burned to the ground early Monday morning with losses estimated at $15,000. Neighbors called Red Lake Falls firemen when they noticed the blaze at about 6:30 a.m., but the building was gutted when fire equipment arrived, Chief Laurence Fournier said. The fire apparently was caused by an overheated furnace.

"The firemen confined their efforts to preventing spread of the flames. At its height the blaze was seen more than 10 miles away.

"The school had been recently modernized and was attended by 19 students of grade school age."

Old Man Winter Brings 32 Below Reading Monday

"Old Man Winter gave himself a real workout in this community during the past week when the mercury failed to rise above the zero mark from Friday evening until this morning.

"A record low mark for the past several years of 32 below was registered on the KTRF thermometer Monday morning, while the high reading for the day was -8. Sunday wasn't much better, with a low of -27 and a high of -6. The reading at 9 o'clock this morning had risen to 5 above.

"Several inches more of snow arrived Tuesday. Oh, well, the sun starts traveling north again Thursday."

Free Movie Show Friday Afternoon

"Thief River Falls merchants will be the hosts to children of the area at a free Christmas movie program at the Falls and Avalon theatres Friday, December 23, starting at 2 o'clock. Tickets are available at local stores without charge for the show, which will include 'Fangs of the Wild,' a dog story, in addition to numerous short cartoons.

"Local, public and parochial schools will close early Friday afternoon to give the pupils an opportunity to attend, and the school buses will not begin their return trip to the rural areas until the show is completed."

"The gates have been shut at the dam and the small boys are figuring on some holiday skating.

"John Carlson has finished his job of painting the two sawmill smoke stacks doing the job in 15 1/2 hours.

"The Epworth League of the Methodist-Episcopal church will give a basket social at Mr. Hull's farm southeast of town Wednesday evening, December 27th. Teams will leave about 7:30. All are cordially invited to attend.

"Manager Evans has a crew of men at work this week putting in a new boiler at the planing mill. The old one has been taken out and the new one put in place, but it will take a couple of weeks more to do the brick work and make the connections.

"Rev. Alex Sand informs us that he has a few busy days ahead. He will hold services here and at Black River tomorrow and on Christmas Day will start at Black River by holding services at 6 a.m, here in the afternoon, at the Clara church in River Falls township in the evening, and Tuesday at Thief River Falls in the morning."

Six Tons to an Acre

"Andrew Soderberg came in from his Rocksbury farm last Thursday and tells the biggest hay story of the year. He informs us that he cut 26 tons the first crop and 36 tons the second crop from a ten-acre field of red clover this year, making over six tons of clover to an acre. The field was sown to timothy and clover, but the timothy was all crowded out. This will clearly prove that the past season, although the wettest in year, was not too wet for tame hay where land was properly drained."

Band Concert

"The band concert last Monday evening was not as well patronized as it should have been. The boys are playing very much better than formerly and the hard work they have done lately has brought results. The program was well received by the audience and Professor Onstad and the boys received many congratulations for their improvement."

The Farmers Meet
Resolve to Build a Flour Mill and Elevator at St. Hilaire
Committees Appointed and Canvassers Named to Solicit Members

"The farmers' meeting held at the village hall last Saturday and called for the purpose of considering the advisability of building a flour mill here was attended by a large number of the prominent farmers of this vicinity. The meeting showed plainly that there was plenty of the old spirit of energy and co-operation which has done so much in the past. There were differences of opinion in regard to the best plan to be adopted but when the resolution 'To build an elevator and flour mill, capacity between 50 and 75 barrels,' was put to a vote it was carried without a dissenting voice."

Auxiliary shows its caring spirit

Northwest Medical Center Auxiliary is undertaking another worthwhile project - not, of course, that it isn't always participating in worthwhile projects. It's just that this project will have a significant impact on patients and families placed in extraordinarily difficult or trying times.

As envisioned by members of the Auxiliary, the two Caring Rooms, one for the patient and one for family, will provide comfortable settings for a patient who is very sick, often at the end stages of life, and his or her family. The two large suites will include bathrooms, sofas, reclining chairs, televisions and a microwave oven, all packaged in a home-like atmosphere.

The Auxiliary receives its income from the gift and coffee shop it operates at the hospital, as well as the $5 membership fee it receives from its 200 or so members. This project will require support from the entire community.

The Auxiliary participates in many worthwhile projects. It provides teddy bears for pediatric patients, breast pump rentals to new moms, Hedliner Gear for cancer patients, and helps deliver Meals on Wheels. Obviously, it's a group that's proud to be a part of the community and constantly looks for ways it can help meet the needs of the community. For these reasons, this project needs the attention and support of the entire community. If you're interested in finding out more information about this project, or would like to make a donation, please call Bev Rupprecht at 683-4190.

Why you should shop TRF first

The clerk at JC Penney in Thief River Falls told me I saved over $60 by shopping there when I did. My good timing helped me save that much, but by shopping where I did, I saved more than that.

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce recently distributed a pamphlet that reminds us of the importance of shopping here. Business owners understand that price and selection are important, and, they know that sometimes it's necessary to shop elsewhere because the item you want can't be found locally or the price is significantly lower. The "Shop Thief River Falls First" promotion was not developed to stop people from shopping elsewhere. It was developed simply to create a sense of awareness about the importance of shopping locally.

Looking at this brochure, it occurred to me that I had accrued more than a savings of $64 when I shopped at the JC Penney store in Thief River Falls. Stop and look at all the empty store fronts. Wouldn't it be nice to see all of them filled? That can be accomplished, but it takes a willing consumer and a willing entrepreneur.

When you think of it, shopping in Thief River Falls helps keep a neighbor employed and keeps the doors of small business open. Research tells us that every dollar I spent means $4 to the local economy, and every dollar I spent helps encourage other local entrepreneurs to offer services and products in Thief River Falls. As the brochure notes, "By supporting local service, you not only save money, you open the door of opportunity for other services to move to town."

Shopping in Thief River Falls also helps keep taxes down. Taxes paid by you and local businesses helps the city provide many services - libraries and parks, to name a couple. And, have you ever considered what happens when and if the product you bought needs to be returned? While JC Penney has a pretty good return policy, it's a lot easier to return a product or get a product repaired at a local business.

Keep in mind weather and road conditions. Shopping in Thief River Falls is a lot less stressful than driving on icy roads to Grand Forks, N.D., and Fargo and competing with huge crowds of shoppers. So, whether you're finishing up, or just starting your Christmas shopping, remember to Shop Thief River Falls First.

Lacking "the" spirit?

Lacking the Christmas spirit? Does the hectic holiday season have you turned inside out?

Hurried holiday schedules often have a way of turning an important time of the year into a stressful and unhappy holiday time of year. A good way to turn that trend around is to attend one or more of the many holiday concerts that are scheduled, and plenty are scheduled for the next few weeks.

Attend a concert or a holiday program. It's a great way to get in the holiday spirit.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thankful for many things this Christmas

To the Editor:

The holiday season is a busy time filled with buying gifts, decorating the Christmas tree, and baking tons of goodies. But it is also a time of reflection, a time to look back on the past year, a time to count your blessings. Our family has so much to be thankful for this year and have had so many blessings given to us, that my eyes often fill with tears thinking about all that has taken place.

I am sure most of you have either read or heard about our son Brady, and what has taken place in his life since being assaulted this past May. Our family tends to concentrate on the good, not the bad, but as the sentencing of one of the individuals approaches, we have been forced to relive the bad moments as family and friends have been writing victim impact statements. These thoughts bring you back to the beginning when everything looked so bleak. A person could get stuck in that frame of mind, if you let yourself. As I have been reading these statements, one dominant theme runs through all of them, which is God's wonderful love for us and what he did for our son when the doctors had given up hope and had run out of options. Without our faith in God and his grace, our son would not be with us today. Often we think miracles only took place back in the times of the Bible, but we were shown every day that isn't so.

I have not looked at the pictures of Brady as he lay in his ICU bed very often because they are too painful to see, but because we are putting together our impact statements, we have had to. We have been reminded of how grave the situation was, his remarkable outcome, and how much we have to be thankful for. We are not only thankful for our son's recovery, but we are also thankful and appreciate the support our community, and the surrounding communities have given our family. That support came in all sorts of ways; from your prayers, from your donations, from a friendly smile on the street, to the benefits given for Brady. We truly live in a wonderful area of the country!

Brady

During this holiday season we will reflect back on the past year and count our many blessings, which will include all of you as well. We will not only celebrate our son's life which was given back to us, but also celebrate the birthday of Jesus, the son God gave to all of us. We wish you all a Merry Christmas and a year filled with joy and happiness.

The family of Brady Anderson

Dayton urges Senate to give farmers ag disaster aid before winter recess

U.S. Senator Mark Dayton has called on Congress to create a program of nationwide disaster assistance for farmers before the Senate adjourns for its winter recess.

"Before we go home to our holiday feasts, Congress ought to give thanks to the farmers that put food on our tables," said Dayton. "2005 has been a hard year for farmers across the country – more than half the counties in the nation have received disaster designations. Minnesota was hit hard with heavy rains and flooding this year, and those farmers need and deserve assistance from the federal government, just like farmers hit by hurricanes in the Gulf."

Northwestern Minnesota was ravaged last spring by severe storms and heavy rainfall. Flooding prevented planting in large areas, while existing crops were damaged by excessive rain, hail, and wind.

Sen. Kent Conrad's emergency spending legislation would compensate farmers for 50 percent of their production and quality losses above a 25 percent loss threshold.

His letter to Bill Frist, majority leader, and Harry Reid, Democratic leader, and cosigned by Dayton, stated:

"As you are aware, several bills have already been introduced in the Senate to provide this type of assistance to our agricultural producers. The supporters of these initiatives were requested to withhold offering them as amendments to the supplemental appropriations for hurricane relief as well as the annual agriculture appropriations bills in order to expedite the consideration and passage of those bills. Senators agreed to that request with the understanding that agricultural disaster assistance would be considered as part of other legislation that would come before the Senate this year.

"As the Senate concludes its agenda for the current session, we hope you will honor the commitment that agricultural disaster assistance will receive appropriate attention before we adjourn."

State meth law shows results

The number of methamphetamine labs in Minnesota has dropped significantly since implementation of a tough new law proposed by Gov. Tim Pawlenty and signed into law last June.

The law, which took effect on July 1, restricts access to cold and allergy products containing psuedoephedrine which are used to manufacture meth. These products are defined as Schedule V controlled substances, placed behind the pharmacy counter and may only be purchased in limited quantities. The law also includes new criminal penalties, $1 million for 10 new Bureau of Criminal Apprehension (BCA) agents for methamphetamine enforcement activities and $1.5 million for methamphetamine treatment grants to counties.

"This year we aimed squarely at the meth scourge that has invaded Minnesota," Pawlenty said. "Under the law, the state has made tremendous progress in battling meth, noted Pawlenty:

The third quarter of 2005 (July, August, September) shows improvement over 3rd quarter 2004:

- A 78 percent decrease in the number of meth labs seized
- A 75 percent decrease in arrests for manufacturing meth
- A 66 percent reduction in the amount of meth seized

Tellingly, there has been a 62 percent increase in the number of people attending drug task force presentations regarding meth.

"Public awareness and the assistance of retailers have played a major role in the reduction of meth labs in Minnesota," Public Safety Commissioner Michael Campion said. "Retailers like Target began moving products containing pseudoephedrine behind the counter even prior to the passage of the new law. Working together with local law enforcement, state officials are now on tracking the meth problem across Minnesota."

In addition to labeling meth precursor drugs a Schedule V substance, provisions in the new law also call for purchasers to be at least 18 years old, provide ID and sign a log. There is a purchase limit of six grams of pseudoephedrine in a 30-day period. A new crime of endangering children or vulnerable adults with meth-related activities was created and uniform clean-up and notification requirements were established for meth contaminated property.

"This is a very significant and comprehensive new law, but we know there is more to be done," Pawlenty [illegible]. "While the number of labs operating in Minnesota has been slashed, the number of meth arrests is still on the rise. Approximately 80 percent of the meth used in Minnesota is manufactured elsewhere and a portion of it comes here via illegal immigrants. [illegible] progress, the battle continues."

Hugoson: Minnesota has system in place to deal with avian influenza

by Gene Hugoson
Commissioner
Minnesota Dept. of Agriculture

Even before avian influenza (AI) became this fall's hot media story, Minnesota poultry producers and veterinarians knew plenty about the bird disease and its risks. That is why the state and the poultry industry have set up a system to aggressively monitor for, control and eradicate the disease should it show up in Minnesota poultry.

AI is actually a family of diseases that strike farm-raised and wild birds. The forms of the disease vary widely in severity and how easily they spread. Influenza in poultry is divided into two general types - high pathogenic and low pathogenic - based on the ability of the virus to cause disease in chickens. High pathogenic AI is a more severe disease in poultry than low pathogenic AI. However, even if an influenza strain causes severe disease in poultry, it does not necessarily mean it will cause disease in humans.

Like influenza in humans, forms of AI constantly circulate among wild and domestic birds. AI has become less common in Minnesota thanks to effective on-farm biosecurity and heightened vigilance among producers. However, the intense media focus on a nasty form of AI known as "H5N1" circulating in Asian and European birds has animal health officials and poultry industry leaders working overtime to educate the public about the disease and about our plans to keep it from becoming a problem here.

An outbreak of any form of AI could have serious economic consequences, not only for the poultry industry but also for corn and soybean producers. With an overall economic impact of nearly $1.5 billion, Minnesota's poultry industry is an important part of the state economy. That industry could face major hardship if an outbreak of a severe form of AI prompted other countries to close their borders to exports. This happened just recently when Canadian authorities reported a case of AI in ducks in British Columbia. This case was not related to the Asian "bird flu" and showed no indication of a human health risk, but as a precaution, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) barred poultry imports from the area.

Considering the stakes for human health and the economy, it's no surprise that preventing AI is a huge priority for the agricultural sector. In recent years, many U.S. poultry producers have adopted strong biosecurity measures to prevent bird diseases. Typical measures include limiting interaction between domestic and wild birds, limiting movement of people and materials from one poultry facility to another, and thoroughly cleaning and disinfecting facilities before bringing in new birds.

If a case of high pathogenic AI were suspected in a poultry flock, samples would be collected and sent to state and federal laboratories for testing. At the same time, Minnesota Board of Animal Health (BAH) officials would stop movement of birds and other products to or from the affected farm. If the disease were a high pathogenic form, the affected birds would be killed and the facility would be cleaned and disinfected before new birds were delivered. State, local and private entities would be notified and the USDA would be brought in as a partner to help with the response.

Finally, if the AI strain showed a public health risk, animal health officials would immediately contact the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) to ensure appropriate measures were taken to prevent spreading it to the public as well as to protect those working with infected poultry flocks. MDH and the Minnesota Office of Homeland Security and Emergency Management would take the lead if H5N1 or another form of AI mutated into a form that spread easily among humans.

For more information about AI and the state's prevention, detection and eradication effort, please visit the BAH Web site at www.bah.state.mn.us. For more details about human influenza, [illegible]

Orchestras to present Christmas Concert Dec. 19

Franklin Middle School (FMS) and Lincoln High School (LHS) orchestras will present their annual Christmas Concert at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 19, in the high school auditorium. The cost is $5 for adults, and $3 for students and senior citizens. Proceeds from this event will benefit the orchestra program in Thief River Falls.

The FMS 6th Grade Orchestra will perform first, with "Star Dancer," a modal composition by Mark Williams that allows all sections to share the melody. They will then perform the following songs from their classroom book: "Scarborough Fair," made famous by Simon and Garfunkel; "Classical Bash," a medley of hits from Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven, the three big composers of the Classical period; "Liza Jane," in which we learned to fiddle; "O Tannenbaum," and "Holiday Special," a medley of "Hanukkah O Hanukkah," "Jolly Old St. Nicholas," and "Jingle Bells."

The FMS 7th Grade Orchestra will open its portion of the concert with "Curse of the Rosin-Eating Zombies from Outer Space," a spoof of the old science fiction "B" movie soundtracks from the 50's. They will then play an arrangement of "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer." The FMS 8th Grade Orchestra will start with "Farandole," based on the old French Christmas carol March of the Kings. They will then play the classic Christmas carol "The Little Drummer Boy."

The two orchestras will then combine to play the Baroque favorite "Brandenburg Concerto #5" by Johann Sebastion Bach, and an exciting newer work, "Arlington Sketches" by Eliot Del Borgo.

The LHS 11th and 12th Grade Orchestra will perform "Viola Concerto in G" by George Telemann. Senior violist Derek Mosloff will be featured with the orchestra. It is a four-movement work, with alternating slow and fast movements. Derek will be composing his own cadenzas, a solo in the middle of the piece where the orchestra stops and the viola continues on.

The combined LHS Orchestra will then perform "Mantras," an exciting modern work by Richard Meyer featuring layers of syncopated rhythms in differing time signatures. In celebration of Wolfgang A. Mozart's 250th birthday coming up in January, the orchestra will then perform two of his most famous works: Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," is probably his most famous work. Most people know the first movement, but many haven't heard the other three, which will also be played. Mozart's 25th Symphony is considered to be his first great symphony, in which he broke away from the Italian style of composition and started to add his own unique genius to the symphonic form. The orchestra will be joined by oboes and French horns for the performance of the first movement of the symphony. The concert will close with traditional Christmas music.

Orchestra students participating in the concert include: Sixth grade students - Alicia Mosloff, Tristan Fanfulik, Nathan Lindquist, Marissa Lehrer, Evelyn Jesme, Colton Reese, Roberta Erickson, Brett Drevlow, Brianna Drevlow, Brittany Johnson; Seventh grade students - Kelly Fynboh, Allison Holter, Taylor Woods, Kayla Nelson, Casey Braastad, Caitlin Nelson, Devin Spears, Kenton Johnson, Lauren Bauer, Shelby Dvergsten, LeeAnn Szeto; Eighth grade students - Johnnie Philipp, Meghan O'Connell, Emily Mosbeck, Stephen Bates, Anish Patel, Eva Bruggeman, Cambell Thompson, Tiffany Tischer, Ryan Olsen, Whitney Jacobson., Megan Aaland, Trey Kjono, Isabel Guerrero, Robin Houske, Zoe Pietras-Swanton, Erick Rhen, Hailey Bayne, Jamie Staite, Isaac Carlson, Lorissa Craigmille, Zach Pederson.

Lincoln High School Orchestra students performing in the concert include: First violin - Bethany Stroh, Doug Brekke, Krystle Cullen, Deseri Dillon, Amanda Hamre, Andrew Helgeland, Hannah Kainz, Elissa Northup, Ashley Peterson, Alicia Rader, Amanda Rader, Tim Sayler, Danielle Stenvik, Kristen Stenvik, and Eric Swanson; Second Violin - Cole Bylander, Tricia Bastian, Elizabeth Cox, Austin Kalsnes, Megan Miller, Nicole Mosloff, Ana Olson, Amber Sanders, Jill Solberg, Grant Spears, and Sarah Zaviska; Viola - Derek Mosloff, Alec Schmit, Erica Wayne, Hannah Waswick, Christine Daniels, and Justin Hopper, Cello - Mark Campbell, Calli Adamson, Mallory Asp, Joseph Carlson, Derek Dalen, Deepta Holalkere, Dylan Johnson, Kelly Meador, and Robby Stenson, Oboe - Alyssa Rogalla, Aaron Dahl, French Horn - Adam Sisler, Jenny Field Kyrie Jacobson, Bass - Ben Wallis, Matt Olson, Zach Johnson, Lance Ettleland, and Spencer Simmons.

Residents express concern over icy roads

County Highway Dept. used entire 70-ton stockpile during storm

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Tomorrow (Dec. 22) is the winter solstice and first official day of winter. Just don't tell that to Pennington County Engineer Mike Flaagan, who informed Pennington County commissioners that the Highway Department had already utilized its entire 70-tons of stored salt.

According to Flaagan, the county uses less than 70 tons of salt most years. Lately, it's been a different story, according to Flaagan, who reported that Pennington County used 370 tons of salt in 2005 and all 70 tons of its stored salt during the Nov. 27-29 ice storm.

Pennington County essentially ran out of salt during the two-day ice storm. In the past, Pennington County would have borrowed salt from the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT), which cares for state and federal roads.

Unfortunately, Mn/DOT has a dry pavement policy, which means that it must continually salt and scrape roads until they are ice free. Mn/DOT also experienced a salt shortage and denied Pennington County's requests to borrow salt.

Pennington County residents Tom and Sheila Simpson expressed their concern over icy roads to commissioners and Flaagan during the Dec. 13 Pennington County Board meeting. Sheila Simpson used CSAH 3 as an example, where extremely icy conditions have led several vehicles into surrounding ditches. Even drivers who maintained a slow speed have trouble staying in control of their vehicles, she said.

She called the highway department because it appeared that nothing was being done to improve driving conditions on county roads.

"I was told that there were no plans to put anything on the roads," Sheila Simpson said. She asked Flaagan about the potential use of sand alone, when there is no salt. Flaagan explained that without salt, sand wouldn't bite into the ice and would just be pushed to the side of the road by traveling vehicles.

Sheila Simpson said she was concerned over the lack of supplies. Flaagan said the county's existing salt shed holds a capacity of 70 tons of salt and 70 tons were stored there before the ice storm.

"What we had on hand is what we normally go through in an entire year," Flaagan said, adding that three semi loads of salt (25 tons each) were ordered the day after the ice storm hit. But because Mn/DOT is a higher priority, it took more than a week for additional salt to arrive.

When asked how the Highway Department decides which roads to salt first, Flaagan responded, that county roads with the highest traffic volume are addressed first. He also said the county's roads shouldn't be compared to the state's roads, which are cared for under a dry pavement policy, with a budget of more than $1 million.

No action was taken.

Compost facility goes to high bidder

Arctic Cat to expand its testing area

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Bids for the sale of the Pennington County Compost Facility were opened during the Dec. 13 meeting of the Pennington County Board of Commissioners. A total of four entities bid on two tracts of land that make up the compost facility property. Tract A contains 8.47 acres and is improved with two metal commercial buildings totalling 56,000 square feet. Tract B contains 8.4 acres and is unimproved.

Arctic Cat Inc. presented the high bid of $140,000, but unlike its competitors, it did not submit separate bids for Tract A and Tract B. Instead it submitted one bid for both tracts and listed the following provisions: Pennington County agrees to vacate the crossroad within an 18 month period; the cost of relocating the crossroad will be covered by Arctic Cat; and the county will allow snowmobile testing to cross the county's easement.

Ron Ray, Arctic Cat vice president of operations, said, "It is our intention to use the western portion of that tract as an extended field test area. I have two provisions and their both reasonable and they'll both be paid for by Arctic Cat."

Bob Carlson moved to accept the high bid presented by Arctic Cat and appoint a sub committee to review provisions. Commissioner Arden "Bud" Comstock was absent. Neither of the other two commissioners in attendance, Don Jensen or Oliver "Skip" Swanson seconded the motion, and it died.

Both Jensen and Swanson felt the board shouldn't accept the bid until the solid waste committee could review and discuss the provisions with Arctic Cat officials.

"It's very strange to me that you won't second a motion that will accept a bid, pending the committee's approval," Ray said.

Carlson attempted to restate his motion, to ask the board to approve the high bid pending committee approval, but he was stopped by County Attorney Dave Olin, who reminded Carlson that could not make a second motion after his first motion failed. Instead, Charles Naplin temporarily stepped down as

School Board certifies a 13.21 levy increase

by David Hill
Editor

School District 564 Board of Education certified a 13.21 percent levy increase Monday night.

The 2005 levy, payable 2006, is expected to raise $2,719,250.36, a 13.21 percent increase over last year's levy. District Business Manager Harry Nelson cautioned that the 13.21 percent increase does not translate on a one-to-one basis. Many factors influence individual property tax rates. Nelson also noted that statewide, the average increase among school districts was 18.4 percent.

School District 564 conducted its 2005 Truth in Taxation hearing on Dec. 6. Nelson said no one from the public attended the hearing. Monday night, he presented a brief analysis of school district property taxes prepared by the Minnesota Rural Education Association (MREA) that explained why levies across the state are increasing.

The MREA report explained that state deficits had a significant impact on the state, which had taken over education funding in 2001. "With a massive state budget deficit and no new state revenue to finance the general education takeover, the legislature flat funded core education programs and cut programming 'outside of the classroom,' such as after-school enrichment grants." In addition, reductions were made to several programs and in its place, local levy options were created to cushion the loss of state funds.

In presenting the school's budget, Nelson pointed out that while overall, funding has been increased, the state's share has decreased through changes to equalization rates. As a result, property owners are paying a greater share of the cost of education.

Technology Update

School District 564 purchased its first computers in 1993. Since its original purchase of 150 computers, the District now has over 1,000 computers. And, from no Internet user accounts, it now has over 2,000. That's just a short laundry list of major changes in technology in the district that Jim Kotz and Janet O'Hara presented to the Board of Education Monday night.

When looking at technology in the district, Kotz said it's important to look at where the district has been and where its going. Since the first purchase of a computer in 1993, a

City's portion of property taxes to decrease in 2006

City approves preparation of feasibility report on improvements

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Next year, city of Thief River Falls property owners won't see an increase in the city's portion of their property taxes.

The Thief River Falls City Council has certified its 2006 property tax levy at $1,709,623, which is a 2 percent decrease over last year. The Council approved the levy and the 2006 city budget at its Dec. 13 meeting.

Finance Director Lisa Johnson attributed the levy decrease to an increase in Local Government Aid. She also noted the levy decrease was made possible due to the city's in-depth budget process; its discussions of whether to fill vacancies in city departments; and its restraint in going to the bond market.

City Council approved the preparation of a feasibility report for the 2006 Improvements Project.

Two of next year's proposed projects have been on feasibility reports in the past; however, they were removed once owners of adjacent properties voiced their concerns. Those proposed projects include the reconstruction of a frontage road that is adjacent to Northern Motors and UPS as well as the reconstruction of an alleyway from Second to Third streets, west of Main Avenue.

The feasibility report will also include the proposed relocation of Greenwood Street. That street could potentially be relocated to the south of The Lantern and to the north of the AmericInn-franchise property. The relocation could happen now, later or never, but it is included in the site plans for the AmericInn, Public Works Director Ron Lindberg said.

The other proposed projects include:

- First Street from Main Avenue to Knight Avenue – Bituminous reclamation
- Brooks Avenue, south of Third Street – Bituminous reclamation and right-turn lanes
- Hanson Drive – Utilities extension to County Road 62
- Countryside Mobile Home Park – Placement of bituminous street wearing course
- Atlantic Avenue and Second Street – Reconstruction
- Clean and televise 10 percent of the city's storm sewers per the storm water utility
- Install miscellaneous drain tile and sump connections per the storm water utility
- Miscellaneous water main repairs for the Water Department
- Oakland Park Road and the Midwest Minnesota Community Development Corporation (MMCDC) development area – Placement of bituminous wearing course, which was requested by MMCDC
- Greenwood Street – Street and utilities improvements, which were requested by the property owners, for the Ault, Beito and Ness properties
- Hanson Drive – Street and storm sewer improvements, which were requested by property owners

"The feasibility report doesn't mean [a project is] going to be done," said Lindberg, who noted it gives city employees the opportunity to determine the costs of those proposed projects, call a public hearing to let property owners know about the proposals, and let the Council and public decide whether a particular project is going to proceed.

TRF man sentenced to prison after juvenile sentences revoked

A Pennington County District Court judge sentenced a Thief River Falls man to prison Dec. 5 after his juvenile criminal sentences were revoked.

Jason Edward Grindeland, 18, was sentenced to 21 months in prison on a felony second degree assault charge. That sentence is to be served concurrently with the sentences for a gross-misdemeanor fourth degree assault charge and a felony theft charge. Grindeland was also ordered to pay $1,436.28 in restitution.

Originally, Grindeland received a stayed adult sentence for the 2004 felony assault offense, which he committed when he was 17. He was then placed on extended juvenile jurisdiction (EJJ) supervision, meaning the sentence would be stayed until he turned 21 as long as he didn't violate the conditions of that sentence. However, he recently pled guilty to a felony theft charge, thus violating the conditions of the juvenile sentence. The EJJ sentence was revoked, and Grindeland received the adult sentence.

Grindeland was also sentenced to one year in prison on a gross-misdemeanor fourth degree assault charge for the same 2004 incident. That assault sentence is to be served concurrently with the aforementioned felony second degree assault and felony theft charges. He was sentenced after the EJJ sentence was revoked. That revocation occurred after he pled guilty to a felony theft charge, thus violating the conditions of the juvenile sentence.

The assault charges stemmed from a July 16, 2004, report to police that Grindeland was carrying a baseball bat and chasing another man in Riverview Trailer Court. Prior to that report, Grindeland asked the man if he wanted to fight. He took the bat from the other man's car and got onto the car's hood. The man drove to Riverview, where Grindeland eventually found him and attempted to kick in a door of a home. He hit the man's car with the bat, causing damage. Grindeland also swung at the other man and chased him.

Upon responding to the report, a police officer observed Grindeland and the other man. The officer identified himself to Grindeland, who swung the bat at the officer, but didn't hit him. Grindeland then ran for several blocks, eventually dropping the baseball bat. It took more than one attempt with a TASER to try to subdue Grindeland, the criminal complaint indicated. The officer was able to capture Grindeland, but he had to hold Grindeland down until another officer could arrive.

Stephen William Peltier, 21, Thief River Falls, was also sentenced Dec. 5 for a felony offense. He pled guilty to an offense of third degree assault. A five-year stay of imposition was granted. Peltier was sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was ordered to serve two years and six months on supervised probation. Peltier was ordered to pay $132 in fees and fines. The state has reserved the right to request restitution. Peltier was ordered to submit a DNA sample. He was ordered to submit to random tests/searches as well. While on routine patrol July 16, a police officer observed Peltier punching another man near the American Legion Club. The man was treated at Northwest Medical Center, where he received five stitches for a laceration in the back of his head, according to the criminal complaint.

Numerous traffic offenses and other misdemeanors are included in the latest edition of the Pennington County Citation Disposition Bulletin.^

Law enforcement report features DWI offenses

Fourth degree driving while intoxicated: After driving-while-intoxicated (DWI) test results were available, an individual has been cited. Anthony Scott Thom, 25, Thief River Falls, was cited for fourth degree DWI. He was stopped by police Dec. 3 after his vehicle allegedly spun out while he was attempting to turn onto Longren Avenue.

Disorderly conduct: On Dec. 7 at 3:15 p.m., police received a report of disorderly conduct. A 14-year-old Thief River Falls male allegedly sent a malicious e-mail to a Lincoln High School teacher. The juvenile has charges pending for disorderly conduct.

Driving while intoxicated: On Dec. 11 at 1:51 a.m., the sheriff's department received a report that "some kids" allegedly threatened customers at the St. Hilaire Liquor Store after employees refused to serve them alcohol. The department was given a description of a vehicle in which the people were riding. A deputy sheriff allegedly observed the vehicle being driven out of Northside Trailer Court. The driver shut off the vehicle's headlights, but no one exited the vehicle. The deputy allegedly found a female in the passenger seat, and a man lying down and pretending to be passed out. Clint Stewart Panek, 19, Goodridge, has charges pending for driving while intoxicated.

Fifth degree assault: On Dec. 12 at 3:51 p.m., police received a report that a juvenile under the age of 16 had allegedly yelled at and threatened a woman in the 700 block of Eighth St. E. When police officers arrived at the scene, they learned Raylene M. Fineday, 22, Thief River Falls, allegedly argued with the juvenile and hit her in the face with a telephone, causing cuts to the girl's face. Fineday has been cited for fifth degree assault. The juvenile doesn't have any charges pending.

Fifth degree assault and violation of a harassment order: On Dec. 13 at 10:04 p.m., police received a report that a man had passed out in the coatroom at the Eagles Club and an ambulance was needed. When officers arrived, they determined the man was conscious and bloody. Dale Arvid Toren, 48, Thief River Falls, allegedly struck the man several times after the man went into the coatroom because the man thought his blood sugar was low. Toren then allegedly fled the scene. A Marshall County deputy sheriff located Toren in that county. Toren was cited for fifth degree assault and violation of a harassment order. Toren allegedly violated a harassment order by having contact with a woman at the club even though she has a harassment order filed against him.

Theft and property damage: On Dec. 14 at 1:49 p.m., police received a report of a theft in the Campus Court Apartments parking lot. Someone broke a window on a 1999 Ford Explorer and stole a portable DVD player inside the vehicle. A DVD was inside of the DVD player at the time of the theft. The theft loss is estimated at $300. The report didn't indicate the dollar amount of the damage. The incident remains under investigation.

Accident: On Dec. 15 at 12:29 p.m., police received a report of an accident at the intersection of Third Street and Tindolph Avenue. A 1997 Saturn SC1 driven by Brandon Nicoli Halstad of Fertile and a 1997 Dodge pickup driven by Justin David Kachena of Thief River Falls collided. At the time of the accident, Kachena was attempting to cross Third Street. The report indicated he told police he tried to stop in the center median, but his vehicle slid on the ice, colliding with the westbound Halstad vehicle. Kachena's vehicle sustained $600 in damage, and Halstad's vehicle sustained $2,000 in damage.

Driving while intoxicated: On Dec. 17 at 1:10 a.m., a police officer allegedly observed an eastbound vehicle traveling in the westbound lane of Eighth Street. Driving-while-intoxicated test results are pending on the driver, Wade Ryan Jorde, 33, Thief River Falls.

Driving while intoxicated: On Dec. 17 at 1:30 a.m., police received a report that a driver was allegedly traveling in the middle of Main Avenue. Police followed the driver, who had turned east onto First Street. According to the report, James Alan Olson, 44, Thief River Falls, allegedly drove over the white line that separates two lanes of traffic. Driving-while-intoxicated test results are pending on Olson.

Property damage: On Dec. 17 at 5:38 p.m., the sheriff's department received a report of property damage at Petro Pumper. A semi driver drove into the semi wash bay and damaged a door, which hadn't yet fully opened. Damage was estimated at $5,000. The incident remains under investigation.

Driving while intoxicated: While participating in a Safe & Sober patrol Dec. 17 at 9:50 p.m., a police officer allegedly observed a weaving vehicle on Highway 1 East. Driving-while-intoxicated test results are pending on the driver, John Timothy Bulger, 22, Thief River Falls.

Disorderly conduct and underage consumption: On Dec. 17 at 9:57 p.m., police received a report of a fight at the Rusty Nail. Alex Jon Hinrichs, 18, Red Lake Falls, allegedly attempted to enter the bar with an open can of beer and was denied entry. Hinrichs was also allegedly asked to leave when he couldn't produce an ID. He then allegedly struggled with an owner and an employee, ripping the owner's shirt. Hinrichs was cited for disorderly conduct and underage consumption.

Driving after suspension, open bottle and underage consumption: While on patrol Dec. 18 at 12:25 a.m., police allegedly observed someone driving a vehicle with an obstructed view caused by frost. The vehicle was pulled over near the intersection of Pennington Avenue and Nora Street. Brittney Juell Olberg, 24, Thief River Falls, was cited for driving after suspension. Raylene M. Fineday, 22, Thief River Falls, was cited for open bottle. Sonny Allen Peltier, 20, Thief River Falls, was cited for underage consumption.

Driving while intoxicated: On Dec. 18 at 1:58 a.m., a driver allegedly drove out of an alleyway, nearly colliding with a squad car. Lisa Grisanti Lowell, 36, Thief River Falls, then allegedly made a wide turn into an oncoming lane on LaBree Avenue. Driving-while-intoxicated test results are pending on Lowell.

If readers have any information about the aforementioned crimes or offenses, they are urged to contact the Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

New laws take effect January 1 in Minnesota

On Jan. 1, new laws will take effect in the state of Minnesota. Drivers under the age of 18 will be prohibited from talking on a handheld or hands-free cell phone while driving except in emergencies. This is only one of several new laws taking effect Jan. 1, 2006 passed by the Minnesota Legislature during the 2005 session and special session, and signed into law by Gov. Tim Pawlenty.

A listing of selected new laws follows. The asterisk (HF898*) following the bill number denotes the language that became law. A complete summary of new laws, vetoed bills and bills in limbo from the 2005 session is available online from House Public Information Services by logging onto www.house.mn/hinfo/newlaws/newlawsmain.asp.

Transportation

As of Jan. 1, drivers under the age of 18 will be prohibited from talking on a handheld or hands-free cell phone while driving, except in emergencies. The law applies to those with learner's permits and provisional licenses.

The provision is part of the omnibus transportation law sponsored by Rep. Mary Liz Holberg (R-Lakeville) and Sen. Steve Murphy (DFL-Red Wing). (2005 Special Session: HF140*/SF105/CH6)

Crime

Beginning Jan. 1, people convicted of manufacturing or attempting to manufacture methamphetamine or similar drugs involving precursor chemicals may be required to pay restitution to police and fire departments and any other government agencies involved in an emergency response to their criminal activity.

In addition, meth makers may be forced to pay restitution to any property owner who "incurred removal or remediation costs" as a result of their crimes.

The legislation, sponsored by Rep. Steve Smith (R-Mound) and Sen. Jane B. Ranum (DFL-Minneapolis), also requires any peace officer who discovers a clandestine meth lab to notify the local health department, state duty officer and child protection services of the location of the site. The site must then be cleaned up according to department guidelines before it can be inhabited or sold.

Anyone selling property that formerly housed a meth lab must inform potential buyers that meth production occurred on the property, according to the law. (HF1*/SF609/CH136)

Health

Included in the health and human services law, sponsored by Rep. Fran Bradley (R-Rochester) and Sen. Linda Berglin (DFL-Minneapolis), are three provisions that take effect Jan. 1:

- MinnesotaCare will be modified to add mental health telemedicine and psychiatric consultation to its list of covered services;
- the $500 annual benefit cap on adult dental services in the Medical Assistance, MinnesotaCare and General Assistance medical care programs will be removed; and
- at least one staff member trained in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) must be present in a child care center or family child care home. The training must be repeated at least once every three years. (2005 Special Session – HF139*/SF107/CH4)

All-terrain vehicle usage

Beginning Jan. 1, anyone born after July 1, 1987, and who is at least 16 years of age must successfully complete the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' all-terrain vehicle (ATV) independent study course component before operating an ATV on public lands.

In addition, anyone convicted of violating an ATV operation law must complete the independent study course component before resuming operation of an ATV.

The new regulations are part of the omnibus agriculture, jobs and economic opportunity policy and finance law, sponsored by Rep. Dennis Ozment (R-Rosemount) and Sen. Thomas Bakk (DFL-Cook). (2005 Special Session: HF78/SF69*/CH1)

Consumers

Starting Jan. 1, businesses need to let Minnesota residents know if there has been a security breach putting their personal data at risk.

Under the law, sponsored by Rep. Jeff Johnson (R-Plymouth) and former Sen. David Gaither (R-Plymouth), if a company learns that personal information has been breached, including a person's driver's license or Minnesota identification number, account or credit card numbers or Social Security number, disclosure would need to be made in the "most expedient time possible and without unreasonable delay."

If the breach affects more than 500 people at one time, all consumer reporting agencies would be notified within 48 hours of the discovery.

In most cases, written or electronic notice to the affected parties would be sufficient. (HF2121*/SF2118/CH167)

Medicare

Minnesota law now conforms to recent changes in federal law concerning Medicare prescription drug coverage, also known as Medicare Part D.

A new law makes technical changes in state law involving Medicare supplemental insurance and creates a procedure for licensing and solvency regulation of stand-alone prescription drug plans that could provide prescription drug coverage under Medicare Part D.

The law will bring Minnesota into federal compliance regarding the sale of policies with prescription drug coverage by Medigap carriers after Jan. 1. The Medicare Part D coverage will be available only through private sector drug plans or as part of a Medicare Advantage plan.

Rep. Paul Gazelka (R-Brainerd) and Sen. Brian LeClair (R-Woodbury) sponsored the legislation. (HF925*/SF880/CH17)

Safety

Beginning Jan. 1, daycare providers will have to maintain documentation and perform safety inspections on their cribs.

Sponsored by Rep. Katie Sieben (DFL-Newport) and Sen. Ellen R. Anderson (DFL-St. Paul), the legislation is designed to prevent the injury and possible death of infants in unsafe baby cribs.

Licensed childcare providers will be required to maintain documentation of their cribs, including the brand name and model number. If the information is not available, the crib's usage will be prohibited. Each year, the information must be checked against a U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission Web site listing of unsafe cribs.

Every month, daycare providers will be required to perform safety inspections of their cribs. If an inspection reveals an unsafe condition, the daycare provider must immediately remove the crib from use and make it inaccessible to children.

The law also prohibits the sale of unsafe cribs by a commercial user, and lodging establishments will be prohibited from providing an unsafe crib to guests. (HF987*/SF899/CH139)

Business

Beginning Jan. 1, individuals who have been convicted of a criminal offense involving dishonesty, a breach of trust or money laundering may no longer serve as mortgage originators unless they have prior written consent from the commerce commissioner. The provision is part of an omnibus financial institutions law sponsored by Rep. Rod Hamilton (R-Mountain Lake) and Sen. Dan Sparks (DFL-Austin). (HF1824/SF1636*/CH118)

Pawlenty receives illegal immigration report

Illegal immigration costs the state of Minnesota approximately $180 million per year, according to a report delivered to Gov. Tim Pawlenty on Thursday.

The report, "The Impact of Illegal Immigration on Minnesota," was prepared by the Office of Strategic Planning and Results Management in the Department of Administration. It focuses on the costs and population trends related to illegal immigration.

"Many communities across Minnesota and the country have concerns regarding illegal immigration," said Pawlenty. "We need to remember that we are a nation of immigrants and we should support immigration that is legal and orderly. Unfortunately, the current system is neither and needs to be reformed."

The report estimates the following cost impacts as a result of illegal immigration:

- On K-12 public education – $146 million to $158 million for Fiscal Year 2004
- Public Assistance Health Care Programs – $17 million for Fiscal Year 2005
- Incarceration – $13 million for Fiscal Year 2005
- Total – $176 million to $188 million

Various estimates, including the Pew Hispanic Center and the Urban Institute, place the size of Minnesota's illegal immigrant population between 80,000 and 85,000.

The report estimates that approximately 8,000 illegal immigrants file state income taxes. Many illegal immigrants also pay taxes by employer withholdings. Since they do not file tax returns, these funds are kept by the state and federal government resulting in "stranded withholdings." The exact dollar amount attributable to this is unknown.

The report also finds that in addition to the costs to the state, illegal immigration creates significant costs to society. Illegal immigrants, who are largely uninsured, often utilize emergency services and other health care, which increases uncompensated care costs. According to U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, many illegal immigrants are committing crimes: 1,571 criminal aliens were deported from the St. Paul Midwest area of operations in Fiscal Year 2004.

Also examined in the report are the costs of undocumented children on Minnesota's K-12 public school system, higher education costs, health care assistance programs and other health care costs, and public safety and incarceration costs.

Holiday burnout: Not just an expression anymore

Elaborate meals; candlelight; warm, glowing fires; trees and wreaths are among the holiday traditions, and cooking, open flames and home heating are the most common causes of residential fires.

Last year, cooking and heating caused more than half of all the residential fires in Minnesota. More than 250 of those fires started in chimneys; chimney fires alone cost Minnesotans more than $1 million.

"This isn't meant to put a damper on holiday preparations," said State Fire Marshal Jerry Rosendahl. "It's just a warning – never assume that you're safe because it hasn't happened to you before. Fire doesn't discriminate. Anywhere there is opportunity and oxygen, it will try to grow."

Many opportunities are created by hot stovetops, dry pine needles, unattended candles, fireplace fires and carelessness. Rosendahl said that almost all holiday fires could be prevented if people followed these tips:

- Never leave cooking unattended, even for a moment; grease fires begin in seconds.
- Keep decorations at least three feet from a fireplace or candle.
- Water natural Christmas trees often; dry trees are explosively combustible.
- Place candles where they cannot be knocked over, and never under a decorated hanging or a shelf. Don't leave them unattended.

Most importantly, install and maintain smoke detectors in your home year-round, Rosendahl said. "Fire prevention is a number one priority, but smoke alarms are your second line of defense. Use them along with common sense and caution, give yourself a safe and happy holiday."

Gov. Pawlenty proposes tax credit to help dairy farmers reinvest in their farm

Seeking to boost the competitive strength of Minnesota's dairy industry, Gov. Tim Pawlenty has proposed a tax credit to encourage dairy farmers to make capital investments in their farm facilities and equipment. The governor announced the proposal at the 32nd Annual Midwest Dairy Expo in St. Cloud.

The measure would allow dairy farmers to claim a tax credit of 10 percent of the amount of a qualifying investment of up to $500,000 in building and facility improvement, machinery and equipment. The amount of the tax credit would be subtracted from the farmer's state taxes. This credit could be carried forward into future tax years if the farmer was unable to take full advantage of the credit in the first year of eligibility.

Pawlenty said this tax credit will help stimulate investments to upgrade and modernize dairy farm facilities and equipment.

"Minnesota's dairy farmers are world-class when it comes to knowledge and work ethic, but in many cases our farm facilities and equipment need some updating to bring them up to the level of our competitors," Pawlenty said. "This dairy investment tax credit will encourage farmers to modernize their operations to boost their productivity and profitability."

The concept of a dairy investment tax credit originally was suggested by Pawlenty's Livestock Task Force in a 2004 report on the state's livestock sector. The Pawlenty administration had proposed a similar tax credit for the 2005 legislative session, but the measure died in the last minutes of that tumultuous session.

"Minnesota's dairy industry has always been a key part of our state economy, and it can continue to be strong in years to come," Pawlenty said. "We have terrific people and a solid infrastructure. Like any other economic sector, however, it needs continual reinvestment to adapt and thrive. That's what this proposal is all about."

Minnesota's dairy sector is the second largest economic contributor among Minnesota's livestock categories, but it is posting the weakest performance. The state's share of national milk production dropped from 7 percent in 1980 to 5 percent in 2003. The total economic impact of Minnesota's dairy production is estimated to be $3.1 billion. It is estimated that each dairy cow generates $5,000 in economic activity for the state. The total employment impact of Minnesota's dairy industry is estimated at 27,000 jobs. According to the 2004 Livestock Task Force Report, the state's dairy production and processing segments are at risk of becoming obsolete in comparison to other states as farmers and processors have hesitated to make reinvestments in their facilities.

Despite concerns about the relative lack of investment in Minnesota's dairy sector, there is clear interest among farmers in making such investments. A November 2002 Minnesota Department of Agriculture survey of Minnesota dairy producers found nearly half of the respondents wanted to make a new investment in their operation by 2007. The survey also showed 35 percent of those producers needed additional financing opportunities, and 64 percent expressed a willingness to take advantage of investment tax credits.

The proposal will be part of the governor's 2006 supplemental budget plan.

American Cancer Society offers scholarships to youth survivors

The American Cancer Society (ACS) is taking applications in Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota for the organization's 2006 Youth Scholarship Program aimed at young people who have been diagnosed with cancer.

A limited number of scholarships, totaling $1,000 per recipient, will be awarded to students enrolled in a college or tech/vocational school. All applications are due Wednesday, March 15, 2006. The awards will paid directly to the institution and will help offset fall 2006 semester tuition costs.

"The Youth Scholarship Program gives young cancer survivors a chance to highlight the successes they've made in spite of their illness, while helping ease the financial burden associated with going to college or other post-secondary education," said Tiffany Carlson, ACS Patient Services Coordinator. "Last spring, we awarded 50 scholarships, double what we had donated in past years, and we look forward to awarding eligible members of the Class of 2006 with this financial opportunity."

Applicants must:

- Be diagnosed with cancer before the age of 21 and currently under the age of 25.
- Be a legal resident of Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota or Wisconsin for at least one year.
- Be accepted to attend an accredited two to four year university or vocational/technical school.
- Have completed the application process.

Once a candidate has submitted an American Cancer Society Youth Scholarship application, a Program Volunteer Review Committee will select scholarship recipients on the basis of their commitment to academic or vocational goals, current financial need, leadership, and community service. Preference will be given to first-time scholarship applicants.

The ACS may use essays and photographs, in part, for future promotional material. For more information or to apply, please call 608.662.7581 or 1.877.423.9123, ext. 7581 and ask to receive a grant application form for youth scholarships from the ACS-Midwest Division.

The American Cancer Society is dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by saving lives, diminishing suffering and preventing cancer through research, education, advocacy and service. For more information anytime, any day, call toll-free 1.800.ACS.2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

Jennifer Holand named 4-H Ambassador

This year, Jennifer Holand from Pennington County and Paula Polasky from Polk County will have a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. They will represent more than 160,000 of their peers and work with thousands of people from across the state.

Holand and Polasky were selected by adults and their youth peers from across Minnesota to serve as State 4-H ambassadors. Ambassadors are the youth leaders and spokes people for Minnesota 4-H and being selected as an ambassador is the highest honor that a 4-H member can achieve.

The State 4-H Ambassador team spends many hours together organizing, planning and facilitating many different 4-H activities and events throughout the state for thousands of other youth leaders involved in Minnesota's 4-H programs.

Throughout the next year, they will spend many hours working with the other state ambassadors, coordinating and facilitating several statewide events that will impact approximately 1,200 youth from across Minnesota by the end of June. The primary goals of all the ambassadors' events are to educate Minnesota youth about leadership, citizenship and other lifelong skills, as well as meet new people from across Minnesota and have a lot of fun.

LHS Class of 1986 to hold reunion planning meeting

A planning meeting for the Lincoln High School Class of 1986 20-year reunion will be held at 7 p.m. on Dec. 29, at the Black Cat. Classmates are encouraged to attend. Contact Stacy Fougner at 681-1322 for more information.

Stacy Myhrer named president of TRF Chamber

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors has announced that Stacy Myhrer will be the new Chamber president. Myhrer had been serving as interim president during the search process following the resignation of Julie Olson in October. The Board of Directors approved her as permanent president at its Dec. 15 meeting.

Stacy Myhrer

Myhrer received an associate of arts degree from Northland Community and Technical College in 1993 and a bachelor of science degree in business management from the University of Minnesota Crookston in 1998. She has been with the Chamber for seven years, and since 1999 has served as administrative assistant. She is also a past president of the Thief River Falls Women of Today, a volunteer soccer coach and member of Redeemer Lutheran Church. She and her husband, Sean, have two children, Michaela, age 8, and Zachary, age 5.

Chamber Board Chairman Jim Langland said Myhrer was selected after interviewing several other excellent candidates selected from resumés received from many qualified individuals. He encouraged Chamber of Commerce members to visit with Myhrer at the Chamber office or at the Chamber's Annual Banquet Jan. 9.

Fees to increase for Pennington County water planning

Effective Jan. 1, zoning fees will increase for Pennington County water planning.

Permits for buildings, individual sewage treatment systems and land alterations within shoreland areas will be $25. Any shoreland permit acquired after a project has begun will be $75. (Shoreland property is land within 300 feet of a river or stream, 1,000 feet from the ordinary high water level of a lake, a pond or water flow.) Conditional use permits will be $250, and variance fees will be $300.

To obtain proper permits, setback requirements and any assistance relating to septic systems and building within shoreland, contact Andrea at the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District at 683-7075.

Correction

A wedding announcement for Stefany (Olson) and Philip Hermanson, appearing in last week's edition of The Times, inaccurately identified the father of bride as Dave Olson, He should have been identified as Dale Olson.

Addition

A picture on the front page of the Dec. 7 edition of The Times recognized John Lubitz as a volunteer serving as Santa during the Annual Tree Walk for Hospice on Sunday. A local citizen called to ask us to recognize Don Grabanski who served as Santa on Saturday.

Farm Management Minute

Take time to reflect and recharge

by Greg Dvergsten,
FBM instructor, Thief River Falls

With the busy production season behind us and the winter and holiday season upon us, it is important to remember what matters most. The people involved in your family and business are the most valuable resources you have. Make sure you take the time necessary to recharge and build relationships with those closest to you and your business. A positive and refreshed family and workforce can accomplish great things.

Certainly you want to work hard and grow your business. Without a doubt you want to improve business efficiencies and maximize profits. But regardless of the nature of your farm business, you must take care of your human resources. This includes the owner or manager as well. It is acceptable and even advised to take time off as needed during opportune times. For some, this may only be a day or two once in awhile, yet others may find they need a little more than this to fully recharge.

This all sounds so simple yet often gets overlooked or put off with all the daily demands on your time. The typical wage earner usually has two or more weeks of vacation built into his or her terms of employment. However, as a private business owner, you set the terms of employment for yourself, family laborers and other business employees.

The issue here is not to procrastinate and put things off on a regular basis, but the opposite. If we manage the time we have to the fullest extent, there will be time to relax and reflect on past progress and enjoy some of the other aspects of life.

For more information about farm business planning, contact an instructor in your area by calling Northland Community and Technical College at 1-800-959-6282.

...Merry Christmas - Merry Christmas - Merry Christmas to all!

The word, "Christmas," might be the first thing to think about at this holiday time, since there has been so much controversy about saying "Merry Christmas" lately. And I'd like to know who has the right to tell me I can't say "Merry Christmas" if I want to do so, anyway.

Yes, there are some liberal fools out there who want to ban the name of "Christmas" and make those of us who keep it (and keep it well) say "Happy Holidays" instead of our familiar, cheery, appropriate, "Merry Christmas." Bah! They say it is the spirit of the season that counts and that is why we should all be saying "Happy Holidays." Humbug! They say that "Merry Christmas" is only for us Christian people and that it doesn't include others who celebrate the holiday. So I say, "bah humbug" to them and all of the other Scrooges.

Isn't it just too bad that they don't like "Merry Christmas?" If they don't like the word "Christmas," let them celebrate some other holiday then. Let them make up their own holiday - whatever they want - I don't care. Just leave us Christmas people alone. We celebrate Christmas, the holiday of Christ's birth, and He represents everything good in the world, Christian or not. That's good enough for me. When we say, "Merry Christmas," we are including all people in our greeting, no matter what religion they are, or what they believe, or whether they believe anything or not. Of course Christmas includes the name of Christ. Who is Christ Jesus but the little baby who came to save us from meanness and hatred and spite and make the world a better place? I'll honor Him any time I can.

Yes, Christmas is a Christian name, originating from "Christ's Mass," which refers to a religious ceremony. So be it - that is good, if you ask me. And we need more Christ and Christians in this day and age.

Christmas became a Christian celebration n the 4th century when Roman Emperor Constantine converted to Christianity on his death bed. Prior to that time, Christmas was a pagan celebration called Saturnalia in which the Romans honored Saturn the god of agriculture. During the pagan celebration, there was feasting, exchanging of gifts and cessation of warfare and business. Slaves were temporarily freed at this Feast of Saturnalia, and sometimes one of the slaves was chosen to be master of the household while the masters acted as slaves. Sounds like a good plan for this day and age.

Today we Christians and others celebrate Christmas to honor the birth of Jesus, based on the Bible. Many customs have grown up around the celebration, including the Christmas tree, holly, mistletoe, the giving of gifts, Christmas carols and cards, Christmas stockings, visiting friends, feasting, and, of course, Santa Claus. Christians and non-Christians alike celebrate in the days before and after Christmas. But we should remember that it is a Christian holiday, after all.

The holiday has become one of fellowship and good will, helping the poor, reaching out to our fellow man with good will, smiles and laughter. If Christ is the reason for such a season, I'm for it. If it is because of Him that people share and care and open their hearts, we're all the better for it.

Now, about those fools who dislike Christmas. They must have a screw loose. Who doesn't like Christmas? Who is so mean-spirited and small-minded that Christmas doesn't bring a smile to the lips, a sparkle to the eye and a happy ache in the heart? Even those fools who are money-grubbers should enjoy Christmas, since it is one of the most economically significant holidays of the free world. I say, "bah, humbug!" to them. Ignore the sniveling pipsqueaks and let them sit alone on this holy holiday of holidays. We will celebrate Christmas and celebrate it well.

Merry Christmas - Merry Christmas - Merry Christmas to all, even the foolish who don't understand Christmas.

Penny Wars raise funds for cafeteria

by Sarah Chamma
Lincoln High School student

Tiny disks of copper worth one percent of a dollar are granted a heavier weight of significance every year from Dec. 5 to 9 at Franklin Middle School (FMS). The additional significance occurs when students and faculty work together to produce something special. During the annual event known as Santa's Penny Wars, that "special something" means making a financial contribution that enhances the school, and teaching students the value of community service.

This year, students raised $1,720.72.

The goal behind this year's Penny Wars is renovation of the cafeteria, recently dubbed "The Prowler's Den." Deliberations are to begin after the new year, and hopefully will materialize next summer. A select few students are granted a say in it - whether the walls should be painted, the carpet changed, or the tables lengthened - as a plan for the cafeteria has not been fully developed.

Over the years, profits have enhanced the FMS environment and facility, and have provided competition among fourth-period classrooms, the winner being the one with the largest amount of pennies. It also has been beneficial to nonprofit groups within the community.

The first four years of the proceeds went into cementing a former science teacher's memory with the Al Krause Greenhouse. The years following noted a broader range of charity: the senior citizen home, the humane society, commons furniture, round tables on school grounds, and a basketball court fund, the latter of which remains incomplete.

There is no better homage to the holidays than extending generosity to someone or something overlooked and potentially fulfilling. A penny, insignificant as it seems, falls into a bucket with a clatter and echo. As more and more pennies build up, their echo becomes all the more resonant throughout the community, so to speak. Every contribution requires involvement of many students, hence the merging of little coins into something of much more value.

NCTC TV-13 News to present first cablecast

Local news and feature stories make up Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) TV-13 news, airing on Sjoberg's cable channel 13 beginning this week. NCTC mass communications students prepared the first program over the course of fall semester, and plans to air a weekly cablecast starting after the winter break. The shows will also be archived at www.pioneer90.org.

The inaugural cablecast features:

- A profile of new Ralph Engelstad Arena manager Gary Martinson
- The history of Thief River Falls' Chief Red Robe
- An on-set interview with an NCTC graduate who worked through the fury of Hurricane Rita in Texas
- A look at the Civil War artifacts on display at the NCTC art gallery
- A feature on Thief River Falls' Northern Lights Bookstore
- An inside look at Pioneer 90.1's new "Saturday Morning Barndance" Old Tyme music show

Other stories of interest to viewers in northwest Minnesota will also be broadcast.

NCTC Mass Communications Director Mark Johnson said there are opportunities available to other students and community members who have an interest in helping to produce the show. "We will train you to use the cameras and editing equipment. We are looking for people we can train to be shooters, editors, teleprompter operators, and on-camera hosts."

Johnson can be reached at (218) 681-0783.

Anchors for the first cablecast are John Hagen of Plummer and Mark Tumberg of New York Mills.

NCTC TV-13 News will air on channel 13 at noon on Wednesday, Dec. 14 and at 2 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 16. The show will air again in its normal timeslot of 7 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 19.

The mass communications program at NCTC is a two-year applied science program with an emphasis on television and radio, with opportunities in print. Mass communications students also operate Pioneer 90.1, the college's 24,000 watt FM radio station.

State health officials report first confirmed flu case of season

Minnesota has recorded its first laboratory-confirmed case of influenza for the 2005-06 season in a 4-year-old Hennepin County child. The child's illness was caused by the H3N2 A/California strain, one of three strains covered in this year's flu vaccine, the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) reported Tuesday.

While there have been sporadic reports of influenza cases around the state already this year, announcement of the first positive specimen from the MDH Public Health Laboratory marks the official start of the flu season in Minnesota. It's also a reminder that it's time to get a flu shot if one hasn't already done so.

"Identifying influenza in the laboratory helps us know which strains are circulating and that tells us how well this year's vaccine will protect people from influenza and its complications," said Dr. Harry Hull, stat epidemiologist. "Those who get a flu shot in the next week or two should be fully protected against influenza when the season peaks."

Typically, widespread influenza activity in Minnesota occurs several weeks after the first handful of cases are reported to the department. It takes about two weeks for people to become fully immune after a flu shot. "So there's still time to get immunized," Hull said.

Getting a flu shot is important for anyone who wants to avoid influenza – regardless of age or health status, health officials said. It's especially important for people who are in a high-risk group or who live with a person in a high-risk group to be vaccinated against the flu.

"People over 65, people with chronic illnesses and people with weakened immune systems are at greatest risk for complications from influenza," said Hull. "People in these groups can end up in the hospital – or even die – if they get the flu. Getting a flu shot is the easiest and most effective way to protect yourself and your loved ones."

A nasal spray is an alternative to flu shots for healthy people between the ages 5 and 49+.

The symptoms of influenza, which tend to come on suddenly, can include a sore throat, coughing, fever, headache, muscle aches and fatigue. People who become severely ill with influenza-like symptoms should see a physician.

The flu vaccine has to be reformulated every year to cover those strains of the virus that are most likely to be circulating during the upcoming flu season. Because the flu virus can change every year, people need to be re-vaccinated each year.

ACTIVITIES
Christmas Stickers

Children love to receive and give stickers. The following activity is a way for your children to make their own Christmas stickers with all those wrapping scraps left over from wrapping presents. You will need:

scraps of Christmas wrapping paper vinegar glue
scissors

Mix 1 Tbsp. vinegar and 2 Tbsp. glue together. Apply a thin coat of the mixture with a paintbrush to the back side of the wrapping paper. Let it dry. Children can cut out shapes and designs of wrapping paper that they want to use for stickers. Children need to lick or wet the stickers with a sponge to use them.

Who's there?
Lena.
Lena who?
Lean a little closer and I'll tell you!

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following:

Keller, Holly. Pearl's New Skates. Pearl has new skates. They are real skates (not double runners), and she can't wait to try them. Pearl inches out onto the frozen pond. But instead of twirling, she topples. Instead of spinning, she falls -- splaaat! Pearl has new skates. They are shiny white with red tassels, and she loves them. Will Pearl ever skate in real life the way she skates in her dreams?

Keillor, Garrison. Daddy's Girl. Colorful illustrations of four doting songs celebrate the loving relationship between a father and his daughter. Includes CD sung by the author.

Juster, Norton. The Hello Goodbye Window. A little girl visits her grandparents and learns about the world around her.

PARENTING TIPS
Holidays and Children

The excitement of the holiday season sometimes brings certain hazards. Weeks of hectic shopping and busy preparations can create nervous tension and anxiety for the whole family, including small children.

If you have young children, keep your schedule and holiday activities as simple as possible. Try to arrange your schedule around your child's normal routine. Most important, make sure they get plenty of sleep. Choose only those activities that are important to you and your family and let some of the busy things go. Concentrate on people rather than objects during the holidays.

Remember that during this holiday season, the best gift you can give your children is yourself. Take time to read an extra story, sing songs, cuddle, and listen to holiday music with your children. Take a walk through your neighborhood. Look at the lights and decorations together.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about holiday sights and sounds. Help your child become aware of the many interesting things to look at and to listen to!

Unleashing the memories of Christmas

Christmas unleashes an avalanche of memories. Christmas recollections are a mixed bag of bitter and sweet. You can't have one without the other. Memories are sweet only because they will never happen again - and that can be a bitter pill to swallow.

I remember Grandma reading the Christmas story with her Swedish brogue and exaggerated schoolteacher enunciation, holding her head back to get the print in the right section of her bifocals, the glowing fly-away hairs from her prim bun threatening to catch fire in the heat of the reading lamp.

Meanwhile, Grandpa fidgeted on the couch as if he were in some sort of pain, just as he did whenever Grandma was the center of attention. Christmas story or not, Grandpa had a tough time conceding the floor.

As a child, opening gifts was an agonizing ritual of delayed gratification. Before we got to the gifts, Mom insisted that we eat a full meal - at least 19 courses, slowly served - sing some carols, have Grandma read the Christmas story, march some cousin up front to sing the same song they sang at the Christmas program - anything possible to delay the opening of gifts.

To stretch things out even more, we had to pass out the gifts and open them in turn, one at a time.

When her turn came, Grandma would borrow Dad's pocket knife so she could slice the scotch tape perfectly on each of her gifts and save the paper wrapping. With excruciating deliberation, she would fold the wrap before moving on to open the box.

This, too, I interpreted as a delaying ploy designed to torture us kids. I didn't realize it was Grandma's Great Depression ethic in action, the same ethic which caused her to hoard the wax paper from decades worth of cereal boxes.

Grandpa opened the gift which looked like a book first so that he could spend the rest of the evening reading and tune out the screaming kids. When it was his turn to open his next gift, usually a can of nuts, we had to yell, "Grandpa, your turn!" to get his attention.

It was incomprehensible to me that Grandpa and Grandma seemed so uninterested in their gifts. In fact, they professed not to want any. "We have enough the way it is," Grandma would announce each year, a month in advance.

Would I get jaded like that when I got old? I hoped not.

Grandma and Grandpa's protests did nothing to prevent their children from using Christmas to try to upgrade their parents' wardrobe from embarrassing to passable.

Over and over, the kids gave Grandpa a shirt they hoped would replace that awful blue polyester rag he seemed to wear every day. Christmas after Christmas, the kids gave Grandma a new coat which they hoped would replace the old thing she insisted upon wearing in public to the mortification of her daughters and daughters-in-law.

Each year, the results were about the same. Grandma insisted that they take the coat back, she didn't need anything that fancy. Grandpa put the new shirt away, still in its wrapper, never to be seen again.

There was one notable exception. In the early 1970s, the kids banded together and bought Grandma a fake black-and-white leopard pattern fur coat. Against all odds, Grandma loved the thing. She wore it until it fell apart.

By the early 1980s, fake leopard skin was out of favor. In fact, it was embarrassing. But Grandma wasn't about the change her spots.

Meanwhile, Grandpa's indestructible blue polyester shirt, complete with its fake basket weave pattern, survived every attempt by embarrassed offspring to replace it, burn it, lose it, whatever.

Grandma and Grandpa have both been gone for many years. But the bittersweet memory of their Christmas crankiness hasn't faded.

In fact, with every passing year, I come to understand it more.

Reality is nothing but a dream...

Sometime, when the moon is past its zenith but not quite to the horizon, a small crackling radio awakens my intense slumber. The darkness envelopes the sound frequencies and turns them into a sweet lullaby. I listlessly turn onto my side and sleep on.

I'm a fairy. My feet lightly skim clean, pure water from an enchanting valley. Birds chirp happily, flowers are in full bloom, and there isn't a cloud or gnat in the sky. The healthy green grass contrasts charmingly with the pure blue in the heavens, and I can not be any more content. Now, I notice the most handsome prince in the whole world. His eyes shine with innocence, and his lips curve into a smile. He reaches for my hand, and his lips gently open and say, "Get up! Do you want to be late?" My mind flashes, but then I recognize my father's voice. I moan and disentangle myself from my covers. The ground is cold and hard as I stumble to the light-switch. An icy shiver runs through my body. Quickly, I turn on the light, half expecting to find a vicious gnome standing on my bed. Of course, there isn't one because a gnome is only in fairy tales – as is a prince.

Reality's patronizing voice gnaws into my head and I noiselessly flinch as its grip suffocates me. "Fairies aren't real; you'll never be able to fly; all you'll ever do in your life is sit at a computer." I reside under reality's dominion with boredom and dispassion – waiting patiently until I can regress into surrealism and fairy tales.

As I try hard to deal with reality, my mind finds itself wandering through long corridors of nonsensical things. I revisit the perfect world of the fairies and take a quick peek at the prince before I head back to reality. I grumpily mumble to myself about reality's restrictions. Then my mind finds itself lost in another world – a world of reality. I hesitantly scan this world, taking my time, making sure to look at everything before I exit. There are books saturated with time, there are pictures of students tiredly walking to school after a long night of studying, and there is music playing sad songs about life. The word reality is in bold letters across the back wall: REALITY – THE QUALITY OF BEING TRUE TO LIFE. I always thought reality was bad thing – something adolescents have to face when they come of age, kind of like a responsibility. When I read the definition of reality, I realized that reality is anything pertaining to real life. Dreaming is a part of life – everyone dreams, and daydreaming is actually a way to solve problems, foster creativity, and realize one's dreams. Therefore, dreaming does pertain to real life, which makes dreaming reality.

Former LHS student graduates from basic military training

Air Force Airman Houston S. Kirkeide has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and military customs and courtesies; performed drill and ceremony marches, and received physical training, rifle marksmanship, field training exercises, and special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

He is the son of Harlan Kirkeide of Thief River Falls, and Amy Steva of San Jose, Calif. The airman is a 2004 graduate of Lincoln High School, Thief River Falls.

St. Bernard's Catholic School students worked on an Advent service project for the Thief River Falls LifeCare Center for the last two weeks. ## Donovan L. Narverud, 72

Thief River Falls - Donovan L. Narverud, 72, longtime Thief River Falls businessman, died on Saturday, December 17, 2005 at the Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m., on Wednesday, December 21 (today), at Zion Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls, with Rev. Gary Johnson officiating. Honorary casket bearers include Winton Forsberg, Jerry Amundgaard, Hal Waale, Rudy Rude, Fred Grant, Tony Kozojed, Neil Gillespie, Skip May, Art Buringsrud and Elton Hornseth and the Lions Club. Casket bearers include Jeff Mumm, Larry Bjerken, Gordy Bjerken, Mark Beedy, Dick Wittenberg, Jeff Vacura, Craig Harbott, Jay Narverud and Jay DuChamp. Interment will be held at Greenwood Cemetery, Thief River Falls, in the spring.

Visitation will be held one hour prior to the services in the church on Wednesday.

Donovan Lea Narverud was born on September 15, 1933 to John A. and Emma (Nelson) Narverud in Thief River Falls. He was baptized and confirmed at the United Methodist Church in Thief River Falls. He attended school and graduated from Lincoln High School in 1951. He also attended the National Institute of Dry Cleaning in Silver Springs, Maryland.

Don was united in marriage to Carol Bjerken on August 8, 1954 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. Don's parents started Narverud Cleaners in 1929 and Don and Arnold took over the business in 1964 and continued to operate it as partners until 1979, when Don and Carol purchased it. They have owned and operated it since.

Don enjoyed spending time with his grandchildren. He also enjoyed his lake place at Upper Red Lake and his home on the river. He appreciated the time he got to spend at the "A" frame (AKA: "the ranch") in Thorholt. The outdoors drew Don; he was an avid hunter and fisherman. He collected Allis Chalmers Tractors and enjoyed reading. He took pleasure in a drive around the countryside with fresh cookies and coffee and visiting with his coffee buddies; telling stories was also a highlight of his day.

Don enjoyed canoe trips in the Boundary Waters and made many trips to that area over the past 50 years. He had fun spoiling his dog "Lady" and taking naps with the cat. He loved and planted many trees and picked many berries. He was always willing to help a friend or stranger in need; he was devoted to his family and friends.

Don was active at Zion Lutheran Church, where he served on boards and committees. He served the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce as President. He also served on boards and committees at Trinity Lutheran Church where he was the congregation President for seven years. He was on the Board of Directors for Jobs, Inc, was a member of the Jaycee's, the Curling Club, served as Past President of the Lion's where he was a 40-year member.

He was also a member of the Pennington County Sportsman's Club, and the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association and was a Big Buck donor for many years. He also drove school bus in Thief River Falls. In 2004 the Narveruds were recognized by the Pennington County Historical Society as Pioneer Family of the year.

Don is survived by his wife Carol of Thief River Falls; three children, Steve (Carmen) Narverud of Thief River Falls, Dan (Bea) Narverud of St. Hilaire, Sally Mumm of Thief River Falls; five grandchildren; one sister, Camille DuChamp of Osseo; one brother, Arnold (Gladys) Narverud of Thief River Falls; and several nieces and nephews in addition to many close friends.

Don was preceded in death by his parents; daughter Susan, and an infant sister Carole. A00003B2005DC21

Daniel E. Syverson, 43

Middle River - Daniel Emory Syverson, 43, died Sunday, December 11, 2005 in Middle River.

Funeral services were held on Saturday, December 17, at the Free Lutheran Church of Roseau. Interment was held at the Salem Cemetery in rural Roseau.

Daniel was born November 27, 1962 in Roseau. He grew up in the Pencer area of Roseau County and attended school in Malung and Roseau. He was later married to Tammy (Dunham) for five years, Fayette (Harmon) for three years, and most recently Mary (Swenson).

He worked at several jobs, including Fevold's in Roseau and Marvin Windows and Doors for 10 years. His main occupation was as an auto mechanic. He worked at Mende Automotive in Warroad, and most recently at Husky-Johnson in Middle River. He also worked part-time for the Roseau River Watershed District, carpentering, and as a grave digger. He also volunteered at the Middle River Fire Dept. and at the Middle River Goose Fest.

Dan was a jack-of-all-trades, who cared about people. He had a great sense of humor and loved his grandchildren very much.

He is survived by his four children, Dale Syverson of Roseau, Derek Syverson of Middle River, Brenda (Michael) Vivier of Rolla, N.D. and Daniel Dybedahl of Middle River; three grandchildren; mother, Eleanor (Larry) Gustafson of Roseau; siblings, Pat (Les) Hagen of Roseau, Eileen McDonagh of Roseau, Pamela Matthews of Roseau, Donna Burkel of Badger, Clifford Syverson of Truman, Rose (James, Jr.) Grugal of Wannaska, and Paul (Gail) Syverson of Baltic, S.D.

He was preceded in death by his father, Palmer; grandparents, Olga and Adolph Vertina; and Peter and Caroline Syverson.

Arnold J. Kostrzewski, 80

Stephen - Arnold Joseph Kostrzewski, 80, of Stephen, died Friday, December 16, 2005, at his son's home in Karlstad.

Mass of Christian burial will be held at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, December 21 (today), at St. Stephen's Catholic Church in Stephen, with Father Bob Stone offering the Mass. Visitation will be one hour prior to Mass on Wednesday morning. Interment will be held at St. Stephen's Catholic Cemetery in Stephen, with the Collins Funeral Home of Karlstad in charge of funeral arrangements.

Arnold was born to Theodore and Anna (Budziszewski) Kostrzewski, March 19, 1925, in Wanger Township, rural Stephen. He was a life-long resident of the Florian/Stephen communities.

He married Adelle Troska on October 24, 1950, at Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, Warren. They made their home in Stephen, where they farmed, as well as, owned and operated Adelle's Café. Adelle passed away October 7, 1993.

Arnold was a member of the Church of St. Stephen, a lifetime member of the Knights of Columbus, and a member of the local Lions Club. Arnold enjoyed farming and spending time with his family. He was a quiet man and a great listener. Other interests included his love for music (whether it be listening, singing, or dancing) and playing cards.

He is survived by one son, Perry (Bonnie) of Karlstad; five daughters, Pam Hvidsten of Grand Forks, N.D., Penny (Dennis) Rapacz of Burnsville; Paulette Anderson (Rick Harbott) of Thief River Falls, Priscilla (Rick) Steinke of Stephen, and Petula (Ron) Gohdes of Parker, Colo.; several grandchildren; one brother, John (Margie) of Stephen; three sisters, Natalie Adolphson of Argyle, Joan Pawlowski of Warren; and Audrey Frazier of Reedsport, Ore.; in addition to many nieces, nephews, and other relatives.

Arnold was preceded in death by his wife, and infant son, Dennis; one grandson, brother, Evald and son-in-law, Dan Hvidsten.

Carl Onkka, 79

Thief River Falls - Carl Onkka, 79, died Sunday, December 18, at his home in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, December 21, at Trinity Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls, with Rev. Arlen Hermodson officiating. Honorary casket bearers include Carl's grandchildren. Military honors will be provided by members of the VFW Post 2793 and American Legion Ecklund-Holmstom Post 117. Casket bearers included members of the VFW and American Legion. Interment will be held at Fort Snelling National Cemetery in Minneapolis.

Visitation will be from 5 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, December 20, at Johnson Funeral Service in Thief River Falls, and one hour prior to services at the church on Wednesday.

Carl Oscar Onkka was born on June 3, 1926 in Cokato, the son of William Edward and Esther (Mattila) Onkka. He was baptized and confirmed into the Lutheran Faith and attended school in Cokato, graduating from Cokato High School. Carl entered the United States Army on August 10, 1945 and served as a clerk typist. He received the Victory Medal, Good Conduct Medal and Army of Occupation Medal, Germany. He was Honorably Discharged on December 30, 1946.

Carl was united in marriage to Ruth Virginia McKay on June 23, 1951 at the Presbyterian Church in Litchfield. The couple made their home in Cokato, and in 1960 they moved to Thief River Falls. Carl became co-owner of the Family Bowl. He later went to work for the United States Postal Service, retiring in 1986. In his spare time he also laid carpet for many years. After their retirement Carl and Ruth enjoyed spending time at the American Legion and visiting with their friends, Pat Poole and Big Red.

Carl spent summer months at Springsteel Resort on Lake of the Woods with his family. He also enjoyed bowling, watching the grandkids play sports, watching sports on TV, and golfing. Carl and Ruth were very proud of their children and grandchildren.

He was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Eagles Club, American Legion, and a lifetime member of the V. F. W.

Carl is survived by his children: Michael (Debra) Onkka, Pleasant Hill, Mo., Steven Onkka, Aberdeen, S.D., Cheri (Ron) Pula of Bemidji, Jon (Susana) Onkka of Winona, W.Va., David (Cyndi) Onkka of Thief River Falls; 19 grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; two sisters, Joan (David) Peterson of Front Royal, Va., and Dorothy Reisinger, of Woodbury; and nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Ruth on February 21, 2004; his parents and brother-in-law, Joe Reisinger. A00003B2005DC21

Dick Sovde, 66

Greenbush - Dick Sovde, 66, died on Thursday, Dec. 15, 2005 at his home in Greenbush.

Funeral Services were held on Monday, Dec. 19, in Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church in Greenbush. Father Urban Figge, OMI, officiated. Casket bearers included Rick Penas, Kevin Rousseau, Denis Kjos, Marty Lieberg, Dale Novacek and Keith Haarstick. Honorary casket bearers were Manvil Dvergsten, Russell Wicklund, Irvin Larson, Henry Nubson, Noral Sovde and the Greenbush Fire Dept. Interment was in Blessed Sacrament Cemetery with Gieseke Funeral Chapel in charge of arrangements.

Richard "Dick" Allen Sovde Sr. was born in Karlstad, on June 25, 1939 to Melvin and Mable (Wollin) Sovde. Dick attended elementary school in Karlstad and transferred to Greenbush in 1950. He graduated from Greenbush Public High School in 1957.

Dick was united in marriage to Virginia Reese on June 13, 1959. They established themselves in Greenbush, and together raised three children.

Dick was employed at several locations, working in construction and as a truck driver. Until the spring of 2005, he was employed at the Farmer's Co-op Ag Service in Greenbush.

Dick's favorite past time was engaging in conversation (whether it was telling stories or an infamous joke). He also volunteered on the Greenbush Fire Department for more than 30 years. He enjoyed hunting, long drives on back country roads, and watching local sporting events. Dick was never quick to brag, except when it came to his grandchildren.

Dick lived life to the fullest, and he will be sadly missed by all.

He is survived by his wife, Virginia; one son, Richard "Rick" (Kathy) Sovde Jr. of Greenbush; two daughters, Mary (Todd) Temple of Roseau, and Karen (Marc) Novacek of Greenbush; six grandchildren; one great-grandchild; two sisters, Melvern Ashbridge of Las Vegas, Nev. and Lois Chrzanowski of Badger; two brothers, Merlyn (Myrna) Sovde of Greenbush and Melvin Jr. (Linda) Sovde of Greenbush; and many other nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends.

He was preceded in death by his parents, brother Lyle Sovde, and sister Donna Hekeler.

Edna Hyde, 88

Plummer - Edna Hyde, 88, a long-time resident of the Plummer area, died on Sunday, December 18, 2005 after a brief hospitalization at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. on Thursday, December 22, at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Plummer, with Rev. Jonathan Dodson officiating. Interment will be held at the Hillside Memorial Cemetery in Walhalla, N.D.

Visitation will be from 4 to 7 p.m. on Wednesday, December 21 (today), at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Plummer and one hour prior to services on Thursday at the church.

Edna Blair was born on June 19, 1917, the daughter of David and Grace (Wessels) Blair, near Park Center, N.D. She was baptized and confirmed at Park Center Church and grew up working on the farm with her Dad and three brothers. Edna married Lloyd Karel and had one son, Gerald. After Lloyd's death she worked in the area. On October 25, 1944 she married Mervin Hyde, rural Neche, ND. The couple farmed in North Dakota until 1947, when they moved, with their sons to a farm near Brooks. Edna was always active on the farm and she especially enjoyed caring for the animals and milking cows. They moved to Plummer in 1985. In addition, she worked at the bakery in Red Lake Falls, sold Avon for 19 years and wrote the local news for several papers.

Edna made hundreds of special occasion cakes and was known locally as "The Cake Lady." She was gregarious, had a great sense of humor and loved playing cards and entertaining. For many years she hosted a mid-June picnic for family and friends. She kept a special candy drawer in her kitchen for the neighborhood children who all called her Grandma. She enjoyed doing crafts, ceramics, and quilting and was especially proud to have completed a velvet piece quilt.

Edna was active in the Hollyhocks Homemakers Club, Birthday Clubs, Plummer Senior Citizens and the Presbyterian Church in Plummer. When the church closed she joined Immanuel Lutheran Church.

Edna is survived by sons, Dennis Hyde of Ponsford, and Roger Hyde of Plummer; five grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; one great-great-grandchild and numerous nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents; husbands, Lloyd Karel and Mervin Hyde; son, Gerald Karel; one granddaughter; and brothers, Merle, Percy and James Blair. A00003B2005DC21

Duane C. Kuyath, 74

Lanesboro - Duane Carlyle Kuyath, 74, of Lanesboro and formerly of Thief River Falls, died suddenly of a heart attack on December 14, 2005 in Clearwater, Fla.

Funeral services will be held in Lanesboro in the spring of 2006.

Duane was born May 23, 1931 in Lanesboro, the son of Harry Carl and Laura Petra (Stensgaard) Kuyath. He was baptized on July 4, 1931 and confirmed in 1945 at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Lanesboro. He attended public school in Lanesboro and served in the U.S. Air Force from 1950 to 1958.

Duane married Constance Ann King on Februrary 13, 1954 in Enfield England.

After serving in the Air Force, Duane worked for the Federal Aviation Administration and was stationed all over the United States, including Winslow, Ariz., Chyenne, Wyo., American Samoa, Muskegon, Mich., and finally in Thief River Falls where he lived with his family for 15 years. After retiring from the FAA, he worked for Sears in Thief River Falls and eventually retired for good in Clearwater, Fla. In 2001, Duane and Connie bought a summer home in Fertile, so they could spend more time with their children and grandchildren.

Duane was a member of the American Legion. He was a collector of coins, toy tractors and antiques. He could fix just about anything and enjoyed helping friends and neighbors with any kind of project around the house. And most of all, he loved playing with his grandchildren.

Survivors include his wife Connie; four children, Laura (Allen) Pierson of Fertile, Carl Kuyath of Fergus Falls, Frances Jenkins of Frankfort, Kent., and Petrina (Matthew) Travers of Woodbury; brothers, Karl Kuyath of Paradise, Calif., and Curt Kuyath of Yorkshire, England; and one sister, Dorothy Himili of Fountain.

He was preceded in death by his parents.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q: When will I get the Social Security raise in my check?

A: When you see the increase depends on the benefits you receive. The cost-of living-adjustment (COLA) begins with Social Security checks for December 2005, to be received in January 2006, and with Supplemental Security Income (SSI) checks to be received Dec. 30, 2005. More information about the COLA and other changes that take effect in January 2006 are on the SSA Web site www.socialsecurity.gov. It is important to note that no one's Social Security benefit will decrease as a result of the 2006 Medicare Part B premium increase to $88.50, recently announced by the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) - Center for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), the agency responsible for Medicare. By law, the Part B premium increase cannot be larger than a person's Social Security cost of living increase. More details about 2006 Medicare premiums are at "frequently asked questions" on the Medicare Web site, www.medicare.gov.

Q: Can I complete an application to replace my lost Social Security Number (SSN) card online?

A: While you can download the Social Security Number application (form SS-5), it and supporting evidence to prove your identity must be either mailed or brought to a SSA office for review and processing. We must see original documents, not photocopies. Your documents are returned. Links to the application and acceptable evidence are at the upper left of www.socialsecurity.gov.

Note that official government web sites end in gov. Readers have alerted me to private online firms that charge fees for items, such as the SSN application, that Social Security provides for free. Avoid these. The Social Security Administration does not charge a fee for any aspect of the SSN process.

Did you know? As of December 2004, about 15.8 percent of the entire United States population received monthly SSA retirement, disability or survivor benefits. Locally this includes 15.2 percent of Minnesota and 18.0 percent of North Dakota residents of all ages. For Minnesota this equals about 775,460 people and $686,494,000 in benefits per month. For North Dakota this equals about 114,167 people and $93,435,000 in benefits per month. County by county statistical information is available through the "Policy, Research and Statistics" section of the SSA Web page at http://www.socialsecurity.gov/data_research.htm

for Highway Department project CP-570506. Unruh came before the board Tuesday for the second time to contest the amount he was paid for the project.

According to Pennington County Engineer Mike Flaagan, TRF Parking Lot Striping was paid based on the total pounds of rubber it used during the allotted time.

The board approved an increase in payment to Unruh at its Aug. 23 meeting. Prior to that meeting, Unruh was to be paid for 74,500 pounds of crácksealing at a unit price of 68.5 cents per pound. Commissioners agreed to pay Unruh $54,252 for 79,200 pounds, an increase of $3,033 over the initial payment of $51,218, but well short of Unruh's total bid of 105,000 pounds and $71,925. That additional payment was never made because Unruh did not file the necessary paper work to receive final payment.

Instead, citing losses that he estimated from materials and labor expenses to be close to $40,000, Unruh is seeking full payment for his bid total of $71,925. Unruh stated that he, and three attorneys, interpreted the bid abstract to pay based on a total bid amount and not based on the unit price as Flaagan claimed.

Addressing the board, Unruh stated that he is still waiting to be paid for his bid amount of $71,925, but the county still wants to pay him based on pounds used.

Olin responded to Unruh's statement, saying that the board is following Minnesota State Aid standards, which can be difficult to understand. Flaagan added that the county's payment followed the wording of the contract.

Unruh responded that he ordered 105,000 pounds of rubber, because the job called for 105,000 pounds.

"We completed the work, paid employees, fuel, expenses...I cannot afford to go $40,000 in the hole doing an honest job for the county – nobody can," Unruh said. "I might as well give the county the keys to my shop."

Olin stated that State Aid bid abstracts can be hard to understand. "If you bid a project, you need to know what you're bidding," Olin said.

Jensen told Unruh that the project was a State Aid project and based on the bid abstract, additional payment would have to come from Pennington County.

"If we're going to do that we have to use taxpayer dollars, not state aid and I have a problem with that," Jensen said.

Finalizing the board's opinion, Bob Carlson stated, "Jerry, I hope you have a competent lawyer look at this bid, because this is for the courts to decide."

No action was taken. Exiting the meeting, Unruh thanked commissioners for their time.

Engineer's Items

- Flaagan presented a draft of a letter to commissioners, regarding the Joint Operations Facility, that he intended to send to Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, and Rep. Maxine Penas and Rep. Bernie Lieder. The letter cites concerns of the board over change orders and other unexpected costs. Flaagan noted that the building contract exhausted the entire bonding dollars without fully completing the facility and there are some items at the facility that have not been completed, that Flaagan believes were part of the original bonding package.
- Godfred Svir, Highway Department maintenance foreman, and Flaagan told commissioners that the Highway Department has spent $32,000 on salt and sand. Salt and sand are budgeted at $15,000.
- Flaagan told commissioners that Roger Kriel's retirement party is scheduled for Jan. 6, from 2 to 4 p.m.
- Flaagan presented an example of a county map that could be produced if there is enough resident interest. No action was taken.

Board approves letter of support for landfill development. Board Chairman Charles Naplin and Thief River Falls Mayor Dale Wennberg signed a letter written by Howard Person, solid waste officer, supporting the Grand Forks Sanitation Dept.'s plans for a new landfill for the region. The county-city letter sited the need for landfill space in the region and it also outlined the county and city's previous efforts in waste reduction and disposal.

County still plans to work with TRF for recycling. Person reported that the city of Thief River Falls is now prepared to purchase recycling roll-off containers. Like their previous agreement, Pennington County will cover a monthly sorting charge of $45 per ton. Containers will have separate compartments for plastic, mixed metal and glass. Newsprint is already accepted at the SuperOne and Hugo's locations, which is where Thief River Falls and Pennington County plan to locate the additional roll-offs.

Other Items

- The board discussed plans with County Recorder Ken Schmalz to purchase updated recording software. The existing system does not have its own indexing system and instead utilizes a DOS database designed by Schmalz, which he said is outdated.
- Auditor Ken Olson reported Enbridge tax appeal settlement numbers to the board. In 2004, $71,086, 11 percent of Enbridge's $646,239 was returned. Fifteen percent of Enbridge's taxes are to be returned for 2005, totalling $115,763.
- The board approved the purchase of a new vehicle for the Sheriff's Department to replace the department's Chevy S10 Blazer. A Ford Explorer will be purchased at the state of Minnesota bid price of $23,466. The vehicle will be paid from the department's 2006 budget. Delivery is expected in February.

The next meeting of the Pennington County Board of Commissioners will be Dec. 27 at 5 p.m.

lot has changed - in technology and at the schools in the district.

Networks and wiring, computers, online access, labs, high-capacity servers, user accounts, high-speed Internet access, firewalls, content filtering have all been improved or added in a continuing process.

Kotz and O'Hara encouraged the board to continue the process of updating and improving technology in the district.

Their report seemed to suggest that the district's goals should be to continue with updates, increase integration of technology into the classrooms, provide more time for staff development, fully implement data programs, and implement parent portals.

But, Kotz pointed out that when the district began purchasing computers and introducing this technology into classrooms, they had one administrator. Today, with all that has been done and accomplished, and with all that is expected and proposed, they have one and one-half staff. Kotz said he was afraid that this was another topic that relates to dollars. It's no longer enough, he said, to say 'we'll do more.' "These things do not magically happen." The district needs to look at expanding its support staff and that cannot happen without dollars, he said.

Negotiations

Not much has been said about negotiations in the past several months. Monday night, Randy Twistol, one of the board's representatives on the negotiating committee, said the committee met with teacher representatives last Wednesday and was planning to meet two more times this week. He said he thought they were making progress on language issues, but now they will be moving on to dollar issues. He said he hopes they are able to settle by Jan. 15. If not, the district stands to lose $25,000.

Twistol said they are far apart when it comes to dollars. He said he thought the board had directed him and the committee to try to save money so the board could put money back into its fund balance. The district's auditor in his report to the board last year, stated that the board needed to build up its fund balance again. Last spring, Twistol said, the situation was so bad that the board had talked about taking out a loan to make payroll.

The committee and teacher representatives are closer now, but if their initial proposal had been accepted, Twistol said the district would have to cut $750,000 from its budget, even with the increase in state aid and additional income from the referendum.

Twistol said he was uncomfortable discussing the matter (in public) because they were still in negotiations. Twistol added that he wanted to be careful not to give the impression that they do not value teachers, because they do. The district, he said, just cannot afford what they're asking for now.

The next regular meeting of the Board of Education has been scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 9, in the conference room of the District Service Center.

Coleman fights to save sugar from budget cuts

Late Saturday night, Senator Norm Coleman negotiated a deal with Senate Leadership and the White House to remove sugar cuts from the mandatory program budget reconciliation bill. Earlier in the day, an agreement was reached in the Senate-House Conference report that would have levied a forfeiture penalty on sugar producers, one that would have resulted in almost $30 million in cuts to producers in 2006.

The $30 million in cuts involved a 1.4 percent penalty assessed on loan forfeitures.

In a conference call with reporters on Monday, Dec. 19, Coleman said he thought the original package from the Senate was a good package. Unfortunately, the final version unfairly singled out sugar - the only commodity, he said, that was singled out for cuts.

Sen. Coleman worked with leaders in both the U.S. House and Senate to complete negotiations and reach an agreement that saves sugar from cuts in the budget reconciliation package.

"I could not stand for a budget reconciliation package that singled out sugar farmers and upset the careful balance between nutrition, conservation, and farm interests achieved in the Senate passed bill, so I refused to support the package advanced by Congressional leadership unless changes were made," said Coleman. "I held out on the report and pledged to continue working to remove the package's cuts to sugar. Sugar producers deserve to be treated fairly – I was not satisfied until the sugar cuts were taken out of the package, which I'm pleased to say this outcome was achieved tonight."

In the conference call, Coleman explained that he called the White House explaining why he would not support the version that singled out sugar.

Senate Agriculture Chairman Saxby Chambliss (R-GA) said he was not happy with the cuts, either. As Chairman, Chambliss said he told the party leadership that he supported Coleman and told them he would not sign the conference report if it included cuts to sugar.

Chambliss said Coleman's tough stance to prevent sugar from being unfairly singled out made the difference. "Norm Coleman showed once again in these hard-fought budget negotiations that he is the champion of the sugar industry and understands its importance to the state of Minnesota," Chairman Chambliss said. "He went to the mat working late into Saturday night to restore the proposed cuts to sugar growers." He said he asked why and they couldn't answer. He added that he applauded Coleman for standing up to the White House.

Coleman thanked Chambliss for his support and said now that fairness had been restored, he will support the bill.

Coleman explained that he had voted against the Deficit Reduction Package as it came out of the Senate in November because it included a provision on drilling in Alaska National Wildlife Refuge (ANWR). That provision was removed and what finally came out of the Senate was a good bill, said Coleman. But, he said the ANWR provision was now in the Defense Appropriations bill and he will move to take it out of the bill. "It's a critically important bill," he said, that includes Hurricane Katrina relief and funds for avian flu. He said he's certainly angry that ANWR is in there, but he suspects that the bill will pass overwhelmingly. He said he may cast a protest vote.

Incidentally, the budget reconciliation bill included additional heating assistance.

Coleman took some heat from sugar growers earlier this year for his support of CAFTA. Coleman said Monday that this had nothing to do with giving back to the sugar industry but doing what he thought was right in both instances.

After first learning about the final negotiation, Sen. Coleman issued a statement earlier in the day that expressed his disappointment in the cuts to sugar and upsets in balance between nutrition, conservation, and farm interests reached in the previous version of the agriculture budget reconciliation package. Senator Coleman was also successful in restoring the extension of the Milk Income Loss Contract Program (MILC) through FY2007 and maintaining the levels of funding to food stamps and the Conservation Reserve Program also threatened in the earlier version of the final package.

Garbage from Thief River Falls and Pennington County is taken to that landfill. The current landfill is too close to a runway at the Grand Forks International Airport, and the landfill has become full, Lindberg said.

City Council approved the transfer of the Aquila Inc. natural gas franchise to WPS Minnesota Utilities Inc. subject to that company filing an agreement with the city. The latter company purchased Aquila's natural gas operation in Minnesota.

board chairman to make a motion to accept the high bid of Arctic Cat, providing its provisions can be worked out by the solid waste committee. Carlson seconded his motion.

During discussion, Jensen, who was acting as chairman, stated that there are issues that need to be investigated and addressed before the bid can be approved.

Swanson then made a motion of his own to table the discussion until the Solid Waste Committee meeting, which was scheduled for Dec. 16. Neither Naplin, or Carlson seconded Swanson's motion and it too died.

Discussion continued on the motion made by Naplin. Steve Nordhagen, president of Omega of Thief River Falls, was asked by Carlson if he is confident that the provisions can be worked out. Nordhagen responded, "No question about it."

Jensen called for a vote on Naplin's motion and it was unanimously approved.

Rural Renaissance: Tapping into Minnesota's treasures

by Sen. Norm Coleman

There is a lot of hidden value in our rural parts of America. Minnesota's rural communities and economy have a lot to offer our state, our nation, and the world. Vital resources are found in all parts of Minnesota that, if tapped into, will continue to make us economically sound and competitive well into the future.

But the question remains: how do we better utilize and develop these untapped resources at a time when rural America faces great challenges? It is a hard question to answer as our rural communities are currently faced with dwindling populations and increased economic distress. Since Day One as your United States Senator, I have been searching for ways to take advantage of our assets and develop greater opportunities throughout rural Minnesota.

The economic "law of large numbers" continues to allocate resources to suburbs and cities to the detriment of rural areas. While the money is spent according to where people live, we must ask ourselves: Where would we be in terms of our balance of payments without the exports the agricultural states provide? Where would we be if in addition to paying $3 for a gallon of gas, we were buying milk at $10 a gallon?

Rural Renaissance is legislation I have fought long and hard for to address these problems as well as tap into the resources greater Minnesota has to offer. I'm pleased to say that our hard work in Congress is paying off. The Rural Renaissance II Act, bipartisan legislation I introduced with Mark Pryor (D-AK), was included in the deficit reduction legislation recently passed by the Senate.

As I met with local leaders who were hard at work to confront issues and identify assets in order to fashion a brighter future for their cities and towns, I saw a need for this legislation that will bring focus back to the building blocks of our local communities and rural economies.

Most regional centers in Minnesota have growing populations and robust local economies. The success of these regional centers provides an opportunity for towns within a 25 to 30 mile radius to capitalize on the success of the regional centers. But to do this they must be able to provide attractive housing, quality schools, basic city services, adequate health care facilities and the kinds of amenities it takes to make their towns attractive places to live.

Yet, for even the most motivated rural community in Minnesota, it is a struggle to provide the basic quality of housing as a result of a lack of solid infrastructure. The West Central Initiative Infrastructure Study estimates that the State of Minnesota has $6.9 million in immediate water infrastructure needs. My staff has also found that 90 percent of the rural cities and towns that they have visited have wastewater improvement needs. Populations decline, businesses fail, or jobs move. This brings us to several communities with declining school enrollments and an aging population.

What rural communities need are financial tools to expand their infrastructure so they can capitalize on the opportunities that are out there for the taking. The Rural Renaissance Act is legislation aimed at developing those tools in order to bring jobs and spur on economic growth in rural America.

This amendment will provide $200 million worth of rural renaissance bonds to finance rural development projects. In turn, proceeds from these bonds will pay for an estimated $150 million in rural development grants to communities with fewer than 50,000 residents to fund rural utility infrastructure; water and wastewater facilities; affordable housing; renewable farmer-owned energy projects; broadband technology; distance learning and telemedicine; and community facilities, including hospitals, fire and police stations, and nursing and assisted living facilities.

As a former mayor I know that no community can grow without basic infrastructure, and now we have legislation in place to empower rural communities to upgrade outdated, inadequate, or nonexistent basic infrastructure in order to attract new investment and jobs.

A good example of this is in Jeffers, Minnesota. For several years, the Red Rock Rural Water System (RRRWS), which serves nine counties in Southwest Minnesota, had been overwhelmed with requests for quality drinking water. Rural residents, community buildings, businesses, and farmers were greatly impacted by either contaminated water or a shortage of water that threatened the social, economic, and rural sustainability of this portion of Minnesota. By fostering private-public partnerships, a new and safe supply of water was able to be distributed to more than 200 homes and businesses. Rural Renaissance is a fiscally sound way to meet these critical needs that simply cannot wait. This legislation is a huge win for Minnesota and Main Street America.

This is a big idea and an idea whose time has come. We are at a crossroads. We will either take the path to ever more congested cities and a depletion of our rural values, or we will wise up, rediscover, and support what has helped make this country great. The Rural Renaissance Act is part of that wake up call that puts in place the basics upon which our rural towns and communities can grow and develop.

Central Boiler distributes bonus of over $1 million

Central Boiler, a leading manufacturer of quality outdoor wood and corn furnaces, along with Central Fireplace, a division of the company that manufactures direct vent gas fireplaces, held its 12th annual profit-sharing meeting on Friday, Dec. 9.

Owners Dennis and Terri Brazier announced a bonus total of $1,000,686 to be distributed among 154 employees based at the company's Greenbush facility. Each employee's bonus check was based on the length of their employment with the company, hours worked, company profit and overall safety record. The company traditionally rewards employees as a group for safe working habits. At the time of the bonus distribution, Central Boiler employees had worked just over five years—1,833 days—with no lost time due to injuries. The company's previous continuous safety record was 2,100 days.

Central Boiler also matched the contributions employees made to their 401K accounts from their bonus. The profit share and safety bonus, along with the employer contributions to the employee 401K accounts, totaled $1,000,686. This marks the highest bonus Central Boiler has ever distributed.

During the meeting, Dennis Brazier acknowledged some of the tremendous achievements throughout the year including the addition of nearly 50 new employees. The company also increased its dealer base by one-third, while at the same time fulfilling the promises it had made to dealers to meet orders. With the introduction of sales and floor-planning programs, a good year suddenly became record-breaking as the company received nearly 1,000 outdoor wood furnace orders in a single week.

"It's unbelievable," said Brazier, "looking back, that in such a short time what changes were made to match production demands."

Brazier then went on to provide an overview of the business plan, strategy and vision the company will undertake in 2006. There are plans for automation in several areas of manufacturing to improve upon efficiency and work environment.

Awards were presented to seven-year employees Kent Kostrzewski, Mary Temple and Carl Anderson in recognition of their dedication and commitment of excellence to Central Boiler since 1999. Dennis and Terri Brazier recognized the efforts and contributions of the individual departments.

"Everyone's dedication makes a difference, and what has happened this year is definitely an indication of dedication," said Dennis Brazier. "A great company is made up of unlike people with a like goal. I think that's true for us. We're made up of unlike people with many special talents."

About Central Boiler

Central Boiler began operating in 1984 and is the premier manufacturer of quality outdoor wood and corn furnaces. They also manufacture a line of highly efficient direct vent gas fireplaces under their Central Fireplace division. The company's innovations and patents come from people who take a little more time, pay a little more attention and go a little further to make sure that every Central Boiler product is ready to meet the demands of the real world. Central Boiler has a sales and dealer network established throughout the United States and Canada.

Two multi-age classes from Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls descended upon Hugo's, Thief River Falls, on Friday, Dec. 16, buying food for the Area Food Shelf. The grades four to five multi-age classes of Augusta McLean and Roger Schafer decided to purchase food for the Area Food Shelf with the money they would have spent on exchanging gifts. One class raised just over $155. The other class raised $195. Before going to the grocery store, students discussed what they could buy, how to buy it and why. The lesson involved math, nutrition and civics. On Friday, the students split up into small groups with parents and volunteers, and bought items they had on their lists. After the shopping spree, they delivered the items to the Area Food Shelf.

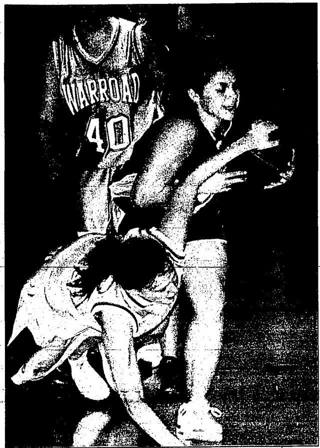
The TIMES



A battle for a rebound was won by Thief River Falls' Allyson Helling during Friday's girls high school basketball match-up with Warroad. A second half rally fell short as the Prowlers, who trailed 30-16 at halftime, fell 51-50.

Prowlers' second half rally comes up short, 51-50...

Warroad holds off TRF

Warroad nearly let a 14-point halftime lead slip away Friday in a girls high school basketball match-up with Thief River Falls. Nearly. The host Prowlers put together a second half rally that chopped a 30-16 first half deficit to a single point in the final seconds, only to see a potential game-winning 3-point shot miss the mark at the buzzer, leaving them on the short end of a 51-50 scoreboard final.

In the end, the Prowlers paid the price for a first half in which they struggled through 22 percent 5-for-23 shooting from the field, missed 10 free throws, turned the ball over 13 times and were beaten on the boards 24-13.

The Prowlers' troubles started midway through the first half when they went nearly four minutes without a point and almost seven minutes without a field goal. That dry spell turned an 11-9 deficit into a 19-9 gap with 7:53 remaining.

Warroad appeared to put the game out of reach with a 7-0 finish over the final four minutes of the half. But the Prowlers got those points back with a 7-0 run of their own following intermission to slice the Warroad lead in half in just 1:26 as Shawna Rogalla scored on a fast break and on a short jumper, Casey Engelstad made one of two free throws, and Becca Larson put the missed second attempt back in with an offensive rebound.

Thief River Falls stayed within striking range the rest of the way.

A frantic final minute began with Engelstad scoring off a nifty base line move that made it 49-46 with 55.5 seconds on the clock. Warroad's Bailee Larson and Thief River Falls' Allyson Helling both made one free throw to maintain the three-point difference, 50-47 with 30.1 seconds showing.

Another single foul shot by Savannah Schue put the visitors up 51-47 with 25.2 second to play. Rogalla tightened things when she drilled a 3-pointer - the only one for either side all night - with 9.8 seconds remaining for the 51-50 margin.

A quick Thief River Falls time-

Casey Engelstad of Thief River Falls concentrated on her defense as she squared up against Stephanie Fresner of Warroad during Friday's girls high school basketball game. Engelstad scored a team-high 15 points, but the Prowlers lost 51-50.

Prowlers shut out Broncos

Matt Nordhagen scored two goals and Brady McIntyre registered a 14-save shutout Saturday as Thief River Falls beat International Falls 4-0 in boys high school hockey.

The visiting Prowlers put 35 shots on Broncos goalie Tanner Muehler as they improved to 5-2. International Falls is just the opposite at 2-5.

Goals by Nordhagen and Evan Jones supplied the Prowlers with a 2-0 advantage at the first intermission.

A second Nordhagen goal was the only scoring in the middle period, with Michael Forney tacking on a third period goal.

"We played well," reported Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "Other than the first minute of the first period when they (Broncos) came out flying, we pretty much controlled the game."

It was the Prowlers' first shutout of the 2005-06 season. "It was good for Brady to get the shutout," offered Bergland. "We did what we had to do to win the game."

Scoring

First period - TRF, Matt Nordhagen (Michael Forney, Michael Benedict), 12:52; TRF, Evan Jones (John Carlson, Drew Kjono), 7:41.

Second period - TRF, Nordhagen (Jordan Swanson, Tony Dorn), time NA.

Third period - TRF, Forney (Benedict, Robby Philipp), 13:56.

Goalie saves - TRF, Brady McIntyre 4-3-7-4; IF, Tanner Muehler 11-9-11-31.

LeDuc, Peralta are champs at Big Bear meet

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Dan LeDuc

Andrew Peralta

The Thief River Falls Prowler wrestling team posted a seventh place finish in last weekend's Big Bear Wrestling Tournament. It was the Prowler's highest finish in the Cass Lake-Bena-hosted tournament since it expanded to a 30-plus team field in 2002.

The team championship went to Hutchinson with 177 points. Rounding out the top ten were Aitkin, 165; Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, 161.5; New York Mills, 161; Detroit Lakes, 146; Wadena-Deer Creek, 144; Thief River Falls, 130.5; Barnesville, 128; Roseau, 119; and Bemidji, 118.5.

Five Prowlers placed in the top eight of their respective weight class. Dan LeDuc, wrestling at 152 pounds for the first time in 2005 and Andrew Peralta, heavyweight, each posted a perfect 4-0 record while winning an individual championship. LeDuc, currently ranked number two (AA 152), came from behind in the closing seconds to defeat third ranked (152 AAA) Joe Anderson of Bemidji 5-4 in the championship match.

"Dan definitely faced his biggest test of the season," said Kenny Geiser, head coach. "[In the championship] he showed a lot of maturity, remained calm and got a great takedown as time ran out."

Peralta wrestled in one of the tournament's most competitive brackets, which included five heavyweights rated in the top six in the state. His road to the championship included surviving a semifinal scare against second ranked (Hwt. A) Tim Richards of Wadena-Deer Creek and a 3-1 championship victory over sixth ranked (Hwt. AAA) Ryan McKay of Brainerd.

"It was the biggest tournament Andrew has ever won," Geiser said. "The guys he went through proves he belongs with the elite heavyweights in the state."

Perhaps the most surprising result of the tournament was the performance of Steven Keogh at 103 pounds. The seventh grader entered the tournament as the eighth

Tyler Jensen of Thief River Falls (44) and Ben Boroos of Warroad both had their hands on the ball on this play under the basket during Thursday's boys high school basketball game. The Prowlers' Sean Sorteberg looked on. Jensen scored 14 points in the 58-48 Thief River Falls win.

Second half runs net Prowlers win

■ TRF boys beat Warroad

It must have been a great halftime speech. Clinging to a 26-21 halftime lead, Thief River Falls created some separation by scoring a half-dozen unanswered points in the first 90 seconds of the second half - a mini-burst that carried the Prowlers past Warroad 58-48 in Thursday boys high school basketball.

Ryan Winkelman got it started with a fast break lay-up. Alex Yaggie added a free throw, then Winkelman dropped in a 3-pointer for a sudden 32-21 scoreboard gap that required a quick Warroad timeout.

"The start of the second half probably won the game for us," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean.

If that didn't put the Prowlers in control, then a one-minute 7-0 breakaway that created a 39-26 spread with 13:21 remaining certainly made a win in their 2005-06 home opener a strong possibility.

Yaggie got that run going with two free throws and a fast break bucket. Sean Sorteberg chipped in with a free throw, then Tyler Jensen scored off a rebound for a 13-point advantage.

Winkelman likely finished off the visitors, who climbed back to within 47-40 following a basket from underneath by Anthony Johnson with 4:55 left by hitting a 3-pointer from the corner for a 50-40 gap with 4 1/2 minutes to play.

A turnaround on the boards helped secure the first win of the season for the Prowlers, who were beaten soundly by Kittson Central in their opener, 60-44. Thief River Falls was out-rebounded 23-11 in the first half, including an 12-1 difference on the offensive end. Warroad still had the advantage by game's end, but only by a 35-30 margin. Warroad did finish with an unusually-high 19 offensive rebounds, but, again, the second half edge there went to the winners, 9-7.

Warroad's undoing was a 29 percent 16-for-56 shooting performance. Many of those misses came on the inside, often in multiples that helped inflate the offensive rebound figures.

Thief River Falls shot 47 percent on a 20-for-43 showing.

It was a back-and-forth affair at the start, with the lead changing hands eight times in the game's first 7:43. Six straight points by Jensen, a 6-5 senior center, finally gave the Prowlers a lead they would carry the rest of the night. He scored on the inside, made two free throws and connected from underneath for a 13-8 Thief River Falls advantage with 8:53 left.

Back-to-back baskets by the side from Sorteberg and Winkelman gave the Prowlers their biggest lead

Home ice win streak reaches five for TRF

There's no place like home, especially for the 2005-06 Thief River Falls girls high school hockey team.

The Prowlers evened their record at 6-6 Saturday with their fifth straight win at the Ralph Engelstad Arena – a 6-3 matinee victory over International Falls.

After losing one-sided games at Warroad Tuesday (7-0) and at Moorhead Thursday (9-1), Thief River Falls found the Broncos and the REA ice to their liking. The Prowlers jumped out to a 4-0 first period lead and had a 5-0 cushion before the visitors got on the board.

Brittni Johnson and Brooke Rundell had four-point games as the Prowlers regained their scoring touch. Johnson scored three goals and added an assist, while Rundell scored twice and had two assists.

DD Rambeck also put the puck in the net for the Prowlers. Mauri Gonsorowski collected three assists and Megan Malwitz had two.

Thief River Falls goalie Brandi Hermanson stopped 18 shots; International Falls netminder Jessie L'Heureux wound up with 24 saves.

Scoring

First period - TRF, Brooke Rundell (Megan Malwitz), 3:11; TRF, Brittni Johnson (Mauri Gonsorowski), 7:48; TRF, Rundell (Johnson, Gonsorowski), 10:05; TRF, DD Rambeck (Gonsorowski), 12:46.

Second period - TRF, Johnson (Maddy Aandal, Rundell), 2:01; IF, Erika Cimineau (Bettany Borstad), 2:18.

Third period - TRF, Johnson (Malwitz, Rundell), 1:45; IF, Sophie Borstad (Cimineau), 11:38; IF, Courtney Friend, 16:42.

Goalie saves - TRF, Brandi Hermanson 3-3-6-18; IF, Jessie L'Heureux 13-5-6-24.

Joe Goulet of Red Lake County Central had his base line shot taken away by Goodridge defender Josh Tharaldson, so he dished the ball off to a teammate under the basket during Friday's Boys Holiday Basketball Tournament action at Northland Community and Technical College. Goulet scored 26 points in the Mustangs' 59-38 seventh place game win.

Stephen-Argyle defends title

Stephen-Argyle put an exclamation point on its title defense during the 15th annual Boys Holiday Basketball Tournament at Northland Community and Technical College with a 60-39 Friday championship game victory over Grygla-Gatzke.

The final matched two unbeatens, but the Storm turned what shaped up to be a interesting encounter into an easy win. The Eagles trailed 25-16 at halftime and were out-scored 35-23 over the final 18 minutes.

Nevin Lubarski and Jordan Sang led the champions with 19 and 16 points, respectively. Sang had 10 by halftime; Lubarski scored 17 in the second half.

The only double figure scorer for the Eagles, who came into the game with a 4-0 record and a top-ten ranking in the Class A state polls, was Tomas Loberg with 12 points.

In the most entertaining game of the tournament's final day, Fertile-Beltrami edged Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 64-63 for third place.

The afternoon results found Kittson County North beating Tri-County 51-33 in the consolation final, while Red Lake County Central defeated Goodridge 59-38 in the seventh place game.

A one-point 27-26 Fertile-Beltrami halftime lead stood up against Badger/Greenbush-Middle River as the two teams played to a 37-37 second half standoff. The Falcons were led by Kolby Gullickson with 11 points and and Taylor Sannes with 10. The 1-5 Gators got a game-high 22 points from Adam Telander, while Jordan Creviston and Jakob Heggedal chipped in with 13 and 12 points, respectively.

The scoring figures were nearly identical in the first and second half as Kittson County North beat Tri-County in the consolation final. The Cougars led 26-17 at intermission and out-scored the Wildcats 25-16 in the second half. Chase Homstad and Jake Sele both scored 13 points and Dustin Dalbey had 12 for the winners. Tri-County did not have a double figure scorer.

A 26-point game by Joe Goulet led Red Lake County Central past Goodridge in the Day 3 tournament opener. Kyle Vettleson added 16 points to the 2-4 Mustangs' offense. Otto Rubischko scored 15 points and Nick Mickelson had 10 for the Huskies, who were within 26-20 at halftime, but got out-scored 33-18 in the second half and fell to 0-5 for the year.

Lubarski was named the tournament's most valuable player. The Storm became the first team to win back-to-back titles in the event since Climax/Fisher won in 1999 and 2000. Tournament sponsors included Thief River Falls Radio, Thief River Falls Sports Boosters, Universal Screenprint and Pepsi Americas.

Nordics lose to Rams

Marshall County Central fell to 1-2 Friday with a 68-40 boys high school basketball loss at Roseau.

Roseau gained the upper hand at the end of the first half on plays at both ends of the court – a hurried miss by the Nordics followed by a buzzer-beater that put the Rams ahead 33-24 at the break.

"Instead of it being a five-point game at the half, we were down by nine," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Jake Rantanen.

Adam Gumeringer scored 19 points to lead the Rams. Kyle Klasen's 14 points led the Nordics.

Marshall County Central was 17-for-42 from the field (40 percent) and a quiet 3-for-6 at the free throw line. Roseau went 29-for-55 from the floor (53 percent) and 5-for-8 at the line. The Rams finished with a 27-19 rebound advantage over the Nordics, who topped the turnover charts 29-14.

It wasn't a great offensive effort, acknowledged Rantanen. "We weren't very aggressive offensively, and that's why we only went to the line six times," he said. "And for the first time, we just didn't compete very hard the whole game. I think we're going to improve this year, but we need to play hard for 36 minutes every night."

of the half, 24-16, with 4:01 showing.

The largest spread of the night came on a three-point play by 6-5 junior center Andrew BlackLance, who finished off a fast break and added a free throw for a 68-44 cushion with just 50.9 seconds on the clock.

Winkelman scored 15 points and Jensen had 14 to lead the Thief River Falls offense. Jamie Forney, a 6-2 junior forward, came off the bench to score a game-high 16 points for Warroad. Josh Laser added 11.

"I was pleased with the effort," offered McLean. "We played a lot of kids and are still searching for an identity, but the first step was putting forth a consistent effort."

The two teams combined to miss 20 free throws and 47 turnovers. Thief River Falls had a 15-for-25 free throw night and turned it over 23 times. Warroad, 3-0 coming into the game, went 14-for-24 at the line and lost the ball 24 times.

Gustafson, Mustangs winning combination vs. Wolverines, 63-57

Brittany Gustafson poured in 30 points as Red Lake County Central out-scored Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 63-57 Thursday in a girls high school basketball game played at Plummer.

Courtney Halvorson added 15 points to the Mustangs' offense.

The Wolverines, down just 36-34 at the half, were led by Brittney Forsberg with 14 points, Justyn Larson 12 and Kasey Dahlen 10.

In a meeting during the Northland Community and Technical College Invitational the previous week, Red Lake County Central was a 63-33 winner.

"I tried to tell our kids it wouldn't be as easy this time," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto.

Gustafson had four 3-pointers in her offensive show. "She played well," acknowledged Koivisto.

Red Lake County Central was 22-for-50 from the field (44 percent) and 14-for-21 at the free throw line. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke went 24-for-67 from the floor (36 percent) and 5-for-8 at the line. The Wolverines had a 27-24 rebound edge. The Mustangs topped the turnover charts 18-14.

Grand Rapids girls beat TRF in second half

Grand Rapids opened the second half of a tie game with a 10-0 run and went on to beat Thief River Falls 69-55 in Saturday afternoon girls high school basketball.

The two teams were deadlocked 17-17 at intermission before the visiting Thunderhawks took off on a 52-point second half.

It was the seventh straight loss to open the 2005-06 season for the Prowlers.

Grand Rapids won by shooting 49 percent from the field (26/53), compared to the Thief River Falls' 29 percent (20/68) showing. The Prowlers also struggled at the free throw line, where they were 12-for-31. The Thunderhawks had a 10-for-18 free throw matinee.

"We still need to perform better on offense," explained Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "Our shooting percentage has to improve – both field goals and three throws."

Jessica Butler led Grand Rapids with 15 points. Laura Rothstein and Erin Erickson both contributed nine. Thief River Falls was led by Becca Larson with 14 points and Shawna Rogalla with 11.

The Thunderhawks finished with a 35-33 rebound edge and had 21 turnovers to 20 for the Prowlers.

Gator defense is a winner against Northern Freeze

Defense did it again for Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Thursday in a 48-35 girls high school basketball win over Northern Freeze.

The Gators led only 24-20 at halftime, but they gave up just 15 more points over the final 18 minutes while doubling their own offensive output.

"I have a theory," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "I figure if you hold a team to under 40 points, you've got a pretty good chance of winning."

The defense covered up a 37 percent 21-for-57 shooting performance for the Gators, who were 6-for-10 at the free throw line. Northern Freeze had a 7-for-15 free throw night.

Kaley Mekash had an 18-point, 12-rebound double-double, Cassy Campbell scored 10 points and Katie Hamness collected 7 assists for the winners, who improved to 6-0.

"Katie Hamness had a real good floor game," pointed out Neibauer.

The Gators' game improved, too, according to Neibauer with the return from the injury list of Anna Wicklund.

It was the second loss in seven starts for Northern Freeze, with both setbacks coming at the hands of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River. The Gators won 42-40 when the two teams met in the first round of the Dec. 5-8 Northland Community and Technical College Invitational.

Alycia Dahl led Northern Freeze with 12 points.

Scoring

TRF JV defeats Warroad

Zach Sorenson scored 18 points, Jacob Stuckey 13, Lee Peterson 11 and Andrew Rook 10 as Thief River Falls beat Warroad 75-34 in Thursday junior varsity boys high school basketball.

The Prowlers led 46-13 at halftime.

Thief River Falls is 34-31 winner vs. Grand Rapids

Nobody had a lot of points, but a balanced Thief River Falls effort beat Grand Rapids 34-31 Saturday in girls ninth grade basketball.

The Prowlers, who trailed 17-13 at halftime, were led by Corissa Kruse, Krista Moyer, Kailey Bakken and Beth Tvedt with five points each.

Storm, Eagles reach NCTC final

Stephen-Argyle defeated Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 67-49 and Grygla-Gatzke stopped Fertile-Beltrami 59-50 in the Thursday semifinals of the 15th annual Boys Holiday Basketball Tournament at Northland Community and Technical College.

In consolation round play that afternoon, Tri-County handled Red Lake County Central 41-27 and Kittson County North doubled Goodridge 68-34.

Nevin Lubarski and Jordan Sang were streaky and Matt Gratzke was steady in the Stephen-Argyle victory over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River to open the evening semifinal session. Lubarski scored 12 of his 14 points in the first half, Sang netted 14 of his game-high 16 in the second half and Gratzke pretty much split his 15 points down the middle as the Storm beat the Gators a second time this year. Zach Creviston had a 10-point game for the Gators, who lost to the Storm earlier 69-39. They trailed 36-25 at the break this time.

Fifteen of Tim Polansky's 20 points came at the free throw line in the Grygla-Gatzke win over Fertile-Beltrami. Tomas Loberg and Geoffrey Satre joined him in double figures for the Eagles with 13 and 12 points, respectively. The Falcons, who trailed 29-21 at the half, were led by Derek Christianson with 13 points.

Red Lake County Central's offense struggled from start to finish in the loss to Tri-County that began Day 2 of the tournament. The Mustangs trailed 19-11 at halftime. Spencer Johnson scored 12 points and Kyle Anderson had 10 for the Wildcats. Joel Goulet of Red Lake County Central matched Johnson for game-high honors.

Chase Homstad scored 22 points and Tyler Swenson had 12 in the Kittson County North conquest of Goodridge. The Huskies, down 30-16 at intermission, were led by Brett Bakken's 12 points.

Moorhead 9-1 winner vs. TRF

Four goals by Stacy Johnson led Moorhead to a 9-1 girls high school hockey win over visiting Thief River Falls Thursday.

Johnson added an assist to complete a five-point night for the Spuds, who led 2-0 after one period and had a 5-0 cushion at the second horn.

Ashley Stenerson, Catherine Johnson, Jenna Braun and Allie Bondy were also goal-scorers for the Spuds. Stenerson and Anna Lipetzky both collected three assists.

Thief River Falls' lone goal was a third period power play score by Kaley Holen.

Moorhead out-shot Thief River Falls 48-12, including an 18-0 difference in the second period.

Scoring

First period - Moorhead, Ashley Stenerson (Stacy Johnson), :52; Moorhead, Johnson (Emily Thielges, Megan Morinville), 4:11.

Warroad holds off Thief River Falls rally

out and a Warroad turnover put the ball back in the Prowlers' hands with 3.5 seconds left. Rogalla got another crack at a trey before the horn sounded, but the shot was off by just inches.

"We battled," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We battle every night."

But the Prowlers' shooting woes have surfaced every outing, too, and that's what has kept them out of the win column to date. "That's what hurt us tonight, and that's what has hurt us all year," acknowledged Loe.

The Prowlers wound up shooting 33 percent from the field for the night (17/51). Warroad fared just a little better at 38 percent (18/48).

It was a head-shaking free throw night for the two teams, who put up 69 foul shots and proceeded to miss 39 of them. It was a nearly identical display of missed opportunities at the line as Thief River Falls went 15-for-34 and Warroad was 15-for-35.

Warroad finished with a 39-29 rebound advantage, including an 18-12 edge on the offensive end. The winners also topped the turnover charts, 26-21.

Engelstad and Schue shared game-high scoring honors with 15 points each. Chelsie Christofferson added 14 points to the Warroad total. The Prowlers got nine-point games from Rogalla and Amanda Hoard.

"I thought we defended well, and I think they (Warroad) were frustrated at the end," said Loe. "But the rebounds killed us."

Philipp, Forney lead Prowlers by Bemidji

Four-point games by Robby Philipp and Michael Forney and a 35-6 shots-on-goal difference added up to a 5-2 Thief River Falls boys high school hockey win over Bemidji at the Ralph Engelstad Arena Thursday.

Philipp scored two goals and had two assists and Forney collected four assists.

"We played very well," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Bergland. "We're playing hard. We did a nice job of creating opportunities. One complaint: we didn't always finish."

Although the Prowlers out-shot the Lumberjacks 15-1 in the first period, they didn't put points on the board until Michael Benedict and Philipp scored back-to-back goals at 5:05 and 5:30 of the second period.

A power play goal by Ryan Johnson at 7:23 enabled Bemidji to stay within 2-1 at the second intermission.

Jordan Swanson scored on a power play just 35 seconds into the third period to rebuild a two-goal Thief River Falls advantage, but the Lumberjacks answered a quick 27 seconds later on a goal by Noah Nemgar.

Thief River Falls iced it, though, when Philipp picked up his second goal at 4:05 and Dan Kaushagen scored at 7:39.

Scoring

seed and surpassed expectations by posting a 6-1 record and third place finish. Keogh is 14-3 on the year.

Rounding out the placing for Thief River Falls were Kyle Iverson, sixth at 125 pounds and Kevin Fynboh, eighth at 130 pounds. Iverson, currently ranked ninth (125 AA) won his first three matches in the tournament and improved his season record to 14-3. Fynboh, unseeded, won his first two tournament matches and finished the tournament with a 3-3 record for his first placement at the Big Bear.

The Prowlers also got strong efforts on Friday from Jordan Engen, 112; Brian Anderson, 119; Mike Mattison, 145; Travis Peralta, 160; and Josh Iverson, 215.

"It was almost like nobody wanted to be the first guy beat out," Geiser said. "We had 10 guys win two (or more) matches – something we've never done before."

Former conservation officer/pilot honored

Conservation officers with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources remember Grant Coyour with a great deal of affection - a man who was not only a great officer, but also a friend with a big smile and endless enthusiasm for whatever he was working on.

Coyour, along with U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service volunteer Eric Cox, died in 1999 while flying a moose telemetry survey in the Red Lake Wildlife Management Area.

Coyour became a state conservation officer in 1988 to fulfill one of his dreams. During his 11 years with DNR, he received numerous letters praising his professionalism and his courteous and compassionate personality. He was recognized for his valor during an armed hostage situation, his outstanding work with personal watercraft education and enforcement, his involvement with the Career Mentor Program at Fond du Lac Community College, his involvement in Paddle for Courage for the disabled and impaired, and his promotion of the Take a Kid Fishing program.

He will be honored again next year for his dedication to wildlife, water quality and recreation, when land southwest of Fergus Falls will be donated to the DNR and become the Conservation Officer Grant Coyour Memorial Wildlife Management Area.

"Grant was full of life and greatly enjoyed the outdoors and protecting the resources," said Col. Mike Hamm, DNR Enforcement Division chief. "He is still missed within the DNR Enforcement family, and this is a wonderful tribute to his memory."

The 160-acre tract of land was mostly purchased with $123,000 in court-ordered restitution following a series of violations of the Wetland Conservation Act dating back to 1998. The remaining funds for the purchase came from a group of wildlife volunteers including Pheasants Forever Minnesota Habitat Fund, the Habitat Corridors Partnership, local Pheasant Forever chapters, and conservation groups. Once the project is finished, 28 acres of wet meadow and shallow marsh will be restored, with the remainder being upland restoration.

"This quarter section will be restored and provide benefits to all current and future generations of Minnesotans," said Matt Holland, Minnesota director of conservation for Pheasants Forever.

Holland also noted that the project is "smack dab in the middle of a complex of private and public land habitat projects." He expects once the project is finished, it will attract a wide range of waterfowl, songbirds, pheasants, prairie chickens and deer.

Dale Krystosek, Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR) wetland specialist, said DNR and BWSR recently entered into an agreement with PF to purchase the land. Local PF chapters providing funding include Otter Tail, Pelican River, and Clay County. The Fergus Falls Fish and Game Club, the Bios De Sioux Watershed District and Ashby Coots Unlimited also provided funding. The Habitat Corridors Partnership funding is made possible by the Minnesota Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund.

"We're pleased to see such a positive outcome to the original wetlands violations," Krystosek said. A formal dedication of the site is expected to take place next year.

2006 grant applications are available from DNR

Applications are now available for 2006 local grants, trail grants, cooperative water recreation grants, Metro Greenways and Remediation Fund grants, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

These grants help local governments, organizations and individuals throughout the state create partnerships with the DNR to fund projects that protect natural resources and provide outdoor recreation opportunities.

Programs include: regional parks (outside the metro area); natural and scenic areas; outdoor recreation (local parks); conservation partners/environmental partnerships; local trail connections; federal recreation trails; regional trails (outside the metro area), fishing piers; public boat accesses; Metro Greenways Land Protection grants and Remediation Fund grants.

Matching grants fund projects such as natural area acquisition, local park development, trail connections or trails for long distance travel, water based recreational facilities, parks that provide regional natural resource based recreation opportunities, habitat restoration and improvement, and other conservation projects.

Funding for these programs is uncertain at this time, but it is anticipated both federal and state funds will be available during 2006. Initiating the application process now provides more time for DNR staff to assist in developing project ideas and for project completion.

Application materials may be downloaded from the DNR Web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us. Click the "Grants" heading and find the appropriate grant program. For additional information about any of the grant programs, contact the grants staff listed in the program descriptions.

To obtain the application packet by mail, write to: Local Grants Program, DNR Office of Management and Budget Services, 500 Lafayette Road, St Paul, MN 55155-4010

DNR issues ice warning for aerated lakes in area

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources warns ice anglers, snowmobilers, skiers and other outdoor enthusiasts to use caution when going onto any lake covered or partially covered with ice, especially those that have operating aeration systems.

"Open water areas created by aeration systems can shift or change shapes depending on weather conditions," said Marilyn Danks, DNR aquatic biologist. "Leaks may develop in air lines creating other areas of weak ice or open water."

Approximately 250 Minnesota lakes will have aeration systems operating this winter. Private hatchery operators also use aeration systems, usually on small lakes without public accesses.

Aeration systems help prevent winterkill of fish populations by adding oxygen to the lake, but they also create areas of open water and thin ice, which are significant hazards.

Aeration systems are generally operated from the time the lakes freeze until the ice breaks up in the spring.

A DNR permit is required to install and operate an aeration system. Permit holders must publish public notices, post warning signs and inspect the systems at least once every seven days. Liability insurance is generally required of private parties operating aeration systems in protected waters. For more information, contact an area or regional fisheries manager.

"Warning" and "Thin Ice" signs are used to post aerated lakes. The permittee must maintain "Warning" signs at all commonly used access points to the lake. This sign warns people approaching the lake that an aeration system is in operation and to use extreme caution.

"Thin Ice" signs are used to mark the perimeter of the thin ice and open water area. These signs are diamond shaped with an orange border and white background with the warning "Thin Ice" in bold print.

Some municipalities have ordinances that prohibit entering into the thin ice marked area or prohibit the night use of motorized vehicles on lakes with operating aeration systems. These local regulations are often posted at accesses where they apply.

Aeration systems are inspected for safety and compliance with regulations by permittees and DNR personnel.

For more information about aeration, contact a regional fisheries office or DNR Information Center by calling toll free 1-888-MINNDNR (646-6367).

A list of lakes where aeration systems will likely be in operation this winter in DNR Region 1 across northwest Minnesota includes (Becker County) Big Cormorant, Blauert Pond, Lime, Melissa, Wolf; (Beltrami County) Crane, Ewert's Pond; (Cass Lake) Leech; (Clay County) Blue Eagle; (Clearbwater County) Pine; (Douglas County) Aldrich, L'Homme Dieu; (Grant County) Shauer; (Hubbard County) Petite, Shanty, Wolf; (Marshall County) Florian Reservoir; (Otter Tail County) Adley, Big Pine, Fish, Lida, Little McDonald, Lizzie, Marion, Nelson, Paul, Pelican, Perch, Pete, Rush, Samson, Tamarac; (Polk County) Badger, Cable, Maple; (Pope County) Johanna, Pelican, Signalness, Waska Pond; (Stevens County) Hattie; (Wadena County) Stocking.

Hunters are requested to rank survey options

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is asking deer hunters across the state to rank potential regulations changes in a survey mailed recently in cooperation with the University of Minnesota.

A representative sample of about 6,000 Minnesota hunters will receive the survey, according to Lou Cornicelli, DNR big game program coordinator.

It is the first survey in which hunters will be asked to rank various management options.

"We need to go beyond asking if hunters support or oppose certain deer regulations," Cornicelli said. "This survey will allow us to gauge public support for specific regulations that have potential to lower deer populations in areas where they are too high."

In many parts of the state, deer densities are the highest ever recorded, according to Marrett Grund, farmland deer project leader.

Lowering deer populations in those areas means finding regulations that are effective and have broad support from hunters. The survey is part of a larger research project that will link the effects of alternative regulations (early antlerless season, earn-a-buck, antler point restrictions) to the level of public support.

Cornicelli said the research has broader implications as the DNR reassesses deer population goals at meetings throughout the state. In meetings so far, residents, hunters and business representatives recommended lowering deer populations by 25 percent in some areas.

"The next step is to devise a strategy that achieves those goals, yet has the support of the hunting public," Cornicelli said.

This type of survey has not been conducted in wildlife management, but it is used extensively in business marketing, Cornicelli said. "The simplest analogy would be if we surveyed archers and asked them to rank camouflage color," he said. "If yellow were one of the choices, it would likely rank the lowest and probably shouldn't be sold by hunting companies."

The DNR is working with the U.S. Geological Survey's Minnesota Cooperative Fish and Wildlife Research Unit to conduct the study. The unit is located at the University of Minnesota. Assistant Unit Leader Dr. David Fulton is supervising implementation of the project.

"Such studies represent an important step among wildlife agencies," Fulton said. "They are actively seeking information from stakeholders to make decisions that will not only be biologically sound, but have broad public support."

Safety-first is being emphasized before venturing onto ice

Ice has formed over Minnesota waters, and it worries state water safety officials.

"Parents need to strongly warn their children to stay off any frozen bodies of water, especially when there is no adult present," said Tim Smalley, Department of Natural Resources water safety specialist. "There is a saying among water safety professionals that 'when your child is near the water, you should be near your child.' That saying holds just as true for ice."

The DNR recommends a minimum of four inches of new clear ice for walking and small group activities on the ice.

The DNR recommends people call a local bait shop or resort to check on conditions before heading out on the ice.

Over the last 10 years, 62 people died in Minnesota ice related accidents, 12 of the victims were children age eight or younger. The highest number of fatal ice accidents on record occurred during the winter of 1982-83 when 22 people died.

The DNR has free ice safety publications including brochures titled "Danger Thin Ice" and "Hypothermia the Cold Facts," a wallet-size card listing recommended ice thicknesses, a 12-inch by 18-inch poster that graphically illustrates recommended ice thicknesses and plans to make a set of ice self-rescue picks.

To get this information, call the DNR toll free 1-888-MINNDNR (646-6367). People can also order information from the DNR at info@dnr.state.mn.us by requesting the ice safety information packet.

Brooks Community News

Pearl Laniel • 698-4470

Merry Christmas to everyone! Ho! Ho! Ho! Santa was here Sunday evening at St. Joseph's Church and fellowship hall with a large crowd and the children put on a beautiful and cute program with the arrival of baby Jesus. The lunch was delicious. The children all received a Christmas gift and many adults also received gifts. Everyone received a bag of goodies plus the shut in members. Thank you to the member and the City board members!

Mrs. Theresa Morinville entered the Hillcrest Nursing Home in Red Lake Falls on Monday. We wish you well Theresa.

Tuesday guests of Mrs. Pearl Laniel were Mrs. Violet Gagner, Martha Gagner of Red Lake Falls, Mrs. Mary Ann Gagner, Joanne Bradley, Dorothy Myhre and Myrtle Hamrum. Vi served the goodies.

Minnesota's manufactured exports climb 20 percent in third quarter

Continuing an unprecedented hot streak, Minnesota's manufactured exports rose to a record $3.5 billion in the third quarter. The state's foreign sales increased 20.2 percent ($594 million) over the same period a year ago. National exports grew by 10.3 percent during the quarter.

The third-quarter performance extended a record-breaking sales rally that has lasted nine consecutive quarters. Most industries experienced some export growth, with computers and electronics, machinery and transportation equipment leading the pack.

Exports to China and Canada drove the growth.

With total sales of $327 million during the third quarter, exports to China doubled compared to the same period a year ago. The gains were largely spurred by increased sales of computers and electronics (up 149 percent) and machinery (up 88 percent.).

Products in strong demand were computer parts, integrated circuits, optical machinery, and centrifuges and filters.

China (including Hong Kong) has become the state's leading market for computers and electronics, surpassing Canada, which had been the top market for such high-tech goods. In the first nine months of the year, Minnesota exported $377 million worth of computers and electronics to China.

"It's no surprise that our performance in China was strong. It's a real growth market for us," said Gov. Tim Pawlenty, who recently returned from a trade mission that took him to Beijing, Shanghai and Hong Kong. "But that's just one chapter in a much bigger story: Minnesota companies are doing remarkably well in the world marketplace – and not just once in a while but consistently."

Canada, by far Minnesota's single largest export customer, led all markets during the third quarter with sales of $823 million (up 18 percent). Rounding out the top five markets, Ireland ranked second with $377 million in sales (up 0 percent), followed by China at $327 million (up 100 percent), Japan at $209 million (up 22 percent), and the Netherlands, $156 million (up 15 percent).

Computers and electronics dominated the export industries with sales of $992 million (up 24 percent), followed by machinery, $581 million (up 30 percent); miscellaneous, including medical devices and products, $527 million (up 1 percent); transportation equipment, $403 million (up 34 percent), and processed food, $229 million (down 1 percent).

"The gains in China really illustrate the importance of this growing market to Minnesota companies," said Tony Lorusso, director of the Minnesota Trade Office (MTO) and organizer of the recent trade mission to China. "I think we're just scratching the surface of our potential there."

An office of the Department of Employment and Economic Development, the MTO is the state's official export promotion agency, providing technical assistance, export education and promotional activities.

FROM THE UPPER FALLS

The News, John W. Eastman, Publisher — December 14, 1905
Thief River Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota

Fire Up At Ware

"The store of Jonas Sjoberg at Ware [Ware was a community about a mile north of the Our Saviour's Lutheran Church at Thief Lake; the town had several stores and a hotel for a few years but had disappeared by 1920.] was destroyed by fire last week. The building was quite a large one, being 24 by 60 feet, but there was not a very large stock of goods in it. Mr. Sjoberg recently opened a store up at Middle River, and while he continued to conduct the Ware store, he had carried most of his stock in his Middle River store. There was a small amount of insurance upon the building, how much is not known."

Post Office Removed
Is Now Located in the New Dobner-Meehan Block
Handsome New Fixtures for the Office Have Been Installed

"Postmaster Richardson removed the post office into the Dobner-Meehan block Sunday and for the next ten years this will be the home of the post office, the government having taken a lease for that length of time.

"The new fixtures for the post office present a decidedly nice appearance, and are far better than any other set in a post office in the northern part of the state. There is a total of 1,043 boxes in the new post office, 432 being call boxes and 911 being lock boxes.

"The new office will make it much more convenient for Postmaster Richardson and his assistants to handle the mail, both incoming and outgoing."

May Cause Litigation
Will Contractor Patterson Complete the Water Works Job?
He Has Most of His Pay and Fears Are Entertained

"Before the water works system of Thief River Falls is completed and paid for there is quite likely to be litigation between the city of Thief River Falls and Contractor Patterson.

"There have been rumors in circulation about town during the past week to the effect that Mr. Patterson had decided to abandon the work, having received a large percentage of his pay and that the bond which he had given the city for the faithful performance of his work was not a valid one and the city could collect no damages. These rumors are without foundation. Mr. Patterson has not abandoned the work, although members of the city council entertain grave fears that he may do so, and as to the validity of the bonds which he has given the city, this will have to be tested in the courts. The city officials state that the bonds are supposed to be good, but they have no desire to get the city into a law suit. Where the council has been at fault is in paying Mr. Patterson too large a percentage of the money due him.

"Mr. Patterson's contract was to complete the water works system here for the sum of $19,100. He gave a bond in the sum of $19,000 for the faithful performance of his work, the paying of all bills and guaranteeing to have the system completed on the first day of September, 1905, or in default to pay a penalty of $10 a day for each day after the first of September until the work was all done. He was to receive payment upon his work from time to time upon estimates and the city had the right to hold back 20 percent until the system was all completed and accepted. Mr. Patterson has thus far secured payments to the amount of some $16,493.80, which would leave him a balance due of $2,606.20. There is, however, about $1,500 due to the contractors who built the water tower and it is said that the city will be obliged to pay this sum, so that in reality all that is due Mr. Patterson is about $900.

"That it will cost considerably more than $900 to take up the leaky water mains and place them in good condition and put the pipe across the bottom of the Red Lake river, all must admit. Of course it is hard to say just how much more it will cost to place the water works system in condition so that it can withstand all of the tests required in the original contract, but conservative men estimate that it will be between $2,500 and $3,000. At present the pipes in all parts of the city are in a very leaky condition and from appearances there are numerous small leaks rather than a few large ones. To dig down, find these and make repairs is going to cost quite a sum of money. That is why it is feared that if there is any loop hole which would afford Mr. Patterson an opportunity to get out of completing the job, that he would take advantage of it.

"At the last meeting of the city council, Mr. Patterson asked that he be advanced a small amount of money in order that he could pay some of his outstanding bills here and the matter was discussed to some length. Aldermen Harlow and Christenson were much opposed to advancing any more money, while the other aldermen believed that it would be the best thing for the city to pay the amount he asked and thus not cause any trouble. The sum paid Mr. Patterson was between $300 and $400.

"No demand or attempt has yet been made to collect the $10 per day penalty, although the city is losing money by reason of not having the system in operation and citizens who had made preparations to use the water this winter are put to a great inconvenience. In the opinion of many it is about time to take some action."

The Sunbeam
An Effort Made to Have It Stop Shining on the Eleven Towns

"Attorney Greeley E. Carr was down to Crookston Monday and filed for the publishers of newspapers at Thief River Falls and Plummer, a protest against recognizing the Sunbeam, an alleged newspaper issued out on the eleven towns by W. G. Hunt, as a medium for advertising final proof notices. The publication is one almost entirely without circulation and its sole reason for existing is for the purpose of publishing final proof notices. No decision has as yet been rendered in the matter, the land office having given Mr. Hunt time in which to file affidavits showing up his side of the case."

Lincoln School Yule Concert Set for December 20

"The Lincoln high school Christmas concert will be given Tuesday, December 20, at 8:00 p.m. in the high school auditorium, under the direction of Miss Judith Halvorson. A prelude of Christmas carols will be played by junior high string students.

"Advent numbers by the boys' ensemble and the senior high chorus will open the program. Selections by the girls' glee club include two Polish folk songs, and 'A Lovely One is He', a Christmas lullaby.

"The junior high chorus will sing favorite Christmas music as well as an unfamiliar folk tune, 'Carol of Mistletoe Singers.'

"Small groups, madrigals, sextets, and a trio, in addition to several soloists, will also take part in the program. The senior high chorus will lead the audience in caroling following their last group of numbers, which will include 'How Far Is It To Bethlehem?' and 'We've been a While A-Wandering.'

"The traditional 'Silent Night' will close the program."

NW Hospital To Get $32,700 In Ford Funds

"Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls has been allotted a grant from the Ford Foundation in the amount of $32,700, as part of a half-billion dollar gift to American Colleges and Hospitals announced Monday at New York headquarters of the foundation.

"Judge Paul Lundgren, member of the hospital board, said: 'It was the most pleasant shock that I've ever had. I just couldn't believe it. It came as a complete surprise. It cannot be used for the payment of our past debts, but can provide for additional facilities.'"

TRF School Board Acted on Several Matters Tuesday

"The Thief River Falls board of education, at its postponed December session, held Tuesday evening, approved a start on condemnation proceedings to acquire title to the block between State and Kinney avenues and Second and Third streets as part of the site for the projected new Washington grade school, to be built next year.

"Also appointed was a committee including Robert J. Lund, chairman; Don Lawrence and Otis Wold, to make a study of a proposed site for a new grade school building to be erected at some future date on the east side."

Blizzard Closes Schools Tuesday

"Highlight of this week's weather picture was an old-fashioned blizzard that developed Monday and continued through Thursday, bringing an estimated five inches of snow that was driven by a 35 mile-an-hour wind that filled the air with snow and brought highway traffic to a near standstill.

"Due to the impossibility of school buses making their rounds Tuesday morning, public schools were closed for the day in Thief River Falls as well as in Red Lake Falls, Plummer, Oklee and numerous other communities in this area.

"Temperatures dropped last Friday morning to 19 below zero, low mark for this season to date, following by 17 below Saturday and -5 Sunday. The week's high of 23 was reached Monday afternoon."

1885 — One Hundred Twenty Years Ago

—While George Begarshan of Black River was doing chores after dark Sunday evening, a horse kicked and broke the lantern, which set the stable on fire, burning 500 bushels of wheat, 200 bushels of oats and all of his farm machinery. (Crookston Weekly Times)

—Will Hillgrove of Black River bought a fine team of horses from Perry Fowler this week. (Crookston Weekly Times)

—P. O. Hagglund of Black River killed a fine deer last Thursday on Section 5; it weighed 200 pounds. (Crookston Weekly Times)

1895 — One Hundred Ten Years Ago

—Notwithstanding the low price of wheat, the elevators are full to overflowing and cars cannot be obtained to release the pressure.

—Our firemen will hold their second annual ball on New Year's Eve.

—Our village council has resumed operations on the hole in the ground, as they need a water supply worse than street lamps or side walks or the indictments of nonpartisans.

1905 — One Hundred Years Ago

—Postmaster Richardson removed the post office into the Dobner-Meehan block Sunday and for the next ten years this will be the home of the office, the government having taken a lease for that length of time.

—James Meehan Jr. has received a letter from his uncle, Patrick Meehan, stating that the latter had sold his 32,000-acre Colorado ranch at a handsome profit.

—Officers of the local Masonic lodge, elected Monday night, include Daniel Shaw, worshipful master; F. J. Stebbins, senior warden; G. R. Lanning, junior warden; W. E. Baker, secretary; T. L. Melgaard, treasurer; and Dr. George Tupper, trustee.

1915 — Ninety Years Ago

—George G. Johnson served as interlocutor at a successful Elks minstrel show, the end men including Dr. G. A. Penney, Harry Prichard and Lawrence Hermanson.

—As a result of the county option election held June 12, Thief River Falls saloons will close their doors December 18.

1925 — Eighty Years Ago

—County Superintendent Ole R. Sande is studying for an advanced degree at Moorhead Teachers college.

—Andrew Breznay of this city has been awarded $8,000 damages in district court after being struck by a car.

—B. F. Umland has been named to succeed Chris Storholm as master of the local Masonic lodge.

1935 — Seventy Years Ago

—The city council has moved toward a reduction in light rates.

—The National Tea company is opening a store on Main avenue.

1945 — Sixty Years Ago

—The American Legion postponed a carnival, set for last Saturday, because of a blizzard.

—Carl R. Anderson has been reelected chairman of the Pennington county AAA farm program.

—Pennington county has oversubscribed its $317,000 victory loan quota by buying $601,000 in bonds.

1955 — Fifty Years Ago

—James P. Taylor, a Detroit ex-convict with two prison terms behind him, has been arrested in Joplin, Missouri in connection with the murder of Kenneth Lindberg, an employee of Northern state bank in Thief River Falls.

—Governor Orville Freeman and Manitoba Premier Douglas Campbell have termed their conference in this city an "historic" meeting never before accomplished.

—Schools in this area were closed due to a severe blizzard this week.

1965 — Forty Years Ago

—A fire burned a large hole in the roof of the Godfrey Carlson home, northwest of Thief River Falls.

—Morris Goddard has been elected secretary of the Pennington county fair association, succeeding Jon Metusalem.

—Initial action toward possible establishment of the Thief River Falls area vocational technical school on its own site was taken by the Thief River Falls board of education when the board hired the architectural firm of Jyring and Whiteman of Hibbing.

1975 — Thirty Years Ago

—Edgar Hetteen, founder of Arctic Enterprises and presently an officer of the corporation, has been elected president of a newly-formed Coalition of Minnesota Snowmobile organizations, formed in Duluth to act as the voice of the nearly one million snowmobilers in Minnesota's 87 counties.

—To encourage improvement of deteriorated and substandard housing in Thief River Falls, the city Housing and Redevelopment Authority has adopted a rehabilitation loan and grant program.

—Another step toward development of an addition to the Thief River Falls area vocational technical institute has been taken by the Thief River Falls board of education, who directed an architectural firm to proceed with preliminary designing.

1985 — Twenty Years Ago

—The Paul Peterick home in Thief River Falls was destroyed by fire Friday.

—Larry Belmont has been elected president of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce, succeeding Ron Martin.

—The Northwest Regional Development commission has voted to change its bylaws to permit the organization to be headquartered anywhere in the region, instead specifically in Crookston.

1995 — Ten Years Ago

—Arctco's first all-terrain vehicle, the Bearcat 454, rolled off the assembly line in Thief River Falls on Wednesday.

—Jill Dekkers and Kendra Dimich, seniors at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, will compete in the Young Artists Solo Competition in the Reincke Fine Arts Center at NDSU in Fargo.

—Ingrid Morken, daughter of David and Mary Morken of Thief River Falls and a graduate of Lincoln high school, spent the fall semester in Madras, India, as a part of the Study Abroad program of Gustavus Adolphus college.

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

St. Hilaire, Red Lake County, Minnesota — December 16, 1905

News Items

"Band concert Monday night.

"The village schools will close next Friday afternoon for a two week's holiday vacation.

"J. J. Soll has rented the saloon building of M. E. Bjerk and will change his location the first of the year.

"The light fall of snow the first of the week was a great help to the sleighing. Country roads are now in fair condition.

"The farmers' threshing machine came from across the river on Thursday and passed through town. They have a couple of jobs yet to finish.

"The band boys will give another one of their popular concerts next Monday evening at the Imperial Hall and they should be patronized by all who can attend. Admission 25¢ and 15¢. See the program published elsewhere.

"The planer whistle will sound its last call for the season of 1905 today, when the mill will shut down for the balance of the year. The new boiler has already arrived and a crew will commence the first of the week to put it in place. This will take considerable time and work at the mill will not resume until some time in January when it will commence work, freshly repaired for another year's run.

"ROSEAU REGION: Right of Way Agent Clay is busy securing right of way east of this city and hopes to have it all secured between here and Warroad in a few weeks. Engineers E. B. Howes and C. E. McDonald, engineers for the Great Northern, will make Roseau their headquarters for the winter and superintend the work of grading the swamps east of here, which work will be done during the winter. In the spring it is expected the steel to Roseau will be laid and trains running by early summer. This is the latest statement by the company. Roseau hopes it will become an assured fact."

Band Concert

"Following is the program to be given by the St. Hilaire Band on Monday evening, December 18th:

"March 'Detroit Commandry' - White; Overture 'Impromptu' - Dalbey; Duet 'Sparks' - Simons, Messrs. C. Lund and N. Dahl; Violin Solo 'Saterbesoget' - Ole Bull; Melodies form Faust - Gounod; Songs - Selected; 'Symphia' Waltzes - Holtzmann; Cake Walk 'Dudes' - Southwell."

TOPICS BY NORM A. HOLEN

—One trouble with this scientific age is that there is too much theory and not enough theology.

—Flattery has been defined to describe others as they see themselves.

—Heads of the huge Honeywell union in Minneapolis don't seem to cooperate very well with the churches. They called a mass meeting for last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

—Cheer up, Folks! We have that January thaw to look forward to.

Birthday Party

"A group of girls were delightfully entertained at a party given by Mrs. John Ward at her home Tuesday afternoon complimenting her daughter, Merten, who celebrated her eleventh birthday anniversary. A five o'clock supper was served by the hostess and the honor guest received many lovely gifts. The guests were Merten Ward, Alice Parbst, Marion Dillon, Lois Cote, Mary Chommie, Ruth Lundstrom, Lois Morell and Janet Mickelson."

Celebrates Birthday

"In celebration of her birthday anniversary, Miss Stella Vevea entertained a group of friends at a party at her home Sunday evening. At the close of the evening a lunch was served and many lovely gifts were presented to Miss Vevea. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wheeler, the Misses Rose Sheedy, Peggy Anderson, Lois Stordahl, Gladys Severson, Margaret Klappenbach, Gertie Johnson, Marjorie Nicholson, Lucille Archambault, and Stella Vevea, and Messrs. Harry Severson, Clifford Wikel, Douglas Booren, Randall Noper, Lloyd Vevea, Clarence Sande and Edward Kelly."

"Wednesday, December 17, Prayer meeting at W. K. Roefer, 123 Tindolph avenue South.

"Our Sunday school Christmas program will be held Sunday, December 21, at 7 p.m."

Crayfish Galore

"Dainty handkerchiefs clapped closely over turned up noses. When? Where? Why? ask You. Well, Mr. Chalmers was really the cause of it, for with chisel, hammer and driver, he took from a can an uncountable number of smelly crayfish. It was in Mr. Orwoll's world history room, even if he wasn't right there, that Leslie Rierson showed his weakness for those blood curdling specimens.

"Though but the head and skeleton were left, it managed to get from girl to girl and to force a scream from each. Leslie took a fancy to the creature when he first spied it. Taking it on his arm, he petted it and flourished sweet words upon the freak. That is what made the girls use their hankies and stare at the zoologist. But that look in one young lady's eyes - what was it, adoration?

"Anyway it caused a great deal of discussion and laughing. And it will be with relief when both the odor and the creatures will become extinct."

Feature That!

"Mr. Chalmers: Lorraine, how long is the crayfish's esophagus? Lorraine: Why, er, a, a, long enough to reach from the stomach to the mouth."

A New Need

"He stood there, in the moonlight. He wore a pair of knickers, red socks rolled above his boots, a scarlet sweater with mittens to match, and a bright cap drawn snugly over his ears. He took a deep breath of the zestful winter air, and shifted his shiny sharp-edged skates to the other hand. Then he sighed.

"But why, should he sigh. A perfect evening with moon and stars, warm, bright clothes, skates, even the girls waiting for his whistle.

"He sighed because there was no place to go skating.

"Isn't it a terrible thing? No place to spend those beautiful December evenings. No place to ply sharp-edged steel on gleaming ice and watch the sparks fly. No place to engage in breath-taking races or crack-the-whip. No place to play hockey.

"Oh, of course, if one wants, the river is there, with snow several inches thick, with rocks and stones and twigs to bar the skaters' haste. But who wants that? Nobody.

"What we want and need, and must have, is a skating rink. And please, Santa, send it to us for Christmas!"

Christmas is about giving

Canadian Pacific Rail's Holiday Train delivered on its promise to entertain and raise awareness. While decorated with thousands of LED lights and bringing entertainment to communities along its tracks helped put everyone in a cheerful, holiday mood, its true purpose was to focus on collecting food and money, and raising awareness for local food banks. In the best tradition of celebrating peace on earth, and goodwill toward men, the CP Rail Holiday Train delivered.

It was a wonderful event - made even better by slightly warmer temperatures and a light snow. We join Gloria Reierson of the Area Food Shelf who thanked CP Rail, its entertainers and all of the volunteers who assisted her at this event.

Donations of food and money collected during the Holiday Train event and the spaghetti dinner will benefit the growing number of families in need in this area. Christmas is about giving. We salute all who cared enough to share their bounty.

During the holidays, the Area Food Shelf typically receives many donations, but between the holidays and March, donations tend to drop off significantly. We ask that everyone remember the Area Food Shelf and families who are in need during this time of year, too.

It was not in our best interest

Arden "Bud" Comstock served on the Pennington County Board of Commissioners with distinction for 13 years. During that time he tried to do what's best for Pennington County and its residents. That's why his recent action - or inaction - appears to be out of character. It's also very disappointing.

Last August, Comstock left the county to pursue job opportunities in Florida. Instead of resigning, he left a note with the county saying he was going on an extended vacation. A loophole in state law left the county board of commissioners waiting 90 days before it could declare his seat on the county board vacant. During those 90 days, we're told no one could reach him and Comstock didn't offer an explanation or a resignation until last week, which coincidentally, was at the end of the 90-day period. During that time the county also kept paying his salary.

This entire situation was disappointing on many levels. The worst part being that residents of Comstock's district were without representation on the county board. I don't think that was in the best interest of residents in Pennington County.

Congratulations to Northland Hall of Fame inductees

Congratulations to the six individuals inducted into the Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) Athletic Hall of Fame. Induction ceremonies, which recognized the incredible accomplishments of these six individuals, were held at the Swenson House recently. The accomplishments of John Michael Anderson, David Dickey, Tony Burke, Georgine Troska, Paula Hovda Seifried and Scott Bergland on and off fields of sport, says much for the education and quality of students who attend NCTC in Thief River Falls.

Prowler Hall of Fame nominations sought

Last week, we received notification that nominations for the 2006 Prowler Hall of Fame are being sought. The following categories being considered include Outstanding Musical Performer, Outstanding Artistic Performer, Outstanding Athlete, Outstanding Director, Advisor, Coach, Outstanding Community Service Leader, and others, as well.

Many individuals have made, and continue to make, outstanding contributions that benefit or reflect well upon Lincoln High School, its staff and the entire community.

If you would like to nominate someone for this award, contact Lincoln High School Activities Office, 101 Knight Ave. S., Thief River Falls, MN 56701; or 218-681-7140. The nomination deadline is March 1, 2006. The Hall of Fame Banquet during which these individuals will be honored is scheduled for Saturday, May 6, 2006, at the Best Western, Thief River Falls.

Letter

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus

Eight-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon wrote a letter to the editor of New York's Sun. The response was printed as an unsigned editorial Sept. 21, 1897. Francis Pharcellus Church's work has since become history's most reprinted newspaper editorial, appearing in part or whole in dozens of languages in books, movies, and other editorials, and on posters and stamps.

"Dear Editor, I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says, "If you see it in The Sun, it's so." Please tell me the truth; is there a Santa Claus?. Virginia O'Hanlon, 115 W. 95th St.

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except [what] they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest man that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding. No Santa Claus! Thank God! He lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, nay, 10 times 10,000 years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

Thank you good TRF Samaritan

To the Editor:

My husband and I often pass through Thief River Falls, and stop to shop before returning home to Canada. This month was no exception.

After filling up with gas on Dec. 6, we stopped at Hugo's. We placed our purchases on the counter, but when it came time to pay, I realized that my wallet was missing. Inside the wallet was our birth certificates, drivers' licenses, credit cards and over $100 in cash. We searched the car, and the parking lot to no avail. The wallet was nowhere to be found. We went to the store's "Lost and Found," and were informed that the wallet had been turned in. We were relieved to have the wallet back - with all of its contents intact.

A big thank you to the person who found it. You have no idea how grateful we both are.

Sincerely,
Gail Elaschuk

Sen. Norm Coleman: Solutions to rural health challenges begin right here in Minnesota

by Sen. Norm Coleman

Healthcare is unquestionably among the most important issues facing our country. Here in Minnesota, moms and dads, seniors, and rural communities know all too well the healthcare challenges of the 21st century.

However, in Minnesota, we are also blessed to have wonderful healthcare providers and innovators who offer us, and the rest of the world, an incredible number of healthcare solutions. Medical breakthroughs are happening everyday, and I continue to marvel at the latest and greatest medical devices developed by Minnesota companies that will go a long way to improving healthcare services in our rural communities, our state, and across the globe.

Minnesota's leadership in the medical community is well established. Our state leads the nation in start-up medical device companies, and we've led the world in many medical breakthroughs as the first state to perform open heart surgery, produce the first cardiac pacemaker, and manufacture the first mechanical heart valve. Breakthroughs such as these have revolutionized the U.S. economy and driven productivity to new heights, and at the same time, have helped people live longer and enjoy a better quality of life.

Yet, we cannot stop with just one or two milestones. We must continue to build upon our rich tradition, take advantage of the medical advances of the past decade that hold promise for parents of sick children, people with aging parents and everyone who aspires to live long and healthy lives, and put this new technology to practical use. That is why I unveiled my Minnesota Medical Device Task Force this year to help advise me about finding ways to increase access to life-saving technologies born in Minnesota.

In rural Minnesota and throughout rural America, there are serious healthcare issues, not only in terms of illness but also in terms of a lack of easily accessible services. One out of every five Americans lives in a rural area, yet only one out of every 10 physicians practices in a rural area. Forty percent of our rural population lives in a medically underserved area. We need to improve this situation. With access to care an average of 30 miles away, rural areas have much to gain from the ability to access healthcare information at a distance.

In order to improve access to medical technology and resources, I have worked hand-in-hand with our rural hospital administrators and the Minnesota Hospital Association's Rural Health Committee to develop new legislative initiatives aimed at improving rural healthcare access while building upon Minnesota's tradition of medical excellence.

While new technologies can now be more rapidly delivered, the local hospital must continue to thrive as the heartbeat of your community. Not only will you sleep better at night knowing local physicians stand ready in event of an emergency, but your town's economic development improves with greater access to healthcare.

To that end, I authored the Critical Access to Health Information Technology Act, legislation that will help critical access hospitals that are too often at a disadvantage because of their size. Currently, Minnesota ranks third in the number of critical access hospitals in the nation, and I want to make sure those smaller communities have the opportunity to deliver the best care possible. This act gives smaller rural health hospitals a competitive edge for health information technology grants and supports the next generation of coding systems that will modernize and expand Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services' capacity to keep pace with changes in medical practice and technology.

I am well aware of the rising cost of healthcare and the difficulty of healthcare access in rural areas. The Remote Monitoring Access Act of 2005 addresses these concerns by allowing healthcare facilities to collect, analyze and transmit clinical health information through remote monitoring technology. The promise of this innovative technology is clear: Better information on the patient's condition – collected and stored electronically, analyzed for clinical value, and transmitted to the physician or the patient—will improve patient care and access to it as it extends healthcare services to areas where there is a shortage of physicians. This technology allows physicians to monitor and treat patients without a face-to-face office visit, thereby increasing access to physicians for patients living in rural areas.

The Remote Monitoring Access Act of 2005 will also improve access to medical care for Medicare beneficiaries by creating a new benefit category for remote patient management services in the Medicare physician fee schedule. In this new fee schedule, Medicare would cover physician services involved with the remote management of specific medical conditions.

Additionally, the Wired for Healthcare Quality Act recently passed in the Senate will bring the benefits of better healthcare to more people in our rural communities. This bill will encourage the adoption of cutting-edge information technologies in healthcare and help improve patient care by reducing medical errors and allowing for more efficient record-keeping through the use of a "privacy protected" electronic card or identification tag. The patient will now be able to present a card to the healthcare provider that holds all of the patient's relevant medical data, including insurance and medical history records. This act is small step that will have a big impact as it will help save lives and brings us closer to enabling all Americans the freedom and security of going to the doctor's office or hospital and getting treatment that is personalized.

Minnesota has rightfully earned a reputation as a national healthcare leader, and passage of these two bills will go far toward improving healthcare in Minnesota and around the country. New technologies mean diseases can be diagnosed sooner and that means treatments will be more effective and more affordable. Ensuring rural Minnesotans have the access to remote monitoring and the latest health technology is very important to me. Through these new innovations, I believe we will see productivity and quality improvements to our healthcare system. I will continue to work hard in the United States Senate to make sure that Minnesota's quality healthcare tradition continues and that every Minnesotan can receive the best care possible.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Quality Housing and Work Responsibility Act of 1998 requires that Public Housing Agencies (PHA'S) prepare Public Housing Agency Plans including a 5-year and an Annual Plan. The annual plan provides details about the PHA'S immediate operations, program participants, programs, services and the PHA'S strategy for handling operational concerns, residents concerns and needs, programs and services for the upcoming fiscal year. The planning mechanism requires PHA'S to examine their existing operations and needs and to design short and long-range strategies to address those needs.

The Thief River Falls Housing and Redevelopment Authority (HRA) has prepared an Annual Plan as required by the Quality Housing and Work Responsibility Act of 1998. This plan is available to the public for review and comment. The plan can be reviewed at the Thief River Falls Housing and Redevelopment Authority (HRA). Offices are located at 415 Arnold Avenue South in Thief River Falls, MN. Office hours are 8:00 A.M. to 12:00 P.M.

A public hearing will take place on the plan at the Thief River Falls Board of Directors Meeting, which will be held on February 14, 2006 at 12:00 P.M. at the Thief River Falls HRA in Thief River Falls, MN.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
NOVEMBER 22nd, 2005, 5:00 P.M.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Pennington County Board Room in Thief River Falls, MN, Tuesday, November 22nd, 2005, at 5:00 p.m. Members present: Bob Carlson, Donald Jensen, and Charles Naplin. Members absent: Arden "Bud" Comstock and Oliver "Skip" Swanson.

Ken Yutrzenka, Human Services Director, presented the consent agenda and recommendations from the November 15, 2005 Human Services Committee meeting. On a motion by Commissioner Carlson and seconded by Commissioner Jensen, the following recommendations of the Pennington County Human Service Committee for November 15, 2005 (detailed minutes on record at Pennington County Human Services) are hereby adopted:

SECTION A

I. Approval of the minutes from the October 18th, 2005 Human Service Committee meeting.

II. A. Approval to reimburse Northwest Medical Center $281.00 per day for hold order custodial care costs for Case #4030921, effective November 1st, 2005.

B. Approve, as presented, the 2006-2007 Adult Mental Health Grant Application.

C. To proceed with the process for consideration and subsequent approval of hosting a Social Worker Intern during the months of May through August 2006.

SECTION B

I. Approval of the Agency's Social Service Case Activity as presented.

II. Approval for payment of the Agency's bills as listed.

County Auditor Ken Olson then presented an application for a Retailer's Off-Sale Non-Intoxicating Malt Liquor License, made by Beatrice Kruse for Kruse In of St. Hilaire, MN. Motioned by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Carlson, to approve the application for a Retailer's Off-Sale Non-Intoxicating Malt Liquor License for Kruse In of St. Hilaire, MN. Motion was unanimously carried.

Mr. Olson then presented a letter to the Commissioners from Shannon Olson of the Salvation Army, requesting the Commissioners to sign up for bell ringing from 10:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. at Pamida on December 10th, 2005.

Ken then told the Board that he received a request to change the date of the last County Board meeting of the year, due to the holiday on Monday, December 26th, 2005. No motion was needed, but the Board changed the date of the County Board meeting from December 27th to December 28th, at 5:00 p.m.

Ken then informed the Board that he and other city and county officials met with State Auditor Pat Anderson here today in regards to State Mandate Reform and Waiver Program. She stated that local governments can apply for waivers and also propose reforms of state mandates, and she strongly encourages those who believe changes are needed to take advantage of these initiatives.

Colleen Hoffman, of Hoffman, Dale & Swenson, PLLC, then met with the Board to discuss the 2004 Audit of Pennington County they recently completed. She presented a written report and summarized its various sections. Their recommendations included better segregation of duties within several offices to ensure adequate accounting control, but noted that having limited personnel is not unusual in a County this size. They also recommended levy increases for Ditch and the Road and Bridge funds to avoid future deficits. Colleen also mentioned that capital asset records are now being maintained internally, with periodic inventories being taken. This was a previously reported item in past audits. Motioned by Commissioner Carlson, seconded by Commissioner Jensen, to accept the 2004 Audit of Pennington County as presented and also commending the firm of Hoffman, Dale & Swenson. Motion was unanimously carried.

Bryan Malone and Andrea Hedemann of the Soil, Water, and Conservation District then met with the Board. Andrea stated she needs the Boards approval on the reappointments of Arlene Thune, Bob Wald, and Dave Strong to the Board of Adjustments. Motioned by Commissioner Carlson, seconded by Commissioner Jensen, to approve the re-appointments of Arlene Thune, Bob Wald, and Dave Strong to the Board of Adjustments. Motion was unanimously carried.

Motioned by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Carlson, to approve the Pennington County 2006 Allocation and Contribution Plan Statement. Motion was unanimously carried.

Andrea then discussed the after-the-fact Shoreland Zoning Permit fee and believes it should be increased to $60.00. The Board then looked at the fee schedules for zoning permits, compared them to neighboring counties, and decided that most of the fees should be increased. Motioned by Commissioner Carlson, seconded by Commissioner Jensen, to increase the following zoning permit fees: Building-$25.00, ISTS-$25.00, Land Alteration-$25.00, Conditional Use-$250.00, Variance-$300.00, After the Fact-$75.00, all to become effective January 1st, 2006. Motion was unanimously carried.

Bryan Malone then spoke to the Board and said the S.W.C.D. can now apply for funding for beaver control in Pennington County. If applied for as Joint Powers, up to $20,000 in funding is available, otherwise the maximum is $5,000. The County Board indicated that the County will be applying for Beaver Control funds through the Joint Powers Beaver Control Board as established through the Red Lake Watershed.

Bryan then questioned the Board on the status of the preliminary 2006 budget that was previously set. The following resolution was then introduced by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Carlson, and upon vote was unanimously carried.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Pennington County Board of Commissioners has reviewed the departmental budgets for 2006 and at this time finds no further changes.

See Chart at bottom

Dale Cloose, property owner in County Estates mobile home court, then voiced his concerns regarding some roads in the court that are in bad condition and might compromise the safety of some residents by not allowing emergency services to reach them. Dale questioned the property lines and ownership of roads in the Court, and wants to know who is responsible for maintaining the roads. After some discussion as to who should be maintaining the roads, County Attorney Dave Olin said he will send a letter to Mike Jorgenson, Attorney for Smiley Township, in regards to these issues.

County Engineer Mike Flaagan then spoke in regards to CD# 55 and said he met with Steve Olson and Lou Tassa to determine the direction of water flow. Mike still can not find any more information to determine where the legal ditch ends on the west side of Section 17 in Hickory Township.

Mike then presented a letter from Steve Olson petitioning to drain 55 acres into CD# 55. The land is located in the NW 1/4 of Section 20, Hickory Township. The Board accepted the petition, but more clarification is needed on the land being petitioned. The Board also decided that there should be a ditch meeting for CD# 55, and this will most likely take place in January. No further action was taken.

Engineer Flaagan then presented his letter to County Attorney Dave Olin in response to Attorney Kevin Duffy's letter regarding CP 57-05-06 with TRF Parking Lot Striping, Inc. In the letter, Mike responds to points made by Mr. Duffy in regards to contract terms. Mike also mentions that the County is not interested in purchasing the remaining crack sealant at this time, and he believes the County followed the contract properly and lawfully.

The Board decided it will meet on November 29th, 2005 at 9:00 a.m. for union negotiations.

County Attorney Dave Olin then suggested that the Board make a decision in regards to insurance as the deadline for flex plan allocations is November 23rd. After some discussion, there was a motion by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Carlson, to approve increasing the prescription co-pays to the following amounts: $10.00-Generic, $25.00-Formulary, and $40.00-Non-formulary, all to become effective January 1st, 2006. Motion was unanimously carried.

Commissioner Carlson then questioned the absence of Commissioner Comstock, and Attorney Olin said that by statute the Board can declare the position vacant and appoint a replacement, or if the Commissioner resigns a special election would be held to fill the vacancy. Motioned by Commissioner Carlson, seconded by Commissioner Jensen, to have County Attorney Dave Olin send a letter to Commissioner Comstock asking for his resignation or to return to the Board meeting by December 13th, 2005, or, the Board will appoint a replacement for his position. Motion was unanimously carried.

Motioned by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Carlson, to approve the minutes of November 8th, 2005 as presented. Motion was unanimously carried.

Motioned by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Carlson, to pay the following Commissioner warrants of November 25th, 2005. Motion was unanimously carried.

Ski passes benefit trails system

All money raised from the sale of cross-country ski passes directly supports the more than 1,600 miles of designated cross-country ski trails throughout Minnesota, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. State law requires skiers to purchase and possess a daily, annual or three-year pass before using any grant-in-aid and state-operated cross-country ski trails this winter.

"Skiers should think of the passes as an investment in their sport," said Paul Nordell, cross-country ski pass coordinator for the DNR. "The money collected is funneled directly into the grant-in-aid program to support and expand the trail system statewide, and maintain it at the level skiers have come to expect."

Ski passes cost $5 for the daily, $15 for the annual, and $40 for the three-year pass. The State Legislature established the ski pass in 1983. The law requires skiers 16 years of age and older to have a valid Minnesota ski trail pass with them at all times while on a designated trail. Skiers caught without a pass may be ticketed.

Skiers may purchase passes at any one of 1,800 electronic licensing agents throughout Minnesota and at most state parks that have ski trails. Annual and three-year passes may also be bought online at www.dnr.state.mn.us; over the phone by calling 1-888-665-4236; or by mail, DNR License Center, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4026. Passes ordered by mail require approximately two weeks for delivery. A $3.50 convenience fee will be added to the sale of passes sold over the Internet.

Minnesota cross-country ski trail information - trail locations, maps and conditions - is available on the DNR Web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us/skiing/index.html.

Minnesota scenes, seasons are on state park calendars

Minnesota photographers have captured the seasons in 12 stunning photographs in the 2006 state park calendar, which is now on sale, just in time for the holidays. From winter landscapes to spring wildflowers - waterfalls to bison on the prairie, each month "takes" people to another state park.

The calendar contains information on the natural wonders that occur each season. People can find out when Virginia bluebells bloom and green frogs "sing," when the birds migrate and nest in the spring. Park naturalists have compiled a week-by-week list of when visitors can expect to see these and more natural wonders in state parks.

The inside cover features Lac qui Parle State Park, the park showcased on the 2006 state park annual permit. The spread features a photo, park information and a look at the annual permit that goes on sale Jan. 1.

The calendar includes a list of the state parks, addresses and phone numbers plus a map of the state showing the location of each park and recreation area.

This is the last year a state park calendar will be produced, and the number of calendars is limited. The 2006 calendar can be purchased at the DNR License Center, the DNR Gift Shop or state park nature stores. The price is $10.95.

DNR Question of the Week

Q: When do snowmobile trails open in Minnesota?

A: Generally speaking, the opening date for snowmobile trails in Minnesota is Dec. 1. However, there are many factors and a lot of preseason work that dictate whether a specific trail is open and available on that date. Before a trail can be opened for use, the trail needs to be cleared of deadfalls and other potential hazards. Frozen ground is also a necessity since many snowmobile trails run over and through wet areas. Grooming does not start until there is adequate snow cover and many trails are gated until the preseason work in complete. Many of the state's 20,000 miles of snowmobile trails exist on private lands with permission from landowners; local units of government in cooperation with snowmobile clubs operate these Grant-In-Aid trails. Because conditions can vary from place to place, trail riders should check ahead before leaving home. Information for state trails is available on the DNR's Web site: http://www.dnr.state.mn.us/snowmobiling/index.html.

Grant-In-Aid and local trail conditions can be obtained by contacting the local chambers of commerce and local snowmobile clubs. Also, anyone planning to ride on any state or Grant-In-Aid snowmobile trail is required to purchase a Snowmobile State Trail sticker for their machine.

- Forrest Boe, trails & waterways operations manager.

Q: Is there a specific date by which Minnesota lakes are typically frozen over to allow for safe recreation?

A: It is not a good idea for anglers or anyone to rely on the calendar to determine whether or not a frozen lake is safe. In years past, ice may have been passable by Dec. 1, but a warm start to another Minnesota winter makes it difficult to determine just when a lake or pond will freeze thick enough to allow recreation. Even once this finally happens, it is important realize that ice is never 100 percent safe. The DNR recommends the following ice thickness for these intended uses: a minimum of 4 inches of new, clear ice for foot traffic; five inches for ATVs and snowmobiles; and a minimum of eight to 12 inches for cars or small trucks. Local resorts and bait shops can often provide information about ice thickness and point out dangerous areas. Also, anglers and others who venture out on the ice should take ice picks with them and wear a life jacket as a precaution.

- Tim Smalley, DNR boat & water safety specialist.

Snowmobile trail sticker required

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources reminds people that a Minnesota snowmobile state trail sticker is now required for all snowmobiles operated on any state or grant-in-aid snowmobile trail in Minnesota. A new law requiring the sticker was enacted during the 2005 legislative session. It took effect Oct. 1.

The state trail sticker costs $16 for an annual permit and $31 for a three-year sticker, which may only be purchased during snowmobile registration. The permit will only be valid from Nov. 1 through Apr. 30 of each year.

Tom Danger of the DNR's Trails & Waterways Division said operators of snowmobiles caught on a state or grant-in-aid trail without a valid trail sticker will be required to purchase an annual permit at the price of the three-year permit, $31.

Annual stickers can be purchased from a deputy registrar or any of the 1,800 electronic licensing agents throughout Minnesota, by telephone at 1-888-665-4236, or on the DNR Web site at www.dnr.state.mn.us. The three-year sticker is available at a deputy registrar office; through the mail to the DNR at 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155; or with an online renewal at www.dnr.state.mn.us. A $3.50 convenience fee will be added to stickers purchased by telephone or online. More information about the state trail sticker, including proper placement, can be found in the 2005-2006 Minnesota Snowmobile Regulations handbook.

Minnesota has 20,385 total miles of snowmobile trails, with more than 18,000 miles managed and maintained by local snowmobile clubs through the grant-in-aid program.

Funds raised during the 2006 Thief River Falls Education Foundation Tour of Homes were donated to local schools recently. Some of the homeowners participating in the Tour of Homes were present recently to present the donations to school representatives: (from left) Eric Melcher, representing Lincoln High School, where $900 will be used to purchase a cutting machine; Wally and Ione Sparby, homeowners; Julie Kragness, literacy coach at Challenger Elementary School, where $900 will be used to support the Literacy Collaborative; Marcia and Geno Kalinowski, homeowners; Odette Bendickson, homeowner; and Bob Wayne, principal at Franklin Middle School, where the $900 will support the Literature Circle Book Program.

TRF Education Foundation presents gift to schools

Thief River Falls Education Foundation has announced that it has awarded $2,700 to School District 564 as a result of the Foundation's Tour of Homes fundraiser. This is the fourth year the Foundation has hosted this event.

Each of the schools, Lincoln High School (LHS), Franklin Middle School (FMS) and Challenger Elementary School (CES), will receive $900.

At LHS, the $900 will be put toward the purchase of a Plasma Cam cutting machine and software. This will allow students to be introduced to computer programming and advanced layout techniques.

At FMS, the $900 will support the Literature Circle Block Program. This program offers students an opportunity to choose their own reading materials from books selected by the teacher. Small groups are formed, based on the book of choice, then the groups meet to discuss what they've read. The teacher serves as a facilitator, not a group member or instructor. Evaluation is by teacher observation and assessment as well as by student self-evaluation.

CES will use the $900 for the Literacy Collaborative project. Challenger is in the third year of the four-year Literacy Collaborative project, which is a comprehensive school reform project designed to improve the reading, writing, and language skills of elementary children. The goal of this comprehensive effort is to significantly raise the level of achievement for all students at CES, kindergarten through grade five.

The support shown for the Tour of Homes by the community, volunteers and homeowners has been overwhelming, said Denise Laymon of the Thief River Falls Education Foundation. "The event would not be possible without the commitment expressed by all."

Laymon said there were 326 paid tickets sold during the event, which required assistance of 40 volunteers.

Laymon cited Bill Grosz when she stated, "Contentment comes when you know you've done something good for someone else, and you're not expecting anything in return."

Brady Kasprick, 22 months, was delighted by his visit with Santa Wednesday, Dec. 14, at Lincoln High School (LHS). Santa visited with children attending an event sponsored by the Student Senate at LHS, Thief River Falls. Funds collected during the event will be used by the Student Senate to purchase gifts for a family in need. Student Senate members also decided that instead of a gift exchange this year, they would donate the money they would have used for the gift exchange program to the project. The project is a community service project designed to teach leadership skills.

Unemployment rate inched up in Nov.

According to figures recently released by the Department of Employment and Economic Development (DEED), Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for November slightly increased to 3.9 percent from October's 3.7 percent rate.

The state's employment picture showed a seasonally adjusted loss of 2,600 jobs. Manufacturing, however, once again led the gaining sectors by adding 2,000 jobs during the month, this on top of an upwardly revised October gain of 3,100. This raises employment in manufacturing back to a level not seen in three years. Large job gains also occurred in education and health services (+1,800) and financial activities (+600). The industries with large job losses included trade, transportation and utilities (-2,900), and professional and business services (-2,800).

"Minnesota's unemployment rate continues to remain far below the national rate," said DEED Commissioner Matt Kramer. "Minnesota's rate, both seasonally adjusted and unadjusted, has been below the national rate since 1978 — the inception of the program of reporting monthly rates for all states."

Caroline Teets, 8, shared her secret Christmas wish with Santa Wednesday, Dec. 14. Santa visited with children attending an event sponsored by the Student Senate at Lincoln High School, Thief River Falls. Funds collected during the event will be used by the Student Senate to purchase gifts for a family in need. Student Senate members also decided that instead of a gift exchange this year, they would donate the money they would have used for the gift exchange program to the project. The project is a community service project designed to teach leadership skills.

All I Want For Christmas...

Dear Santa,

How are you Mrs. Claus? Are the elves working on everybody's toys? Tell them I said hi.

I'm sick at home. I'm probably going back to school tomorrow! How do you like living in the North Pole? I think it would be very fun and also very cold.

My name is Alan Leslie Prestebak and I live on a farm with cows and a dog. My moms' name is Michelle, my dad's name is Tim, my sisters name is Adelle, and my bother's name is Adrian.

I would like a remote control car for Christmas because I like to drive them and race against my brother. I want a big pack of football cards, because I like to collect football cards and I want the DVD called The Incredibles because I want to see it.

I like Christmas because it seems so peaceful and nice. It really seems like that when it is Christmas morning.

Thank you for the presents I got last Christmas. I will leave you cookies and milk. I've been good because I help my dad with chores and sometimes I help my mom with decorating for Christmas.

From, Alan Prestebak

Dear Santa,

How is Rudolph and his friends this year? How are your elves this year? What happens when Rudolph gets sick? Do you have a spare reindeer that takes Rudolph's place? How do you be so quiet in the night? How is Mrs. Claus? is she busy?

I want a PSP for Christmas because it is really cool. I want a game for it, too. I also want a game cube for Christmas because my brother an I can't decide on what to get. I also want Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire Game boy game. I have been good this year because I helped my dad change the tires on his truck. I rolled one tier to him but it fell on me.

Dear Santa,

How are you? Yesterday school was two hours late and we got part of a blizzard but not a lot of snow but we did get wind. How old are you? How many elves do you have? Does Rudolph's nose still light up? How old is he? How does Mrs. Claus feed all of the elves? Do you have any pets? My favorite pets are cats and dogs. On my farm we have cats, horses, sheep, lambs, and chickens.

For Christmas I would like a Brad Paisley CD. I would like a CD because I love music and you gave me a CD player last year. I would also like a Tomagotchi because a lot of kids in my class have them. I would like a board game called Life. I want it because I went to my friend's house and we played it. It was really fun.

Thank you for the CD player you gave me last year. I love it so much! My mom bought me a head set because she got tired of hearing it. I think you gave me a sled, too. Thank you. You also gave me a Bratz head to put make up on. My sister and I take turns putting make up on it.

I have been good. I help my sister with her homework. I slso help my Dad move the cows to a new pasture. I roll out the wire when we are building fences. Sometimes I help my mom feed the rest of the animals.

P.S. I will leave out some cookies, milk, and carrots for you and your reindeer.

Sincerely, Katlyn Szymanski

Dear Santa,

How are you and your reindeer? I want to come to the North Pole and see you. I would like to see Mrs. Claus too.

Oh ya, I forgot to ask, "How is Mrs. Claus?"

My name is Peyton. I have two brothers and 1 sister. My sister's name is blakley. and my borther's names are Coy and Tanner.

Can I have a bike for Christmas? I would like one because may brother Coy took my bike an pushed it down the hill. then it broke.

I would also like a sled because we have a couple of big hills and a couple more that go straight down and we only have one sled that is my brothers. That one is trashed out because we used it for so many years.

Thank you for the watch and the fuzzy socks you got me last year. I still wear the fuzzy socks. They are warm.

I have been good because my mom cleaned her bedroom and she said, "Don't let the the dogs in and keep it clean, and I listened to her

Dear Santa,

Hi, my name is Kourtney Konickson. I wrote to you last year, but I'm going to do it again! How is it at the North Pole? How would you get in a house if they have no chimney and the door is locked? How do your elves make toys? How cold is it at the North Pole? How many elves do you have? How are you and Mrs. Claus? How do your reindeer fly? How do you fit through the chimney?

For Christmas I would like a Zoey 101 laptop. I want it because you can go on the internet and you can type on it and play games, too. I would like a Voice Recording door bell. I want it because I colud leave a message an they cold ring the door bell.

Thank you for the toys you gave me last year. I always play with them and I always will! I have been good this year because I help my mom with the dishes, fill the cat dish, clean the house, and help my sister with her home work. I can help Bruce with the new born calf. I can help my friends when they need help spelling words.

Dear Santa,

How are you and Mrs. Claus doing? Are the elves working a lot? How is Vixen and the reindeer? Is it cold up there this year? Are the reindeer well fed for the long trip? This year I would like a bell from your sleigh with a strap for my door. I would also like a comuter laptop because my mom won't let me go on her computer. Thank you for the presents last year, Santa Claus.

I have been good this year because I've kept my room clean, cleaned out the dishwasher, and I helped set the table.

Love, Donna Arveson

Dear Santa,

How are the reindeer doing? How are you doing? I hope christmas is good! Santa, my mom is 50 years old. My Dad is 52 years old. My brother, David, is 14 years old and Matthew is 12 years old. I have a dog named Kuspy. We got him when he was a little puppy. I hope the elves are happy for you becase you work hard. Santa, I want a game to play called Summoner. I know it is a fun game to play. My cousin has it. It is cool. I also want my family home for Christmas. I hope I have a good Christmas. Hey santa, I almost forgot, thanks for the game Pikmin2. I like it, It is fun at boring Times. Thanks for the Nascar. My brothers like the presents you gave them last year.

I've been kind of good this year. My brothers are good, too. I hope That they don't get a rotten egg. Have the elves been good? I hope so. How tall can elves get? Pretty big, medium, or small? Oh Santa, how old are you?

P.S. do you bave polar bears There?

Love, Steven Hanson
Grade 3, Goodridge School

Dear Santa,

How many reindeer do you have? Is it hard to go down the chimmey with the big bag? How many elves do you have? Is it 900,000? How big is the North Pole? Is it 500 or 600 feet? How tall are you, Santa, about 6 feet? How much snow do you get during Christmas? How old is Rudolph? 50 years old? Who is the biggest elf you have? what are all of the names of the elves? How do you be so quiet at night? Does Mrs. Santa work a lot when it comes to Christmas? What do you do when a dog is there? How old is Mrs. Santa? Is she 66 years old? How old are you Santa? Are you 70 years old?

For Christmas I want a snowboard because it goes faster thana sleigh. It turns easier and it is smaller than a sleigh. It is skinny and it is cool.

I also want a PSP for Christmas. It is cool because it has a big screen. Your players are big so you can see them. You also can put a game in the back of the PSP. There are cool colors like silver, black and gray. It is just like a Game boy SP. It is a different color than a PSP, too. A PSP has up, down, right and left, A and B.R.L. It is cooler than a Game boy SP.

Thank you for the the Rev Up cars you gave me last year. They were fun to play with! I still play with them. I have been good because I help my dad haul wood for the fire

P.S. I will leave you some cookies, milk, and carrots

Dear Santa,

Hi, my name is Courtney Wold? You came to my house one early Christmas night and you gave my cousin and me a toy.

I would like to meet you, Santa? What is the North Pole like? The song Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer is cool.

Do you know what I want for Christmas? I would like a Hilary Duff Most Wanted CD because it is fun. I have heard it on the radio. I would like makeup, too so I can wear it. I would like a soft scarf. They are warm.

I do not remember what you gave me last year. Thank you for the toys. I have been good this year. Do you know why? I help my mom an dad I have been doing pretty good in school. P.S. I will leave milk and cookies and cheese for you.

Your good buddy,

Dear Santa,

How are you? Is everything going alright? Is Rudolph o.k? How many elves do you have? I would like a Playstation 3. A Playstation 3 has a good screen and I bet it has good games. It works for all the games of Playstation. A Shell shocker is a Tyco RC. It is cool, it can trans form 2 ways!

For Christmas I would like a new Game boy. I have an older one and it could break in the sun. The new Gameboy SP is smaller.

Thank you for the YO-GI-OH toy last year. I do not know how to make it sound yet.

I have been good this year, I helped mom and Dad take care of my sister.

P.S. I will leave you cookies.

Dear Santa,

How are your doing? How do you stay up at night? How do you go through houses without chimneys? How long does it take to deliver all of the presents? How tall are you? How old are you? What's your favorite kind of cookies. Do you ever slip on the ice? Does your tongue ever get burnt when you drink hot chocolate?

For Christmas I would like the movie Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire, because I heard all about it and it sounds good. For the 2nd present I would like the Bratz Gameboy Game, because I only have one Gameboy game and I like Bratz. I would also like a Bratz safe for Christmas because my friend, Kourtney K., has one. I've played with it before and it is fun. Thank you for the things you have me last year: a box of earrings, a Bratz doll, a Shania Twain CD, and a bunch of candy. Thank you for all the toys. They were fun.

P.S. I've been good. I help my mom wash dishes. I will leave you cookies and milk.

Dear Santa,

How are you doing? I am fine. How old are you? How is Mrs. Claus? How are your reindeer doing? How is the weather at the North Pole? What do you do when there's not a chimney on a house? How do you get in?

We just had a big storm almost like a blizzard. School was 2 hours late because it was so windy and the roads were so icy.

Do you like the cold weather? How deep is the snow at the North Pole? What kind of food do the reindeer eat? Do you have anymore reindeer incase one gets sick? How many reindeer do you have? How does Mrs. Claus feed all of the elves? How many toys do the elves make in one year?

For Christmas I would like a laptop because I have an e-mail address and I go on the computer to check my e-mails quite a bit and I would like to have a laptop for my room. I would also like a cellphone with a heart cover. I would like one because I don't have a cellphone and it would be cool to have one. I would like a CD player because my other one is getting kind of old. Last of all I would like the new Hilary Duff song because I listen to music a lot and I heard it on the TV. Thank you for giving me the mini notebooks, the earrings, and the pens last year.

I have been good because I play games with my brother. I also help my mom and dad do things when they need me. Also, when we go places I am good. I will leave you cookies and milk.

What Christmas Means To Me

It meens to me that you have lots of fun. You open presents and put up decorations. You get to eat lots of food, pop and candy. to be with your family and friends. To have manners. To have peoplel company come to my house on Friday and we will have lots of fun. We have cookie partys and it will be lots of fun.

Christmas is a special time of year. We do a lot of things like listen to carols, go to church and talk to relatives.

I love listening to carols on Christmas. It is fun to listen to music when decorating a tree. I also like dancing around the room.

Christmas also means talking to relatives. It is fun to see all of our family we have not seen in a while. We just like to talk to each other about what is gong on in our lives.

Christmas is also about going to church. the candlelight service is so beautiful. The songs and hymns we sing are nice to hear.

Some of my favorite things on Christmas are family, food, and traditions. Here are some of the things I do on Christmas.

On Christmas we eat a lot of food. I like the lefsa and ham. My favorite food on Christmas is Christmas cookies.

On Christmas we have lots of traditions. Some of those are the Yule log, decorating the Christmas tree, baking cookies, and hanging stockings by the fire place.

On christmas we get together with our family, like people we don't see very often and people that are hard to keep in touch with.

What Christmas means to me is talking to my family, eating foods I don't normally eat, and participating in traditions. I hope your holidays are healthy!

I always have a traditional family meal. We have really good mashed potatoes and gravy. I make the gravy. Suppers really good becuase it's the kind of food that makes you feel warm and cozy inside.

Christmas is Jesus's birthday. Everyone celebrates his birthday because he sacrificed his life for all the people in the world. Thats why it's called Christmas, Christ and mas.

I like spending time with my family at Christmas time. I talk with my family about how work is going. I also like playing games like Life. Then we eat together.

I like having traditions like eating ten candy canes after dinner. I also like opening presents and eating ham or turkey.

I love celebrating Jesus. I think we should celebrate the birth of Jesus and remember what He did for us. Also, remember that God sent him for us so he could help us.

Some of the songs that I like to sing at Christmas are Silent Night, Christmas Night, Merry Christmas.

Lastly for celebrating I like to ride snowmobiles and after the singing celebration we all yell Merry Christmas!

Christmas means family and friends and it means tons and tons of memories. I go to my grandma's and grandpa's house by Pike Lake in Hatly, Wisconsin. We are a very religious family and we go to church every Christmas Eve. In the meantime while were not at church I am usually hanging out with my 5 cousins and 8 aunts and uncles. One of my cousins loves to fish so I go ice fishing whith him but he does not like it when his sister and my sister bother him (they are really obnoxious). I also love to play on the ice (i don't ice skate). My grandma and grandpa live on a big hill so we always go sledding. Enough about the outdoors when where inside we love to play in my grandma's and grandpa's basement. But when we are not at church or hanging out we are eating now my grandma's food is better than any restaurant in the world. This year is really exciting because we are also having a party at my house for my dad's side of the family the Craigmiles'. Christmas also means the birth of Jesus christ. He was born to save us and I worship him for that and many many other reasons. That's what Christmas really means to me.

After that we usually open our presents, but sometimes we open them after chuch.

Then after all of that we go home. Then when we wake up in the morning we open our presents from Santa Claus! We go over to my grandparents house again to say goodbye. Then we drive to Burnsville to have Christmas with all our other relatives and have a very fun time!! I think Christmas is a very happy time of the year! What Christmas means to me is that you get together with your family and your relatives. On Christmas, my brother and sister check our stockings to see what kinds of things we got. Then we look under the Christmas tree, to see what kind of presents we got like big presents or small presents. After that, we go to my grandpa and grandma's cabin and we get to see our grandparents and our relatives. Then we start opening our presents. We go around in a circle and I always love seeing the expressions on everybody's face. It makes me feel really good when someone opens a gift that I've given them and their whole face lights up. After everyone's presents are opened we read a Christmas story about how Jesus was born and how the shepherds and how the wise men all came to Bethlehem. After we're done reading, we eat our Christmas supper. But before we eat, we say a prayer to thank God for our food and that He's given us His son; Jesus. After that, we spend some time talking and we watch a little bit of TV. Then we thank each other for all of the presents and then we all go home. I love Christmas. It's my favorite time of year.

What Christmas means to me is being with my family. I spend Christmas with my mom, grandma, granpa, uncle, aunty, cousins, and my other uncle and aunty. You should see my presents, I get loads.

Every year I am always good so I can get a present from Santa Clause. I always think in my mind "How does Santa get down the roof? does he do it by magic or does he just slide down?"

If I had time I would donate as much money as I can. I always think of the homeless first. Were usually busy doing something during the holiday.

Every year I usually get big presents for my cousins. I like to share. It's awesome. Then you usually get something in return.

Every year I always felt good inside my stomach. Sharing is what is the machine of all of it. I do alot of stuff around the house and inside the house.

Christmas means....being with family and having fun. Also playing games like ten thous. Its really fun being with family on Christmas eve.

One thing I like is decorating the tree and house. Also just wating for Christmas while we decorate. It's so fun putting balls on the tree while we listen to Christmas music.

One thing I really like is eating food like cookies. this year will be fun eating cookies and milk I can't wait for Christmas to come.

I also love giving and getting gifts. To see there expression on their faces will be just great. That's what christmas means to me.

Christmas to me means being able to see family. Family that lives very far away and you don't get to see often. I love being able to see my family.

During the Christmas time I have to play piano a whole lot. I have my Christmas recital to play at. I also play at the tree walk at the Eagles.

I love all the food we get to eat at Christmas time. All the stuffing, the meat, the lefsa, and all the pie. We always go to both my Grandparents and the both make such good food.

Every year we read the Christmas story out of the Bible. I love it when we do that. Mary and Joseph were his earthly parents and he was born in a manger.

I have alot of Chirstmas programs I'm in. I have my school program and my church program. We are doing a program at church where the animals tell how they feel about Jesus being born.

My Grandparents own a lake house down near Bemidji. Every year we go icefishing there. Last year I caght a very big fish.

We also go icescating sometimes. Two years ago my Dad , my uncle, and my Grandpa cleared the snow of part of the lake so we could go icescating. Last year my friend Paige and I went to the old arena icescating. I loved it when we did that.

Of course we can't forget the christmas break. I like having Christmas break because I get to go see family. I also don't get homework (well at least most of the time).

Giving is one of the most imortant things about Christmas. It makes you feel so good inside. I love giving but sometimes it is hard to do.

The most important thing about Christmas is Christs birthday. Christ was born on Christmas and thats why it is called Christmas. This is what Christmas means to me.

Christmas to me means spending quality time with your family. I choose this meaning because now my eldest sister goes to Northwestern College in the city of Minniapolis, Minnesota. So when Christmas comes around I finally get so see her, for a whole....ten days!!

At my classroom on the second of December I decided that Christmas means the spirit of giving not getting. I say this because instead of exchanging gifts this year, my class will buy food and give it to the homeless of Threif River Falls.

Christmas also means caroling. I write this because I love to sing. Also because when you see the smiles of the children your heart melts.

All of thes are good meanings of Christmas I thought but this is the best reason of all. Which is Jesus' birth. We've probably all heard the story but my questioin is "Do you understand it?" If your answer was no try reading it over and over until you can answer yes.

Christmas means having love for each other, having love for nature, having love for God. Its also about family and kindness. Our family normaly has a big supper, whitch makes me sad because I think of the homeless people and how they are cold. Christmas also means the giveing. There are two different kinds of giveing, the giving, and the receiveing. Most people like to recieve but some like to give. I like to give because then I get to see the look on people's faces. That's what Chrismas means to me.

Christmas time reminds me of family. I think family is the most important thing. Sometimes when you are with your family you think of other happy things that has happened. Another thing is opening presents like tearing it open and going wow! Also dinner with awesome food. Another is Jesus' birth. That is very important because that was when he was born. Last Santa, he's awesome, I just love Christmas don't you?

I think Christmas means going to Detroit Lakes and seeing my family and eating the good food. My grandma always makes turkey and stuffing. Then me and my cousin go upstairs and talk sometimes we jump on the beds. Then we open presents. Last year, my cousin wasn't to happy about what we gave him. This year I think we should just give him a gameboy game.

I like Christmas because all the family you get to see that you hav'ent seen in a long time. I like to talk and eat turcky, mash potatoes, corn, lefsa and so much more. I like to wake up and think it's Christmas and I jump out of my bed and open my presents. I like to sit, talk and play with my gifts. This year it is going to be different because I have a new baby sister. She already has a ton of presents. I never know what kind of present I want so I just say "anything." I like Christmas it is my favorite time of year.

What Christmas means to me is eating and visiting. Being with your relatives family visiting. Going to houses to have fun. Have even more fun when other kids come over. Putting up ornaments and a star. Getting the right christmas tree. I like to shake the box so I might know what's inside it. I like to see relatives that I don't get to see because they live so far away. I like to clean before the relatives arrive. I like opening presents and seeing what I got in my stockings. It reminds me of travling to hockey games. I like to say thank you to people who give me presents. I like to make snowball fights. I sometimes make snow forts. I ride my snowcat on christmas with my freinds. Sometimes my dad would plow up a hill then we make tunels in the hill. That's what Christmas means to me!

What Christmas Means To Me

What Christmas means to me is when we get together with family and decorate the tree. We like to sit down and have snacks and hot-cocoa while we open presents and talk about things we have done in the past few weeks. When we have finished opening all our presents and have had pictures taken we start looking and playing with our new toys. I like having all our family around. We have a big dinner and talk. After dinner we have a very good desert. We also sometimes have snacks like apples, cheese, and of course pretzels with chocolate on them. My sisters and I like to make things for our family for presents. I like watching everyone's faces light up when they open a present they like. I love opening things and saying thank you to them. My family likes to listen to music playing and watching my sisters and brother dancing to the music. I like Christmas becaue we get together and talk not for the presents! I love Christmas, to get o see family members.

Christmas means my Dad. Because I only get to see my dad a couple times a year. But I think seeing my dad at Christmas time is the best because every one is happy and joyful. I think the Chistamas at my dads is the best because its nothing fancy. We stay in the Best Western because my dad lives in Tulsa, OK. We go out to eat for Christmas dinner and we celeabrate a couple weeks early that means we get our gifts a couple weeks early.

I think Christmas is a time to give and receive. I go sledding with my cousin Ian and Anna. The next morning we go to my Aunt Nikkis for breakfast. Christmas morning I'm always the first one up and I usualy wake up my cousins Ian and Anna. One time I didn't wake them up and they didn't get up until 10:00 in the morning they got really mad at me but I'm always the first one up. Every year of Christmas I'm the first one up. Then we have to go home.

Christmas means getting together with your family and friends. It also means celebrating Jesus Birthday and going to church on Christmas Eve. Christmas is a time for giving, singing Christmas carols, and eating all the good food and all the great gifts, and fun. I love spending time with all my cousins, aunts, auncles, grandmas, and grandpas, and eating delicious Christmas cookies. This year we're going to my aunt and uncles in Minneapolis. Then the day after Chrismtas we're going to Florida for the second time, for one week! That's what Christmas means to me!

What CHRISTMAS means to me is spending time with family and we celebrate JESUS'S BIRTHDAY. I love to see presents under the tree. When everybody wakes up we open presents. On CHRISTMAS EVE we go to Church to sing with my family and friends and then we go to my grandma and grandpa's house and eat dinner. We open presents with the rest of my family. Then on CHRISTMAS day we go to Old Mill to sled with my Aunt, Uncle, and cousin's. Then we drive around town and look at people's CHRISTMAS LIGHTS. CHRISTMAS IS A VERY SPECIAL HOLIDAY. # What Christmas Means To Me

To me Christmas means talking and spending time with my family, but I can't forget the food either. Here is why these things are so special to me.

Talking with my family is one of the most important things because some of my relatives I don't get to see a lot even though they live in TRF. It is also nice to just catch up a little too. We sometimes tell stories about what's going on in each other's life or something.

spending time with my family was another one of the things that made Christmas special to me. Like for example, when we open presents we are always so happy and we always have so much fun dong it too. Also at dinner time we all get together and share the food we all brought too.

Last, but not least, my last subject is all about the food. For food we all bring a different dish so there is a lot of it, but it is all delicious. We usually have turkey, coleslaw, and this really good salad kind of thing with noddles that my aunt makes. Of course there is more food too.

Thank you for listening to my story and have a merry Merry Christmas!

My favorite things at Christmas are presents,decorating,and family. These things are the best reasons for Christmas.

I like giving and getting presents. Buying the presents is the best thing. I like to make a Christmas list for my family.

Decorating the house is the best thing about Christmas. I like decorating the Christmas tree. I also like to put the star on top of the tree.

Getting together with my family is the best. I like to spend time with my grandma and grandpa at Christmas, it is the best. My family has a spot to sit at my grandma's. The best things about Christmas are presents, decorations and family.

I love Christmas! Merry Christmas!

Santa Claus comes to my house with presents. I love to sing Christmas carols, with my family. My family and I go to church on christmas. I like being in our Christmas program at church and I love singing songs. We go to my grandmas' house to eat dinner. I love my grandmas' mashed potatoes and gravy. I love Christmas very much.

What Christmas means to me is food, family, and music. These things make Christmas fun each year.

I like food! Ham is one of my favorite foods on Christmas. I also love sweet potatoes and potatoes.

I love my family . My family is awesome because they help me.

I love christmas music . Christmas music is great! I especially like Alvin and the Chipmunks.

all these things make Christmas exciting for me. I hope you have a good Christmas this year.

Well, Christmas means to celebrate Jesus's birthday every Christmas because He is the special one. So I like to celebrate that. I like celebrating a whole bunch of stuff. Well, I will tell you one by one.

I like to celebrate with family. I want to give them a present to thank them for all the stuff they have done for me in my life. they comfort me in different ways, i can't name all of them, but I will tell you a few. Well, one is keep me well when I am sick. The second thing is they help me when I am hurt or a need help with homework or something like that. Another thing that I like about Christmas is you get together around the Christmas tree. You either talk about feelings or sing Christmas songs. I also like remembering people who died for us and fought for our nation. I like to think of them at this time of the year.

Also food, ya that's what I'm thankful for, food. Some people don't have food, they have to eat bugs. Yuck! It fills up your stomach and you eat with friends and family who have helped you your whole life. I hope you like your Christmas as well as I will. I hope and wish you have presents from Santa under your tree and in your stocking.

Christmas to me means coming together with my family, traditions, and celebrating the coming of Jesus. These things are really special to me at Christmas time.

Christmas to me means family coming together. My family travels from different places and comes together. We like to visit with some people that we haven't seen in awhile. sometimes we travel to Arizona or North Carolina.

Christmas to me means traditions. Some traditions are going to Minneapolis and staying for the weekend or going to Sioux Falls to spend Christmas with some of my family. Pictionary is our favorite Christmas game.

Christmas to me means celebrating the coming of Jesus. We light the advent candles. We go to church and sing holiday songs. We say a pray before we open presents.

My family, our traditions and Jesus are the things that are important to me at Christmas. That's what Christmas means to me.

What Christmas mean's to me is family, Jesus and giving. That is what makes Christmas special to me.

Christmas is a very exciting time of the year. My family and I set aside a special time for baking. We go Christmas shopping together for both sides of the family. The whole family puts up the Christmas tree together. My step-dad puts on the lights, my mom puts on the tinsel and snowflakes, my brother and I put on the bulbs. We take a picture for our Christmas cards.

Christmas is the annual festival celebrating the birth of Jesus. Jesus takes away the sins of the world. Jesus also gave his life for us.

Everyone seems more excited around Christmas time, maybe because of the kindness and sharing that goes along with it. Every year we bake cookies and goodies to share with the neighbors. Mom and I get the Christmas cards ready to send out, to express good wishes to our family and friends.

We also make sure everyone gets a gift. We ask them what they want and then buy them a present that's just for them.

Our family does more things together this time of year. We celebrate the birth of Jesus and be kind to others.

Gus

to me, Christmas means spending time with my family. So I will tell yo some more things about what Christmas means to me.

Christmas means music to me because I love singing with my family. I love watching my mom play and sing. We listen to Christmas music and sing-a-long to songs like "We Wish You A Merry Christmas", "Jolly Old Saint Nicholas", "Jingle Bells", Jingle Bell.Rock" and more.

Christmas means Jesus to me because it is a time that we think about how he is our Savior and of his birth. Our family sits around the table and we pray and thank God for the food that he gave us. Christmas means family to me because it's a time for us to hang with each other. Seeing my family that lives far away is very special to me.

Christmas means food to me because my dad makes an awesome dinner with green beans and cheese, mashed potatoes and gravy, and turkey. We drink sparkling grape juice and apple cider.

Christmas also means a time for traveling to far away places. Most of my life we have spent many hours in our van during the holiday. We just started flying!

That is what Christmas means to me. And my wish for yo is to have a merry Christmas too.

What Christmas means to me is family, traditions and family meals.

Family is very important to me. My family is the thing that makes Christmas happen. My family and I play games like Bingo. Every year we all sit at the table and play. My Mom and grandma go to the Dollar Store and buy cool stuff for the people who win Bingo. It is so much fun!

Another thing we do at Christmas is we listen to music while we open presents. I think that is really fun!

Traditions is another thing I love about Christmas. Every year ( as a tradition) we make ice cream and cookies. We always put up the Christmas tree. While my mom and dad put up Christmas lights and decorations my little sister Rylie and I put the ornaments on the Christmas tree.

I also Love family meals at Christmas time. Every year I always go to my Grandpa's and Grandma's house, my other grandpa and grandma's, my dad's house, and my house. We all go there and eat and talk about our lives and how we're all doing in school and work. Then, after we eat we open presents and listen to music at the same time when we go to my Grandpa Charlie's house. It is so much fun. I'll have a good Christmas. I hope you do too. That's what Christmas means to me. Merry Christmas.

Christmas is a very special holiday becuse we celebrate Jesu's birth. We celebrate by getting together with family and friends and sharing good food. My family and friends enjoy playing fun games indoors and outdoors.

For me, Christmas means seeing family we havn't seen in a long time. Instead of e-mailing relatives we can actually talk to them in person. Sometimes we can go to our aunt and uncles's place, but I like staying home best.

At christmas time there is alot of good food and a lot of it. Last year my family helped serve food at St. Bernard's. One thing I realy really like about holiday food is my mom's cookies. We get to play games all day during Christmas vaction we also make snowforts and go sledding. My family and I also enjoy playing Scrabble and Clue.

Church, food, games, family, music, and friends are the things that matter the most to me at Christmas. Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night.

Christmas is a special time of year. We do a lot of things like listen to carols, go to church and talk to relatives.

I love listening to carols on Christmas. It is fun to listen to music when decorating a tree. I also like dancing around the room.

Christmas also means talking to relatives. It is fun to see all of our family we have not seen in a while. We just like to talk to each other about what is gong on in our lives.

Christmas is also about going to church. the candlelight service is so beautiful. The songs and hymns we sing are nice to hear.

Christmas is special to. me because our family gets together to give each other gifts, eat a lot, and remember why we have Christmas.

To me, Christmas means getting together with my family and giving gifts to each other. I like to get presents, but on Christmas, giving is more important than getting, so I'm happy to give.

Christmas means eating a lot, because everyone in our family gets together and eats. I support we do that to celebrate getting together. It all sort of goes together, doesn't it.

Christmas also means remembering the reason that Christmas ever started. Jesus was born on Christmas, and that's how Christmas got started in the first place! So we should stop and remember Him on Christmas.

I hope you liked my story on what Christmas means to me. I wish you a very merry Christmas

I am writing about three things we do at Christmas, Jesus's birthday, seeing others, and being polite to others.

An important thing that Christmas means to me is Jesus's birthday. If Jesus wasn't born we wouldn't have Christmas.

Another thing that Christmas means to me is talking to my family because some of my family lives a long way from here.

The last thing that Christmas means to me is being polite to others. some of our world is never polite but on Christmas Day most people are polite.

That is how I spend my Christmas. I hope everybody has as much fun at christmas as me. Have a happy Christmas everybody!

What Christmas means to me is a lot of things, like family, traditions, and food. Here's what I mean by that.

What Christmas means to me is family. It's fun to go to my grandma's house. It's fun to have time with my family. It's also fun have others open presents that you gave to them.

Our tradition is to go to my grandma's house and talk. We catch up, make delicious food, and play games. We stay there all day and open presents. We listen to music.

We eat food all day. We have breakfast, lunch, snacks, and dinner. The food is great and delicious!

So now you know that Christmas is a fun and exciting time for my family and me.

Dutch Elm Disease infestations increase in 2005

Dutch Elm Disease (DED) infestations increased in 2005, according to City Forester Myles Olson's annual report. Thirty trees were found to have DED this year, compared to 27 in 2004. Despite that increase, Olson noted it was a good year.

The locations of the DED-infested trees were as follows: 15 trees on city-owned property and 15 trees on private property. All diseased trees were removed in a timely manner in accordance with city ordinance, according to Olson. Olson felt that removing the trees promptly has kept the city's losses manageable.

In 2005, an additional 29 trees were removed for reasons such as construction, hazards and storm damage, Olson said. He thanked the Street Department for its assistance with the tree removals.

Tree planting

This year, 46 new trees were planted on city property. The majority of those trees were planted to replace lost trees. Fourteen trees were also planted on newly developed property in the Somerset Court area in the southwest part of the city. Olson assisted the Pennington County Fair Association in planting 34 trees it had purchased around the grandstand and bandshell areas of the fairgrounds. He also assisted Pennington County in planting trees near its parking lot at Fourth Street West and Knight Avenue North. The county purchased the trees.

There have been some notable changes to the landscape of the city in the past year, Olson noted in his report. The area west of Oakland Park Road has been developed for single-family housing. The residents in this area seem to appreciate the value of trees in the landscape and have planted a number of trees on their properties, Olson noted. The Forestry Department has also planted 14 trees on city property adjacent to this area.

Wal-Mart Corporation has developed a large tract of land along Highway 59 South. City officials have had contact with the landscape architect, discussing plant material suited for this area. The end result was the planting of about 300 high-value trees and shrubs on this property, Olson said.

Controlling weeds and pests

Again this fall, the Forestry Department sprayed approximately 400 acres of city-owned land for troublesome weeds (dandelions, thistle, tree foil and others).

Due to the wet conditions the city experienced this spring, Olson had a lot of calls concerning leaf fungus. Compared to other trees, oak and ash trees were the most severely affected by the wet conditions, Olson said. The trees will normally work through these conditions without permanent damage.

Olson is concerned with the amount of black knot that he is seeing in Canadian cherry trees, he said. These trees were planted on boulevards and in parks a number of years ago. The black knot fungus will lead to the trees' decline and ultimate removal, Olson said. The city no longer uses this species as a replacement tree.

Keep sidewalks, steps clear

by Sarah Chamma
Lincoln High School student

Christmas tree, check. Lights, cookies, eggnog, check. Gift-wrap, check. Then there's the Christmas cards, proof to the Scrooges out there that common courtesy isn't dead. Apparently, it's not a lost tradition; according to Hallmark research, 1.9 billion of them are sent to friends and loved ones every year, making Christmas the largest card-spending occasion in the United States.

While delivering this mountain of mail, carriers often come into contact with ice and snow, which also contributes to the fact that every year, eight to 10 postal carriers are injured in slips and falls within Thief River Falls at a cost of $7,500, according to the U.S. Postal Service. In the process of extending a warm "Happy Holidays" to those dear, it's forgotten that the cards and letters don't just flutter down onto their doorsteps from an e-mail current in the sky. Handwritten notes sent via postal mail is not a thing of the past, and neither should be consideration towards mail carriers. Nobody wants to spend the holidays in the hospital. Frostbitten fingers, injured backs and broken kneecaps are not–and should not be–all in a day's work.

Christmas arrives within 11 months of anticipation, and brings with it beautiful crystallized designs on windows and fresh snowflakes dissolving into skin and tongue. It also solidifies

Slippery sidewalks present dangers

Postal carriers come into contact with many hazards, but ice is one which might be easily avoidable - if property owners kept sidewalks, and approaches to the mailboxes clear and free of snow and ice.

Lowell Burkel is a fixture at the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT). After all, he's worked there for more than 40 years. He will retire Jan. 3.

The Thief River Falls resident began his career with the department May 24, 1963, at its Detroit Lakes office. For the past 23 years, he has worked in Thief River Falls. A transportation specialist, he inspects construction work and does annual bridge inspections in this area.

"It's been enjoyable all these years," said Burkel, who noted he would've continued working until age 65 if he were still in good health.

Burkel will be missed at Mn/DOT. "To me, he's probably the best technician we have in the state," said J.T. Anderson, Mn/DOT resident engineer. "We have to scramble to find someone like him."

To Anderson and other employees in Mn/DOT's Thief River Falls office, Burkel is known as Cubby. The nickname originated the first year of his career. At the time, he was surveying an area for a new road with a Detroit Lakes-based survey crew. The swampy area was blocked by tree branches. Burkel, who was wearing chest waders, climbed up a tree to cut the branches. "The crew chief laughed and said, 'You look like a bear cub,'" Burkel recalled. The nickname was born and has followed him ever since that time. Some of Burkel's current co-workers probably don't even know his first name, he said.

Over the years, Burkel has witnessed changes at his workplace. When he started his job, survey equipment hadn't advanced much from the time of George Washington, said Burkel, who noted he wasn't kidding. In the past, he and his co-workers used chains to measure distances. Mn/DOT now uses equipment with lasers.

Lowell Burkel

Mn/DOT now has the experience of building interstate systems as well. Burkel helped with the construction of I-94 from Moorhead to Alexandria. That project began shortly before Burkel began working for Mn/DOT. Burkel did material testing and surveying for that section of the interstate, which was completed in 1972. Looking back, Burkel said he didn't realize he'd never again work on a massive road construction project.

Burkel worked on I-94 while he was based in the Detroit Lakes office. He was laid off in fall 1981, but got his job back in May 1982 – in Thief River Falls.

His favorite part of the job is meeting other people, especially contractors. Burkel has met some characters, he said, but he has enjoyed working one-on-one with people. He also enjoys working with his co-workers, and they enjoy working with him. Even though he is Burkel's boss, Anderson said that

Donors and volunteers honored for help with Guided Reading Library

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

More than $40,000 and more than 6,000 books later, Challenger Elementary School honored donors and volunteers Dec. 13 for their help with its Guided Reading Library (GRL).

The school held an appreciation dinner for the GRL donors and volunteers. About 10 people attended the dinner. Private donations and funding from the Thief River Falls Education Foundation helped make the GRL possible.

"The kids are truly learning and benefiting from it, so thank you," Principal Patrick Marolt said to the donors and volunteers.

The GRL was created in a former first grade classroom in August. It contains books that are marked according to the reading level students would need to read the books. There are several copies of each book in the GRL to enable about four to six students with a particular reading level to read with their teacher. The kids are then able to take the books home to read to their parents and bring the books back to school the next day for the next day's lesson.

"Ideally, this room is for all kindergarten through fifth grade students," Literacy Coordinator Julie Kragness said. Even though the GRL has books for many reading levels and each grade, Kragness hopes to have more books that are geared toward older students' interests.

Besides the books that are grouped in accordance with a particular reading level, there are donated books that are grouped according to a theme, such as Halloween, but not according to a student's reading level. The GRL also has books that teachers can use to read aloud to their students

"Everybody's using it," said Kragness. "They couldn't wait."

The GRL features fiction and nonfiction books, including books related to school subjects other than reading. "You learn to read, yes, but you read to learn," Kragness said.

Kragness noted the importance of a child reading a particular book several times. She compared reading a particular book several times to hearing one's favorite song. When someone hears his or her favorite song more than once, the person may hear something different in the song each time he or she hears it even if that song has been heard several times in the past, Kragness said. In the same way, she noted, a child may read a story one time or several times, and notice punctuation or new words when reading the story another time.

"You have to rehearse it and do it again," Kragness said about reading.

And students are able to practice reading with books from the GRL, making reading exciting for at least one student. Marolt noted his daughter was upset recently when she didn't have a book from the GRL to read to her dad.

She was able to get a book from that library due to a literacy collaborative between the school and Ohio State University, and, of course, due to the volunteers and donors.

Three TRF residents to compete at Western National Horse Roundup in January

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

This January, three Thief River Falls residents will compete in the Western National Horse Roundup (WNHR) in Denver.

The Pennington County 4-H Horse Judging Team, consisting of Sierra Dyrdal, Adrianne Erickson and Justin Pyle, will compete at the national event, which is scheduled Jan. 5-8.

The team qualified for the competition after placing fourth overall in the senior division of the Minnesota State 4-H Horse Show Judging Contest in September. Its members are able to compete at the national event because one member from each of the first, second and third place teams had competed in the WNHR in the past.

The local team eagerly anticipates the competition. "I'm nervous, but looking forward to it because it's our last time to compete," said Dyrdal, a Lincoln High School (LHS) senior and member of Bits 'n' Bridles 4-H Club.

At the competition, team members are judged individually and as a team. They judge horses based on conformation – halter, riding and reining patterns. Without notes, team members then give presentations as to why they placed the horses in a particular order. Their judging work is then compared to the actual judges' determinations.

The competition gives team members some experience judging horses, and team members can earn scholarships, said Pyle, an LHS senior and member of Bits 'n' Bridles 4-H Club.

It also gives team members a chance to practice their presentation skills, said Erickson, a sophomore at the University of Minnesota – Twin Cities and member of Bits 'n'

Four TRF men sentenced for separate felony offenses

Four Thief River Falls men were recently sentenced in Pennington County District Court on separate felony offenses.

Timothy Miles Smith, 40, pled guilty to a felony offense of terroristic threats and a misdemeanor offense of fourth degree driving while intoxicated (DWI). A five-year stay of imposition was granted. In a plea agreement, a charge of felony second degree assault was dismissed. For the felony terroristic threats offense, Smith was sentenced to 12 months and one day in jail with all but 90 days stayed for five years. He can complete the last 45 days of that sentence on electronic home monitoring. Smith was also placed on supervised probation for five years. He was ordered to complete anger management classes and undergo an alcohol assessment. Smith will also be subject to random breath/urine tests. He was also ordered to pay $382 in fees and fines. For the DWI offense, Smith was sentenced to 30 days in jail to be served concurrently with other charges. He was also placed on unsupervised probation for one year. Smith was ordered to pay $482 in fees and fines. On Aug. 10, police received a report that Smith had gotten into a verbal confrontation with a woman. He pulled out a Rugar 357 Magnum revolver and put the gun to both his and the woman's heads, according to the criminal complaint. Smith pulled the trigger. The gun didn't fire as it was apparently unloaded. According to the police report, the incident happened at Country Acres Apartments, and the woman then fled to Super 8. Smith then went to Super 8, where police asked him to step out of the vehicle by gunpoint.

Christopher Marvin Melin, 29, pled guilty to a felony offense of fifth degree controlled substance crime. He was sentenced to 12 months and one day in jail with all but 12 months stayed for 10 years. Melin was also placed on supervised probation for two years. He was ordered to undergo an alcohol assessment and random breath/urine tests. Melin was also ordered to pay $132 in fees and fines. On Sept. 14, police assisted a probation officer with a routine probation search in the 15000 block of Terry St. At the time, Melin was on probation for a felony offense of controlled substance crime. While the police and probation officers were at the home, they found methamphetamine. The criminal complaint didn't indicate how much meth was found.

Michael Alvin Edgar Krengel, 19, pled guilty to a felony offense of terroristic threats. He was sentenced to 18 months in jail with all but 101 days stayed for five years. Krengel was placed on supervised probation for five years. He was ordered to follow a mental health plan. Krengel was also ordered to submit a DNA sample as well as submit to random tests/searches. Krengel was also ordered to pay $132 in fees and fines. Krengel made a threatening comment Aug. 25 about a co-worker to a second co-worker at Taco John's, according to the criminal complaint.

As a result of that felony plea and conviction, Krengel's stay of imposition was revoked for another felony offense of terroristic threats. Since that stay was revoked, Krengel was ordered to serve 101 days in jail. That sentence is to be served concurrently with the other felony offense. He was also placed on supervised probation for five years. Krengel was given credit for 101 days served. At the Area Learning Center (ALC) on March 16, Krengel threatened to kill someone while talking to an ALC staff member and also threatened another staff member after he was told he may be dropped from school for not following the attendance policy, according to the criminal complaint.

Shane Curtis Dahlstrom, 29, pled guilty to a felony offense of third degree burglary. A five-year stay of imposition was granted. Dahlstrom was ordered to serve 90 days in jail. He was also placed on supervised probation for five years. Dahlstrom was ordered to undergo a gambling assessment and to submit a DNA sample. He was also ordered to comply with random breath/urine tests. Dahlstrom was ordered to pay $252 in fees and fines, and $838 in restitution. On June 1, he entered Ace Rental without permission and stole $838 from a cash register, according to the criminal complaint.

Dahlstrom also pled guilty to an offense of felony check forgery. A five-year stay of imposition was granted. He was sentenced to 90 days in jail to be served concurrently with other charges. Dahlstrom was also placed on supervised probation for five years. He was ordered to submit a DNA sample and to complete random breath/urine tests. Dahlstrom was ordered to pay $252 in fees and fines, and $148.47 in restitution. On Aug. 15, Dahlstrom stole an Arctic Cat payroll check as well as two check blanks from a man's vehicle in the 100 block of Kneale Ave. S. The total of the forged payroll check and check blanks was $3,230.18, according to the criminal complaint.

Numerous traffic offenses and other misdemeanors are included in the latest edition of the Pennington County Citation Disposition Bulletin.

Assault among reports to law enforcement

Fifth degree assault and violation of a protection order: On Dec. 21 at 2:25 p.m., the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center received two 911 calls about a disturbance at Country Acres Apartments. Alexander Dogbeh Brown, 37, Thief River Falls, allegedly got into a verbal argument with another male on the second floor of an apartment building. The argument continued to the third floor of the apartment building, where Brown allegedly punched the man in the forehead. Brown has been cited for fifth degree assault and violation of a protection order. He allegedly had contact with a woman who has a protection order filed against him.

Issuance of worthless checks: The following individuals have been cited for the issuance of worthless checks. Their names, ages, cities of residence, and the amounts of the checks are as follows: Lloyd Wayne Dyrdal, 57, Thief River Falls, $15; Josephine Sundaydee Jappah, 25, St. Anthony, $180.87; Melinda Benavidez, 30, Thief River Falls, $47.30; Bobbie Sue Brekke, 23, Plummer, $100; Wayne Earl Johnson, 67, Thief River Falls, $20; Dylan Peder Hansen, 20, Thief River Falls, $50; Kerry Wynne Lane, 35, Roseau, $100; Janet Idell Mallak, 23, Thief River Falls, $22.48; Claire William Logan, 76, Aurora, $41.

Accident: On Dec. 19 at 1 p.m., police received a report of an accident at the intersection of Third Street and Duluth Avenue. A 1996 Honda Civic driven by Dianne Kay Guessford of Thief River Falls and a 2003 Dodge pickup driven by William Carl Zasoski of Grand Forks, N.D., collided. At the time of the accident, both drivers were southbound and attempting to turn west onto Third Street. According to the report, Zasoski had stopped and was waiting at the stop sign, and Guessford was traveling south and proceeding into the turn lane to turn west. Zasoski then turned west, colliding with the Guessford vehicle. Guessford's vehicle sustained more than $1,600 in damage, and Zasoski's vehicle sustained $900 in damage.

If readers have any information about the aforementioned crimes or offenses, they are urged to contact the Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

"Meth: Local Safety Issues" session set for January 6

Methamphetamine has become a major concern for every community. Meth trafficking and production can be dangerous to everyone through its environmental damage and toxic waste, including expensive cleanup of contaminated buildings. Increased federal, state and local spending (taxpayer dollars) are needed for additional medical, social service, and law enforcement demands.

To learn more about this topic, a workshop called "Meth: Local Safety Issues" will be held Friday, Jan. 6 at 10 a.m. in the Pennington County Courthouse meeting room. Thief River Falls Police Chief Kim Murphy will be the presenter. This session is a leader training meeting for area Learning Circles (Extension Home Study Groups), but is also open to the general public.

For further information, contact the Pennington County Extension Office at 683-7030.

Bridles 4-H Club.

For the competition, team members have to raise a total of $2,400. They've already received $1,400 from the Pennington County 4-H Leaders Council, Pyle said.

The team has also received donations from businesses and others, said Erickson, who noted the team's appreciation of those who donated money toward the trip.

However, the team is still raising money for its trip. Checks can be made out to the Pennington County 4-H Horse Judging Team, and can be sent to Lincoln High School, c/o ADawn Melbye, 101 Knight Ave. S., Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Mandy Thompson (center) and Sarah Michaels were among the members of the Lincoln High School Student Senate who wrapped Christmas gifts Dec. 20 for Christmas for Pennington County (CPC). The annual program, which is sponsored by the Pennington County Sheriff's Department, provides gifts to less fortunate kids who might not otherwise receive them. This year, 345 kids received gifts through the program. Student Senate raised money during its Holiday Fun with Santa event and also used the money it would normally spend on a gift exchange to buy gifts for a family helped by CPC. Volunteers donated gifts, wrapping paper and money to CPC. Volunteers, including many service organizations, also wrapped the gifts in the basement of the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center in Thief River Falls.

Residents seek donations for Ecuador mission trip

Three Thief River Falls residents will go on a medical mission trip to Ecuador this February, and they're seeking donations from the public.

Dr. Judith Campbell and her sons Mark and Sam will volunteer with Medical Ministry International (MMI). From Feb. 11-25, they will be in Ibarra, Ecuador, to provide medical, dental, eye, and surgical care. Last summer, Judith Campbell also went to Ecuador on a medical mission.

For this latest mission trip, the Campbells seek donations of medical supplies – dressings, glasses, hygiene supplies and especially medications are needed. Drugs (both prescription and over-the-counter) can be partly used, but should not be expired. Toothpaste, toothbrushes and floss are also in great need, as well as checks (payable to MMI Inc).

Donations can be dropped off at the following Thief River Falls locations – the United Methodist Church, First Care Hospice, or at the Campbells' home, 201 Sherwood Ave. N. To be included in this particular mission, donations should be received by Jan. 11 as donated medical supplies must be pre-cleared by Customs.

The Campbells hope to collect 300 pounds of medical supplies to support this mission. For more information, access the MMI Web site (www.mmint.org) or call Judith Campbell at 681-0384.

TRF students bring home Ag Activities Day honors

Thief River Falls students brought home honors from Ag Activities Day, which was held Dec. 2 at the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC).

The Thief River Falls team placed second in the ag sales contest. Individual students receiving honors included Matt Wold, who received a $600 award to attend UMC for placing second in the ag sales contest and Wyatt Alby, who received a $450 award to attend UMC for placing third in the wildlife contest.

Fifty high schools and more than 1,300 students participated in the annual event. Students participated in 16 contests, including ag mechanics, ag sales, crops, dairy cattle judging, dairy products, farm management, floriculture, forestry, general livestock, small animals, meats, nursery and landscape, soils, wildlife, equine, and hippology. The contests are overseen by the UMC agriculture and natural resource department faculty.

Scholarships, plaques, and ribbons are awarded to school teams and individuals for each contest. More than $32,000 in scholarships is available to award-winning students. UMC awards $750 scholarships to the high individuals in each contest, $600 UMC scholarships are awarded for the second place individuals, and $450 UMC scholarships were awarded for the third place individual.

The Times' Wedding and Engagement Announcement Policy

When submitting an announcement, please be advised of our policy regarding weddings and engagements:

- Engagement announcements should be submitted at least 30 days prior to the wedding date.

Wedding write-ups will be published as follows:

- If the wedding took place within six weeks from date of receipt at The Times office, a detailed write-up will be published from information provided, along with a picture, if submitted.
- If the wedding took place from six to 12 weeks before submission to The Times, we will run a brief social announcement or a picture with a short caption stating names of the bride and groom, names and addresses of parents, date and place of wedding and where the couple is residing.
- If the wedding took place from three to six months before submission to The Times, we will run a brief story or short caption under a picture announcing when the wedding took place.
- There will be no publication of weddings after six months have elapsed.

Every effort will be made to publish the wedding write-up within two issues of receipt. Forms are available at The Times office to help in organizing information regarding weddings and engagements.

Sue Bendickson (left) of Thief River Falls accepts a quilt from Julie Desrocher (right), a member of the Thief River Falls Quilt Guild. Bendickson won the quilt in a raffle. Proceeds from that raffle will make it possible for the Guild and Community Education Department in Thief River Falls to offer a camp that teaches children how to make quilts. Day camps on how to make quilts will be offered Jan. 28 and Feb. 11.

Quilt raffle makes youth class possible

Sue Bendickson is the winner of the Prowler Quilt. The quilt blocks were donated to the Thief River Falls Quilt Guild by Doug Dallmann of Universal Screen Print in honor of his late mother, Milly Dallmann, who was a founding member of the Guild. The proceeds from this quilt raffle will be used to help teach young people to quilt.

The first Quilt Camp for Kids will be offered Saturdays, Jan. 28, and Feb. 11, 2006, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at Lincoln High School. Lunch will be provided.

The event is sponsored by the Community Education Department and the Thief River Falls Quilt Guild. Registration is open to children fourth grade through grade 12. The participants will make a small quilt.

A fabric kit will be available for a $10 fee at the first class. All other supplies will be furnished by the Guild. Registration will be taken by the Community Education Department at 230 South LaBree Avenue; 681-8711. The registration fee is $15. Class size is limited.

"Jesus Our Treasure" encore performance scheduled Dec. 29

Due to busy holiday schedules members of the community have requested an Encore performance of the Christmas musical drama "Jesus Our Treasure." The cast has agreed to do an encore performance depending on the amount of reservations.

The presentation is free to the public and will be held on Thursday, Dec. 29, at 7 p.m., at Open Arms Christian Fellowship, 401 St. Paul Ave. S., Thief River Falls.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. For reservations, please call 218-465-4460. Please leave a name and phone number on the answering machine if no one is available to answer calls. In the event of inclement weather or lack of reservations, cancellation notices will be announced on KKAQ and KTRF radio stations.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere, email: lacours@[illegible]

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

I wrote the following ditty as one of my first columns, long ago, on Dec. 26, 1990. I have reprinted it every so often since then and this seems like a good year to run it again. And isn't it close to the truth to this day?

'Twas the Morn After Christmas

'Twas the morn after Christmas and all through the house,
Things were fit neither for man nor for mouse.
The stockings were empty and trash littered the floor,
And the Spirit of Christmas had fled out the door.

See, Mom is attired in new slippers and gown,
The former bright orange, the latter puce brown.
She resembles an elf as she scurries about,
Cleaning and straightening, beginning to shout.

Her nerves are a-shatter from cooking and shopping;
She has worked since Thanksgiving without any stopping.
Now Christmas is done and she wants things to be,
Back to normal as fast as they can be, you see.

Dad slumps in a chair, his eyes glued to TV;
There are football games playing all day: one, two, three.
He munches cold turkey and sips on a beer;
Not a bit of the ruckus near him can he hear.

He spent Christmas night setting up the new toys,
Skinned knuckles, banged thumbs, uttered unprintable noise.
Christmas Day he played host to both friend and foe;
Filled with holiday spirits and joy, "Ho, ho, ho!"

The children are fighting about their new toys;
They shout and they scream, both the girls and the boys.
O'er the floors and the tables the toys are all scattered,
Some still working, but otherwise most of them shattered.

Johnny is crying - he lost his new ball;
Mary is mad, she got no "Boobsie" doll;
Robby rides his bicycle through the front hall;
And Baby sits screaming amidst it all.

In the kitchen the dog is munching the trash;
The cat leaps on the counter; things fall with a crash.
Christmas leftovers linger in fridge and on tables,
No one eats them or knows what they are without labels.

Dirty dishes from yesterday fill up the sink;
Not one drop of egg nog is there left to drink;
Cookies and treats lie forgotten on trays,
Because no one remembered to put them away.

The Christmas tree, yesterday glowing and bright,
Lost all its glitter and looks like a fright.
Around it the carpet crackles and crunches,
Christmas balls and tree needles have fallen in bunches.

The floor is all littered with scraps, bows and tags;
The back entry bulges with filled garbage bags.
Don't pick it up now or put them away!
Grandpa has lost what he got yesterday.

By the weekend, however, the noise, mess and turmoil,
Will be cleaned up and done, with the house back to normal.
Just in time, don't you see, to start new preparations,
For New Year's Eve parties and Day celebrations.

Making resolutions

New Year's is a time for the irresolute to make resolutions in the vain hope that the act of throwing away an old calendar will make discipline appear like magic.

So, I don't bother. My list of potential resolutions is pages long, but using New Year's as a stimulus to action hasn't worked in the past. When the whole life-changing sham collapses Jan. 3, you feel worse than you did before.

Instead, using modern educational wisdom and its accompanying jargon, I think I will concentrate upon achieving a set of "desired outcomes." If I fail, I will not have failed, I will have experienced "deferred success."

Ah, I feel better about myself already.

Now, what desired outcomes do I hope to achieve? To make this easier, I am going to stay away from absolutes. For instance, instead of saying, "I will quit drinking coffee," I will say, "I am going to drink less coffee."

Already I have gotten myself kicked out of the 12-step program. Those folks are wise to the mind's devious tricks. They know that not quitting altogether is a recipe for not changing at all.

Forget them. Radical change is not on my agenda. In fact, I love coffee and have no desire to quit. It is just that I know drinking 22 cups per day is a bit much, and I at least want to make a show of cutting down.

So, instead of quitting cold turkey, which would likely put me into either a coma or the psyche ward, I am going to cut down in little ways.

I won't guzzle down that cold stuff in the bottom of the cup before refilling, I will dump it out instead. If I have the mid-morning shakes from too much caffiene, I will stop and realize that the answer is not more caffeine.

I will endeavor to put one less teaspoon of coffee grounds in the filter basket. That will bring down the octane level from Barnes and Noble level to local café strength.

Now, onto other desired outcomes, none of which is absolute. We won't be checking up on my progress in six months because that could negatively impact my self-esteem.

Fewer butter-soaked pancakes. More granola. Less meaningless Internet surfing. More reading of good books. Fewer two hour naps which disrupt that night's sleep, more catnaps which refresh. Less sugar-loaded French vanilla powder in my coffee, more healthy green tea.

Less eating out, more home cookin'. Less television news, more sitting still listening to good music. Less rolling over and sleeping more until you're late, more watching the sun rise with a cup of coffee before the bustle starts.

Just one cup, mind you. Or two. But not three.

To reward myself for this difficult regimen of self-improvement, it is important that I allow myself some guilty pleasures.

Therefore, I resolve to watch at least 200 hours of Twins games on television next summer, no matter how damaging the team's inability to score runs is to my emotional well-being.

I resolve that every time I am stuck in a waiting room at the dentist or doctor's office, I will devote myself to reading People magazine and catching up with the troubles of Ashlee Simpson, Jennifer Aniston and Britney Spears.

I will rub my hands with glee when another superstar enters drug rehab. I will convince myself that purchasing a pair of jeans with holes in the knees will bring me love and happiness. I will watch a must-see movie and agree that it is wondrous just to keep the conversation flowing.

I will avoid all forms of exercise that don't increase the size of the wood pile. I won't feel guilty ordering a piece of pie after having the over-sized roast beef dinner.

There you have it – my formula for changing nothing at all.

ACTIVITIES
Thank You Notes

Christmas is over and now is the time to teach your child about the polite practice of thank you notes.

Thank you notes do not have to be long or painful. A good idea is to take a Polaroid picture of your child with the gift he or she received and send it to the person who gave the gift with a short "thanks." Another way to say thank you is to encourage your child to draw a picture and send it with a short note of appreciation.

Thank you notes are just one way to extend the holiday season. Let your child enjoy this, too.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need a gallon milk jug, a black marker and a knife.

JOKE OF THE WEEK

Knock, knock.
Who's there?
Wayne.
Wayne who?
Wayne, Wayne go away, come again some other day!

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls Public Library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following:

Arenson, Roberta. One, Two, Skip a Few; First Number Rhymes Illustrated. Kids can learn old and new rhymes that help them learn their numbers.

Lewis, Paeony. No More Cookies. Florence and her toy monkey Arnold try to persuade her mother to let them eat more cookies. Includes a recipe for chocolate-covered bananas.

Parish, Herman. Calling Doctor Amelia Bedelia. When the literal-minded Amelia Bedelia helps out at her doctor's office one busy day, nothing seems to go quite right until Amelia begins to treat the impatient patients.

WONDERS OF THE WEB

PARENTING TIPS
When A Child Says "No!"

One of the most frustrating things for a parent is when their young child learns to say "No," and then he uses it loudly and almost constantly. We wonder what has happened to the "sweet, cooperative" child we used to have. Now the question is why this child is suddenly refusing to cooperate and what parents should do about it.

First, parents need to realize this is normal behavior and in fact indicates intellectual growth. Your child has now developed the ability to realize that he has a choice and can use a very powerful word. Previously when it was time to eat, he ate and when it was time to get dressed, you dressed him. Now your child is exercising his power to make a choice.

Secondly, he is experimenting with this powerful word. After saying it, your child will watch to see your reaction. This will tell him just how powerful it is. Try to avoid a power struggle. It may be necessary to ignore resistance and proceed gently, but firmly along the path you have chosen.

Finally, avoid asking questions that require a yes/no answer, especially if you are not willing to allow a "no" answer. Instead of saying "Do you want some carrots?", say "Here are some carrots." If you think your child may still be resistant to the carrots, give him a choice (and some power) by asking, "Would you like two or four?"

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Give your child choices of two things that you are willing to allow. Instead of saying "Do you want to go to bed?", say "It's time to go to bed. Do you want to walk or hop like a bunny?"

NCTC students participate in service learning projects

Desktop Publishing and Presentation Graphics students, under the direction of their instructor Marcia Sandahl, chose as their Academic Service Learning project creating brochures, newsletters, and other promotional materials for local organizations.

The organizations included the Pennington County Extension Service, a local chapter of the Red Hat Society, KSRQ radio, the Eagles Club, and a community church. Also, one student created brochures and flyers for a Health Fair sponsored by the Northland College LPN class that was held on campus in October.

Students learn desktop publishing skills during the first half of the semester. They use those skills to create the promotional materials for organizations in their communities with whom they choose to work and who have expressed a need. The materials are actually used by these organizations to promote their activities. As the final project in the presentation graphics portion of the course, students prepare and present a PowerPoint presentation telling the class what they created, who they worked with, and how the process worked for them.

The students who participated in this Academic Service Learning activity appreciated the opportunity to use the skills they learned and developed in the classroom by creating materials that met actual community needs. Students who have engaged in service learning are more competitive as they enter the workforce and as they apply for continued educational opportunities.

Deer Park Garden Club holds annual Christmas party

The traditional Deer Park Garden Club Christmas Party was held Dec. 16, at the home of Tim and Michelle Prestebak. Upon entering their yard, the sprit of Christmas was in the air. The display of dazzling Christmas lights glistened on the new fallen snow and a visit from Jack Frost added interest to the display.

Indoors was also very festive. Tim and Michelle, this years host and chef, served a delicious buffet meal. Four decades this event has been celebrated in different ways and places.

Prior to the 6:30 p.m. meal, a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments and strawberry rhubarb wine was sampled and served by Loraine.

Club pictures were also snapped for the history book. Hand booklets will be passed out at the February meeting. The highlight of the evening was playing bingo. Brightly wrapped bingo prizes were brought by the members. Valerie Brekke was in charge of the game and prizes.

There will be no January meeting. Enjoying the meeting were members, their husbands and families, Jim and Loraine Hamann of Trail, Brad and Lana Nelson, Lynn and Norma Hanson, Eddy and Loretta Stucy, Bob and Arlene Prestebak, Stacy and Allen Englund and family, Tim and Michelle Prestebak and family, Helen Chervestad, Marlyn Stanley, Valerie Brekke of McIntosh, and Ethel Wiseth.

Celebrating her 80th birthday a bit early, former Thief River Falls resident Flossie Bruggeman was escorted to Branson, Mo., to enjoy a couple of days with her daughters, Sue and Roxi. Highlights of her trip were meeting the Lennon Sisters and having coffee with them in their home while Roxi worked on a business project for them. Pictured from left are Janet Lennon, Kathy Lennon, Bruggeman and Mimi Lennon. While staying in Branson, Bruggeman was treated to prime seats at the Gatlin Brothers, and Lennon Sisters shows, the Osmunds Christmas Show and the Daniel O'Donnell Show. She said, "The Lennons are just as down to earth and lovely as you would expect them to be – we chatted together like we have known each other for years. We laughed, told stories and had a great time. As to what the Lennons said when they met Bruggeman – "Flossie, what a cute name." Bruggeman will turn 80 on Jan. 20. She goes to Curves everyday and is still active in organizations around her home in Sauk Centre. She has nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren, with one on the way. At a recent granddaughter's wedding, she definitely did not show any signs of slowing down, as she danced every dance until midnight. (Submitted photo)

Recipients of certificates of recognition at a Lincoln High School recognition assembly Thursday included students who received or were first runners-up for the Hugh O'Brian Youth (HOBY) Leadership Award or Minnesota Motivating and Inspiring Leadership and Excellence Leadership (MILE) Award. Vicki Svedarsky (far left), guidance counselor at the school, presented certificates to Sam Mattison (second from left), first runner-up for the Minnesota MILE Award, and Kayse Lee (third from left), winner of the Minnesota MILE Award. Mattison will represent the school in Lee's place if she were unable to attend the HOBY Leadership Camp. Nancy Tofte (far right), director of Thief River Falls Community Education, presented certificates to Amanda Hamre (third from right), first place runner-up for the HOBY Leadership Award, and Bethany Bates, winner of the HOBY Leadership Award. Hamre will represent the school in Bates' place if she were unable to attend the Minnesota MILE leadership retreat this summer at Hamline University in St. Paul. The leadership awards are open to sophomores, who were asked to write short essays answering the question "What does 'leadership' mean to you, in your personal life, in your school and/or community." The awards were sponsored by Northern State Bank and the GFWC Zehlians of Thief River Falls.

56 donate during Grygla blood drive December 1

A total of 70 people volunteered to donate blood, 56 were able to give, and 76 units were collected during Grygla's Dec. 1 blood drive. Twenty donors donated on the automated 2RBC machine, which collects two units of blood at once. Four of the donors gave blood for the first time. Lisa Moellenkamp, donor recruitment representative of United Blood Services, commented, "This is a clear example of concerned people in this area responding unselfishly to a great need – the need for blood. You can feel pride that these volunteer donors are your friends and neighbors."

Ralph Rundell coordinated and the Grygla Lions Club sponsored the drive. Those who assisted with the drive were: Ione Aune, Donna Jelle, Joy Nordby, Sandy Werne, Ida Stanley, Lottie Sistad, Grace Rundell, Janice Peterson, Mildred Klamar, KRWB, KJ102, KK92, KTRF, TRF Times, Roseau Times Region, Stephen Messenger and Northland Trading Post. The Community Center provided space to hold the drive.

Donations will also help meet the blood needs of many patients in 74 area hospitals served by United Blood Services.

Dakota Clinic to host free "Asthma and Children" program

Dakota Clinic in Thief River Falls is holding an educational program titled: "Asthma and Children: What a parent should know," on Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 7 p.m. in the Dakota Clinic Conference Room, 1720 Highway 59 SE.

Dr. Suresh Sreedaran, M.D., pediatrician at Dakota Clinic will discuss the symptoms and solutions to all matters of lung related challenges faced by the children with a special emphasis on asthma. Participants will learn what research is ongoing and how a young person's physical and mental well-being can be improved through proper treatment.

The program is free and open to the public. Registration is not required. Refreshments will be served. For more information, contact Dakota Clinic at 218-683-2700.

A youth group, consisting of about 30 children from Community Church, Thief River Falls, put together this positive message that appears on the east side of the railroad tracks on Third Street. Nikki Jacobson and her husband, Adam, who own the building and are youth leaders at the church, said that on Sunday, Dec. 18, children in the youth group decided to do this on their own. The coloring was accomplished with Kool-Aid.

Cayler Williams (right) received some help from Steve Osvold while wrapping Christmas gifts Dec. 19 for Christmas for Pennington County, an annual countywide program that provides gifts to less fortunate kids. Williams, a 7-year-old Thief River Falls resident, and Osvold, a Minneapolis resident, were among the numerous volunteers who donated their time to the program by wrapping the gifts in the basement of the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center in Thief River Falls. Besides wrapping the gifts, volunteers also donate gifts, money and wrapping paper to make the holiday season a brighter one for kids who wouldn't otherwise receive Christmas gifts. This year, 345 kids were served by the program, which is sponsored by the Pennington County Sheriff's Department.

After graduation, he moved to Detroit, Mich., and worked as a master mechanic and auto-body repair technician. He returned to Northern Minnesota in 1981. He continued to work as a mechanic and auto-body repair person and also operated other businesses. At the time of his death, he owned and operated a septic vac service specializing in septic service and installation.

Dave was married to Dawn Renie Anderson in Las Vegas, Nev., on February 14, 1992 and they settled in Wheeler Township, north of Baudette. Dave enjoyed his family, liked to work, liked to hunt deer, believed in God and was a member of Wabanica Lutheran Church, was ambitious, talented, a very good businessman and enjoyed northern Minnesota. Dave had been having health problems most of 2005 and died at Lakewood Health Care Center December 24.

In addition to Dawn, he is survived by a daughter, Shelley (Rich) Pino of Carlsbad, Calif.; a son, Nick Rantanen of Baudette; two daughters, Katie and Krista, living at home with Dawn; two grandsons; three brothers, Fred (Janice) Harder of Island Lake, Ill., Daniel (Shari) Harder of Warroad, Philip (Clair) Harder of Warroad; three sisters, Karen Barnes, Jeanine (Mark) Engen and Kathleen (Gary) Baus, all of Warroad; and numerous nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; a brother-in-law, James Barnes; his maternal and paternal grandparents and many aunts and uncles.

SOCIAL SECURITY Q & A

Q: My wife's Social Security payment (direct deposit) comes on the 26th of the month. When this is a holiday, when is the deposit actually available?

A: Glad you asked. There is a basic confusion in your understanding of SSA payment schedules and I do not know where you came up with the 26th date. People whose retirement, survivors or disability benefits began before 1997 receive their Social Security on the third of the month and, if that day is a holiday, benefit payments arrive early.

For almost everyone starting Social Security since 1997 benefits no longer arrive on a specific date of the month. Instead, people with birth dates from the first to 10th have benefits payable on the second Wednesday of the month, birth dates from the 11th – 20th are payable on the third Wednesday and birth dates from the 21st – 31st are payable on the fourth Wednesday. Payment delivery is moved forward if the scheduled delivery date is a holiday.

There are some exceptions to the birthdate based benefit date. People receiving benefits through the separate Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program receive funds on the first of the month. SSI clients also eligible for Social Security receive those Social Security benefits on the third of a month. Here also, payment delivery is moved forward if the scheduled delivery date is a holiday.

Q: Can I get Social Security booklets in a large print format?

A: Yes. Many SSA publications are in alternative formats including large print, cassette tape and Braille. They are available at no charge and can be ordered from the SSA website, www.socialsecurity.gov. Go to "publications" at the top right of the home page and then click on "alternative formats." You can also enlarge Web page print size by clicking on "need big text?" at the top right of the SSA home page.

Q: Where can I get help in choosing a Medicare prescription drug plan?

A: While not an all inclusive list, here are some toll-free numbers. Minnesota residents can call the Senior Linkage Line at 800-333-2433 (TTY 800-627-3529), sponsored by the Minnesota Board on Aging and the Area Agencies on Aging (AoA). North Dakota residents can call Senior Health Insurance Counseling (SHIC), part of the ND Insurance Dept at 888-575-6611 (TTY 800-366-6888). You can call Medicare directly at 800-MEDICARE (800-633-4227) (TTY 877-486-2048). Write down all the prescription medications you use before contacting these groups. These organizations can help you compare plans but the final decision as to what is best for you is yours.

Burkel retires after more than 40 years

Burkel is his mentor and he tries to model his career and personality after Burkel's. "I have the utmost respect for the guy," said Anderson.

"I think of any guy in the organization, I respect him the most."

"He's one of the best ever persons to work with, pretty easygoing," said Scott Dowers, a Mn/DOT project manager who has worked with Burkel for 15 years.

"He's easygoing pretty much and good to work with," said Ron Northup, a Mn/DOT chief inspector for road and bridge construction who has worked with Burkel for about 20 years.

Northup once tried to aggravate Burkel, just to see how he would respond. Since they were surveying, they dug holes in the middle of a road to find points. After each hole was dug, Northup sprayed pink paint "really hard" to indicate where the hole was located. After the fourth or fifth time of doing that, "[Burkel] took his hat off and rubbed his head, and said, 'I wish you wouldn't do that,'" Northup recalled, noting that was about as upset as Burkel gets.

Anderson remembered a time when Burkel had to tell him to calm down. The two of them were working on a East Grand Forks roadway when a woman drove around a barricade, almost having to move it to drive onto the closed, torn-up road. She hollered at them, saying that they didn't have enough signs warning of the closure, recalled Anderson, who noted he was ready to give her a piece of his mind. He didn't because Burkel told him to relax. "He's one of a kind," Anderson said.

Burkel will miss working with Anderson and his other co-workers. He might miss the summer construction season, but Burkel noted he might be more fond of gardening or working in his yard in the summertime. And he will enjoy spending more time with his grandchildren. Burkel also plans to continue serving on the board of directors for Falls Developmental Achievement Center in Thief River Falls.

What Burkel won't miss at his job is being in the office in the wintertime. In recent years, he has been indoors more often during that time of year, and he doesn't like that.

Instead, he will now spend winter indoors at his home. He is retiring, in part, due to his health. Earlier this year, he was diagnosed with prostate cancer. His prostate was removed, but the cancer had spread to a nearby lymph node. Burkel also has diabetes. He has another medical checkup scheduled in January.

His health problems are the latest in his family, which includes his wife, Kay; sons Mike and Rob; daughter-in-law, Shelly; and three grandsons. "I kidded Kay that once I got her straightened out that I was going to fall apart," said Burkel whose wife received a kidney transplant in March after suffering from kidney failure for about a year.

Anderson admires how Burkel can face adversity and keep a positive outlook. Anderson said, "I guess I've never met a guy who could handle adverse situations like him."

Keep sidewalks, steps clear

water, coating sidewalks, porches, steps and curbside approaches with an icy glaze that shatters bone on impact. In the exuberance of building snowmen and feeling the rush of cold wind while sledding, such hazards are overlooked. Not for mail carriers, though, who fear nothing more than death by icicle impalement, or maybe a loose dog.

Christmas is a time for giving. Unfortunate incidents are easily prevented through cooperation. Provide postal carriers with a clean walk, clean steps, clear approaches, and they'll provide you with the best possible service. How's that for a Christmas bargain?

Holand and Schaumburg participate in National 4-H Congress

Jennifer Holand

Matt Schaumburg

Jennifer Holand and Matt Schaumburg from Pennington County were a part of more than 1,300 4-H delegates from across the US and Puerto Rico who participated in the 84th National 4-H Congress in Atlanta, GA, November 25 – November 29. Minnesota was proud to have 10 youth delegates represent our state.

National 4-H Congress recognizes the accomplishments of youth in the 4-H program and provides an outstanding educational opportunity for 4-H youth. Youth attending returned home with new ideas and a commitment to become more involved in their communities.

Throughout the five-day national event, those attending increased their cultural understanding through workshops, experienced the culturally diverse heritage of Atlanta, and learned from each other about customs and traditions in other cultures and parts of the country. Delegates also heard motivational speakers such Dan Thurmon, president of Motivation Works, Inc., an international speaking and entertainment firm. He teaches audiences how to manage the demands of their busy lives with increased focus and decisive action.

His unique speaking style, Speaking with Visual Impact™, utilizes all of his skills, blending meaningful content with emotionally charged performances.

In addition, community service was an important element of the conference's activities. Each Congress delegate also brought 100 dimes, for the partnership Congress has with Habitats for Humanity to build a house with a low-income family on the greater Atlanta, Georgia area, the current site of National 4-H Congress.

4-H works to advance youth development and build a world in which youth and adults learn, grow, and work together as catalysts for positive change. In Minnesota alone, approximately 167,000 youth and 4,500 volunteers are annually involved in 4-H and its programs. 4-H is a part of the University of Minnesota's Extension Service and part of the USDA's Cooperative Extension System, which conducts programs in all 3,067 counties of the US, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and five other territories.

Two employees of NCTC complete leadership program

Mary Fontes, the associate dean of Student Services at the East Grand Forks campus of Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC), and Ron Dvergsten, the dean of Management Education at the Thief River Falls campus, graduated in November from the Academy for Leadership and Development after successfully completing the program requirements.

Mary Fontes

Ron Dvergsten

The Academy is a program created in conjunction with the Chair Academy, a division of the Maricopa Community College District, in Mesa, Ariz., for the purpose of advancing organizational leadership and provides succession planning for leaders in community and technical colleges.

The academy is a year-long program which includes an initial week of on-site training; a practicum experience involving implementation of an individualized professional development plan focusing on the application of skills learned during training; a mentor program; and a final week of on-site training consisting of additional leadership issues. Some of the topics covered include: "The Complex Role of the Organizational Leader," "Building Effective Work Teams," "Strategic and Scenario Planning," "Managing Conflict, Leading Change," "Behavioral Work Styles - Understanding Self and Others," and "Appreciating Diversity."

Participants in the program are nominated by their individual colleges and selected to attend.

"We congratulate Mary Fontes and Ron Dvergsten for the successful completion of this program" stated Dr. James Davis, NCTC interim president. "Northland College is very supportive of ongoing individualized professional development for our employees. The goal of the Academy of Leadership and Development program is to identify our talented staff and provide them with opportunities to develop their readiness and skills for future leadership positions."

Area WIC clinics to be offered in January are listed

The Women, Infants and Children's Supplemental Nutrition Education Program (WIC) is being held during the month of January.

Infants, children up to the age of 5, and women who are pregnant or breast feeding may be eligible for the program. WIC Quin County is very interested in enrolling pregnant women in the program. It feels that prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is important to apply for WIC early during pregnancy. No proof of pregnancy is required.

All potential clients must write or call the WIC Program and complete an application. The following is the schedule of WIC Clinics for the month of January 3.

- Tuesday, Jan. 3 and Wednesday, Jan. 4, at the Warroad Community Center.
- Tuesday, Jan. 3, at the Newfolden Community Center.
- Wednesday, Jan. 4, at the Kittson County Courthouse in Hallock.
- Thursday, Jan. 5, at the Red Lake Falls Community Center.
- Monday, Jan. 9, through Thursday, Jan. 12, at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.
- Monday, Jan. 16, at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren.
- Tuesday, Jan. 17, at the Karlstad Community Center in Karlstad.
- Wednesday, Jan. 18 and Thursday, Jan. 19, at the Roseau Area Hospital Basement Auxiliary Room.

North Valley Home Health will hold immunization clinics at the Newfolden and Warren clinics from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. An immunization record is needed before immunizations will be given. For more information, contact North Valley Home Health at 218-745-5154.

For further information concerning the WIC program, call or write WIC Quin, PO Box 248, Newfolden, MN 56738, phone 874-7845 (Newfolden, Viking, Middle River, Holt or Thief River Falls residents) or 1-800-223-1591, or e-mail quinchs@wiktel.com.

Consider longer school year in MN

Though not a new proposal, the proposal by the Minnesota Association of School Administrators (MASA) to lengthen the school year is gaining more attention than usual. Perhaps it is finally time to consider lengthening the school year.

MASA recently announced it supports a 200-day student attendance school year and a 230-day teacher work year that would be implemented gradually over a four-year period. Currently, the school year for public schools in Minnesota ranges between 170 and 175 days. The school year for students in Thief River Falls is 174 days, which includes parent-teacher conferences and some other days, which brings the actual total to about 170 days.

MASA reasons that now is the time to extend school years because there is increasing pressure to prepare students to compete globally, and more time on task will help eliminate the achievement gap about which we keep hearing. I might add that past proposals from various groups have mentioned that at the start of every year, teachers have to spend additional time reteaching lessons students have forgotten over the long summer vacation. Additionally, proposals have noted that the reason for a school year that ends in June - agriculture - is no longer necessary. The economy is no longer strictly based on agriculture. Today, the school calendar continues to follow the same path. The Fargo, N.D., Forum argues that school calendars seem to be more attuned to the needs of tourism, teacher unions and family vacation plans rather than rigorous classroom education..

The MASA proposal also would require additional school days for teachers. They argue this would give them additional staff development time.

The days and years are already lengthening. Without taking the official step to implement a proposal that calls it what it is, school districts are already lengthening school years - they're providing summer school, after-school services, summer reading programs, allowing early and late activities, and providing targeted services. Why not take that extra step?

MASA also argues that Minnesota is lagging behind other countries and states, which already have longer school years. Some countries require up to 210 days in schools. Some states require up to 185 days in school. The Fargo Forum stated that 32 states have school calendars of 180 days or more.

For years, Minnesota has prided itself on its emphasis on education. If it's going to continue to emphasize the importance of education and tout its benefits, it should give this proposal some serious consideration. Considerable obstacles exist - contracts and additional costs - but the proposal should not be dismissed out of hand. The educational benefits for students in the public school system, the economy and well-being of Minnesotans could be significant.

New Year goals?

As the new year approaches, I suppose it's time to start thinking about New Year's resolutions.

According to www.goalsguys.com, the Top 10 Most Common New Year Resolutions are:

1. Lose weight
2. Stop smoking
3. Stick to a budget
4. Save or earn more money
5. Find a better job
6. Become more organized
7. Exercise more
8. Be more patient at work/with others
9. Eat better
10. Become a better person

According to pittsburgh.about.com, the Top 10 New Year's Resolutions are:

1. Spend more time with family and friends
2. Put the fit in fitness
3. Tame the bulge
4. Quit smoking
5. Enjoy life more
6. Quit drinking
7. Get out of debt
8. Learn something new
9. Help others
10. Get organized

I don't know how many readers will select any of these New Year's resolutions for their resolutions, but odds are these resolutions will show up as the latest "How to" stories in a magazine near you. Tradition tells us that New Year's Eve has been a time to reflect on the past and look forward to the coming year. There are relatively few days in the year when so many of us do just that, so maybe we ought to set some goals. Maybe this year we'll resolve to be more responsible and follow through on those goals, too.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Code of Silence speaker in Thief River Falls made a good point

To the Editor:

I am a concerned citizen of Pennington County. For 41 years, I have been a local and federal taxpayer, and self-employed citizen of this community. I have followed the path of my father, his father and his father's father in the very same type of employment, and abided by the same laws, rules and regulations.

Recently though, I have been caught up by the same laws written to protect and serve our community, and have had a crash course in how the law really works. I, until now, had no interest in how these laws were enforced. I thought all Minnesota residents had to abide by the same laws, the same way, that is, until a Ninth District judge told me different in court this past summer.

I attended a seminar Dec. 6, 2005, at the Northland Community and Technical College airport campus. The speaker was Michael J. Quinn and he spoke of "the police code of silence" - good cops/bad cops and what they don't want you to know. This could not have come at a better time to our area, and it was obvious to many citizens and law enforcement students attending this event. Everyone stressed different problems, but they all pertained to the same thing - "the code of silence," a very real problem we deal with every day.

As I mentioned above, my problem with the system or at least one of them, is Pennington County laws that seem to be applied differently, which was confirmed to me by a Ninth District judge when he told me in open court, "Hennepin County laws are different than ours." I believe this remark was caused by a Minneapolis attorney retained to represent me who had been asking too many questions regarding my case, or in other words, "stepping on some toes." Again, I say are we (Minnesota residents) not all bound by and protected by the very same laws?

At this meeting, I learned I am not alone, and heard someone with similar concerns state we have a community action group in Thief River Falls. Do they have meetings - are they public or private? I would like to know more about this group because there is strength in numbers.

Concerned,
Robert C. Danielson

Dayton calls for extension of Patriot Act to protect rights

by Sen. Mark Dayton

"Last Saturday, President Bush castigated those of us who voted against cloture on the Patriot Act. He said 'that decision is irresponsible, and it endangers the lives of our citizens.' That is a mistaken characterization.

Sen. Mark Dayton

"Every senator supported the Senate's reauthorization of the Patriot Act last July, when it passed the Senate unanimously. Last Friday, 47 of us said that the House-Senate Conference Report is not yet good enough. And before we make the Patriot Act permanent, we must make it right.

"The Patriot Act that we passed four years ago, which I supported, gave the federal government unprecedented powers to conduct surveillance on American citizens and to demand information about their private activities, about their personal lives.

"We passed the Patriot Act hastily in the Senate four years ago, too hastily, in retrospect. We passed it when my caucus was in the majority. So we – and I – were responsible for that haste. It seemed necessary in the immediate aftermath of 9/11.

"One important consideration for this senator then, when I voted for the Patriot Act, was that it would sunset in four years, and this Congress would take the time to review it carefully, modify it as necessary to ensure the proper balance between combating terrorism and protecting the privacy of innocent Americans.

"As I said, five months ago the Senate passed unanimously our reauthorization of the Patriot Act with important changes to protect the constitutional rights of innocent American citizens. The House passed its version of the new Patriot Act in July also, allowing plenty of time for the House-Senate Conference Committee to resolve their differences in the best interests of all Americans.

"But the House did not appoint its conferees until last month. The House leaders chose to engage in this take-it-or-leave-it brinksmanship to try to force the Senate to accept invasions into private lives of innocent Americans.

"Last Friday, 47 senators – five Republicans, 41 Democrats, and one Independent – said "no," we will not accept this version of the Patriot Act. We do not oppose the Patriot Act as the President and others have falsely charged. Most of us voted for the original law four years ago, and all of us – all of us – in this Senate voted for the new one, last July.

"Many of us, myself included, have proposed extending the existing law for another three months to give conferees time to resolve our remaining differences, to design a permanent Patriot Act that most of us can support.

"What we have, instead, is more brinksmanship. With the president and the Senate leader threatening to let the existing law expire so they can blame 47 of us for supposedly weakening the protections of the American people. Let's be very clear, let the American people be very clear, if the Patriot Act is allowed to expire, that is the choice and the responsibility of the president and the Senate majority leadership.

"Today is Dec. 19. The Senate is still in session, with 12 more days until the year's end. That is enough time either to revise the conference report so that it has broad bipartisan support in the Senate, or to extend the existing law. All of us, every member of this Senate, supported the Senate version of the new law that passed unanimously five months ago. It is absurd and wrong for detractors to claim that we do not support it now, when we disagree with a few, but a very important few, features in it.

"Last Saturday, President Bush also reasserted his right to do whatever he deems necessary to protect the American people from terrorist attacks. That is an enormous responsibility, one that Congress shares with him. However, we differ in our approaches.

"The president's legal counsel has opined that he has the Constitutional authority as Commander in Chief, and the legal authority from Congress post 9/11, to override or ignore any laws or limitations that he decides necessary to combat terrorism. Whether Congress intended 'any and all force necessary' to include that authority is highly questionable. But that is the president's operating assumption.

"Well, if the president can do whatever he wants, whether it is legal or not, and his decision to do it makes it legal, then in a sense, the Patriot Act is not even necessary, because the president can order it all done, anyway. In another sense, however, our getting the Patriot Act right becomes even more imperative because we are a nation of laws, laws which must be followed by everyone, even the president, even the FBI, even the National Security Agency. During good times and bad, during war and peace, because our existence as a nation, as a constitutional democracy requires it and depends upon it. No external threat to our way of life could be so great as the danger that our rule of law not be obeyed by our most powerful institutions and individuals.

"This Senate exists to make those laws. Every one of us, all 100 of us, takes that responsibility most seriously. Because we assume that our laws matter, that they will be honored and obeyed, or that they will be enforced so that they will define the legal courses of action that everyone - everyone - in this country must follow.

"Otherwise, we are irrelevant, and the laws that we enact are meaningless. Our operating assumption, however, continues to be that our laws will be obeyed, and, thus, our efforts here in the Senate do matter. That is why we want and we deserve the time necessary to get our laws right. That is the way our process is supposed to work.

"Allowing 41 or more senators to hold up legislation in order to get it right is the way our process is supposed to work. It is strange, to say the least, that those who assert their right to ignore our rules and our laws are vilifying us in this Senate for following them.

"For people watching us today, who may be unfamiliar with the details of the existing Patriot Act, let me give you an example of what it is that we are trying to correct. According to the Washington Post last year, under the Patriot Act, some 56 FBI field agents signed over 30,000 national security letters. That's 100 times more than before the act. They were not directed toward possible terrorists but, rather to people, to businesses, to universities, to libraries who might have information about people who might be terrorists.

"The Patriot Act requires them to turn over the information demanded, the most personal information – including health records, Internet use – upon demand, with no recourse. It is a criminal act under the Patriot Act for them to tell anyone else about the government's demand, even to consult with an attorney. And under an executive order President Bush signed two years ago, all that private, personal information learned remains permanently in the government's files and can be shared with other government agencies even after the suspect has been determined to be completely innocent.

"The new Patriot Act, which the 100 senators unanimously supported last July, would not prevent the federal government from demanding that information on some 30,000 businesses, universities, and individuals every year in order to combat terrorism. It would only provide minimal legal rights of independent judicial review of those demands, when some innocent person, business, library, or university believes the federal government has gone too far. No one wants to prevent the federal government from stopping terrorists or preventing terrorist acts against the United States. No one. No one.

"We do want to prevent some people, however well intended they believe they are, from going too far. Secret torture prisons in other countries is going too far. Spying on Americans is going too far. Denying due process, even the right to consult with an attorney, to innocent Americans is going too far.

"Former Republican Congressman Robert Barr said it well, 'enough of this business of justifying everything as necessary for the war on terror. Either the Constitution and the laws of this country mean something, or they don't. It's truly frightening what is going on in this country.' Thank you, Congressman Barr.

"Those of us in the Senate who believe that the Constitution and our laws enacted under it still mean something, who are trying to get the Patriot Act right before we make it permanent, deserve our right to do so. It is an inversion and a perversion of the values of this great nation when it becomes legitimate to set up illegal torture prisons in other countries or to conduct illegal spying in this country, but illegitimate for the Senate to carry out its own due process.

"This Senate must not adjourn for this year, until we either extend the existing Patriot Act or pass a new one acceptable to a broad, bipartisan majority of this Senate. Anyone who prevents us from doing one or the other is placing their personal politics ahead of the protection of the American people. That would be dangerous and destructive personal politics. That is why we must vote on a three-month extension of the existing Patriot Act or a new conference report before we adjourn this year."

Out in Society

From The Thief River Falls Times

Tronderlag to Celebrate at Christmas Festival

"Families and friends of the Thief River Falls Tronderlag will be entertained at a Christmas social at the Sons of Norway hall Monday evening, December 29, beginning at 8 o'clock. The program will consist of vocal and instrumental music, readings, recitations, speeches, and short talks. The main festival address will be given by Bjorn Bjornaraa of Wanke on his trip to Norway last summer, especially about Trondelagen.

"Following the program Trondersk 'Jule-kosh' will be served."

Birthday Party

"A Christmas motif was carried out in the decorations at the birthday party given by Mrs. Ward Long at her home Friday afternoon in compliment to her son, Harry Ward Long. A delightful luncheon was served by the hostess at 4:30 o'clock featuring a birthday cake decorated with six candles. Mrs. Allen Merritt assisted in serving and the honor guest was the recipient of many nice gifts. Those present were Robert Lund, Bruce Biddick, Donald Michalsky, Donald Larson, Robert Johnson, Douglass Snelling, Billie Borgen, Burdell and Eunice Ann Merritt, Harry Ward Long and Miss Hilda Kautz."

St. Hilaire
Sleigh Ride Party

"A group of high school students participated in a sleigh ride party Thursday evening. Following the sleigh ride a social time was enjoyed and refreshments served at the Gunard Lindquist home. Those present were Donna Brink, Marie Anderson, Elizabeth Evenson, Gladys Gordon, Alice Skottem, Valarie Olsen, Myrtle Erickson, Raymond Anderson, Marvin Oldness, Kenneth McKercher, Alvin Naplin, Jack Kruse and Vernon Lindquist."

Augustana Lutheran Church

"December 25, Christmas Day, early morning services will be at 6:00 o'clock, English and Swedish will be used.

"December 26, the children's program will be given at 7:30 o'clock.

"December 28, Sunday morning worship at 11:00 o'clock, Swedish language will be used.

"Vesper service at 7:45 o'clock. English language to be used."

First Baptist Church

"A capacity audience enjoyed a splendid Gospel Christmas program given by forty-five children and young people Sunday evening.

"Three trees, a fireplace, gaily decorated festoons and candles made a fairyland scenery which made a most strikingly beautiful background for the children in the program. Treats were served to all the children and audience.

"At the Sunday morning Christmas services, Miss Nelson, the pastor, was presented with an unique gift, namely a choir. When the first hymn was announced, a group of young people filed to the platform where they rendered two Christmas songs. Mrs. Hattie Lanska had charge of the choir and had cleverly trained the young singers unbeknownst to the pastor.

"Miss Minnie Nelson left Monday to attend to her church duties in Clearbrook, after which she will spend Christmas with her father in Henning and then attend a Minister's Retreat in St. Paul. She will resume her duties here January 2nd. We extend to the public hearty Christmas and New Years greetings.

"On Sunday, December 28th, there will be no preaching services but an unusually interesting Sunday school session, with distribution of prizes will be held at 10 a.m.

"The Bible: First, Last and Always."

High School Progress
Latin I Students Give Clever Christmas Skit

"The Vergil and Latin II students were guests at an interesting program given them last Friday forenoon by members of the Latin I class.

"George Putz, as chairman, announced the program and wished the elder Latin students a merry Christmas, presenting them with an immense card, designed and drawn by Helen Langer.

"Coyla Clausen and Edna Battenfield gave brief introductions to the skit, giving the meaning of Saturnalia. A short but interesting play was them presented, parts taken by Ward Votava, John Biedermann, Robert Chommie, Ernest Hellquist, Jarvis Prichard, and Siegfried Schroeder. The play depicted a scene in Rome during the celebration of the Saturnalia, which corresponds very nearly to the present Christmas. The celebration was in honor of the Roman god, Saturn, and the skit was very well played by these freshmen Latin students."

Harmonica Band Again Adds Pep to the Pep Fest

"The pep fest held Wednesday morning awakened in the minds of a few upper classmen, the peppy pep fests of bygone days. The enthusiasm, which was kindled here was also evident at the game in the evening. Bob Korstad, master of ceremonies, besides appealing for support, struck a responsive chord when he stated that with the aid of the student body the team hoped to redeem themselves to their classmates at the game in the evening. The yells, led by Borghild Norbeck and Bob, were proof that the students intended to give the team support.

"The highlight of the pep fest was the appearance of 'Happy Harry and his Handful of Hot Harmony.' The repeated encore testified to the student body's appreciation of the club's musical ability. Eleanor Bottelson was the accompanist for a special number played by Harold England.

"Alice Larsen directed the school song, accompanied by Virginia Quale."

Volume of Christmas Mail Up Sharply In '55

"Volume of Christmas mail in the various catagories handled at the Thief River Falls postoffice during the period from December 10 to 24 increased from eight to nine per cent over the same period in 1954, Postmaster R. J. Dryden announced this week. Metered postage sold during the period increased from $2,885 in 1954 to $3,041 this year, a gain for the period of nine percent, while the number of machine cancellations mounted from 218,136 in 1954 to 248,092 in 1955, a gain of 14 percent."

Weather Reveals A Warmer Trend During Last Week

"After three weeks during which the average noon temperature in Thief River Falls was slightly over zero, the weather man warmed up to his work during the past week and came up with four days when the temperature didn't drop below zero.

"The average mean for the past seven days was 11 degrees, which is about two degrees above normal. Until the warm-up, there had been only two days between December 3 and December 20 when the mercury didn't dip below zero.

"The highs and lows for the week of December 21-27 - Date, High, Low respectively: 21, 18, 1; 22, 17, 1; 23, 28, -10; 24, 10, -8; 25, 4, -6; 26, 25, 15; and 27, 38, 30.

Joey Poole Takes Over Presidency Of Lincoln Alumni

"Graduates and former students of Lincoln high school numbering more than 100 had a most enjoyable time Monday evening at the annual alumni association reunion at the Thief River Golf club. Dancing and reminiscing furnished the evening's diversion, in addition to which officers to serve in 1956 were named in a brief business session. Joey Poole was elected to succeed Jerry Tygeson as president; with Wallace Grovum as vice president; Arvid Wedul, secretary; and Mrs. David Clough, treasurer."

Teenage Holiday Ball Set Tonight By Senior Girl Scouts

"The senior girl scout troop No. 21 will sponsor a Teen-age Holiday Ball with the cooperation of the Elks Youth Activities committee this evening, December 28, in the Elks club rooms. The party will start at 8 o'clock and will be semi-formal. All teen-agers and alumni are cordially invited. A group of Elks and their wives will chaperone the ball."

"Happy New Year.

"The Christmas program rendered at the Methodist Episcopal church Monday evening was excellent and thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

"The early fall prophets on an open winter are still in the lead. Hope they will continue as it helps keep the coal barons civil.

"Andrew Letvig dug a well on the Martz farm and the flow reaches within a foot of the surface. Mr. Martz is very proud of his well and by sloping down the hillside is confident he can make the well a surface flow."

Eckstrom New County Commissioner

"Gazette (Thursday): Messrs. Frank Shirrick, Felix Anderson, C. P. Swanson, August Lindberg, and F. P. Greniere, chairmen respectively of the towns of Polk Centre, Black River, Bray, Numedal and Louisville, met at the auditor's office here this morning to choose the successor to County Commissioner James Sutor, whose resignation was handed in to the auditor a couple of weeks ago.

"Three candidates were out for the place as follows: Ed. Enright and P. A. Eckstrom of Black River and August Lindberg of Numedal. The chairmen deliberated for a short time and finally chose Mr. Eckstrom as successor to Mr. Sutor and he will serve in the capacity of commissioner of the First district until the election in the fall.

"Mr. Eckstrom is one of the prominent farmers of Black River, and has been an earnest worker for the advancement of the county and it is safe to assume that he will make a first class member of the board.

"He will be sworn and take his new office at the January meeting here next month."

Thief River Falls, Red Lake County, Minnesota

First State's New Home Removed Into Its New Home in Dobner-Meehan Block on Saturday
Interior of the Bank is Decidedly Handsome

"The First State bank was removed into its new quarters in the Dobner-Meehan building last Saturday evening after closing hours. This bank now has the most handsome quarters of any financial institution in the Northwest and it is something in which all the people of Thief River Falls and vicinity can take a great deal of pride. The walls and ceilings of the interior of the bank building are of oxidized copper, and the floor is tile. The fixtures are of mahogany, highly finished and the safes are of the latest and most improved patterns. While the interior of the bank presents a decidedly rich and handsome appearance and there is not a financial institution in the Northwest that has a prettier home, it is the convenience for handling the work of the institution that appeals most to those who are employed there, and it greatly lessens their labors.

"The First State bank is the oldest state bank in Thief River Falls and Red Lake county and ranks as one of the strongest financial institutions in northern Minnesota. For the past nine years this bank has been controlled by C. L. and H. G. Dobner, and their success is known to every resident of Thief River Falls and vicinity. Coming here as they did when Thief River Falls was a small and unpretentious little berg, they had many opportunities for laying the foundations for their success, and the confidence which they had in the future of this section has proved their sound judgement. For years they have labored in a public spirited manner for the advancement of Thief River Falls and the surrounding country and have never shirked in aiding any public enterprise. To the old residents of this section, who have each year watched them climb higher upon the ladder of success, it is gratifying indeed, to see them located in such handsome quarters."

Russ Smith tournament in 23rd year

Finals are scheduled Thursday in the 23rd annual Thief River Falls Northwest Russ Smith Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament.

The eight-team, three-day event is taking place at Lincoln High School, where the varsity teams play in the main gym and junior varsity games are taking place in the auxiliary gym.

Teams in the 2005 field include Thief River Falls, Red Lake, Red Lake Falls, Waubun, Kittson Central, Marshall County Central, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart and Tri-County.

The host Prowlers are the three-time defending champions. Thief River Falls has won its own tournament nine times. Over the years, other multiple title winners include Fertile-Beltrami (4), Kittson Central (2) and Argyle – before combing with Stephen – (2). Single crowns have gone to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, Roseau, Stephen-Argyle, Marshall County Central and Kennedy – before combining with Hallock to form Kittson Central.

Brooke Rundell of the Prowlers carried the puck into the offensive zone along the boards while being pursued by Grace Herndon of the Green Wave during Thursday's Thief River Falls vs. East Grand Forks girls high school hockey game at the Ralph Engelstad Arena. The Green Wave won 3-1.

Green Wave snaps Prowlers' run

Third period Thief River Falls offensive pressure failed to produce a win or pacify head coach Katie Anderson Thursday as the Prowlers lost a 3-1 girls high school hockey game to East Grand Forks.

The setback snapped a five-game home ice win streak for the Prowlers, who had not lost at the Ralph Engelstad Arena in December.

A quick goal – on a shot by DD Rambeck just 1:36 into the game – gave early promise to the Prowlers' bid for a .500 finish in the pre-holiday portion of the 2005-06 season. However, that was it for the Thief River Falls scoring.

The lead stood up until the second period, when the Green Wave took over and scored on close-range goals by Emily Pecka and Hilary Kujawa at 4:20 and 8:04, respectively, for a 2-1 advantage.

"We came out, got that quick goal and played well in the first period," offered Anderson. "But we just stopped playing in the second period. That's what killed us."

The Prowlers tried to make amends in the third period. Beginning around the eight-minute mark, they put sustained pressure on the East Grand Forks net, but rarely got open, clean shots at Green Wave goalie Ashley Pavlish.

Thief River Falls' final push didn't erase Anderson's disappointment in her team's effort. "They were told they better pick it up in the third period," said Anderson. "This isn't the way we wanted to play going into the Christmas break. That's the difference between being 7-7 and 6-8 at this point."

East Grand Forks lost the territorial battle down the stretch, but the Green Wave got the only goal in the third period when, with 65 seconds remaining, Alex Hedlund flipped a bouncing puck from center ice into a net vacated a minute earlier in favor of an extra Thief River Falls attacker.

The Prowlers will be idle until Saturday, Jan. 7, when they host Crookston.

Scoring

First period - TRF, DD Rambeck (Kelly Thorstad), 1:36.

Second period - EGF, Emily Pecka, 4:20; EGF, Hilary Kujawa (Katie Mochoruk, Alex Hedlund), 8:04.

Third period - EGF, Hedlund, 15:55.

Goalie saves - TRF, Brandi Hermanson 7-10-5–22; EGF, Ashley Pavlish 7-3-6–16.

Geno joins son, Logan, in Kalinowski 300 Club

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

While bowling in a makeup session for the Monday night Service League, Geno Kalinowski, 49, did something that no sanctioned bowler had done since Family Bowl replaced its lanes over the summer – bowl a 300 game. Kalinowski accomplished the feat Dec. 5.

Family Bowl replaced its old wood-synthetic lane combination with brand new Brunswick Pro Lane approaches, lanes and gutters in May. League play began in September and scores were down early, due to the combination of a harder, lower friction lane surface and new approaches.

Since leagues began in September, four bowlers have come close to bowling's highest single-game honor, striking on their first 11 attempts (12 strikes are needed for a 300). They include Richard Jensen, 299; Shawn Wagner, 299; Kevin Melvie, 298 and Sheldon Peterson, 297.

Kalinowski's 300-game is not only the first of the year, but his first in more than 25 years of bowling. The 300 game was bowled in game two of a Service League Make-up series that was held after he already bowled a three-game Elk's League shift and regular three-game Service league. It was his eighth game of the night and for Kalinowski, strikes were hard to come by.

"I didn't think it was going to happen that night, because I was throwing so many nine counts," Kalinowski said. "I was bowling back-to-back 190s all night long." He chuckled, recalling that his 300 game contributed to a 670 series.

Kalinowski's 300 game eclipses his previous high game of 298, which he rolled in March 2005. That same month, his son Logan, 20, bowled a 300 game. It was his first after 10 years of bowling.

Five 300 games were recorded in Thief River Falls during the 2004-05 season by Logan Kalinowski, Jon Lee, Shawn Lee, Kent Wagner and Ronnie Zutz.

Geno Kalinowski (right) bowled the first 300 game of the 2005-06 Thief River Falls league bowling season Dec. 5, using a Hammer Blade. Also pictured is his son, Logan, who bowled his one and only 300 game on March 17, 2005, using a Brunswick Ultimate Inferno.

EGF 62-51 winner over TRF boys

It's back to Square One for the Thief River Falls boys high school basketball team. The Prowlers, who got off on the wrong foot this winter with a season-opening drubbing at Kittson Central, rebounded with solid performances in back-to-back home court wins over Warroad and Bagley. Friday, however, shades of Game 1 reappeared when their second road trip resulted in a second loss - this time a 62-51 setback at East Grand Forks.

While the final spread wasn't anything to get alarmed about, the Prowlers' play, according to Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean, was less than inspiring. "We just did not play very well," he said. "I thought we were over that hump. It was a very disappointing outing."

East Grand Forks led 32-30 at halftime.

"At the half, as poorly as we had played, we were still in the game," explained McLean. "But then we came out and turned the ball over on our first three possessions of the second half."

TRF girls come up with win

Nine games into the 2005-06 season, the Thief River Falls girls high school basketball team has its first win. The Prowlers headed into the holiday break on an upbeat note by beating Red Lake Falls 45-37 Thursday in the Lincoln gym.

"It was great to get a win," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "A huge weight was lifted off our shoulders. Now we just need to keep it going."

The Prowlers won by limiting the Eagles to one field goal and 11 points in the first half, with a 20-11 intermission lead standing up over the final 18 minutes.

"We started strong," confirmed Loe. "We had a little lapse midway through the second half, but finished strong."

Red Lake Falls' low point total was a combination, according to Loe, of the Eagles' no-rush offense and the Prowlers' efforts on defense. "Red Lake Falls played their traditional patience on offense," he explained. "I thought we did some good things on defense."

The only double figure scorers in the game were the Eagles' Lee Zutz with 14 points and the Prowlers' Shawna Rogalla with 12. Rogalla did all her scoring in the second half.

A negative, mentioned Loe, was seeing three Prowlers in foul trouble early in the second half. However, Rogalla's offense, and contributions off the bench helped overcome those worries. "Hannah Kainz and Allyson Helling did a great job coming off the bench, combining for nine points in the second half," he pointed out.

Both teams put up 54 shots. Thief River Falls hit 18 of them for a modest 33 percent showing, but still considerably better than Red Lake Falls' seven baskets and an anemic 13 percent shooting.

The Prowlers went 9-for-16 at the free throw line, where the Eagles were able to stay in the game with a 23-for-38 showing.

Eight rebounds apiece for Heather Keogh and Casey Engelstad helped the Prowlers win that battle 40-34. "I thought we did a great job on the boards," offered Loe. "We've made some offensive changes in the past couple of weeks, and I think we're starting to gel with it."

Red Lake Falls topped the turnover charts 18-15.

The Prowlers will return to action Jan. 3 with a game at Roseau.

Scoring

Gators are 7-0 after a 49-42 win against Lake of the Woods

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River pushed its season-opening winning streak to seven games Thursday with 49-42 win over Lake of the Woods at Baudette. The game was a make-up date from a Game 1 weather-forced postponement.

The Gators were led by a double-double from 5-10 sophomore center Kaley Mekash, who finished with 27 points and 12 rebounds. Mekash had 18 of those points and all of her field goals in the second half after being limited to nine first half free throws.

"We played a good floor game, but we just couldn't make anything in the first half," said Gators coach Tom Neibauer. "We got the ball inside, but we missed a lot of shots from the paint."

Carly Waibel scored 14 points to lead the Bears, who trailed 24-19 at halftime.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went 15-for-46 from the field (33 percent) and had a busy 19-for-29 night at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods had a 7-for-11 free throw game.

Archery Club sign-up is being held at Old Arena

Thief River Falls Archery Club Indoor League sign-up is currently taking place for the 2006 season.

Registration at the indoor range, located upstairs in the Old Arena, was scheduled from 5 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 27 and 28. Sign-up will be repeated Jan. 3 and 4, for those unable to attend the earlier sessions.

The Indoor League is offered to all interested archers and runs from the first week in January to about mid-March. Archers of all skill and age levels are encouraged to participate.The four-person teams compete against each other on a computer-selected random basis. Handicap scoring system allows all skill levels to be competitive. All archers shoot 60 arrows each week.

The league is run on an honor system, allowing archers to shoot their league scores any time day or night. However the post-season league tournaments are shot in head-to-head matches on mid-April.

An awards banquet is scheduled April 28, with trophies presented to high-point archers in each age and equipment class, as well as post-season tournament team champions.

The Club has tentatively scheduled a 28-target Indoor 3-D weekend tournament March 31-April 2 at the Thief River Curling Club.

A 28-target Outdoor 3-D tournament is tentatively scheduled May 20-21 at the outdoor range located south of the airport.

A 28-target Outdoor 3-D, 14-target marked-distance Outdoor Dakota Round, plus a 14-target mark-distance Outdoor 3-D tournament is scheduled Aug. 5-6 at the outdoor range.

Thief River Falls Archery Club annual adult memberships are available for $35, with K-through-12 student memberships set at $20. The Indoor League fee is an additional $30, but that fee is waived for first-time league archers ages 16 and younger, and first-time female archers of any age.

The public is encouraged to attend the sign-up nights to learn more about the club. For additional information, call Darrel Janisch at 218-681-2106 or Gerry Seim at 218-681-5567 between 6 and 9 p.m. weekdays.

Prowlers beaten by EGF

Riley Lealos scored 13 points, Josh Beste 12 and Matt Puente 10 to lead a balanced East Grand Forks offense. Ryan Winkelman of the Prowlers finished with a game-high 18 points. Teammate Andrew BlackLance netted 13.

Thief River Falls point guard Jeremy Sich, sidelined by an ankle sprain, was back in uniform and played limited minutes. But the Prowlers were without starting center Tyler Jensen, who missed the game due to a hip injury.

The Prowlers struggled through a 36 percent 21-for-59 shooting game from the field and had a head-shaking 6-for-19 free throw night. The Green Wave shot 53 percent from the floor (26/49), but like the visitors, had a tough night at the line with an 8-for-16 showing. Thief River Falls finished with a 29-23 rebound edge. East Grand Forks topped the turnover charts 24-21.

"Offensively we couldn't make plays," explained McLean, "and we didn't make any defensive stops when we really needed them."

Scoring

EGF - Jared Wolnarowicz 8, Matt Puente 10, Josh Beste 12, Riley Lealos 13, Andy Barrett 4, Alex Berg 7, Matt Haugstad 8.

Swim Club plans Tigershark registration

Thief River Falls Swim Club 2006 Tigershark winter season will begin Thursday, Jan. 5, at the Franklin Middle School pool.

Sessions will be held from 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays through March 2.

Registration will take place in the pool lobby Jan. 5 from 6:30 to 7 p.m. Registration fee is $40. Checks should be made payable to TRF Swim Club.

The program is open to boys and girls in grades 3-12 who can swim the length of the pool (25 yards).

Participants will concentrate on strokes, turns and starts. Swimmers will need a suit, towel and goggles.

For additional information, contact Dianne Kays at 681-8911.

EGF freshmen beat TRF

East Grand Forks beat Thief River Falls 45-37 in freshman boys basketball Friday. The Green Wave led 20-17 at halftime. Seth Torsveit led the Prowlers with 14 points.
